Overlook North

that the senator, along with Senator Barbara Mikulski, convinced the U.S. Congress to appropriate $400,000 for the Overlook Project.

"We really didn't know what to do when we realized we had lost $400,000," Yoder said. "I can't tell you how thrilled we were when the senator informed us that he and Senator Mikulski had retrieved that money for us."

Sarbanes was in Oakland in August to tour the site.

"The senator's contribution cannot easily be measured," Thayer said. "Without the $400,000 loan to the project made available by the special appropriation, Overlook would not have happened.

"The senator has taken a true interest in Garrett County and personally took action to insure that Overlook survived," Thayer stated.

Lowell Bender, chairman of the GCCAC board of directors, gave the welcome to Friday's guests, and six persons spoke. Yoder served as the master of ceremonies. Those offering comments about the completed project were Sarbanes, Mayor Asa McCain, Hal Wilson of the Local Initiatives Support Corporation, Carroll Bray of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta, and Eva Rosvole, representing Mikulski.

"Of the many projects across the country that are similar to this one, there really are none better than Garrett County's," Wilson said. The speakers all attributed much of the project's success to Yoder, who is reportedly well known and respected at both the state and federal levels.

McCain said this housing project is the best yet in the town, providing an attractive addition to the area, as well as filling the need for affordable housing. The mayor said residents of the development will be proud to live in such a place, and this will strengthen their self-esteem.

"You can't escape the fact that self-esteem is an extremely important component in a child's life. Housing developments like this provide a safe, secure place for families, and this in turn fosters community pride," he said.

The 60 units are designed as townhouses laid out in a town configuration. Although the units do not have rental assistance, the development subsidies derived from the housing tax credits and low interest loans have kept rents at an affordable range for households who have incomes at 30% to 60% of the area median.

Yoder explained that the lower rent rates were set because of the lower development costs. Therefore, the units will be retained as affordable satisfactory housing for as long as they are used. Their existence is not dependent on some future public policy action by congress or state government.

The project's single largest source of financing came from private equity investments, which were made through the National Equity Fund as a result of the low income housing tax credits awarded to Overlook by the Maryland Community Development Administration. The department also provided over one million dollars in permanent loans, Yoder said.

Other financing came from American Trust Bank, the Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta, the Appalachian Regional Commission, the Maryland Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Program, and the Maryland Affordable Housing Trust. GCCAC also invested over $100,000 in equity and provided sponsor loans.

Bender noted that plans are in place and work has started on additional phases of Overlook. The construction of a 10,000-square-foot early child development and family support center will be started later in the fall, and the first single-family home being built by the Southern High School building trades class is under construction.

"I believe the child development center will be a model for our community," Bender said. "It has been designed by Doug Devlin to particularly meet what we want to do in Overlook and the Oakland community." Bender noted that there are plans for as many as 15 single-family homes, which he hopes will be sold to first time homebuyers "graduating" from the rental units.

"The overall project is built on partnerships," Bender stated. "For example, the school district is involved with the single-family homes and the child development center, the sheriff is helping to organize a neighborhood crime watch, and adjacent homeowners have volunteered for the proposed Head Start classroom."

McCain said this project is adds to significant local projects, such as the Yough and Glades villages, two high-quality affordable housing developments that also include needed facilities that are being used by the entire community, such as playing fields and the walking path.

SHS Students Commended By Merit Program

Southern High School students Marianne Peracchio and Julie Callis have been named Commended Students in the year 2000 National Merit Scholarship Program, SHS principal Lynn H. Bell announced recently. The pair earned the recognition by placing among the top five percent of more than one million students who entered the year 2000 merit program by taking the 1998 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship qualifying test.

"The young men and women named Commended Students have demonstrated outstanding academic potential by their high performance in the extremely competitive National Merit Program," a merit program spokesperson commented. "These scholastically talented youth represent a valuable resource to our nation, and it is important to publicly recognize their attainments and to credit schools for the important part they play in their development."

Peracchio and Callis are among some 34,000 Commended Students throughout the nation who, although they will not continue in competition for Merit Scholarship awards to be offered next spring, are being recognized for their exceptional academic promise.

"We hope this recognition will help to broaden the educational opportunities of Commended Students and serve as encouragement to them and other able students to develop their abilities to the fullest," the spokesperson said.

Crellin Hosting Autumn Glory Turkey Dinners

For the 32nd consecutive year, the now-traditional Autumn Glory turkey dinner, first served in Crellin for the original Autumn Glory Festival in 1968, will again be offered. The meal will be served at the Crellin Elementary School, along Kendall Drive, on Friday, Oct. 15, 4-7 p.m. and Saturday, Oct. 16, 2-7 p.m.

Sponsored by United Community Services Inc., the non-profit volunteer organization which owns and operates the Crellin Community Building, the dinner will feature the original menu of roasted turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, sauerkraut, green beans, applesauce, cranberry sauce, a roll, drinks, and harvest apple cake. Prices are $6 for adults and $3 for children under 12. All carry-outs will be $6.

Proceeds from the dinners will be used to help fund the local share of the Community Development Block Grant being sought for street and sidewalk restoration, and for the upkeep and proposed renovations of the community building.

"Everyone is invited to enjoy this tradition—as old as Autumn Glory it-self—and to support the community of Crellin," a group spokesperson said.

Oakland Man Sentenced For Drug Offenses

An Oakland man was handed a three-month jail sentence after pleading guilty to a pair of marijuana possession charges in a recent Garrett County District Court proceeding.

Anthony Craig Corby II, 23, had initially been arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies following a February traffic stop along Maryland Highway. When deputies learned that Corby had apparently been driving on a suspended license, they searched his car and found a bag of marijuana and a smoking pipe.

That incident resulted in Corby's first guilty plea and netted a six-month suspended sentence, a $305 fine, and two years of supervised probation. An associated charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

The second offense occurred in April, when deputies attempting to serve a warrant at Corby's Snow Dump Mountain Road residence detected the odor of burning marijuana as they were standing in the home's doorway. A subsequent search by members of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force uncovered smoking pipes containing burnt marijuana.

That incident resulted in Corby's second guilty plea, which netted a one-year sentence, all but three months of which were suspended, and a $55 fine. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

Visiting judge Paul Stakem combined the rulings so that Corby is required to serve three months in jail, pay fines totaling $460, complete two years of supervised probation, and have a 15-month suspended sentence reflected in his record as well.

In other district court news, a second subject who had been arrested on the scene of the Snow Dump Mountain Road incident at the same time as Corby was sentenced and fined after pleading guilty to a possession of marijuana charge.

Steven Harold Shockey, 23, was found to have marijuana on his person at the time of the house search. His guilty plea before Garrett County District Court judge Ralph M. Burnett resulted in a probation before judgment (PBJ) ruling, a 30-day sentence, all but two days of which were suspended, a $200 fine, six months of supervised probation, and an order to complete 20 hours of community service. An additional charge of possession of marijuana paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

Todd William Riley, 24, Oakland, pleaded guilty to destruction of property and was handed a 60-day sentence, of which 46 days

HOPE Teacher Scholarships Going To 800 Students

Over 800 college seniors and graduate students have been offered the new Maryland HOPE Teacher scholarship for the 1999-2000 academic year, the secretary of higher education announced. The scholarship provides $3,000 a year to students planning to become teachers.

Secretary of Higher Education Patricia S. Florestano, noting that over 1,000 students applied in the first year of the program, said, "I am extremely pleased with the response to this new scholarship and with the academic accomplishments of the recipients. In years to come, the teacher scholarship will be a powerful incentive for students to plan careers in teaching and will help Maryland address teacher shortages."

Governor Parris N. Glendening proposed the scholarship during the 1999 General Assembly session and won legislative approval to launch the program immediately, offering awards for the 1999-2000 academic year to seniors and graduate students.

The award offers, which were made on the basis of grade point average, went to 502 undergraduates and 340 graduate students. Students must have a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.0 to qualify for the scholarship.

The scholarship carries a work requirement, and recipients agree to work as public school teachers in Maryland for one year for each year they receive the scholarship.

The teacher scholarship is part of the larger Maryland HOPE Scholarship, which will provide assistance to all students who graduate from high school with a B average and maintain a B average as undergraduates. Recipients must attend a Maryland institution and work in Maryland for one year for each year they receive the scholarship. The program will start in the 2000-01 academic years, with eligible majors phased in over three years based on demand for graduates in Maryland.

ROTARY DONATES TO HISTORICAL SOCIETY - The Oakland Rotary Club donated $500 to the Garrett County Historical Society recently to help promote the organization's historical preservation and education efforts. Rotarian Ken Hardesty, left, presented the donation check to Bob Boal, president of the Historical Society, who addressed the club as the guest speaker during a recent meeting.

Some label it an "act of God." Massive trees, once firmly rooted, lie in a state as if snatched from the earth by a giant hand. They are now unwelcome intruders into porches and power lines, garages, and kitchens. Road signs and branches rest where they were blown to the ground by fierce winds. The city is shrouded in darkness and an eerie silence that is especially moving after the electrical storm that preceded it.

The awesome power of a storm can only be generated by the architect of nature. But why not think of this as a positive power from our creator? We have no way of knowing the exact reasons for storms of nature or the storms of our lives. We tend to think of them as bad. The Bible says, "for He commanded, and raised the stormy wind." (Psalm 107:25). Yet, in verse 29 we read, "He made the storm still." While the reasons for the storms may escape us, we must trust as we worship this Sabbath that God will reveal Himself to us as He works in our lives. This is true whether we are in the midst of the storm or we pray for Him... "to make the storm be still."

YOUR DESERT YEARS
October 17, 1999

Background Scripture:
Deuteronomy 1:41 through 2:25
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 35

How curious! For much of the time they were in the Sinai wilderness, the people of Israel longed to return to Egypt. Once they had settled in the Promised Land, however, they forever looked back to the 'good old days' in the desert. True, it had been a time of great peril and hardship, but the desert years had also been a time when they felt they were very close to the Lord.

A few years ago on a cruise, we anchored at Sharm El Sheikh, a resort on the Red Sea coast of the Sinai peninsula. From there we journeyed inland to St. Catherine's Monastery and Mt. Sinai, the traditional site where Moses received the Ten Commandments. As we drove through miles and miles of desert waste, I could envision the Hebrews plodding through this inhospitable land. It is easy to understand how, in this vast, stark, lonely wilderness people saw visions and experienced the mysteries of the Lord. There is nothing here of manmade sights and sounds to distract the spirit.

So, the desert may have both negative and positive connotations. It is a hard place, granting few if any comforts. It is also a lonely place and we often feel totally miniaturized by its vastness. Living here is mostly a matter of survival, enduring physical, mental and even spiritual deprivation. It constantly tests us.

THE MIDST OF A CROWD

We can experience 'desert years' without actually going out into the physical desert. It is possible to experience it wherever we are. One can feel lost and lonely in the midst of a crowd. Like the 12 tribes of Israel we can wander aimlessly through life, not living so much as simply surviving.

The wilderness experience, whether literal or figurative, can have positive effects. I have heard more than a few couples tell me that the happiest years of their lives were those when they had to struggle to make ends meet. As uncomfortable as these times were, they gave these people a sense of God's presence and provision for their daily needs. God was more real to them then because they knew they were so dependent upon his providence. The Lord's Prayer petition, "Give us this day our daily bread," meant so much because they were living day to day on God's goodness. Later, prospering and living in abundance, they admitted, they were less likely to acknowledge God's presence.

Lonely as the desert may be, we are even more aware of God's presence. Moses says to the people of Israel, "Surely the Lord God has blessed you in all your undertakings; he knows your going through this great wilderness" (Deut. 2:7). In the wilderness it may seem God is more aware of us and we are more aware of him. Perhaps we 'see' him here because there are fewer 'things' to get in our way.

LEARNING TO TRUST

The desert tests our faith, just as Jesus was tempted there. When I arrived in Dallas, Texas in 1975 I was confronted with an opportunity to continue my ministry on a fee basis. For all of my working life I had earned and lived on a regular salary. The thought of cutting myself loose from a regular salary really made me fearful. After much wrestling with God and myself, I finally told God I would trust him to make ends meet. That was almost a quarter of a century ago and I still marvel that somehow God always seems to provide enough for us. The 70's and the 80's were my 'desert years.' In them I learned to appreciate what Moses told the people of Israel in the desert: "These 40 years the Lord your God has been with you; you have lacked nothing" (Deut. 2:7)

The desert years are those in which we may learn to entrust ourselves in his hands. That is one of the hardest, yet most necessary things the Christian can learn. If there are still some desert years before you, don't fight them. They could turn out to be the best years of your life.

•One of the organizations here at Southern High School has undergone a name change as of July 1, 1999. VICA, previously known as the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, is now known simply as SkillsUSA-VICA. The name was changed to show the emphasis that the organization has on the development of skills, both in the trade area and in leadership and job working and keeping skills.

SkillsUSA-VICA has initiated a "Building Skills for America" signature campaign. It is the national organization's goal to collect 1 million signatures of business and labor representatives from around the country showing support for these ideals.

The Southern Garrett Chapter has taken on the challenge of collecting at least 250 of these signatures here in our community and putting on at least two presentations to organization within the community describing these ideals. Look for us out in the community soon to gather your support.

•The National Theater of the Performing Arts performed on October 4 at SHS. The extensive repertoire of the Alejandra Dondines Dancers of the Americans is an authentic panorama of the music and dance of South America and the Caribbean. Hosted by the SHS Spanish Club, this performance was attended by students from Southern and Northern high schools, Northern Middle School, and Bishop Walsh.

•The SHS Science Department began a fund-raiser Oct. 6, which ended Oct. 13. We sold chocolates and Christmas items. The monies will be used to purchase computers to further our goal of six computers per science classroom. Items will be delivered in mid-November. Questions may be directed to Diana Marks at SHS 301-334-9447.

•A group of students at SHS recently developed the SHS web page. It gives updated information on activities at SHS. Also all the athletic scores are recorded daily. The editors are Brian Oxford and Michael Pariseau. The URL is www.ga.k12.md.us/schools/sh/index/html. You can also get the link on the Board of Education's web site. Please E-mail questions or comments.

•The renovations on the SHS gym are complete. There will be a ribbon cutting ceremony on Oct. 20 at 7 p.m. immediately preceding the girls' volleyball game. To celebrate the occasion, the ceremony and the game will be open and free to the public. Please be sure to stop and see the wonderful changes that have occurred.

•As part of the new discipline policy at SHS, our Success Team is currently planning two student Success Field trips in the coming months. The first trip is scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 9, to Ford's Theatre in Washington, D.C., for the annual production of A Christmas Carol. To qualify, students must have earned at least four PR coupons and have them signed. The second trip, to take place on Feb. 9, 2000, will be a ski trip to Seven Springs. Students must have earned at least six PR coupons to qualify for this trip (four of which may have been previously used for the Ford's Theatre trip.) The costs for both of these trip have yet to be determined, but will be the responsibility of the individual students.

•Steve Cosner, a career and technology teacher at SHS, was recently chosen to become a technology resource teacher. He will join Chuck Harkins in assuming the responsibilities of technology updates and maintenance at the school.

•Co-Nect, the Comprehensive School Reform Design model chosen by SHS and the Garrett County BOE, is finally under way. Mrs. Becky Fitzgerald, a teacher from Harford County, will be our site director for the next three years. This program, which will assist teachers, administrators, and students in transforming SHS into a model learning environment for the 21st century, is approved not only by the U.S. Congress, but also the Maryland State Department of Education.

Four teachers and an administrator will be traveling to San Antonio, Texas, in No-vember for Co-Nect's national conference. Any parents or community members interested in more information about Co-Nect should contact Mr. Chuck Harkins, school facilitator, at the school.

COVER STORY

Phillips scores in a movie with Class

By John Crook
©TVData Features Syndicate

Lou Diamond Phillips

In a perfect world, a sweet, life-affirming movie like In a Class of His Own would be quietly scoring as a sleeper hit in theaters, like To Sir, With Love three decades ago.

Unfortunately, today's movie industry is dominated by a frenetic quest for the next Titanic blockbuster, so thanks are due to Showtime for finding time for this low-key, uplifting adaptation of a true story. It premieres Sunday, Oct. 17.

Lou Diamond Phillips stars as Rich Donato, a California high-school janitor who takes pride in his work – and in serving as an informal adviser to the students at the school. Rich is caring but firm with his charges, even going so far as to make them pay a fine when they curse.

His world becomes much more complicated when he gets a letter from the local board of education advising him that he must pass a high-school equivalency test with a grade of at least 81 in order to keep his job. This news coincides with an announcement from his wife, Shari (Cara Buono), that she is pregnant with their first child.

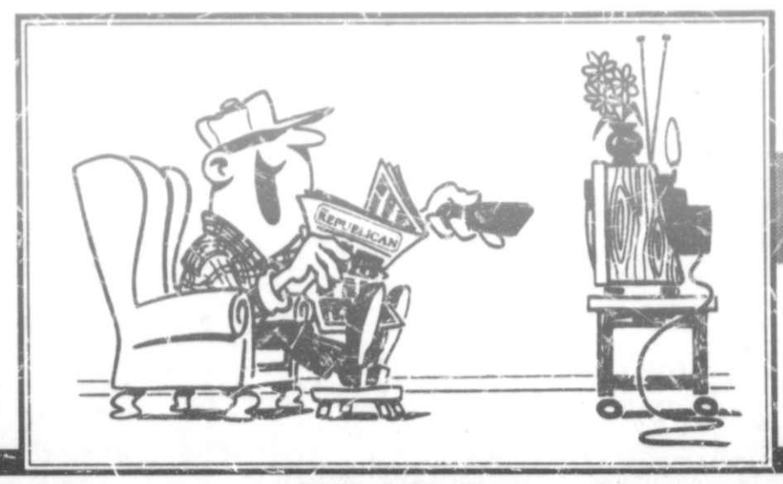
A nervous Rich confides in teacher Linda Ching (Joan Chen, looking as radiant as in her Twin Peaks days as Josie Packard), who works with remedial students. Linda agrees to tutor Rich after school each day but soon discovers that he has a combination of attention deficit disorder and mild dyslexia.

Shari appears before a meeting of the school board and parents to plead on Rich's behalf, but when the parents (one of them is played by the real-life Donato) turn a deaf ear, many of the students volunteer to help Rich.

He eventually takes and flunks – quite spectacularly – the test three times before the school board administrator calls to advise him that, as a 10-year employee, he is protected by a grandfather clause. By now, however, the test has become a matter of self-esteem for Rich, who decides to take it for a fourth and final time.

It's a story of personal commitment and determination that will move almost any viewer, whether he's a high-school student or one who still remembers the constant opportunities for humiliation that venue offered.

Writer-director Robert Munic (the Sci-Fi Channel movie Timelock) stumbles badly only in depicting the story's not-so-bad "bad guys" – why is there no point to principal Skip Jordan (Tom McBeath) being such a complete, cartoonish goofball? – and he skillfully captures the symbiotic relationship between Rich and his young charges.



Somewhere along the way, Phillips has metamorphosed from a merely very competent performer to an actor of surpassing confidence and range. At 37, he is able to encompass the full range of this character's complicated moods with a relaxed and assured style that will have any viewer in his pocket from the first scene.

"I think (this movie has) a wonderful message to send out to America today because everyone wants things instantly," the actor says. "They feel like they're entitled to certain things without working for it, and I think that Rich is an incredible role model to say, 'Be a wonderful person. Be a good person, but do your job.' "

You probably won't hear In a Class of His Own shouted out during next year's Emmy telecast, unless Phillips' understated performance manages to catch the attention of the few who vote on these things, but in a season that needs every role model it can find, this TV movie stands and delivers.

Maryland Retired Teachers Group Holds Workshop

Maryland Retired Teachers Association (MRTA) held the fall leadership workshop for the western region at the Dan Dee Restaurant on October 6. Past president and legislative chairman Betty Foy and membership chairman Anna Beachy attended.

Some of the issues discussed were: long-term care insurance, HMOs (health maintenance organizations), and dental benefits. There was also discussion of the program "With Our Youth," which promotes activities for young people and awards scholarships. MRTA also awards scholarships to teachers and aides to further education.

Workshop participants were reminded that MRTA legislative day in Annapolis is set for November 3 at the Lowe Office Building.

THE DAR HERITAGE QUILT was on display at Our Town Theatre for Monday's "150 Years of Garrett County Women" program. In 1976 the quilt earned a merit certificate for the local Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution from the Maryland DAR organization. Audrey Feid is the quilt's owner and she lent it to the local DAR chapter for the display. Four local artists, Ralph Miller, Harland Filsinger, Kathy Lohr, and Pat Filsinger, sketched the Garrett County-based designs that highlighted the local area's reliance on farming, mining, and recreation. The 42 squares of the quilt took 30 volunteers approximately 5,000 cumulative hours to make, and the actual quilting was done by Mrs. Albert Snyder of Red House.

were credited as time already served and with the balance suspended, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to make a $184 restitution payment. Oakland City Police Department officers arrested Riley in July for punching out a car window during a domestic altercation in Oakland.

Harold Lee Owens, 46, Gormania, W.Va., pleaded guilty to two charges stemming from a lengthy vehicle pursuit from Garrett County into West Virginia last November.

The pursuit was undertaken by sheriff's deputies beginning on George Washington Highway near Wilson Corona Road, and eventually ended with Owens' arrest near Bayard, W.Va., when his vehicle struck a tree.

Owens pleaded guilty to attempting to elude police officers without stopping and exceeding maximum speed. He was handed a 60 day suspended sentence, fined $200, and placed on one year of supervised probation. Additional charges of driving while intoxicated (DWI) and several other traffic charges were not prosecuted.

Dewayne Anthony Holliday, 20, Grantsville, was handed a PBJ after pleading not guilty to a charge of failure to obey a lawful order. The ruling carried with it a 60-day suspended sentence, a $75 fine, and six months of unsupervised probation. Holliday, who was found not guilty of a charge of second degree assault, had been arrested by Maryland State Police troopers in May for refusing to comply with officers' requests to stop inciting rowdy behavior while an underage drinking party was being investigated near Friendsville.

A charge of second degree assault faced by Chad Michael Troshak, 18, Oakland, was placed onto the stet docket. He had been arrested in June by sheriff's deputies for assaulting another man during a dispute over a woman. Troshak was also ordered to pay $1,300 in restitution to his victim.

Charges of carrying a concealed deadly weapon, driving on a suspended license, and not wearing a seatbelt faced by Jonathan Lane Nuzum, 26, Oakland, was stetted. His February arrest came after a sheriff's deputy who had stopped Nuzum's vehicle for speeding along Hutton Road learned that his driver's license was suspended. A search ensued and a switchblade knife was discovered in Nuzum's pocket.

Those stet rulings carried with them an order that Nuzum complete a total of 60 hours of community service.

Carl Bert Sliger, 21, Friendsville, faced a disorderly conduct charge that was stetted with an order to complete 20 hours of community service. Sliger's April arrest came when he allegedly yelled and cursed repeatedly while a sheriff's deputy was conducting an investigation on the scene of a reported domestic incident at the Old River Road residence he shares with his wife.

A second degree assault charge faced by George Allen Fizer, 53, Oakland, was stetted. Fizer's July arrest by sheriff's deputies came after he had allegedly struck an adult family member during a domestic altercation at his home.

Anthony Craig Haynes, 26, Oakland, faced a second degree assault charge that was stetted. Sheriff's deputies had arrested Haynes in July after he allegedly assaulted his girlfriend during a domestic altercation at their residence.

Betty Jean Cooper, 45, Oakland, faced charges of second degree assault and resisting arrest that were stetted by Judge Stakem. Sheriff's deputies had arrested Cooper in May after she allegedly assaulted her husband at their Garrett Highway residence during a domestic incident. An allegedly intoxicated Cooper reportedly struggled with deputies while she was being handcuffed.

Two charges of second degree assault faced by John Walter Mayne Sr., 21, Oakland, were stetted. His wife had reported to sheriff's deputies that he had assaulted her during two separate domestic incidents, resulting in his May arrest.

Roy Norman Cheshire, 19, Oakland, was not prosecuted on charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia that stemmed from his arrest by the Narcotics Task Force. The items were located during a search of his residence that took place in June.

Joseph Albert Jupina III, 19, Uniontown, Pa., was not prosecuted on possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia charges stemming from his February arrest by state troopers. Jupina had allegedly gone to the front counter of the McHenry State Police Barracks in order to pick up an impounded vehicle. Troopers who reportedly detected the smell of burnt marijuana on Jupina searched the vehicle he had driven to the barracks and allegedly discovered a bag of marijuana in that car.

Victor Frank Gardea Jr., 20, McHenry, was not prosecuted on charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia stemming from his May arrest by sheriff's deputies after a traffic stop. A subsequent search allegedly uncovered a pipe containing suspected marijuana in his vehicle.

Eric Carlton Sines, 28, Mtn. Lake Park, was not prosecuted on a charge of violating an ex parte order. He was arrested by sheriff's deputies in July for being at his wife's home while the court order was on file.

Gary Ray Friend, 47, Glenwood Springs, Colo., was not prosecuted on a charge of felony theft stemming from his August arrest by sheriff's deputies for allegedly taking $3,600 worth of lumber from a Sweitzertown Road woodlot.

Barry Richard Rhine, 52, Gormania, W.Va., pleaded not guilty to second degree assault and was exonerated when the victim invoked her marital privilege and refused to testify against him. Rhine had been arrested by sheriff's deputies in July after he had reportedly thrown his wife off the front porch of their home during an argument.

Glen Garland Sisler, 71, Grantsville pleaded not guilty to charges of second degree assault and false imprisonment and was exonerated when the victim refused to testify against him after invoking her marital privilege. Sisler's August arrest by Maryland State Police troopers came after he allegedly assaulted his wife and refused to let her leave their home.

Kenneth Edward Reams, 44, Grantsville, pleaded guilty to second degree assault and was exonerated after the victim invoked her marital privilege and refused to testify against him. Reams had been arrested by state troopers in May after he had allegedly shoved his wife during a domestic incident.

Amy Lynn Russo, 20, Oakland, was deemed not guilty of charges of second degree assault and harassment that stemmed from her July arrest by Oakland City Police officers. Russo was also not prosecuted for a misdemeanor theft charge arising from her August arrest by sheriff's deputies after a reported dispute with a neighbor.

Earl Clifford Williams, 39, Oakland, pleaded not guilty and was exonerated on charges of second degree assault and trespassing.

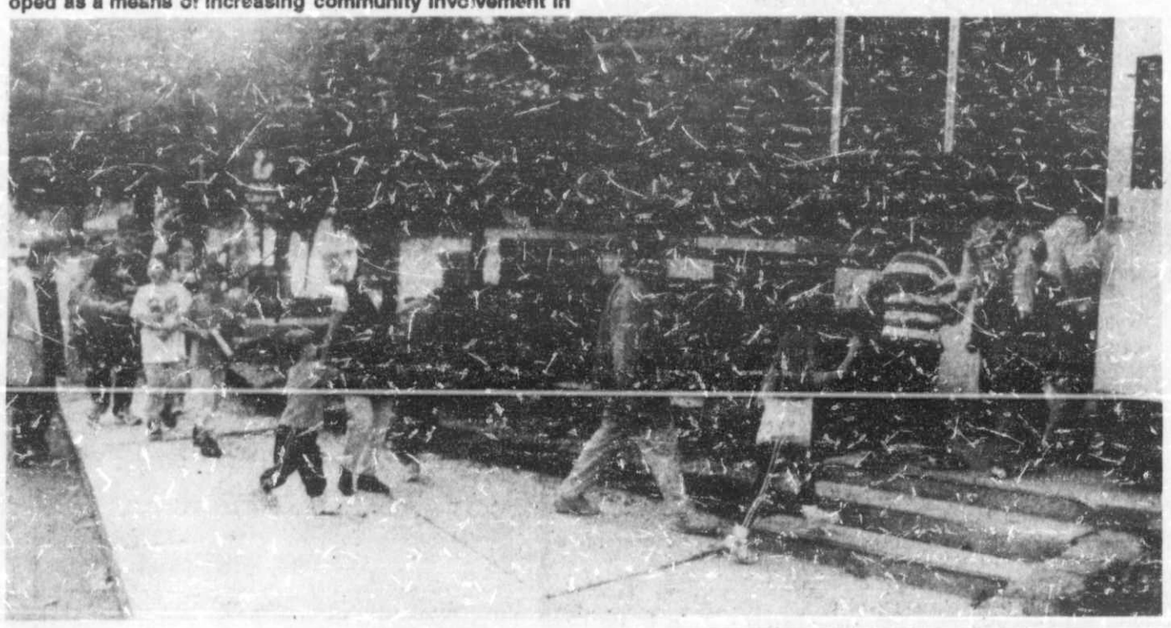
Japan Topic Of Slide Program At Garden Club

As guest speaker at the meeting of the Mountain Laurel Garden Club Oct. 19, Judy French, Rockville, will present a slide/lecture program titled "Japan: Contrasts and Textures," which will touch on Japanese culture, horticulture, and architecture.

French said she first realized her interest in Japan when she sensed her preference for asymmetry. This interest grew, she explained, as she accompanied her husband, Judd French, on his many trips to Japan as the U.S. representative for the National Institute of Standards and Technology.

As president of her own company, J.F.Associates, French lectures and consults on horticultural and environmental issues. She said she is especially fond of moss and describes her own backyard as a "strolling moss garden."



A guide at the National Arboretum for 22 years, French taught guides for another 12 years.

The Frenches said they look forward to their visit to Garrett County because Judd's grandfather, Rev. John Lanahan, spent many summers here and was an instrumental force in the establishment of the Chautauqua program in Mountain Lake Park.

This program will be held at the Will O' the Wisp Restaurant. The garden club business meeting begins at 10:30 a.m., followed by lunch and the program at 12:30. Anyone wishing lunch reservations is asked to call Karen Ewing at 301-387-6180 by Saturday, Oct. 16.

GETTING THERE IS HALF THE FUN - It is also safer and healthier when it involves parents walking to school with their children. Last week Garrett County Health Department's highway safety coordinator Diane Lee organized a Walk Our Children to School Day at Kitzmiller Elementary. Cooperating with Lee's efforts were Kitzmiller mayor Nancy Brady and school principal Sheila Miller. Part of a national campaign, Walk Our Children to School days were developed as a means of increasing community involvement in the safety of school children and encouraging community health through exercise. Last year's national event, sponsored by the Partnership for a Walkable America, involved nearly 160,000 children and their parents and was considered by organizers to be a "testament to foot power." In the photo above, Brady leads a group of walkers into the school, where a health and safety program was offered and refreshments served.

Kids Help Kids In Harvest For Hungry Project

The "Kids Helping Kids" ninth annual Harvest for the Hungry campaign will be launched next week. The program encourages children to read a book and help collect canned foods to be distributed to needy families.

Coordinator Virginia Fike, an AmeriCorps member with Garrett County Community Action/ Community and Emergency Services Department, said the children participate by asking friends and family members to pledge canned goods for books read. "Last year we collected 2,100 pounds of food and we hope to exceed that amount this year," Fike said.

Yough Glades Elementary School was in the top 10 out of 213 Maryland schools last year to collect the most food per student. The students were recognized at the Maryland State Dept. of Education in Baltimore City, and the school received a check for $425 and a certificate.

"The food collected will help residents in Garrett County in emergency situations, and the children will receive prizes for participating," Fike noted. The program will begin October 18 and end November 5. Anyone with questions may call contact the Community & Emergency Services Department or Virginia Fike at 301-334-9431, ext. 121.

Political correctness is a recent concept, as a look at the toys of yesteryear demonstrates.

In the days when the United States was still expanding, the majority of those who had spending money were English-speaking, white, Anglo-Saxon, Protestant males, the so-called Wasps of today. Advertising cards and labels often poked fun at unfamiliar ethnic groups. It was good business to ridicule people from the racial, religious and regional minorities who tended to be too poor to buy the products.

Comic stereotypes shown in pictures and on small ceramic souvenirs and children's toys included illiterate maids and smiling black cooks.

Children's toys encouraged many stereotypes that people would find objectionable today. Mechanical banks meant to teach small children to save no doubt taught other, less-desirable lessons as well.

The Teddy and the Bear bank shows President Teddy Roosevelt hunting with a gun and looking at a bear cub he declined to shoot – a decision that certainly would delight today's animal activists.

The Mammy and Child bank depicts a black mother "feeding" pennies to a child on her lap.

The Paddy & the Pig bank shows an Irishman holding a pig. The pig tosses the penny, which is caught in Paddy's mouth.

Toy makers today know that their customers include people from all races and are careful not to offend any group.

Q. Can you tell me anything about the mantel clock I found on a farm in Wisconsin? The wood has an inlaid design, and the clock face is marked "Sessions."

A. The Sessions Clock Co. of Forestville, Conn., dates back to 1903 when William Sessions and his son bought out the E.N. Welch Manufacturing Co.

Your tambour (round-top) shelf clock is one of many similar clocks Sessions made during the 1930s. Your clock was made in a pattern Sessions called "Shelley." The company used the same inlay pattern on the front of other tambour clocks with other pattern names.

ON THE ROAD – Carry a small flashlight with you when traveling. It helps if you've dropped things or the power goes off. This happened to me, and I was on the 18th floor during a lightning strike when the power went off. I was able to find my way around those unfamiliar areas in the room. Jenny G., Metairie, La.

FLOSS IT – I lost the screw out of my eyeglasses and didn't know what to do till I got to the eyeglass store. So, I finally found something that would hold until the next morning. I used dental floss and, believe me, it worked. Wanda K., Fairport, N.Y.

Biography®

PAUL GAUGUIN: IMPRESSIONS OF TAHITI

Paul Gauguin spent his early years living with his mother's wealthy, aristocratic family in Lima, Peru. According to April's Biography magazine, he believed his Spanish relatives had intermarried with the Incas, giving him "savage" blood. He later got a job as a stockbroker in Paris and quickly became prosperous. At 25, he wed a wealthy young Danish woman, Mette, and had five children. He collected Impressionist paintings, befriending the painters. When the 1882 stock market crash cost him his job, he decided to become an artist. His less-than-thrilled wife returned to Denmark with the children.

At first, Gauguin was unsuccessful. When his art finally began to sell, he resolved to go to French Tahiti to recapture his exotic, "savage" childhood. Ever the businessman, he obtained a French government grant to study and paint the natives. When he arrived, he discovered Western diseases had decimated the native population. Missionaries had destroyed the island's temples and forbidden indigenous rituals. He escaped the capital, moved to a tiny village and bought a 13-year-old "bride." Although they were happy, he abandoned her and his child when he returned to France with 80 paintings.

Although Gauguin's paintings sold, recognition and money were short. He broke his ankle in a barroom brawl. Due to syphilis, it never properly healed. Suiking, he returned to Tzhiti where his former "wife" wanted nothing to do with him. He found another prepubescent who lived with him despite his advancing syphilitic sores. He drank heavily and took morphine for his ankle pain. He attempted suicide, but took too much arsenic, threw up and lived.

In desperation, Gauguin moved to the remote Marquesas Islands where he wed another schoolgirl and continued to paint. In 1903, he died of syphilis, alone, at 55. Although Gauguin failed to find paradise, he left a legacy as the most daring of the Post-Impressionist painters.

Kena 500 Mini-Corvettes Will Appear In Grand Feature Parade

The internationally famous Kena 500 Mini-Corvettes, from Kena Shrine Temple, Fairfax, Va., will appear in the Autumn Glory Festival Parade for the fourth consecutive year. Kenneth L. Hall is Potentate of Kena Temple. The Kena 300 contingent is led by President Marvin K. "Mac" McAfee in car number 24.

The unit, formed in 1972, is celebrating its 27th year during 1999. The cars appearing in the parade are the original cars built in 1972. The cars have been upgraded with more powerful engines, but are basically as they were in 1972, including the color. One of the drivers, Paul Wood, and his wife Dolores hail from Oakland. Wood is vice president of Kena 500 and drives car number 27.

Kena 500 drivers have performed for literally millions of people on both sides of the Atlantic Ocean. These drivers have performed in two foreign countries, in 14 of the United States, and the District of Columbia. They have won numerous awards for their precision driving skills. They were named "Ambassadors of Good Will" by the Secretary of State of West Virginia in 1981. They are the 1995 champions of the International Association of Shrine Motor Corps in precison driving, obstacle course, and winners of the high point trophy for all four-wheel teams in competition. During 1998, they won either first or second place awards in all three of their competitions, and won awards in five parades.

Their first appearance outside the United States was at the Imperial Shrine Convention in Toronto, Ontario, Canada, in 1969. They performed in the parade and won second place in the international obstacle course competition. Their second appearance outside the United States was in London, where they were invited by the Lord Mayor of Westminster, for the New Year's Day Parade in 1994.

Kena 500 drivers perform two kinds of driving: fun driving and serious driving. The fun driving is when Kena 500 participates in parades, competitions, and exhibitions. The maneuvers they perform require sharp mental concentration and split-second timing in execution. They perform more than a dozen different formations during a typical parade. Hand signals are used to overcome distances and engine noise. Some voice commands are also employed.

The "serious driving" these Shriners perform is as volunteers who drive children from the northern Virginia area to the Shriners Hospital for Children in Philadelphia, Pa., for free medical care. Kena 500 drivers performed 49 round-trips to the Shriners Hospital in Philadelphia during 1998, logging nearly 16,000 man-miles.

Shriners Hospitals for Children, the world's greatest philanthropy, were begun 77 years ago. All patients are treated free of charge. There are now 22 Shrine hospitals in North America, including Canada, Mexico, and the United States. Kena Temple sponsors about 300 patients to the Philadelphia hospital and the Shriners burns institutes at Boston and Cincinnati. Persons desiring information about treatment for children may call the toll-free patient referral number, 1-800-237-5055, or contact any Shriner for more information.

Miltenberger To Perform At FSU

Dr. James Miltenberger, a professor of music at West Virginia University, will present a recital of 20th-century piano music Friday, Oct. 29, at 8 p.m. in the Pealer Recital Hall at Frostburg State University. The program will feature a variety of music and will highlight dances and improvisations spanning the century. The concert is free and open to the public.

The program will open with music by Claude Debuss and Alberto Ginastera, composers who have become part of the tradition of music in the early and mid-20th century. Two Debussy preludes for piano, "La Puerto del Vino" and "Feu d'Artifice," will begin the recital, and be followed by "Suite de Danzas Criollas" by Ginastera.

Improvisation will highlight the second part of the program, with the pianist's interpretation of songs by George Gerslwin and Cole Porter. He will also perform and improvise on a set of variations composed this year by Scott Green, a composer from Elkins, W.Va.

The final section will highlight dances by Latin American composers. First will be four Afro-Cuban dances by Ernesto Lecuona, a composer sometimes referred to as "the Cuban Gershwin." The program will conclude with two pieces, "Music in a Bottle" and "Conga" by Miguel del Aguila, who is originally from Uruguay and now lives in California.

Miltenberger, who teaches piano, piano repertoire, and jazz piano, has recorded four compact discs, three with the ACA label in Atlanta and a fourth jazz album with Scotwood Music.

For more information about the recital or James Miltenberger, persons may contact the FSU Music Department at 301-687-4109.

League To Study State Stand on Domestic Violence

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County will conduct a meeting Monday, Oct. 18, to consider concurrence with the LWVMD position on domestic violence. Linda Spasil, executive director of the Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Resource Center Inc. (the Dove Center), will be the guest and assist with any technical questions.

The proposed concurrence position on Domestic Violence is: action to support preventing initial and repeat occurrences of violence against spouses, domestic partners, the elderly, and children; and action to support a strong statewide response to violence that is integrated, interdisciplinary, and adequately funded, involving all segments of the law enforcement and judicial system, the medical community, the schools, social services, animal care and control agencies, and the private sector, with a primary focus on the safety of victims. Domestic violence is defined as abuse that may be physical, psychological, and/or economic, affecting all socio-economic, religious, ethnic, and social groups. It includes spouses, partners, children, and the elderly.

The League of Women Voters has a tradition of studying positions brought before it, usually during state and national convention, to either come to consensus or concurrence on a wide variety of issues, ranging from land management to campaign financing to health care protection. Upon acceptance of a statewide position, the result is mobilization and action.

The league invites the public to share in the study scheduled for Oct. 18 at Lighthouse, Oakland, at 7 p.m. For more information

Author To Speak To Educators On Self-Motivation

Bob Moore, a nationally known speaker and author on personal motivation and self-development, will address Garrett County educators on Friday, Oct. 15, at Northern High School, beginning at 9 a.m. He will speak on the topic of motivating students.

Described as a "dynamic speaker," Moore, a resident of Columbia, S.C., appears annually throughout the United States before thousands of students, parents, and educational and business groups. His previous experience includes 25 years in the field of education as a teacher, guidance counselor, speaker, and author.

"I am convinced that the greatest need people have in America today, students and adults, is the need to believe more strongly in their potential and ability, and the need they have in understanding how to place positive and constructive action behind these beliefs to make goals and dreams come true," Moore said.

Moore is the author of You Can Be President (Or Anything Else).

A RECIPE FOR SUCCESS AT SPRINGS FESTIVAL - First, combine 2-3/4 tons of cabbage made into sauerkraut, 1,500 lbs. of flour baked into bread, 56 gallons of milk made into ice cream, 500 dozen cookies, and 500 lbs. of kettlecorn poppod. Next blend in 15,361 people (plus an assortment of children under age 6) and 1,632 school children. Mix together for two days and the result is a successful 42nd annual Springs Folk Festival. The festival grounds in Springs, Pa., had Oct. 1 & 2 as visitors to the area as well as local residents walked the woodland trail listening to music and watching artisans demonstrate their skills and display their crafts. The dining hall and food booths were well attended as fair-goers sampled Pennsylvania Dutch cooking and old-fashioned homemade snacks and treats. Helping create the old-time atmosphere of the festival, in the photo above left, were Olen Remboldt, left, and Gordon Oester with flintlock musket, both of Springs. Jane Ecnson, Grantsville, above center, dipped candles in the manner of past generations. Returning to the festival was Homer Remboldt, above right, who at age 99 is still busy working with wood and carving miniature baseball bats. Below, Owen Guengerich, Springs, demonstrates steam engine-powered shingled making.

Former Oakland M.D. Honored In Connecticut

Sharon (Conn.) Hospital emergency physician Jared B. Zelman, M.D., FACEP, was presented with the 1998-1999 Physician of the Year Award at the Region 5 Medical Advisory Committee meeting, held at Sharon Hospital. Dr. Zelman was in practice locally with the Garrett Medical Group, Oakland, from 1979 to 1984, and was also chief of staff of Garrett County Memorial Hospital one of those years.

Presenting the award on behali of the Committee was Peter J. Jacobi, M.D., chairman of the emergency department at St. Mary's Hospital in Waterbury, Conn. Dr. Jacobi noted that the award is given annually by the Connecticut College of Emergency Physicians to the physician who "best exemplifies a professional attitude" and "has done the most to further emergency medicine in Connecticut." The college's award is named after its first recipient, Phil Stent, M.D., who is widely considered the founder of modern emergency medicine in Connecticut for his role in establishing the state's Emergency Medical System (EMS).

Dr. Zelman, the sixth recipient of the award, is director of emergency services at Sharon Hospital. He is a fellow of the American College of Emergency Physicians and is certified by both the American Board of Family Practice and the American Board of Emergency Medicine.

A Salisbury, Conn., resident and member of the town's volunteer ambulance squad, Dr. Zelman credits his wife Pamela and his two daughters, Allison, 15, and Joanna, 13, for their support of his local and state activities in emergency medicine for which he was recognized. He is also a member of the American College of Emergency Physicians and the National Association of Physician Broadcasters, and can be heard in the in-state area on radio stations WQQQ-FM and WKZE-AM & FM in Sharon Hospital's daily "Health Matters" radio segments.

Petrocelli Will Speak At FSU

The Frostburg State University Substance Abuse Facts and Education Office will sponsor "Ten Seconds Can Change Your Life" by motivational speaker Bobby Petrocelli on Wednesday, Oct. 20, at 7 p.m. in the Lane Center multi-use room.

A Brooklyn native, Petrocelli found his life changed instantly when a three-quarter ton pickup truck crashed through the wall of his bedroom moving at over 70 miles per hour. The driver's blood alcohol level was twice the legal limit. Petrocelli found himself sitting dazed and injured in his dining room window; his wife was dead.

The riveting story of how Petrocelli triumphed over tragedy, captivates audiences of all ages and backgrounds, inspiring all to live a life of passion, faith, love and forgiveness," said one critic.

"There is power in one decision. Every decision we make — good or bad — has the power to impact our future," he says. "Things don't just happen. Constructing our life's foundation is accomplished one brick, one decision, 10 seconds at a time. It can change your life forever."

Petrocelli has been featured on television, radio, and in print. He is a teacher, counselor, and coach, holding both a bachelor's degree in health and physical education and a master's degree in counseling.

This event is free and open to the public. It is sponsored by the Western Maryland Regional S.A.F.E. Communities Center as part of National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Month. For more information, persons may contact the FSU S.A.F.E. Office, 301-687-4761.

Japanese Art Topic Of GCC Lecture Program

EIRA PATNAIK

An illustrated lecture titled "Beauty is Truth: The Unfolding Fan of Japanese Aesthetics" will be presented by Frostburg State University professor Eira Patnaik on Thursday, Oct. 21, at 7 p.m. in the auditoriam of Garrett Community College. A co-curricular event of the college, the program is open to the public free of charge.

Patnaik, a professor of English, spent three months in Japan last year visiting sites of historical interest and immersing herself in Japanese culture. Her lecture will address four cardinal characteristics of Japanese aesthetics: suggestion, irregularity, simplicity, and perishability. A video of Japanese festivals and slides of Japanese gardens, postcards, and other photos will accompany Patnaik's presentation.

Patnaik will point out the contrasts between Japanese and Western cultures' concepts of beauty and aesthetics. "In many ways, Japanese aesthetics are the reverse of American aesthetics," she remarked recently. "The Japanese favor the imaginative power of suggestion over the climactic moments, and they are partial to irregularity and asymmetry. In variance to the West, where permanence is desired, the Japanese prefer things that capture the passing of time in nature. In contrast to the Western ideal of bigness as beauty, the Japanese are trained to believe that 'less is more.'

"Exposure to another culture will sharpen our ability to scrutinize more steadily, to appreciate more lovingly, our own," stated Patnaik. "We may also see that our own cherished views are not as reasonable as we had thought."

COUNTY NATIVE SPEAKS TO BPW - The guest speaker for a recent meeting of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club was Ann Hetrick, a native of Garrett County, who is employed by Beauticontrol. Some 30 members of the club heard Hetrick explain the cosmetic company's products, benefits, and marketing strategies. "If you know you look good when you walk out your door, your self esteem goes up 99%," she said. The next BPW meeting will be held at Will O'the Wisp Restaurant on October 21. For reservations, persons may telephone Pam Glotfelty at 301-334-0585.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

National 4-H Week was celebrated in Bittinger last week with a rash of activities. Monday evening started the events with the club's 4-H monthly meeting, featuring demonstrations given by various members. Each member is to do a presentation about how to do something with visual aids. It takes a lot of preparation, which is tough when the kids are involved with homework, sports and chores. It is a lesson about real life. Some way we got together Claire and Caitlin's demonstrations.

Right now our lives are dominated by my big project of making apple-grape juice and canning it. Caitlin did her demonstration on how easy it can be by my method of putting the fruit in an old pillow case and simmering in a big pot of water until you get juice. Claire showed what she learned about calligraphy in her art class. Blakely Glotfelty demonstrated some basic first aid. Scott Bass's demo was on making a latch hook rug. Nick Maxim gave his demo on his bow and Carolyn Maxim on her cat. The rest of the club will present their demonstrations next month.

Another activity for 4-H week was the Bittinger 4-H Club winning booth in the window of Brenneman's Store. It won reserve champion at the Garrett County Fair and a blue ribbon at the state fair.

Emmanuel Lutheran Church held 4-H Sunday at the Sunday morning service. Robbie and Blakely Glotfelty read the lessons. Nick Maxim was the acolyte. Greeters were Carolyn Maxim and Mariel Hady. Ushers were Scott Bass, Matthew Bass, Andrew Hady, and Darrel and Elliot Glotfelty.

The highlight of the week was the annual buckwheat and pancake dinner sponsored by the 4-H on Friday evening. The 4-H members served the good old-fashioned buckwheat cakes, pancakes, and sausage. A large crowd of local residents and out-of-town visitors attended. It was good to see Roger Beitzel in from Oklahoma, Judy Perkins from Arkansas, and Jim Buckel from North Carolina. Lucille Patton Ritter and son Larry and Carolyn Patton from La-Vale were up especially for the dinner. Lucille is a first cousin of Ruth DiPaolo and she said she was raised on buckwheat cakes. Our family ate lots of them too when we were growing up, and still love them.

Michelle Geis visited her home for the first time this semester from Blacksburg, Va. She said the fall foliage was "not any good, just a lot of brown and maybe one or two gold trees mixed in" at Virginia Tech. She was home just in time for the peak colors in the "Grove." Also visiting the Housleys last weekend to enjoy the fall colors was a family from Clinton, N.J., who met Ellen, Sam, and Brent while on their vacation. They kept busy hiking and even went boat riding on the lake. Brent even got to do some last-of-the-season "surf boarding."

If its true that you can predict what kind of winter we will have by the amount of fruit, nuts, etc., then we will be in for a long hard winter with a lot of snow and cold weather. There is also the "old wive's tale" where if the wasps build their paper nests high up in the tree, then there will be lots of snow. Lloyd saw a wasp nest on a very low branch. I talked to some men at the buckwheat dinner who gave me their forecast, but they were unwilling to commit their guess "on the record." Bob Brenneman said, "The wooly worm knows more about the future weather than I do, which is not much." Ed Schofield pointed out to Gary Buckel that the fruit depended on last winter, which made perfect sense to me, as last winter was mild and allowed the bumper crop of fruit this summer. Anyone who spends much time outside probably sees a lot of various patterns of wooly worms in the same year. So who knows what kind of weather we are in for! Nobody. My guess is a regular Garrett County winter with a decent amount of snow.

JBEA Logging donated a hog purchased at the GC Fair Auction to the Bittinger 4-H Club. The hog was made into all-hog sausage and was served at the buckwheat cake dinner. Fifty-five pounds of sausage was made and served to approximately 100. The 4-H Club thanks JBEA Logging for its kind donation.

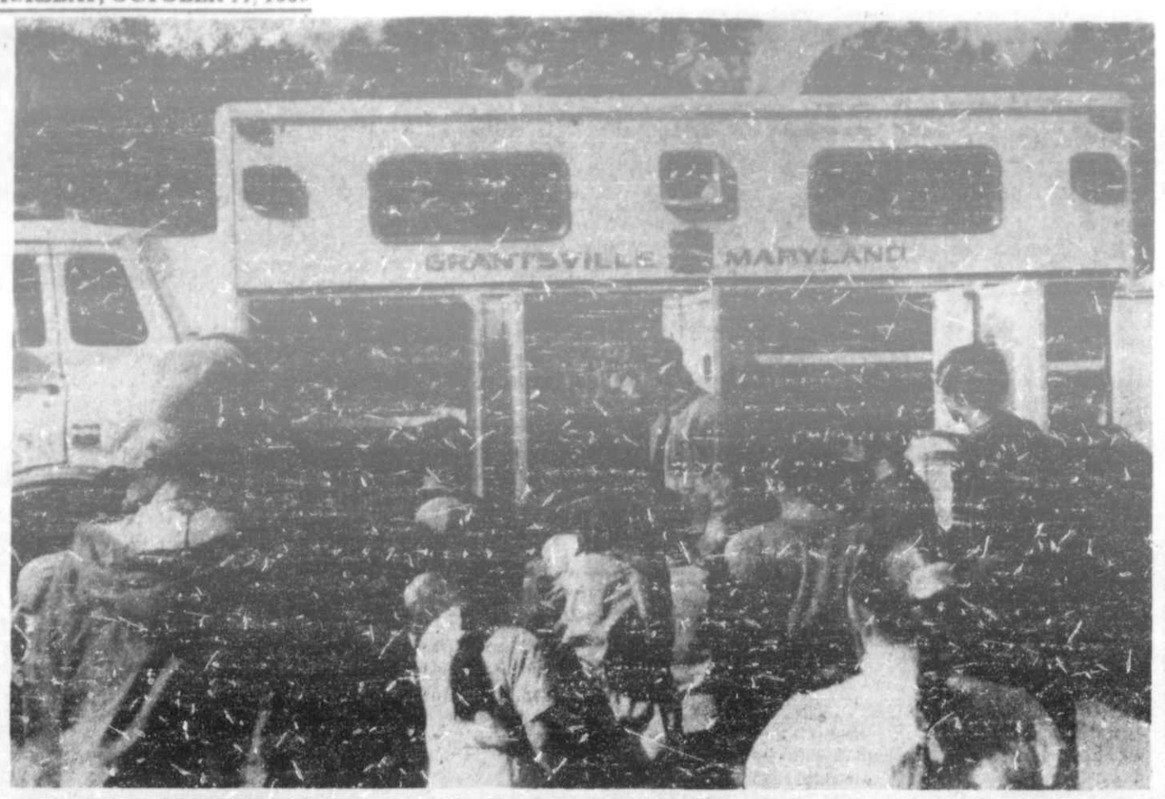
Garrett County SKIES

by Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

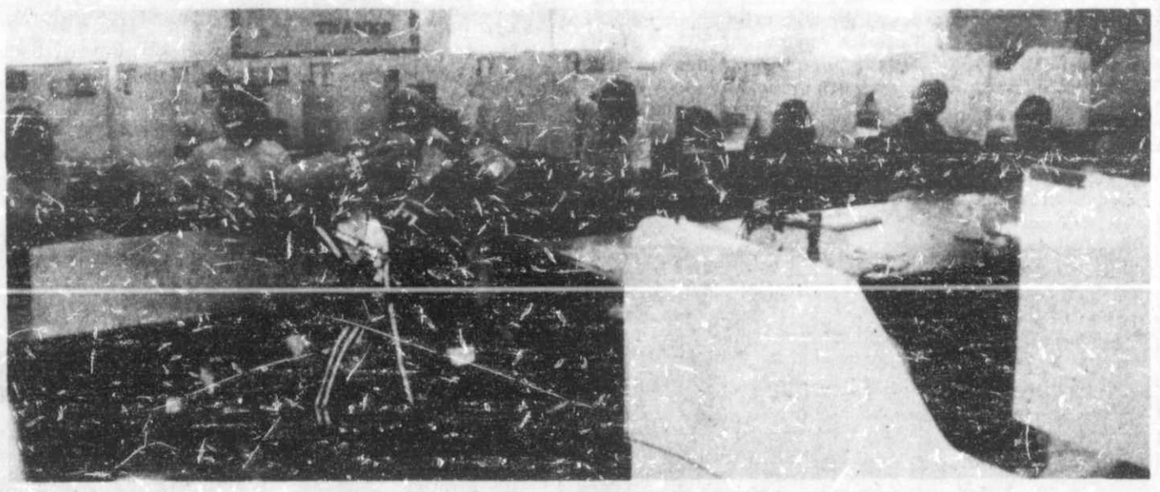
Editor's note: Dr. Bob Doyle directs the Planetarium at Frostburg State. Since the mid '70s, Doyle has been writing sky columns for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. For a weekly sky report, call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270. Doyle also hosts "Skywatch," a brief weekly program on days of the week and sky sights on WFWM, Frostburg State's listener-supported radio station.

THE SUN — In October, sunlight hours each day drop from 11.8 on the 1st to 10.2 on the 31st. The sun's midday peak height drops from 47 to 36 degrees (45 degrees is halfway up). The mid-point of fall is Halloween, October 31. On the last day of October, we will return to Standard Time by setting our clocks back an hour. We will gain an hour of star gazing in the evening while our dawn and sunrise come an hour earlier.



THE MOON — October opens with a half full moon (like a backwards "D") in the early morning hours. On October 5 the crescent moon appears near the brilliant planet Venus in the eastern dawn. On October 9 the moon swings from the morning to the evening side of the sun. By October 12 the moon is again visible as a slender crescent in the western dusk. On October 15 the crescent moon appears near the planet Mars in the southwestern dusk. By October 17 the evening moon has grown to half full (looks like a "D"). This shape of the moon offers the best views of the moon's craters and mountains through binoculars or telescope. The moon is full on the night of October 24-25; this is called the Hunter's Moon, offering extra evening moonlight for the next four nights. On the night of the Hunter's Moon, the moon will appear near the bright planet Jupiter. By Halloween, the moon will have eased out of the evening sky; it will then be best viewed in the early daylight hours.

THE BRIGHT PLANETS — Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine steadily, compared to the flickering stars. As soon as it gets dark, look for yellowish Mars, low in the southwest. Below and to the left of Jupiter is the planet Saturn. At dawn the planet Venus is awesome in the east, becoming higher and more prominent as the weeks pass. You can also see Jupiter and Saturn in the west at dawn. The planet Mercury may be seen low in the southwestern dusk in late October.



OCTOBER'S STAR SIGHTS — On October evenings, the Big Dipper is very close to the northern horizon; its two right-most stars point upwards to the North Star, a modest star about halfway up in the north. Above and to the right of the North Star is Cassiopeia, a zigzag pattern of stars. High in the west is the white-blue star Vega, now the brightest star in view. Vega and two other bright stars form the Summer Triangle, now the brightest star group in view. Late in the evening, the 7 Sisters star cluster, resembling a tiny dipper, can be seen in the east. Halloween, or the ancient Celtic festival of Samhain, occurred on the night when the 7 Sisters first could be seen at nightfall.

Local FSU Honor Student And Professor Discover New Nematode

A cluster of tiny, unusual worms found in a locust tree began a search that led a Frostburg State University student from Garrett County and his faculty mentor to the famed Zoological Institute of the Russian Academy of Sciences in St. Petersburg, Russia.

John Winter, a senior at FSU from Accident, and Dr. Amy L. Harman, professor of biology, attended the Russian Nematological Society Symposium to describe the new species of nematode they found and discuss its implications with scientists from around the world. The nematode, a simple, unsegmented worm found during an ongoing research project in Allegany and Garrett counties, had never before been described.

Winter was one of only four students among the more than 150 scientists in attendance, and he was the only undergraduate student.

It all began as part of a study Harman and her husband, Dan Harman, a forest entomologist at University of Maryland's Center for Environmental Studies Appalachian Laboratory on the FSU campus, were conducting of an insect, the locust borer, and the black locust trees it attacked. In the cavities it left in and under the bark, they found a collection of living things that included insects, mites, and nematodes. Harman, whose Ph.D. is in nematology, found the nematodes to be unlike any that had been previously described.

To properly research the discovery, the Harmans enlisted Winter, a biology senior and honors student, to help. Through the FSU Honors Program, the premed and psychology major was able to join the research team for course credit and financial assistance and have Amy Harman as his mentor. The Honors Program helps undergraduates do research by hooking them up with faculty mentors and providing other assistance as the need arises.

Beginning during the 1999 intersession, Winter started analyzing the features of the nematode Amy Harman had found from photos. Then, later in the spring he started searching for another nematode like it, looking in various cavities in trees, at strip mines and along roads where soil had been disturbed, as well as in locations where the soil had not been moved.

"For weeks I studied cavities without finding anything," Winter said.

However, once summer came, vast communities of the worms began to appear seemingly overnight. They found other nematodes, in addition to more like Harman had originally found, and, at first glance, these also didn't match any species that had previously been described. More study will follow, Harman said.

"We just have a lot of raw data now," Winter said. But, he said, it's "exciting" to imagine that so many of their samples could be new species.

Very little research has been done on this particular family of nematodes, so finding even the most basic description was difficult, Winter said.

The three decided to concentrate their research on the first nematode of the season, which filled their time from early June to Aug. 20, when they left for St. Petersburg.

Once they learned in April about the Russian Nematological Society Symposium, Amy Harman and Winter decided to present their research there. Again, the Honors Program helped, in addition to the Provost's Office and the Biology Department, assisting both Winter and Harman with their costs.

Winter was able to use his computer knowledge to produce a photograph of the nematode and create a presentation poster that drew raves from the scientists gathered in Russia because it was a more sophisticated presentation than most had. The presentation, printed on plotter equipment at the Appalachian Laboratory, included detailed drawings of the worm, a description of the research and digital images created using the sophisticated technology available in the new Biotechnology Center at FSU. The images were created using a microscope connected to a computer, taking a total of six or seven photos to create a large image of the less than-1-millimeter worm.

"I think it was John's ability here that really made it flow," Harman said.

Winter's skill allowed the team to accomplish a lot in a short period of time, making it possible to take along a polished presentation, Harman said.

The location of the symposium, the Russian Academy of Sciences, was founded by Peter the Great, with the Zoological Institute being one of the oldest institutions within the Academy. The institute's museum houses millions of specimens of thousands of animal species, including, Harman said, a still-woolly woolly mammoth that had been preserved in permafrost.

The scores of scientists in attendance spoke several different languages, so translations were provided, which slowed things down a bit. Nevertheless, it was exciting to spend time with other scientists from around the world, the professor and student agreed. They usually ate at a different table each day, getting to meet new people each time.

The researchers have yet to name their nematode. They plan to write a scholarly publication, and they'll have to come up with a name by then. Traditionally species were often named for whoever found them, but today scientists generally use where the species was found as the basis for creating the name, Harman said, in this case, the black locust tree.

The team gives credit to the assistance provided by the university community, particularly Dr. Maureen Connelly, who heads up the Honors Program, Provost Christine Grontkowski, the Biology Department, and the Appalachian Laboratory.

If they have time before Winter's graduation in May 2000, they hope to continue the research and identify the others, at least to the family level. Winter has been able to take on the task as an honors seminar and plans to produce a senior research thesis.

Complete WVU Health Program

HOLLY WILSON

JOHN RODEHEAVER

Several Maryland students, including two from Garrett County, recently completed a six-week summer enrichment program sponsored by Health Careers Opportunity Program (HCOP) at West Virginia University, Morgantown.

Holly Wilson, daughter of David and Mary Wilson, Swanton, is a first-year respiratory therapy student at Allegany College of Maryland. John Rodeheaver, Oakland, spouse of Renata and father of John Marshall and Nathan, is a pre-occupational therapy student. Both are graduates of Southern High School.

HCOP is a six-week program designed to promote careers for West Virginia and western Maryland pre-freshman students interested in the schools of medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, and other health fields. Students are given academic and social support to enhance their knowledge, skills, and abilities to enter and graduate from health professions schools.

HCOP is funded by the state of West Virginia, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Health Resources and Services Administration, Bureau of Health Professions, and Division of Disadvantaged Assistance. The program is a collaborative effort between WVU and Western Maryland Area Health Education Center.

Democratic Club Salutes Bratten In GCC Ceremony

Members of the Garrett County Democratic Club honored Thomas E. Bratten Jr., chair of the Garrett County Democratic Central Committee, prior to the club's recent meeting at Garrett Community College.

"This man answered the call from his country," Floyd R. Baker, Central Committee member, said in his remarks that recounted Bratten's experiences, first as a decorated soldier and then as a highly placed civil servant. "This man became a captain in the U.S. Army, was severely wounded in a Vietnam mine field, and [was] carried to safety by one of the most revered men in American history, General Norman Schwarzkopf.

"In civilian life he did not give up. He was the chairman of the Democratic Central Committee of Montgomery County; western Maryland ombudsman for the secretary of health; in charge of Veteran Cemeteries (where he reduced his assistance by one-third and accomplished twice as much in productivity); became the director of veterans affairs for Governor Parris Glendening; and is now the secretary of veterans affairs in the governor's cabinet.

TOM BRATTEN HONORED - Members of the Garrett County Democratic Club and the Garrett County Democratic Central Committee paid tribute to the accomplishments of Garrett County resident Thomas E. Bratten Jr. at a recent meeting of the Democratic Club. Bratten is a decorated veteran of the Vietnam War, who has served in a variety of highly placed positions in state government and Maryland's Democratic Party organization. Members of the county's Democratic Central Committee are shown above at the salute. From the left in the front row are Thomas J. Pratt, treasurer, and Bratten, the committee's chair. In the back row are Floyd R. Baker, committee member; Joyce R. Andrews, assistant secretary; and Rosalee Finch, vice chair.

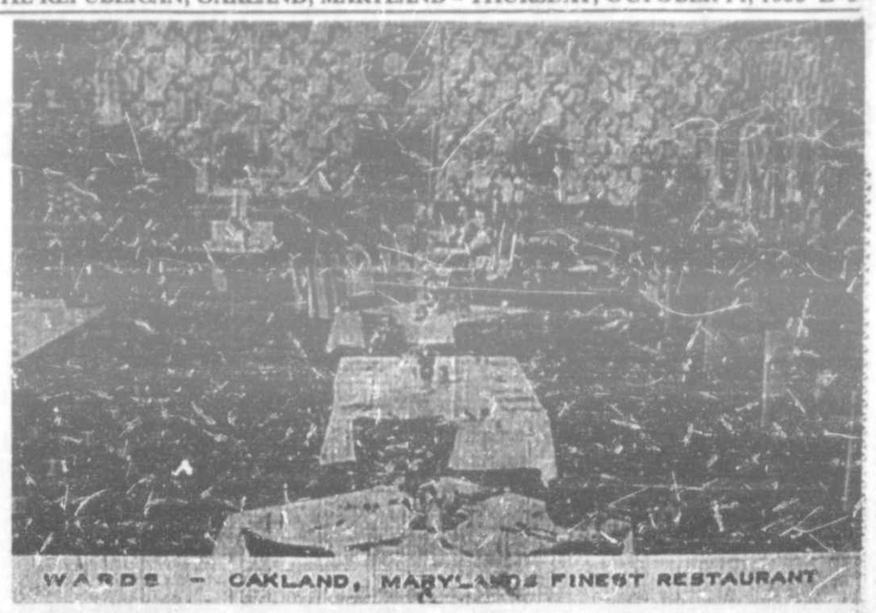
"Those are the man's accomplishments under adverse circumstances," Baker commented. "Although they are very impressive, there is a lot more to this man."

Baker then related a story told to him by Richard Friend, a Garrett County native and one of the most decorated soldiers of the Vietnam War. According to Friend, Bratten was determined to go hunting. He drove his car into a field, got stuck in the snow, and fell beside the car. Friend found him and offered help. Bratten refused by saying "I fell, and I'll get up." Upon righting himself, he leaned against the automobile and said, "Hi, I'm Tom Bratten, what's your name?"

The story served to illustrate Baker's comments that Bratten is "a man with absolute determination, who lets nothing stand in his way of accomplishing worthwhile things for both himself and his fellow man. He is an inspiration to all veterans, and to anyone who is confined to a wheel chair and everyone who is not."

The tribute was coordinated by several Garrett County Democratic Central Committee and Garrett County Democratic Club members. A large cake bearing the salutation "Congratulations, Tom" was cut for the gathering and served along with other refreshments.

Autumn Glory Festival Events Now On Internet



People worldwide can enjoy Garrett County's Autumn Glory Festival online at the address www.autumnglory.com. According to a release from the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative (GRIC), people with Internet access can log onto the web site and check the schedule of events, take a stroll through the photo gallery, learn about Oakland's history, and participate in a scavenger hunt.

GCNet acquired the www. autumnglory.com web domain to help celebrate Autumn Glory on a yearly basis and create an on-line venue to share the festivities with the rest of the world, the release said.

"Linked to the www.autumnglory.com site will be a tribute to Oakland and the town's Sesquicentennial Celebration," stated Kelly-Marie Norris, special projects coordinator for GRIC. "Students who worked on the sites, ranging from Garrett Community College students to Garrett and Mt. Storm county students learned much about the town and some history of Oakland by helping with the site."

GCNet intern Jonathan Ruff, 19, developed the Sesquicentennial site to provide more about information about the county's oldest town. "Much of the information may surprise even local residents," Norris said.

GCNet is still looking for stories and lore from the local subscribers to add to the historical sections of the site. "If you have a story or a picture you'd like to submit to the Sesquicentennial web site, please E-mail kmnorris@mail2.gcnet.net, or mail your submissions to GCNet c/o Student Intern Project, PO Box 990, McHenry, MD 21541," Norris said.

HISTORY ON THE AUCTION BLOCK — A real hot spot in Oakland used to be Ward's Restaurant, located at the corner of Second and Oak streets. It's shown here in its heyday, when the place was known for serving the best steaks in the area. After being closed for decades, the building, which houses the restaurant, four apartments, and a basement bar, will be auctioned off on Friday, Oct. 15, at 10:30 a.m. "This could be such a great opportunity for someone to restore this place and give it new life," said Glenn Tolbert, Oakland's Main Street manager. See today's classified section for details about the sale.

AGF Parade To Be Captured Live On Line

A camera connected to the World Wide Web giving real time images of the Autumn Glory parade is being placed atop the TCI building on the corner of Alder and Third Street in Oakland.

"This is a joint venture between GCNet and TCI to give the world instant and constant access to the Autumn Glory Parade," said David Lee, general manager of GCNet.

Scenes generated by the camera of the Autumn Glory parade and other activities within view of its lens can be seen on the Internet by accessing the Autumn Glory web site at www.autumnglory.com.

"The placing of this camera is obviously of benefit to people who can't come home for Autumn Glory or who are here but can't get out of the house. The project is an extension of our student intern program. Ricky Nichols from Union High School, Mt. Storm, W.Va., Eric Tressler of Southern High School, and Jonathan Ruff, Oakland, a student of Garrett Community College, are key people in developing this project," Lee said.

The venture is also being made possible by TCI of Oakland, which is providing the location for the camera as well as the communication links necessary to connect the camera back to GCNet's World Wide Web's service.

"The partnership between TCI and GCNet is a great example of using high technology with a spirit of cooperation to show the world what a unique and wonderful place we live in here in Oakland and Garrett County," said David Moe, owner of TCI.

Farming In Maryland.....

Garrett Farm Bureau To Hold Annual Banquet

Garrett County Farm Bureau members and guests will hold their annual meeting and banquet Fri., Oct. 22, at 7 p.m. in the Bittinger fire hall.

The guest speaker for the event will be Henry Holloway, a Harford County farmer and past president of the Maryland Farm Bureau.

Holloway's Farm Bureau leadership positions included Harford County Farm Bureau vice president and president, and he served as Maryland's president for three years. He served on the Nationwide Enterprise board of directors for 12 years representing Maryland Farm Bureau. While on the Nationwide board, he was chairman of the Nationwide Mutual Fire Insurance Company, chairman of the Nationwide Life Insurance Company, and member of the sponsor, investment and audit committees for all of the Nationwide companies. He continues to serve on the board of Nationwide financial services.

Holloway has been a leader in the agricultural industry in his community, county, and state. These contributions have been recognized by his induction into the Maryland Agriculture Hall of Fame and the National Cooperative Development Foundation Hall of Fame. He is currently a director of the Maryland State Fair and Agricultural Society, chairman of Maryland 4-H Foundation's Endowment campaign, a member of the Maryland Rural Legacy program, a director of the Forest Hill State Bank, and on the board of trustees of Broadmead Inc., his church affiliated retirement community.

He is quick to attribute his 4-H background to his success in life and continues to be a leading advocate of 4-H's youth development potential. He is a past 4-H alumni winner and is a member of the 4-H Hall of Fame.

According to a spokesman, Holloway and his wife Barbara have four adult children and nine grandchildren. His love of people, love of the land and belief in the value of each individual have contributed to his enthusiasm for life, and is reflected in his speaking abilities.

During the meeting, new officers and directors will be elected, and resolutions will be presented and approved. Members are reminded that their membership renewal and dues can be paid when they make reservations or at the banquet. Reservations can be made by calling Clark Kolb at 301-746-8484 on or before Oct. 16.

International Rural Women's Day, October 15

Tomorrow, Oct. 15, governments, organizations and individuals around the globe will celebrate the many contributions of rural women who make up more than one-quarter of the world's population. Rural women worldwide are being recognized on International Rural Women's Day. The day was launched in 1997 to bring rural women—the world's invisible workers—into the limelight. The Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations reports that the gathering of gender-specific statistics in recent years has confirmed two facts: The majority of poor people in the world are women, and these women are overwhelmingly responsible for feeding hungry men and children, as well as themselves. They grow, gather and catch the family meals, bring home water and wood, and prepare and cook the food. Where the rural poor get enough to eat, most often it is largely through the efforts, skills and knowledge of mothers, wives, sisters and daughters, the organization stated.

In many countries, the plight of rural women is worsening, as young and able-bodied men leave for the cities in search of work. The women left behind struggle to raise families and manage farms alone. Today, the organization reports, in some regions of Africa, 60 percent of households are headed by women.

The message today is that investing in rural women worldwide means investing in food security. A cost-benefit analysis carried out by the World Bank indicated that investment in educating women and girls has the highest rate of return of any possible type of investment in developing nations. "For a long time it was believed that the training and information received by men would just naturally be passed on to women. However, all our studies now show that this is not the case," according to Henri Carsalade, asistant director-general for Sustainable Development at the UN Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), speaking at a symposium to celebrate International Rural Women's Day.

Nearly 100 organizations in 40 countries will work to promote this year's theme, "Give Credit to Rural Women." The Women's World Summit Foundation (WWSF), an international not-for-profit organization, and the International Federation of Agriculture Producers (IFAP) will honor 34 associations and individuals who have shown courage and perseverance in improving rural life.

"Give Credit to Rural Women" emphasizes the WWSF's imperative appeal for improved "economic empowerment for rural women to help ensure that food security remains in their hands and in the hands of farmers' communities."

"No major group of the world's population manifests more courage than rural women, yet they remain among the most neglected group in development planning and programs," said Elly Pradervand, campaign director for World Rural Women's Day. "World Rural Women's Day was created to help bring their reality to the forefront for more official recognition and support."

Statistics provided by IFAP illustrate the essential role women play in both the fields and the home, but also indicate the obstacles women the world over face. Women perform 30 percent of the agricultural work in industrialized countries, but 500 million rural women live below the poverty line. In areas outside the United States the role of women is magnified, such as certain regions of Africa where women head 60 percent of households.

In developing countries, rural women produce as much as 80 percent of basic foodstuffs, but receive very limited agricultural training. Women agricultural extension workers are few, and illiteracy among women is even more widespread than among men, says an FAO report.

Yet, as a recent study in Kenya showed, yields among rural women could be increased by 24 percent if all women farmers completed primary school. In Kenya, following a national information campaign targeted at women under a National Extension Project, yields of corn increased by 28 percent, beans by 80 percent and potatoes by 84 percent, the report said.

Noting the important role of rural women in agricultural production, Carsalade said FAO recommends that national programs of member countries address the needs of women as well as men. He also said that women represent a long neglected source of traditional agricultural knowledge about plant varieties and specific animal breeds that exist in their regions.

The day was first proclaimed in 1997, in the words of President Bill Clinton, to honor the "many quiet heroes" among rural women, "whose efforts and energy contribute profoundly to the quality of our lives."

Farm women in this country see many of the same frustrating problems experienced by others around the world. The poor farm economy in this otherwise "very rich" country requires many men to leave the farm for full-time off-farm jobs, leaving the women at home to do the farming. Holding farms and families together in this country today is often the prime goal of the farm wife, who does without many necessities let alone luxuries to achieve that goal. Linda Bacon, a member of the Indiana Farm Bureau Women's Committee, emphasized the changing role for the women of her generation involved in agriculture in the United States. "In the past, a women's role focused on labor, cooking, cleaning and helping her husband in the field," said Baker. "Now, many women must work off the farm as well, just to ensure they have health insurance or money for their children's expenses."

Carol Hegel, second vice president of the Indiana Farm Bureau, further explained the challenges many U.S. farm women currently face. Not only are women working off the farm in order to keep their families and operations going, but they still have responsibilities at home. "They have the problem of being gone all day, yet when they come home their husbands need their help on the farm."

Hegel described the multifaceted role women have in preserving the American farm family. "The farm home is so important. Many times the woman supplies moral support, keeps the family together, negotiates between generations, motivates and focuses on farm safety, as well as provides financial support."

Farm women and all rural women around the world should be recognized for their strength, endurance, and moral fiber, which, along with other qualities, combine to help them achieve that goal.

Acorn Poisoning — Are Your Cattle at Risk?

This discussion refers primarily to cattle, the species most often affected by acorn toxicity. It also seems that cattle less than 2 years of age succumb to acorn poisoning more than do older animals; however, older animals are still at risk. Other species at risk include sheep. Goats and swine are more resistant to poisoning, and horses are rarely affected (likely due to a unwillingness to consume acorns). Pets rarely consume, with red and black oak exhibiting greater toxicity than white oak. Acorns are most dangerous in toxicity and when there is little else to eat. The fall is a risk period, when acorns and leaves fall and better forage dies back. Therefore, management plays a key role in preventing acorn toxicity.

The toxins in acorns are called gallotoxins and are converted in the body to tannic acid, gallic acid, and pyrogallol, all of which are very toxic to the kidney. It is the resulting kidney failure that causes the clinical signs. Only a few pounds of acorns can kill cattle. Signs can develop over 2 to 14 days, or signs may be present with the animals becoming progressively worse over many weeks. The number of animals affected in the herd can vary greatly, but of those showing clinical signs, up to 80% may die. Signs of acorn poisoning can include depression, lack of appetite, a gaunt and emaciated appearance, poor or rough hair coat, dependent edema (fluid buildup under the skin under the neck, abdomen, or on the legs), digestive disturbances (both diarrhea and constipation have been reported, with mucus covered or tarry stools), increased drinking, passage of copious amounts of urine which may contain blood, and death.

FIRST AID: The most important step is to get the animals back onto plentiful and nutritious feed, and to limit stress, shipping and handling during the recovery period. Also, make sure that plenty of fresh water is always available, since affected cattle cannot maintain their own water balance very well while recovering. Since this is a long-term chronic toxicity, there is little in the way of an antidote to relieve signs. Severely or more chronically affected animals may not recover, but the less affected animals may, and may return to previous rates of gain and milk production. A veterinarian will be able to assist in management, and will be able to assist in emergency measures if large amounts of acorns were recently consumed. Beyond this, treatment is supportive and symptomatic.

Vegetable Gardening Tips

Winter cover crops should be planted now on bare garden soil. Sow the following species individually or in a combination of winter barley, winter rye, and winter wheat. Mix the seeds with soil and broadcast them by hand or use a hand-held broadcast seeder. Gently rake the bed with a metal rake and walk on the bed to ensure good soil-to-seed contact. Your cover crop will protect your soil, conserve soil nutrients, and add organic matter and nutrients when tilled in next spring. You can also sow your cover crop in walkways between raised beds.

Store pumpkins in a cool, dry location with good air circulation. Set them on top of cardboard or wood slats. Small ornamental gourds can also be harvested now, but wait until after the first killing frost to harvest birdhouse, dipper and other large gourds.

Store unwashed potatoes in a dark, cool location (35-40°F). Sweet potatoes should be cured for 10-14 days in a warm, dark location (85°F) and then stored for the winter in a cool, dry location (55°F). Carrots can be over-wintered by covering the bed with a deep straw or leaf mulch. Pull carrots through the winter as needed.

Garlic cloves and multiplier onions can be planted now through November. Store-bought garlic can be used. Select the largest cloves and plant them pointy side up.

Eliminate over-wintering habitats within and around your garden by removing plant debris, wooden boards and stakes, etc. Take a soil test this fall if one has not been done in the past three years and amend your soil accordingly.

Cover Crop, Small Grain Approvals Expected To Approach $5 Million

Maryland farmers who signed up for the state's cover crop and emergency small grain programs will collectively receive close to $5 million in financial assistance over the next several months, according to Maryland secretary of agriculture Henry A. Virts, D.V.M.

"All told, these programs will help protect close to a quarter million acres of farmland from erosion and nutrient runoff, while providing farmers with livestock feed to help replenish stocks depleted by the drought," said Sec. Virts. "We know Maryland farmers are still reeling from the effects of this summer's drought. We hope these programs will help ease the financial and environmental repercussions it caused."

In August, Gov. Parris N. Glendening announced a $3 million emergency drought assistance program to reimburse farmers for planting cover crops to conserve soil and absorb unused crop nutrients. The initiative also provides farmers with emergency financial assistance to provide humanitarian feed or water for livestock.

The cover crop program builds upon an existing $1.5 million cover crop program already initiated on Maryland's Eastern Shore. A federal grant provides funding for the establishment of cover crops in the Monocacy, Antietam and Catoctin Creek watersheds. Under the program, Maryland farmers who plant small grains such as rye, wheat, oats, and barley in September and October to tie up residual nutrients in the soil will be reimbursed. Farmers may graze their livestock on enrolled fields or green chop the crop for winter feed.

The small grain program reimburses farmers for grain that is planted in the fall to be harvested and sold in the spring. Fertilizer use is restricted under both programs.

Although the deadline to apply for the cover crop and small grain programs has passed, financial assistance is still available for farmers with a critical need for water or hay for their livestock this fall and winter. Applications for feed and water supply assistance will continue to be accepted throughout the year at county USDA Farm Service Agency offices. Farmers may call the toll free drought assistance hotline at 1-800-638-2207 for more information.

Maryland's Small Grain Crop In Good Condition

According to Ray Garibay, state statistician, small grain conditions appear to be in good shape for all three crops as barley condition was rated 98% good to excellent, wheat 97% good to excellent, and 94% of rye was in good to excellent condition. Barley seeding appears to be moving along fairly well as 41% had been reported as such. This was the exact same level as last year's report and only eight points behind the five-year average. Wheat stands at 13% planted, behind the previous year and five-year averages. Rye seeding was at 28%, four points ahead of last year's report of 24.

Soybean harvesting was at 12%, behind the previous and five-year levels. Over half the soybean crop for Maryland has shed their leaves. Three-quarters of soybeans have turned color. Corn for grain harvesting was at 65% complete, ahead of last year's report by six points. Sorghum harvesting moved up only slightly to 20%.

Soil moisture continues to be in relatively good shape for the state as topsoil condition was rated 5% short, 79% adequate, and 16% surplus. Subsoil condition was 10% very short, 9% short, 73% adequate, and 8% surplus. Western Maryland's subsoil moisture is still in the very short category, and topsoil is primarily short to adequate.

Maryland's crop progress for the week which ended Oct. 10, listing the item and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, in that order, follow.

FOREST PRODUCTS WEEK is Oct. 17-23 in Maryland and the nation, and the Garrett County commissioners signed a proclamation this week announcing the county's participation in the week's observance. "Forests are the Future" is this year's theme, which signifies the importance of forest conservation education and the forest products industry's continued commitment to improving the environment by effectively managing woodland resources. "Our forests supply us with countless products that we use every day," said Karin Miller, executive director of the Maryland Forests Association. "Clean air, clean water, and thousands of wood products make each of our lives better. . . . It takes the cooperative efforts of landowners, forest managers, timber harvesters, industry, and government to ensure that this resource meets our needs for today without compromising the needs of future generations." Governor Parris Glendening has proclaimed the state's observance of the week, and the document he signed states in part that since the nation's founding, the forest and its products have "provided a core of living and freedom touching and inspiring each citizen with majestic beauty and practical use." For more information about the state's forestry industry, persons may call the Maryland Forests Association at 301-895-5369 or visit the web site at http://mdforests.org. Pictured above at the local proclamation signing are, left to right, Ernie Metz, Maryland Department of Natural Resources project forester; Miller; Michael Kozier, chairperson of the Garrett Forestry Board; and Commissioners Ernie Gregg and Fred Holliday. (Commissioner Wendell Beitzel is on vacation.)

NATIONAL SCHOOL BUS SAFETY DAY is Oct. 20, as proclaimed this week by the Garrett County commissioners. The observance is in conjunction with National School Bus Safety Week, which is Oct. 17-23. The document signed by the two officials states in part that pupil transportation services are necessary for the successful operation of the Garrett County school bus system, and that these services are provided to eligible students attending public schools in the county. Despite the occurrence of diverse conditions, such as inclement weather, hazardous roads, student misconduct, scheduling difficulties, and others that arise, Garrett County school bus drivers and contractors have provided consistent and outstanding service to local students, the proclamation states. The commissioners urged all citizens to wish bus driving employees well on Oct. 20. Pictured seated are Commissioners Fred Holliday and Ernie Gregg. (Commissioner Wendell Beitzel is on vacation.) Standing from left to right are Arthur Refosco, director of the county school's transportation department; Donny Glotfelty, president of the School Bus Association, and contractors/drivers Dale Evans, Bertha Green, Wayne Collier, Barbara Shaffer, and Dora White.

Public Hearing Set At SHS On Oakland Bypass

A location/design public hearing has been slated by the Maryland State Highway Administration for Thursday, Nov. 18, at Southern High School. The doors to the SHS gymnasium will open at 5:30 p.m. when maps depicting the various proposals will be on display, followed by a 20-minute formal program beginning at 6:30 p.m. that will include presentations and discussion. Citizen input via public and private testimony will be solicited throughout the evening.

Requests to speak during the testimony portion of the proceedings should be received no later than the day of the meeting in order to ensure proper scheduling of the hearing. Persons who wish to present testimony without having made a request in advance will follow those on the established list, and if there are a large number of speakers a time limit for each person may be instituted.

Brochures and forms for written comments submitted by persons not interested in providing testimony in public or in private will be available at the meeting.

The address for submittal of requests to speak and for written comments, along with full information on the meeting, appears within the public notice announcement on page C-9 of this issue of The Republican.

The environmental assessment for the proposed alternatives will be available for public inspection beginning Thursday, Nov. 4, at several locations, including the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland, Oakland's City Hall, and the Oakland shop of the State Highway Administration.

FIREFIGHTER/RESCUE PERSON OF YEAR - Michael James Hoover, a member of the Friendsville Fire Department and Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, became the youngest person ever to be named Garrett County's Fire/Rescue Person of the Year. Hoover was selected for the honor by the Garrett County Fire and Rescue Association from a number of candidates. He is pictured above receiving his award from Barbara Knippenburg of the Midland VFD, who is an instructor for the Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute. The presentation was made during the annual Oktoberfest, held by the Oakland VFD during the Autumn Glory Festival. (See story.) A photo of all the candidates for the award will appear in next week's paper, as well as the list of OVFD Firemen's Parade winners.

Roads Employees, Commissioners Ratify Three-Year Labor Contract

The Garrett County Roads Department and AFSCME (American Federation of State and County Municipal Employees) reached agreement on a new three-year labor contract, which was officially signed on Tuesday. The agreement, agreed to by both AFSCME and the Board of Garrett County Commissioners, is a business plan that will provide both parties with specific conditions of employment for the next three years.

The contract allows the county officials to retain management rights to plan, direct, and control the operations or services to be performed by employees of the roads department. The agreement also sets forth the terms, conditions, and a compensation package for collective bargaining employees of the roads department.

Through the agreement, employees will be given a wage increase for year one, two, and three of $.50 per hour. According to Monty Pagenhardt, county administrator, the focus that management officials emphasized during the negotiation process was that the county must be able to enforce work standards (to hire, promote, demote, transfer, suspend, discipline, or discharge) that are fair and equitable to all employees.

Commission chairman Ernest Gregg expressed his gratitude to both labor and management negotiation teams for bargaining in good faith to reach this settlement.

"Now that agreement has been reached on a new labor contract, the we can refocus our efforts on taking care of our roads," Gregg stated. Commissioner Frederick Holliday said he has worked hard to maintain a good working relationship with county roads employees, and stated that he, too, is pleased with the new agreement. Commissioner Wendell Beitzel also stated that he is satisfied with the arrangement.

"Organized labor representatives seemed to be really concerned that this board of county commissioners would not bargain in good faith and would

Michael Hoover Named Fire/EMS Person Of Year

Michael J. Hoover, a member of the Friendsville Volunteer Fire and Rescue Department, was named the 1999 Garrett County Fire/Rescue Person of the Year during an awards presentation held during the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department's annual Oktoberfest last Thursday. At age 20, Hoover is the youngest person to ever receive the award, which is presented by the Garrett County Volunteer Fire and Rescue Association.

Hoover was only 15 when he began his volunteer emergency service career with the fire department, the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, and as a member of the EMS Club at Northern High School. His previous awards include the Maryland Star of Life from the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems for his involvement in treating a 14-year-old victim of a hunting accident. He was also named the Denny's Restaurant/WKHJ Radio MVP for the month of September 1997.

At age 16 Hoover completed the First Responder Basic course and began Firefighter I classes. He has completed a number of intermediate and advanced courses, including: Fire/Arson Detection, Pump Operations, Hazardous Materials Operations, Firefighter II, Emergency Medical Technician Basic, and Incident Command Systems.

"Michael just turned 20 years old last month, but he handles emergency situations like a true professional," stated Terry Spear, Friendsville chief. "He never just stands around. He always jumps in and works very hard, and is always concerned about the safety of his fellow rescue workers and bystanders. He shows great courage under tough situations and is a very positive role model for other young people in the community."

Besides serving with the fire department, he continues to serve as an active member of the Northern Rescue Squad Tuesday evening crew.

Hoover, who is employed by Westmar Builders, Deep Creek Lake, as a carpenter, was married just this past summer. He and his wife Jessica reside near Friendsville.

New Our Town Theatre Courtyard Dedicated To Memory Of M. Price

Family and friends gathered at Our Town Theatre Sunday to dedicate the newly completed courtyard to the memory of Meghan Price, who was killed in a car accident last December. Ms. Price was a former student of Jane Avery's, artistic director at OTT, and had appeared in several school productions. She had achieved great success at the University of Maryland and had recently been elected president of the student body.

Those present on Sunday, including old school friends back for Autumn Glory, shared their memories of Meghan and listened to music provided by Muriel Franc. A small plaque was placed on the brick stairway in front of the theatre, and a time capsule containing mementos of her life was laid beneath the cobblestones.

Meghan played a lead role in one of Avery's high school productions titled I Never Saw Another Butterfly. The play depicted the lives of children in concentration camps during World War II, and Miss Price portrayed the role of their teacher. One of her lines in the play is what is now inscribed on the plaque at Our Town. It reads as follows:

"Memory, come tell a fairy tale about our girl who's lost and gone . . .

The world is full of loveliness,

But she was, perhaps, too lovely to stay."

The new courtyard at the theatre has already been used as a performance space and was featured on Maryland Public Television. Theatre officials noted that the entire renovation was underwritten by private donations and is not a part of the theatre's fund-raising efforts or budget.

"The project is the result of many people working

MEGHAN PRICE REMEMBERED AT OUR TOWN THEATRE — A special plaque and a time capsule in memory of Meghan Price have been placed at Our Town Theatre's new "courtyard," a cobblestone corner with a double lamppost and benches. Miss Price was active in theatre, appearing in several works directed by Jane Avery, artistic director of the theatre. The young woman was killed last December in a car wreck that also claimed the life of her grandfather, Carl Talmadge Johnson. Avery and the theatre's board of directors wished to honor her memory in some fashion, and the idea came to fruition last Sunday with a dedication ceremony in front of the theatre. See story. Standing at left in the photo is Mark Galiucci of Nature's Own Landscaping. On the steps, from the top down, are Jan and Judy Finkel, representing the Our Town Theatre board of directors, Avery, Meghan's brother Jonathan, and her parents, John "Bonny" and Karlyn Price.

GBI Awarded State Funds For Coming Year

Funding has been awarded for a second year for the Garrett Bureau of Investigation, according to Garrett County sheriff Dick Sanders, who announced receipt of notification from Michael A. Sarbanes, Governor's Office of Crime Control and Prevention. The grant, written by members of the sheriff's office and State's Attorney's Office for Garrett County, was submitted through the Board of County Commissioners to Maryland's FY 98 Drug Law Enforcement Formula Grant Program.

The amount to be received this year is $28,605. The only items not approved of the $44,500 request were one equipment item and some training requests. The local share of $9,535 is being reimbursed to the county by the Maryland State Police.

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation was informed late last year to combine the efforts of the criminal investigators from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, the Maryland State Police, and the State's Attorney's Office. For the first nine months of this year, the GBI officers have handled 399 criminal cases, with a case closure rate of 80%. In

Commissioners Told About Local Benefits Of County United Way

County United Way spokesman Harry King met with the Garrett County commissioners this week to ask that county employees be given the opportunity to donate money through payroll deductions to the United Way. King explained that donations made by Garrett Countians will remain in the county, benefiting such organizations as the Dove Center, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Salem Children's Trust, elder care entities, and other organizations.

King heads up the local County United Way, which serves an area including Garrett and Allegany counties, as well as the West Virginia counties of Grant, Hampshire, Hardy, Mineral, and Pendleton. In order to put contributions to the best use, King said, an extensive survey was conducted in 1998 by Frostburg State University. FSU officials interviewed numerous residents to determine what they saw as lacking in their area.

Four priorities were identified through the survey, King reported. They were Youth Issues, which included concerns about child abuse, followed by child day care, teenage pregnancy, youth services, after-school programs, and adoption services; Elder

Stanley Smith Jr. Visits Area To Help Publicize Family Foundation

Stanley P. Smith Jr., the organizer of the Stanley P. Smith Family Foundation for the Benefit of the People of Garrett County, visited the area this week and met with the county commissioners to report on the status of his philanthropic organization. He initiated the private, non-operating foundation on May 30, 1997, in honor of and memory of his late father, Stanley P. Smith, his late mother, Marion Q. Smith, and his late brother Warren Q. Smith.

Smith's father died in Oakland in 1972, his mother in Malaga, Spain, in 1992, and his brother in Malaga in 1993. Smith currently resides in Marbella, Spain, but also maintains an Oakland home that has been in his family since 1951.

The foundation's initial purpose is to function as a grant awarding entity. The goal is to provide funding assistance to selected Garrett County non-profit organizations meeting certain minimum eligibility requirements and whose charitable efforts directly affect, in the broadest sense, the lives of all citizens of Garrett County.

In its two years of existence, the fund has provided over $42,000 to local groups, with grants ranging from $500 to $5,000. A total of 17 organizations have thus far benefited from the foundation. Some organizations have received awards in both years.

The foundation officials currently plan to make distributions on an annual basis and at the end of its fiscal year, which comes to a close on April 30. To be eligible, an organization must be 501 (3) (c) tax exempt organization; must not be a private foundation or an affiliate of any other private foundation; must not be a direct beneficiary of any other foundation; must demonstrate how a grant will broadly benefit the people of Garrett County; must demonstrate a financial need; must complete a grant request application to the Smith Family Foundation; and must be accountable for the use of

Blaze Damages Apartment Bldg. In Friendsville

A fire believed to have been started by a 3-year-old playing with a cigarette lighter caused an estimated $25,000 damage to an apartment building in Friendsville Sunday afternoon.

Volunteer fire fighters from seven area fire departments, along with the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, were summoned at 2:55 p.m. to respond to the Guardian Apartments at 949 Old River Road. Heavy smoke was coming from Apartment A-3 upon arrival of the first units.

According to a report from the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office, the fire began in a closet located in the apartment occupied by the Keith A. House family. House said that he smelled something burning and went to investigate. He discovered a fire in the closet just outside the master bedroom and then called 911. He attempted to fight the fire and received minor burns to his hands and upper torso. It was learned that the 3-year-old child had been playing with PHILANTHROPIST STANLEY SMITH VISITS COMMISSIONERS — Over $42,000 has come into Garrett County over the past two years because of the contributions of one man and his family's foundation. Stanley Smith Jr., pictured above center, organized the Stanley P. Smith Family Foundation for the Benefit of the People of Garrett County in May 1997 and since that time, 17 local non-profit organizations have received grants from the foundation ranging from $500 to $5,000. Smith talked with the county commissioners this week to further publicize the availability of applications for those organizations meeting eligibility requirements. See story. Pictured from left are Commissioner Wendell Beitzel, Patrick Conroy, Mr. Smith, Kimberly Conroy, and Commissioners Ernest Gregg and Frederick Holliday.

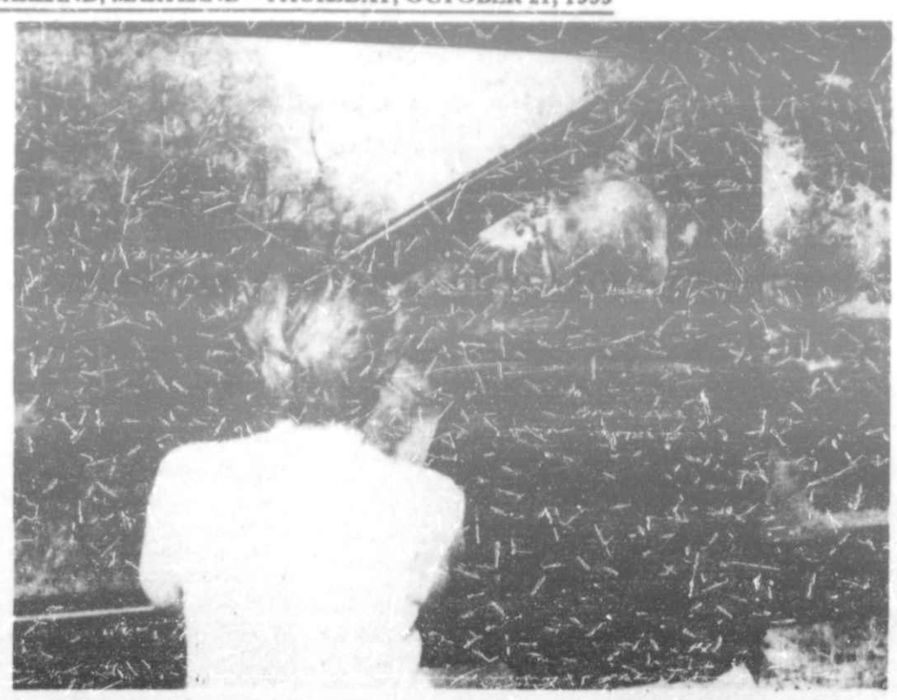
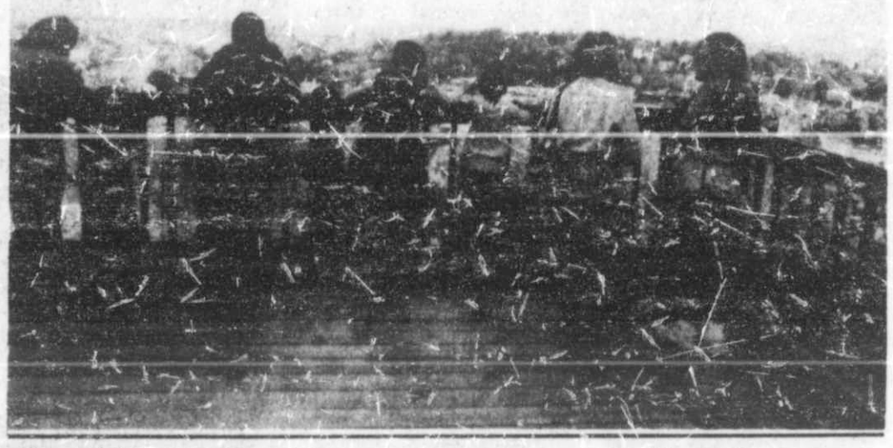
GCSO Nets Grant For Purchase Of Protective Gear



The Garrett County Sheriff's Office has received a federal grant of $2,560 that will be applied toward the purchase of bullet-resistant vests. The funding comes from the U.S. Department of Justice's Bureau of Justice Assistance, which awarded over $78,000 to law enforcement agencies throughout Maryland recently under the Bulletproof Vest Partnership Grant Act.

"We're using the money to buy eight bullet-resistant vests for use by patrol deputies and detectives with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation," Major Gary Berkebile of the sheriff's office said. "The grant covers half of the cost of purchase, and we're very fortunate to receive this assistance. The new vests will replace some of our current vests that are getting old."



"All Americans have the right to feel safe in their homes, neighborhoods, and communities," commented Senator Barbara Mikulski as she announced the federal grant, which she said will help "law enforcement agencies strengthen the federal-local policing partnership that is working to decrease crime by putting more cops on the streets."

Senator Paul Sarbanes concurred, saying, "There is a pressing need to ensure that our local police have the essential equipment necessary to combat crime and ensure safety for our citizens. These funds will provide for the purchase of bulletproof vests, which are important to enhance officer safety and state of mind."

The Bulletproof Vest Partnership Grant requires recipients to match at least 50 percent of the cost of each vest. The grants are available to law enforcement units in the 50 states and U.S. territories, and it is mandated that at least half of the funds be provided to communities of less than 100,000 residents.

SCENIC VIEWS HIGH AND LOW were enjoyed by hundreds of visitors to Oakland on Wednesday of the Sesquicentennial Celebration. The Mountain Fresh Producers' Pavilion and the new Asa M. McCain Jr. Walking Bridge were the sites of much activity, as a chuck wagon by the Deep Creek Lioness Club fed folks for 15 cents and the Dry Run Mennonite Church set up a variety of homemaking displays. Guests were also given the rare opportunity of riding a shuttle bus up to the town's overlook. The climb is steep and is almost always closed to vehicles, so the shuttles were well used that day. All ages took advantage of the ride, with several shown above as they gaze over the 150-year-old town. Shown below is an unidentified couple as they take in a new angle of the Queen Anne train station, now visible from the bridge, which was officially opened on Wednesday morning. Feasibility Of Performing Arts Center To Be Discussed At GLAF Annual Mtg.

The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) annual membership meeting will be held on Monday, Oct. 25, at 7:30 p.m. in the Bausch & Lomb Gallery of Garrett Community College, McHenry. The featured speaker will be Paul C. Sprenger, noted attorney, philanthropist, and member of the GLAF board of directors.

Sprenger is to speak on the topic of an indoor performing arts center in Garrett County. Noting that a project of this magnitude would benefit all of Garrett County and could be used by many local organizations, GLAF has supported and the Sprenger-Lang Foundation has funded a feasibility study, which investigated possible uses, costs, potential affiliates, and other aspects of the undertaking, according to Beth Johnson, GLAF executive director.

Uses for such a structure would not be limited to performances, she noted, but could also include ceremonies, receptions, exhibits, meetings, classes, and more.

Opportunity will be given for questions on this topic.

The agenda for the evening also includes seasonal GLAF reports and elections of nominees to the board of directors.

All interested persons are welcome to attend. (Only GLAF members, which includes all donors and volunteers, are eligible to vote.)

Tall Tale Fest Features Nearly 40 Young "Liars"

Nearly 40 elementary school children took turns telling tales Saturday morning at the annual Autumn Glory Tall Tale Festival, held in the fellowship hall of St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland. Dr. Gail Herman coordinated the event, which is a fund-raiser for the AAUW (American Association of University Women), as well as an extension of the Garrett County public school system's enrichment program for students.

"The structure of the stories told by the students is important to note," Herman said. "They are learning how to create stories, and how to understand them. It's a very important exercise."

Herman has been engaged this year by the local school system to work with the kindergarten through second grade students in a school enrichment program. Herman's services have been provided to the students through a Maryland State Department of Education Governor's Gifted and Talented Incentive Grant. She said the number of participating students in this year's Tall Tale Festival was a record, and was partially a result of the enrichment program. She noted that the program was designed by Dr. Donald Forrester, director of elementary education in Garrett County.

The participating students, their stories, and their prizes were as follows:

Claire Bishop, Alexis Markwood, Angel Rasel, Courtney Strubin, and McKenzie Lakin Wotring told Johnny Appleseed and the Ogre and won the prize for Best Synchronization.

Christopher Margroff and Ian Welch told The Cool Dude and won for Best Original Story. Jordyn Livengood and Chloe Anderson told The Talking Sea Animals and won for the Best Original Writing. Cory Murphy, Nick Sharps, Kelly Bean, and Paige Carr told The Headless Horseman and won for the Best Retelling of a Published Work. Robert McEwen told There's a Chicken on the Porch and won for the Most Believable.

Tyler Ewing and Willard Ashby told The Tale of The Ghostly Train and won the Most Creative prize. Morgan Anderson, Sarah Storck, and Lauren Neville told the story Whitney Learns a Lesson and won for Best Expression and Voice. Stacy Sanders, Rose Jackson, and Megan Viar won for the Best Group Performance with their telling of The Enormous Ear of Corn, and Amanda Griffin won for Best Story with her rendition of Penny, the Chicken Duck.

The Best Overall award and Most Humorous went to Hannah Gnegy, who told the story of Joe.

Ryan DeWitt and Daniel Carr won for Best Vocal Characterizations with their story of Dribble, and Jennifer Lyall and Emma Ringer won the prize for Best Use of Props with their tale of Casey, the Clarinet Catfish. Maxwell Liller was given the prize for Best Effort for his telling of The Real Story of the Three Little Pigs, and Cameron Michaels and Sara Harvey won for Best Audience Participation in their tale of The Too Small Pup.

Paige Fitzwater and Delanie Gilbert told the story of Cowboy Jack and won for Most Entertaining, and Marshall Liller told the story of The Pirates and Eight Boys to win the Most Exaggerated award. Kim Stephens told the tale of How the Giraffe Got a Long Neck and won for Best Sound Effects, and Matt Gorley won for Most Dramatic with his rendition of Aliens Fry Boy's Brain: An Urban Legend.

The "graveyard girls," a visiting group of students, told Barking Up the Wrong Tree and won for Scariest.

A number of local businesses donated prizes for the event, which were handed out to each participating student. Herman said the money raised in the event went toward the fulfillment of a local AAUW college scholarship, and that the proceeds did satisfy the amount needed. She also noted that the participating students did not have to pay an entry fee this year because an anonymous donor covered that cost.

"It was very successful, and so much fun," Herman said.

The results of the adults' Tall Tale Fest will be published next week.

OTT Announces Change In Play Production Dates

The Our Town Theatre production of the play The Uninvited, which was scheduled for Oct. 28, 29, and 30, plus the first weekend in November, has now been changed to Nov. 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, and 13. All performances will begin at 8 p.m.

"We hated to change our dates," said Jane Avery, artistic director of Our Town. "But the theatre was so booked up with activities for the Sesquicentennial Celebration that we simply haven't had enough time for set construction or rehearsal."

Avery said most of the patrons who had made reservations for the October weekend have been notified of the change. Persons who had reservations but were not contacted should call the theatre at 301-334-5640.

Care, specifically in the areas of prescription medication assistance, elder day care, and blood supplies; Strengthening Families, including the need for affordable counseling, family violence prevention, assistance with rent and utilities payments, food and clothing, and disaster relief; and Overcoming Disabilities, with concern about mental health assistance for people with mental and/or physical disabilities.

When these priorities were identified, United Way responded to them with specific remedies, including education seminars with families, a scholarship program which gave 257 "at-risk" girls, ages 5 to 17, an opportunity to participate in Girl Scouts, and 28 children were placed in adoptive homes. In Elder Care, United Way joined with the Western Maryland Health System to provide medications to people unable to afford prescriptions, and the premature institution of 57 elderly people was prevented through the availability of adult day care services in both Garrett and Allegany counties.

King distributed a handout that outlined these findings and the United Way's response to them in the past two years. He also displayed the pledge cards that are available for payroll deduction plans, and announced that the local public education system has agreed to distribute them to all school employees this year.

The cards list all counties served by County United Way, and the contributor may check the county where he or she wishes the donation to go. The donor may also chose a specific funding area, such as Youth Issues, which would benefit organizations such as Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Salem Trust, or the Boy Scouts; Strengthening Families, which would include the Dove Center, Red Cross, or Western Maryland Food Bank; Elder Care, which would benefit the area's adult day care facilities or help local seniors obtain prescription medicines; or Overcoming Disabilities, which would help the Garrett County Lighthouse, among other related entities.

King said about 84 cents of every dollar goes directly to the charities. The remaining 16 cents is used for the administration of the program. Currently, the entire region is managed from his office in Cumberland, but King said his goal is to establish a Garrett County advisory board to help distribute the funds locally. The group would include volunteers who would raise money and others who would distribute it.

King asked that the commissioners consider offering the pledge cards to all county employees, and Chairman Ernest Gregg said the board would take it under consideration.

Any business can obtain the pledge cards and take part in County United Way. For more information, persons may call 301-359-9697 or 301-722-2700.

GOD'S GARDEN

God looked around his garden
And found an empty place.
He then looked down upon the earth,
And saw your tired face.

He put His arms around you
And lifted you to rest.
God's garden must be beautiful-
He always takes the best.

He knew that you were suffering.
He knew you were in pain.
He knew that you would never Get well on earth again.

He saw the road was getting rough
And the hills were hard to climb
So He closed your weary eyelids
And whispered 'Peace be thine.'

It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you didn't go alone,
For part of us went with you
The day God called you home.

OCYF Changes Name To Reflect The GC Community Partnership

The Local Management Board has announced that the Office for Children, Youth and Families has changed its name to the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc. The name change was made to reflect the partnership that exists between community members, agencies and elected officials on behalf of Garrett County children and families, according to the board.

"We are really excited about the name change," commented Louise Richards, LMB chairperson. "It will make it much easier for people to understand the organization. We hope the change will help us get more people involved in solving the problems that are facing children and families in our community."

The agency's mission has changed since its creation in 1991, explained Bob Stephens, director the Partnership for Children and Families. Originally created to provide interagency family preservation services, the agency was very successful in bringing programs to Garrett County that were previously not available, he said.

"Since we now have a number of agencies that provide in-home services for families, we can now focus our attention on ensuring that the services in the county are top-notch. The Garrett County Partnership now provides planning, monitoring and evaluation services for community programs that work together to help local families help themselves," Stephens stated.

The Partnership for Children and Families is composed of directors from the local health department, Department of Social Services, Community Action Committee, Child Care Administration, Economic Development, Department of Juvenile Justice, and the superintendent of schools. In addition, there are six citizen members who are appointed by the Garrett County commissioners.

"Without the partnership we would have missed out on many opportunities to develop local services," said Rodney Glotfelty, health officer and Partnership member. "Our Healthy Families Garrett County program would not be in existence today if it were not for the Partnership (formerly DCYF) and its staff, who worked with several of my staff to develop and secure funds for the program.

"The Healthy Families program alone serves several hundred families a year and brings over ½ million dollars into the county. Because of this program, children will be healthier, safer and enter school ready to learn. In the future we will notice a significant improvement in outcomes for children," Glotfelty said.

"The strength of the Partnership is what each of the participants bring to it," commented Susan Athey-

Bicker Earns Highest Honor As Eagle Scout

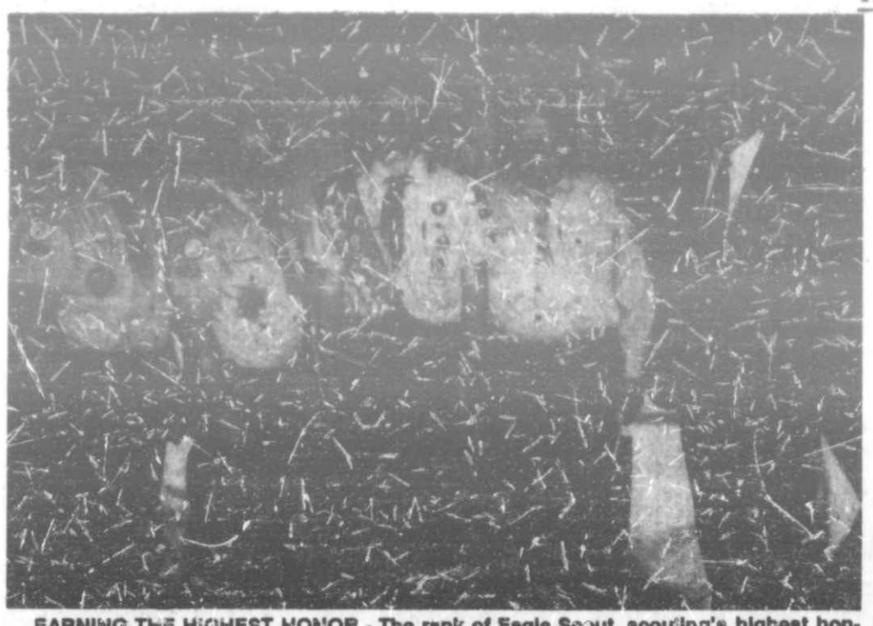
Donovan David Bicker, a member of Boy Scout Troop 49 in the Grantsville area, recently earned the rank of Eagle Scout—the highest honor one can earn in the scouting program. The award ceremony was held at the Bethesda Church of the Brethren, which sponsors the troop. Cindy Fisher, Troop 49 committee chairman, made the welcoming remarks and introduced Bicker. Following the flag salute and the Pledge of Allegiance, Scoutmaster Allen VanSickle led the opening ceremony, as the Scouts of Troop 49 lit candles.

The "Trail to Eagle," presented by VanSickle and Ron Folk, assistant scoutmaster, traced Bicker's growth as he advanced from Cub through the ranks to become an Eagle Scout. Bicker was then escorted to the Eagle's Nest.

As speaker for the ceremony, Del. George Edwards presented Bicker with the Eagle Scout Award and the Maryland state flag. Bicker presented the Mother's Eagle pin and the Father's Eagle tie tack to his parents.

Fisher read and presented the letter of congratulations from President Clinton and the first lady. Al Crall, unit commissioner for Troop 49, read and presented the letter from the National Boy Scouts of America, signed by Jere B. Ratcliffe, Chief Scout executive.

The Eagle Scout Challenge, read and presented by Eagle Scout Aaron Fisher, was followed by Bicker's Eagle Response—a reminiscence of his scouting years. Bicker then gave "thank you" gifts to VanSickle, Folk, Fisher, and committee secretary Dotty Folk and committee treasurer Sue VanSickle.



An active scouter sharing in many activities, Bicker has regularly participated in troop meetings, camping trips, fund-raisers, Scouting for Food, litter pick-up, and other Eagle Scout projects. He attended scout camp at Camp Potomac, the National Boy Scout Jamboree at Fort A.P. Hill, Va., and the Philmont Scout Ranch, Cimarron, N.M.

Bicker has served as quartermaster, scribe, assistant patrol leader, and assistant senior patrol leader, in addition to earning 29 merit badges.

His Eagle Scout project consisted of refurbishing a long and neglected nature trail at New Germany State Park, and marking and naming points of interest along the trail. This trail—the Nemacolin Trail—is named for the leader of the Youghiogheny tribe of the Shawnee Indian group, who named these mountains as hunting grounds.

Now an assistant scoutmaster with Troop 49, Bicker is employed at Phenix Technologies Inc., Accident. He is the third Eagle Scout of Troop 49.

The son of Karen Clevenger and David Bicker, Donovan Bicker has two sisters, Beth Bicker and Barb Butler. He and his family reside in the Grantsville area.

Advisory Group Slates Meeting

The second meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education's Advisory Committee on Education (ACE) is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 26, at 7 p.m. in Room 315 of the Continuing Education building at Garrett Community College. The public is invited.

Meeting topics will include revised career development curriculum, new technology grants, and the Gear Up grant.

Man Convicted Of Child Abuse To Serve Time

A McHenry man convicted of child abuse, sexual offense, and assault will serve 18 months of jail time, according to a press release from Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney for Garrett County. John Samuel Barone, 36, was sentenced Thursday in Garrett County Circuit Court by Judge Fred Thayer to three concurrent sentences of five years for the crimes.

The sentences were then suspended except for the 18-month term, which is to be served in the local jail. After being released, Barone will be on supervised probation for five years and will have to register as a sexual offender, according to Welch.

Barone was charged by officers of the Garrett Bureau of Investigation (GBI) in February after an investigation revealed that he had engaged in inappropriate physical contact with a juvenile. In an August hearing, Barone entered guilty pleas to the charges, at which time a pre-sentence investigation was initiated.

In a separate case, a Cumberland man was sentenced for the crime of felony theft. John Frank Sarver, 21, received from Thayer a term of 18 months in the Department of Corrections. The judge then suspended all but six months of that term, which had already been served by the defendant. He was put on three years of supervised probation, according to Welch.

Among the conditions of his probation, Sarver will have to complete the Teen Challenge Program and make monetary restitution to the victim in this case.

Sarver and four co-defendants were charged with burglary and theft by officers of the GBI after Sarver provided information of their involvement in the burglaries of two Vista Ridge Road cabins. Numerous items of stolen property were subsequently recovered from three locations in Allegany County, Welch reported.

An Oakland man entered a guilty plea to the charge of distributing marijuana. Todd William Riley, 24, was then sentenced by Thayer to four years in jail. The judge suspended three years of the term. Riley is to serve the remainder of the sentence in the local jail. Upon his release, he will be placed on probation for four years, Welch reported.

Officers of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force arrested Riley after he apparently sold marijuana to an informant in June.

Stephen Ray Bolding, 35, Oakland, was sentenced in circuit court last week by Thayer to one year in the Garrett County Jail. Bolding pleaded guilty to the charge of escape. The defendant apparently failed to return to the jail on May 8 after being granted work release on that day. He was found by sheriff's deputies two days later in the Creilin area and was taken back into custody without incident, Welch noted.

Bolding was in jail serving a one-year sentence for a DWI (driving while intoxicated) conviction. The sentence for the escape will be served consecutively to the DWI term.

After finding Craig Edward Stanton guilty of probation violation, Thayer reimposed the remaining 174 days of a one-year sentence originally incurred by Stanton in 1997. The defendant was apparently placed on probation after serving over six months in jail for a marijuana distribution conviction, but he fled in February, according to the report.

Burglary Report Results In Arrest

An Oakland man was arrested when Oakland Police responded to a burglary report at midnight on October 13.

When Officer S. Fratz arrived on the scene of the private residence, he found that the victim had been away from the residence and returned home to find Jason L. Lewis, 23, Oakland, present. The resident detained the suspect until the police officer arrived.

Lewis was charged with burglary and trespassing and lodged in the Garrett County Jail on a $500 bond.

Trespassing Arrest

Jeremy H. Shockey, 19, and Randolph L. Harvey, 18, both of Oakland, were arrested by Oakland Police on October 13 on charges of trespassing/failure to obey a lawful order of a law enforcement officer made to prevent a disturbance to the public peace, and an attempt to elude uniformed police by fleeing on foot. In addition, a civil citation for under age drinking was issued.

Investigating officer Pfc. S. Fratz reported that while on a traffic stop at 2:25 a.m. in the parking lot of the old milk plant along Route 39, he received a complaint that two suspicious subjects had been seen enter the milk plant, which is owned by Garrett County Lighthouse and is posted as private property.

Fratz said he approached the plant, shined a flash light into the building, and observed two subjects running towards Lighthouse. A foot chase ensued.

Accompanied by an employee of Safe Harbor, Fratz reportedly chased the two subjects into the woods behind Lighthouse. Harvey was found lying on the ground and was taken into custody. Shockey was arrested a short time later.

Deputy Zimmerman of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Tfc. LeMay of the Maryland State Police, McHenry barrack, assisted Fratz.

Shockey was held on a $500 bond and Harvey was released on his own recognizance.

Clarification

In the October 7 edition of The Republican a picture appeared of damaged grave markers with a cutline stating that the vandals had been ap[illegible]hended. Those apprehended should have been noted as "allegedly" responsible for the damage.

Three Injured In Accident On Garrett Hwy.

A two-vehicle accident on Garrett Highway at Sand Flat Road on October 16, resulted in injuries to three people. The incident occurred around 6 p.m., according to reports filed by Maryland State Police at the McHenry Barrack.

Police said that Christopher C. Whitehead, 43, Savage, was traveling southbound on Garrett Highway and turned left into a parking lot without yielding the right of way to a northbound vehicle, operated by Theodore K. Swoger, 54, McDonald, Pa. Whitehead's vehicle struck the vehicle operated by Swoger.

The collision injured two passengers in the Whitehead vehicle — Charles L. Whitehead, 76, and Geneva R. Dick, 74 — and Swoger.

All three were transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released.

Fails To Yield

Heather L. DeWitt, 18, Oakland, was charged by police with failure to yield the right of way following a collision on Main Street in Deer Park Monday afternoon.

Police reported that DeWitt, operating a 1988 Chrysler New Yorker, exited a private driveway along Main Street and pulled into the path of a 1992 Ford Ranger driven by Kenneth W. Collins.

Collins allegedly swerved to the left and "braked" to avoid a collision but struck the right front fender of DeWitt's vehicle.

DeWitt was taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. Southern Rescue Squad and Deer Park VFD also responded to the scene.

Theft Reported

Cpl. David W. Broadwater responded to a report of theft in the Grantsville area. Following investigation, the officer stated that sometime between 4 p.m. on Oct. 14 and 8:30 a.m. on Oct. 15, unknown suspects removed a door from 1972 John Deere Backhoe, belonging to the Garrett County Sanitary District.

True Greatness...

It was a long wait at the Durst Funeral Home this week for persons wanting to pay their respects to the family of Allen C. Murray. Those who did not know Allen but happened to have been driving by the funeral home during those visitations would have thought that the deceased must have been one of the most important persons in the community. They would have surmised that he was probably the head of a major company, an elected official perhaps, probably a primary leader in his church, and most assuredly one of those people who was a member of numerous organizations, boards of directors, special commissions, and planning groups.

Most of them would be surprised to learn that Allen was really none of those things. Yes, he did serve one term as mayor of Mtn. Lake Park many years ago; yes, he was a member of the Rotary Club and the American Legion; and yes, he was a retired member of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, for which he served as chief. But none of these positions, individually or collectively, should have generated the throngs of people at the funeral home and at yesterday's funeral. The president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association, who has been at many, many funerals, said he has never witnessed such a response. He said he wished he had known Allen.

No, the masses came to pay their respects not because of the positions Allen held, or did not hold, in the community, but simply because of the way he lived his life and how he, in some way, had touched their lives. Despite a rather gruff exterior, coupled with extremely "colorful" language, Allen's heart was as big as he was. He spent nearly all of his spare time, particularly since his retirement, quietly doing things for other people. He went out of his way, on a daily basis, to see what he could do to make someone's life a little easier. If someone he knew was in the hospital, he would always be one of the first to visit and offer to do whatever he could to help. He often drove people to Morgantown, Cumberland, and even Baltimore for medical treatment. He faithfully checked on elderly people, in particular, to see if they needed anything and just to make sure they were all right. He never sought recognition for his innumerable acts of kindness.

He served his country in the military, and was also an outstanding husband and father, as is evidenced by the character of his five sons.

We rarely utilize this column as a eulogy for a specific person. Certainly every single week there are those in our obituary columns who were also very good people. But our purpose here is not just to recognize and honor one particularly fine human being whose life on this earth is now over, but more importantly to reiterate that true greatness does not lie in how many positions we hold, how wealthy we are, how many meetings we attend, and how many plaques and citations are hanging on our walls. True greatness lies, very simply, in humble, faithful, self-less service to others.

Allen Murray was a great man.

To the Editor:

First I want to apologize for not getting this in the paper earlier, and that was my fault. The Accident Community Planning Group sincerely appreciated everyone's help on this event.

The Accident Community Planning Group would like to thank everyone who participated in the "Back to School Block Party" held in August at the Accident Volunteer Fire Department.

Special thank-you to the Accident Volunteer Fire Department, Sheriff and Maryland State Police, Garrett County Health Department, Diana Lee for the presentation on highway safety, and AmeriCorps members.

Sincerely,
Virginia Fike
President

To the Editor:

The angels broke the mold when Al was born, and society's rules of conformity, correctness, and decorum suggest there won't be another like him any time soon.

He was a character, for sure, mainly because he had so much of it. His thousands of deeds of kindness will be remembered by some, but his larger-than-life personality that warmed our hearts will be remembered by all. Al truly was a man of action. His good works—not his words—represent the real essence of his being.

I knew him only casually, as a friend, and I feel honored. I wish I had known him better. How blessed are those who knew him intimately—his wonderful wife, his sons, and their families. What a legacy he has built for them!

And so, with his passing, I join with the rest of Al's "little a.o.b.s" to commend his spirit back to the angels who brought him to us. I suspect he'll create some excitement in the life hereafter, as well. I hope so.

Ben Ridder

Editor's note: The Al in Mr. Ridder's letter is Allen Murray, who died suddenly on Saturday.

To the Editor:

Now that the whirlwind of activities has settled a bit, I am reminded of Frederick, Leo Leoni's children's story about a mouse who has saved up all sorts of precious memories to carry him through the doldrums of winter. The past few weeks have given me a bounty of emotional sustenance; I have many things to be thankful for, and I'd like to share my appreciation with all of you.

A couple of weeks ago David and Irene Eyer, along with the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, treated approximately 100 Garrett County high school students and their chaperons to a riveting production of the ballet Dracula. Through this captivating experience, my students gained an incredible amount of cultural enlightenment and appreciation for the athletics as well as the aesthetics of ballet. Mr. and Mrs. Eyer and GLAF (in particular, Mrs. Beth Johnson), thank you so much for purchasing our tickets and helping with other expenses as well as reservations. Without your generosity several of my students would not have been able to attend this powerful and beautiful presentation.

Thanks are also in order to the Garrett County Arts Council. I treasure the accolade of Friend of the Arts and feel that I share the honor with august company, including the dynamic board of directors at Our Town Theatre. The presentation by Steve Schlosnagle at the meeting with the county commissioners touched me, once again overwhelming me with the blessings I have received by living in Garrett County.

Last Friday, Our Town Theatre literally took our show Tintypes on the road. Thanks to cooperation of Mayor Asa McCain and the town police (especially John Sines), we were able to produce this experimental theatrical experience. A heartfelt thanks to the cast of 36, all of whom were wonderful to work with, and the Garrett County Historical Society and the Ruth Enlow Library, along with numerous individuals for their information and support.

Finally, thanks to you, The Republican, for the information that you provided for Tintypes, as well as all of the support that you have given to O.T.T. Your strong coverage of the arts over the years has helped to build enthusiastic audiences for all types of artistic events. Kudos to you!

Sincerely yours,

To the Editor:

For 20 of my 22 years of life I have called Garrett County home, specifically Accident. Whenever I meet new people, on the rare occasion that they have heard of Accident, they always comment on how beautiful the area is or how safe and relaxing the environment is to visit. Yes, I can attest to the stunning changing of seasons in Garrett County and, as a product of the Garrett County school system, I am able to confirm that I grew up in a "safe" atmosphere. I was never threatened by the violence of guns or knives; instead I was assaulted by something much worse. Residents of Garrett County, wake up! Never in my life have I been confronted with so much hate, racism, and old Confederate values as in Garrett County. Understand that this sort of mentality destroys psyches and rips spirits.

When I decided to write this letter, I thought about doing so anonymously. Then I realized that it was completely impossible for me to do so without my identity being known. I grew up as the only Asian in my town, my school, and my family. With that hint in mind, I know many of you readers have guessed who I am. In your eyes I was seen as "oriental," or, in your words "a china doll." Even I, as the recipient of the comments, never realized how condescending and racist these words were until I went away to college. The term "oriental" is never to be used to describe a human being, only inanimate objects. Oriental is equivalent to the outdated and racist term colored." I probably would be appalled to discover how many residents of Garrett County use one or both of those terms in their regular conversations.

Garrett County's homogeneous population is something that can not be changed. We can not force people of color to move here, but what we can change is the pervasive attitudes of prejudice that have been accepted for far too long. Garrett County needs, requires, a healthy dose of multicultural sensitivity training and awareness. I can see how the older generations may lack in this aspect of culture, but there is no reason why the next generation remains so ignorant. I am embarrassed to see my own brother acknowledge racist, and even white supremacist, values. I always thought that, of anyone, my brother would understand the plight that people of color undergo. Not true; instead he proudly displays Confederate flags in his truck and utters racist comments. His actions and words pierce through my heart like spears and prove that my own family denies my intercultural existence.

I must admit that I was never physically accosted in my 13 years of school in Garrett County, though I can honestly admit that I received my fair share of strange looks and ignorant comments. Growing up I had no one to turn to to validate my feelings on being Korean in a totally and completely white society. What made matters worse was the fact that our school system had absolutely no programs in place to educate students in these matters. I believe that I have always been an advocate for the Garrett County school system. While I was a student I did all that I could to improve the system in place in order to help those who would follow me. However, all of my focuses were academically centered. I never thought of jumping boundaries to request and fight for cultural awareness. With the new millennium approaching, there is absolutely NO reason why our students, our residents of Garrett County, need to be ignorant any longer. Garrett County is no longer the hidden country escape. With the infiltration of so many people with various backgrounds from so many different places, we need to establish ourselves not as the uneducated, rural people that we have been stereotyped as, but instead as an educated, empowered community with a sensitivity for all walks of life. If parents are unaware of these cultural issues, how can they instruct and educate their own children? I believe that the Garrett County Board of Education must assume this issue and give it full attention.

For many of you reading this letter to the editor — if you have made it this far — you probably think that this is just a tirade. Instead, for me it is a plea. I have been asked if I would ever move back to Garrett County. I can honestly say that I love to visit, but I would never move back. I would never feel comfortable. I am tired of being the "different" one, and I am tired of the stares. Just recently a good friend of mine told me that she advised her neighbors (a couple about to adopt an Asian infant) that if they adopted the child, they should never raise the child in Garrett County because I had a hard time. I did not have as hard a time as some growing up in Garrett County, but I sympathize and empathize with all people of color in our area. Garrett County is not kind to us. The subtle racism is so passive aggressive it makes me want to scream. It is time to acknowledge the problem and let us face it head on!

I would love to believe that racism could be eradicated on a global scale. I know such a future prospect seems so unattainable, but such an endeavor has to start locally. Please remember that we share one world; to make it peaceful we must treat each other as we wish to be treated.

Lastly, I apologize for anyone I may have offended or embarrassed. On the other hand, I am not sorry for my message.

Sincerely,
Amber Close

FOOD ON THE TABLE

Perhaps you heard the news last week, as I did, about the problem of chronic hunger in our land of plenty. Chronic hunger is worst in the west and southwest where, in some states, rates run higher than 15% of the population. Even in the good states there are still seven to ten percent of the population who, day in and day out, do not have enough food to eat.

The chronic hungry are not starving. They just don't get enough to eat. If someone's daily maintenance diet is 1,200 calories, as an example, they are getting 1,000 calories a day. The deficit shows up as poor health, stunted growth, decrease of mental acuity, rapidity of aging, and low energy.

While that news was being reported, there was a simultaneous account of increased obesity among the poor. The second spectre is severe enough that last year the WIC program (food subsidies for women, infants and children) issued a statement that their program is not responsible for increased obesity among the poor.

At first glance these two different reports seem to contradict each other. My experience as a pastor, as a member of a local human services board of directors, and as an observer of the modern scene leads me to believe that the reports are not contradictory at all. They not only complement each other, they are also mutually confirming.

Most Americans eat too much. Some Americans eat too little. Very few Americans eat well. I don't have statistics to substantiate my conclusion, but my guess is that the proportion of fat, sugar, and salt in the American diet has increased enormously during the past 50 years. Fat and sugar increase the calorie count without improving nutrition. Salt helps the body retain water, which increases weight, but again, without improving nutrition.

In a word, Americans are victims of the "combo" meal, typically a hamburger, french fries, and a soft drink: high in fat, sugar, and salt and low in nutrition. It is not just that the fast food restaurants sell billions and billions of such meals, but they have also established the paradigm of what food is in America. If we sit down to the table and do not get our dose of fat, sugar, and salt, then we do not think we have really eaten.

One reason that poor people are more the victims of the "combo" meal than their affluent compatriots is that poor people are more likely to work in fast food restaurants. That is where a high percentage of the so-called "entry level" jobs are. Not only do employees of fast food chains receive part of their compensation in the form of the free meals they eat, but they also learn from their place of work what food is supposed to be.

Compare the "combo" meal with the poor person's platter of 50 years ago. At that time the food of the poor, as often as not, consisted of cornbread (or some other whole grain quickbread), beans of some kind, and cooked greens. Such meals were as nourishing as they were cheap.

The staff of our local social services agency has explained to board members time and time again, "Today poor people don't eat beans; they don't know how to prepare them." How could they know? Their model of what people eat is the "combo" meal.

I find the assertion "Poor people don't eat beans" both sad and funny. What we called soup beans are part of my heritage. As a child, I begged for them when I visited my Great Grandma Stahl. The smell of beans cooking, the taste of them, and the coziness of the coal fire over which they were cooked are vivid and happy memories for me. To me they were a treat. Somebody forgot to tell me they are the food of the poor.

We need to change the way we eat. If we let the fast food paradigm dominate our diets, then as a people we shall be hungry and obese all at once. We may need to eat either more or less, but surely almost all of us need to eat better.

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Representative Roscoe G. Bartlett requested that it be published in this column.

Dear Representative Bartlett:

When the House considers the Student Results Act (HR 21), the next Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) reauthorization bill on October 20, I urge you to retain language to ensure that girls succeed in school. I believe efforts to achieve high academic standards in K-12 education will fail unless education reform focuses on the varying educational needs and learning styles of all students. Congress must meet the educational needs of both girls and boys so that the adults of tomorrow will be prepared to compete in the ever-changing global economy of the 21st century.

When the House considers the Student Results Act, please vote to include both current gender equity provisions and additional language from the Educating America's Girls Act of 1999 (HR 2505). The Student Results Act should:

To the Editor:

The festivities celebrating Oakland's Sesquicentennial and Autumn Glory made me proud to be a member of this community. The hard work and dedication of all those involved in planning the events are commendable. It is evident that Mayor Asa McCain and the Oakland Town Council have a keen interest in keeping Oakland's history alive. Projects that stand as testimony to this include the Deer Park Hotel gazebo, the replica of the Oakland Hotel bridge, the installation of turn-of-the-century street lights, the purchase of the Oakland Train Station, and the location of the Historical Society Museum on Second Street. Mayor McCain also played an active role in establishing Our Town Theatre which is housed in what was formerly an Episcopal church on Center Street.

Because of all the attention focused on preserving Oakland's historical integrity, I can't understand why the Oakland Mayor and Town Council is considering the demolition of one of Oakland's most unique and historic structures. Built in 1947 by "Pop" Gonder, the wormy chestnut log dining room on Second Street was the only section that survived a devastating fire in 1994 that destroyed two downtown buildings, and was subsequently donated to the town. The massive stone fireplace was for many years the largest fireplace in the state of Maryland. The hand-hewn ceiling beams came from a viaduct in Cumberland, and rail traffic was suspended for more than two hours while the beams were put into place. Another unique feature that exemplifies the meticulous craftsmanship of the dining room is the design of the hardwood floor, which was patterned after a German rug. There are also four individual "courting booths" along the east wall of the room. During the construction, the builders and crafters were not permitted to use any electric tools. Even the cement for the fireplace and courting booths was mixed by hand. Unfortunately, the room has suffered some water damage. However, local contractors and architects have rendered favorable opinions regarding the repair and restoration of the structure.

Several individuals have expressed an interest in acquiring the property for a variety of uses. Recently, Steve Schlosnagle, president of the Garrett County Arts Council, was interested in previewing the property to determine the feasibility of the location as a venue for fine and performing arts. When he contacted City Hall about seeing the dining room, he was told no key was available (?). If the GCAC is indeed interested in the property, perhaps the Mayor and Town Council should redirect their energy toward facilitating an acquisition, rather than a demolition. Surely the presence of a viable entity that preserves history and promotes the arts would be of greater benefit to the community than an empty lot!

I may have to get together with some tea-sipping friends to discuss this issue. Would you care to join us, Don?

Sincerely,
Jann Dehus

Dear Mrs. Dehus:

That depends, at least partially, on what kind of tea you will be serving.

JAKOB THE LIAR

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:54 - Released 9/24/99

There is no doubt about it: Robin Williams needs a success. After his Oscar-winning performance in 1997's Good Will Hunting, he has filled up the last two years with the uninspired Flubber, the sappy What Dreams May Come, and the much-sappier Patch Adams. With his title role in Jakob The Liar, he may win back some points from his critics. The wildly unpredictable actor is able to keep the multiple personality disorder to a minimum and establish a real character, with some real feeling.

Directed and adapted for the screen by Hungarian-born Peter Kassovitz, from the novel by Jurek Becker, Jakob The Liar is similar in tone to Roberto Benigni's Life Is Beautiful. It tells the story of a group of Polish Jews in 1944, living in the Nazi-controlled ghetto, working, starving, and awaiting transport to the death camps. But like Benigni's work, Jakob infuses the horror with just a touch of humor — a dangerous practice, but one that generally pays off.

Jakob is a former restauranteur who can't remember the last time he made one of his famous potato pancakes, but still tries to maintain his sense of humor. When he is caught out after curfew one night, he is sent to the commandant's quarters for punishment. There he hears on the radio that the Russians have crossed the Polish border. When he returns to the ghetto, he tells his friends the good news. Word spreads that he has a radio, and he becomes a celebrity overnight. At first, he denies it (after all, the possession of a radio by a Jew is a crime punishable by execution), but when he discovers that good news lifts the spirits of the whole community, he decides to continue telling them what they want to hear.

This film is nicely executed by Kassovitz; shot on location in Poland and Hungary, it portrays vividly the squalid oppression under which the Eastern European Jews lived during World War II. It is helped immeasurably by a superbly talented supporting cast, including Bob Balaban (2010), Liev Schreiber, Adam Arkin, and Armin Mueller-Stahl, who, incidentally, also appeared in the 1974 East German version. Also on hand is Hannah Taylor-Gordon as Lina, a young girl who escapes the cattle cars and is taken in by Jakob.

Though the similarity between Jakob and Life Is Beautiful cannot be ignored, there are enough differences to contradict the notion that it is simply a copy of Benigni's film. It is interesting to note that Jakob was apparently shot in 1997, the same time as the Italian film; perhaps the producers (of which Williams is one) decided to hold this film back to avoid undue comparison.

With Jakob The Liar, Williams makes a few more steps toward proving that he can act with the big boys, and like Benigni, Kassovitz shows that the holocaust tragedy can be sprinkled with humor and still taken seriously, if the mix is right. ★★★★

THE STORY OF US

Rated R - Running Time: 1:34 - Released 10/15/99

Anyone married for longer than five years can probably relate to The Story Of Us. Anyone who has endured a painful divorce can definitely relate to it. I assume this film, produced and directed by Rob Reiner, is supposed to be a "bittersweet romance," but Reiner didn't concentrate much on the sweet. It's just bitter. This is a portrait of a couple in the throes of divorce, trying to decide at the eleventh hour whether the marriage is worth saving. I'm not one who craves romantic dialogue, but it would be nice to at least have a viable reason why Ben and Katie Jordan (Bruce Willis, Michelle Pfeiffer) should stay together. The film focuses on all the worst aspects of marriage; it's miserable and depressing, albeit quite believable, until the last five minutes.

The Story Of Us is mostly a series of flashbacks, a sort of 90-minute montage of marital strife. Ben and Katie, who have just sent their kids (Jake Sandvig and Colleen Rennison) to camp, separate for the summer. She is tired, resentful, and frustrated, and thinks they should call it quits. He thinks they should try again, but admits that things aren't as much fun as they were 15 years ago. She feels he is reckless and irresponsible; he thinks she is a control freak who has lost her spontaneity. She stays at home, he moves to a hotel, and they both spend a couple of months alone, reliving all the bad times...and a few of the good. They have been living a charade, deceiving the kids into thinking everything's okay, and this weighs upon them. Years of marital counseling has led only to a collection of memories involving their various goofy marriage counselors. Well-meaning advice from their friends (director Reiner, Rita Wilson, Paul Reiser, and Julie Hagerty), including comments like "marriage is the Jack Kevorkian of the relationship," usually just deepens their despair.

The very strange tone of this film is reminiscent of director Reiner's When Harry Met Sally, which couldn't seem to decide whether it was a deep romance or a character-driven comedy. This may be partially explained by the unlikely pairing of writers Alan Zweibel (Dragnet) and Jessie Nelson (Stepmom), who attempt to inject humor into the glum storyline. But much of this humor misses its mark, and some actually seems to backfire, making the mood even more depressing than it is. For instance, there's the obnoxious couple the Jordans meet on a trip to Italy. Besides the fact that "the Kirbys" are so ridiculously stereotyped as to derail the credibility of the scene, their purpose is dubious: The estranged Jordans discover a new common ground in the fact that they both "hate the Kirbys." How incredibly touching.

This film definitely paints a realistic picture of a crumbling marriage. Willis and Pfeiffer hit every point on the emotional scale, although some of the more intense scenes are a little too pushed. Director Reiner has an inventive way of telling the Jordans' story, skipping back and forth from the present to various parts of the past, but Pfeiffer and Willis don't do anything to really show the different stages of their lives except wear a different wig.

The ending is the film's biggest flaw; it is completely out of sync with the rest of the story. If this couple had really been that unhappy for that long, Katie's tearful speech could not have made much of a difference. Reiner and his scriptwriters give us good reason to see why this couple should break up. They give us no reason to see why they should stay together. ★★★½

TINTYPES: SCENES FROM THE PAST was a highlight of the Oakland Sesquicentennial, and featured a variety of vignettes, chiefly penned by Jane Avery (with one by Mikey Virts and another by Richard Hill), that portrayed actual historical events in the 150-year existence of Oakland. Our Town Theatre presented the 10-scene program, throughout which spectators followed Avery around town, stopping at historic locations where the scenes would transpire. About 36 actors took part in the presentation. In the photo above, three Oakland women of the 1870s (actors Gloria Salazar, Sandy Wilson, and Liz Rees Gilbert) discuss the latest serial found in a journal printed during that era, The Garrett Star. In the photo below left, an agonized Marquis Perry (played by Richard Hill, right) describes to a gentleman passerby (Steve Schlosnagle) the scandalous 1852 shooting death of Dr. Conn, which occurred at the corner of Oak and Second streets. Perry was seeing Conn for a nervous disorder, and did in fact witness the violence first-hand. (The account of the shooting can be found in the Sesquicentennial Souvenir Program.) The photo below right shows one of several short vignettes, all taking place at the corner of Second and Alder, depicting the anxiety and agony of those left behind during the nation's seven war times. Actors Cathy Helbig and Penny Proudfoot are shown as they mourn the loss of a son in World War II. Photos by Mary McEwen.

Allen Murray, Former Mayor, Fire Chief Dies

A FAREWELL SALUTE is offered by the members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department in honor of the late Allen C. Murray, who served with the OVFD for 28 years, with seven of those years as chief. Murray, 71, died suddenly Saturday at his home along Foster Road. A special procession followed a funeral mass at St. Peter's Catholic Church, with the Oakland VFD's antique American LaFrance pumper used to transport the flag-draped casket to Memorial Gardens for interment. Ranks of walking OVFD members led the procession.

Allen C. Murray, 71, a former mayor of Mtn. Lake Park and former fire chief of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, died suddenly at his home Saturday afternoon. The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad was summoned to his home along Foster Road north of Oakland after he became ill while working in his yard. He was pronounced dead at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Born June 10, 1928, in Altoona, Pa., he was a son of the late Cloyd C. and Hilda (Kaltsmith) Murray.

He was retired from Fike's Dairy, where he worked for many years as a procurement manager and dairy sanitarian. He was a U.S. Army veteran of the Korean Conflict. He was retired from the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department with 28 years of service, eight of which he served as chief. He was a member and past president of the Oakland Rotary Club, a past mayor of Mtn. Lake Park, and a member of Proctor Kildow Post 71, American Legion.

Surviving are his wife, Joan (McSorley) Murray; five sons, James M. Murray, Thomas P. Murray, Stephen A. Murray, Dennis D. Murray, and Allan "A.J." Murray, all of Oakland; one "adopted" son, Thomas Stark, Oakland; four brothers, Paul Murray, Garland, Texas, and Robert Murray, Galen Murray, and Lowell Murray, all of Altoona; four sisters, Virginia Laws, Marilyn Hainsley, Joyce Westover, and Darlene Schoch, all of Altoona; and 12 grandchildren.

In Memory of Rachel Denham
10/21/41 - 6/14/99

When I come to the end of the road and the sun has set for me,
I want no rites in a gloom filled room.
Why cry for a soul set free?
Miss me a little —but not too long and not with your head bowed low:
Remember the love that we once shared,
Miss Me — But Let Me Go.
For this is a journey we all must take and each must go alone;
It's all part of the Master's plan,
A step on the road to home.
When you are lonely and sick of heart
Go to the friends we know;
And bury your sorrows in doing good deeds,
Miss Me — But Let Me Go.

Missed by family & friends

Howard Vaughn Sisler who would be 29
on Oct. 21st.

It's only been a few months since you've been gone from us.
There is never a day to go by we don't ask God Why? We start smiling when we remember the sound of your laughter or when you touch our hearts with your smile. You never let us frown because you acted like such a clown. So as your birthday comes near we try not to shed a tear. And every time we crack a smile we know that you are near, even though we are heaven and earth apart.

Missed, remembered and loved by
Dad, Mom, Lawa, Melissia, Nathen, Debbie, Vaughn, Faith, Tyler, family, friends and all loved ones.

Tournament Of Bands Results Are Announced

Seven high school bands participated in the annual Western Maryland Tournament of Bands Saturday evening at the Southern High School athletic field, with the Southern Garrett Marching Band serving as host and performing in exhibition. The number of bands was fewer than normal since the late date of the Autumn Glory Festival this year conflicted with both the Maryland and West Virginia state field show championships.

The Northern High School Band, which earlier in the day won second place in the state championships (no details received), was the only Group I band in the Western Maryland TOB, and thus was awarded first place and all specialty awards. However, Northern's score of 83.8 was third best among the competing bands in all divisions.

South Park won the Group II honors with a score of 77.65.

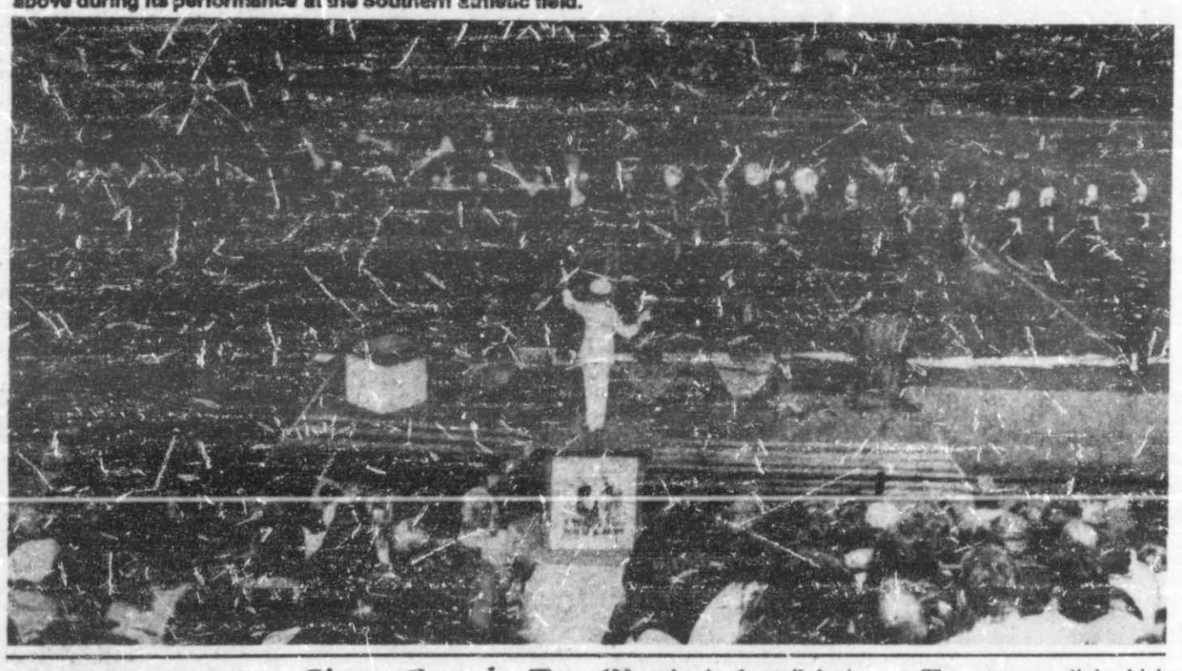
There were three bands in Group III, which was won by Elizabeth Forward High School with a score of 87.00, highest of the evening. Frankfort High School placed second with a score of 84.15, followed by Quince Orchard High School with a score of 82.15.

The only Group IV band was University High School of Morgantown, which recorded an 80.3.

Elizabeth Forward also won Best Band Front, Best Percussion, Best Marching, and Best Music awards in Group III, while Frankfort won Best Drum Major.

The Southern band performed in exhibition only, but earned a score of 84.25, second only to Elizabeth Forward.

"Even though our numbers were down because of the scheduling conflict, the show was still very competitive," stated Rick Clever, Southern director. "I thought our band performed very well, especially considering how busy our kids were with the Autumn Glory Festival."



Trophy sponsors for the TOB were: First United Bank & Trust, Terra Alta Bank, Mane Attraction, F&M Bank, Dr. and Mrs. Tom Johnson (Meghan Price Memorial trophies), Junior Woman's Civic Club, WEPCO Credit Union, Dr. Peg Kaiser and Eric Tribbey, Mettiki Coal Corporation, Buffalo Coal Corporation, Pizzeria Uno, Keystone Financial, and WKHJ Radio. Other contributors to the event were J.J. Devine (announcer), Eberly-Wood, Manor Home Center, Richard Hill, and Ed Sines.

The Southern Garrett Band's next competition will be the Big Apple Band Tournament at Musselman High School, Bunker Hill, W.Va., this Saturday, Oct. 23. The event will begin at 6 p.m., and Southern is scheduled to perform at 6:42.

TAKING FIRST PLACE in Group I at the Western Maryland Tournament of Bands, and the runner-up trophy in the Maryland state field show championships, on Saturday was the Northern High School Marching Band, pictured above during its performance at the Southern athletic field.

Hosting the annual competition was the Southern Garrett Marching Band, pictured below, which performed in exhibition only, but garnered the second highest score in the overall competition. See story for details.

Sines Couple To Open New Sears Store Saturday

Sears, Roebuck and Co. reports it has "returned to small town America" with its authorized retail dealer stores, as local residents Russell and Susan Sines have teamed up with Sears to open a new retail dealer store at Rt. 219 South/89 Pleasant Hills Drive, just south of Oakland. Sines and local customers will kick off the store's grand opening this Saturday, Oct. 23.

"We're very excited to open a Sears store right here in Oakland," said Sines. "Local customers can expect excellent customer service, a great selection of quality merchandise, and the same national pricing as the Sears mall stores. The community is invited to stop by and take advantage of our special grand opening deals."

"Sears's long tradition of serving customers in small communities dates back to the company's founding 112 years ago in North Redwood, Minnesota," said Sue Sorlien, president, Sears Dealer Store program. "Our goal is to re-enter these communities and provide loyal customers with quality merchandise and a convenient shopping location. We believe the new Sears dealer store will be the appliance and electronics superstore in Oakland."

Sears, Roebuck and Co. is a leading U.S. retailer of apparel, home, and automotive services, with annual revenues of more than $41 billion.

ATTEND 4-H ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION - The Maryland 4-H Foundation held a celebration earlier this month to recognize 90 years of 4-H in Maryland and 10 years of operation of the Maryland 4-H Center in College Park. The event drew 4-H members, leaders, and parents from around the state to the College Park facility. Among those in attendance were State 4-H Teen Council Board of Directors representatives, Elizabeth Norris, above left, of Allegany County, shown with Autumn Rizer of Garrett County. Also on hand from Garrett County, but not shown, were Bob and Ben Rizer of the Grantsville 4-H Club; 4-H alumnus William McGrauder, now a Westernport resident; and Alice Hevner, extension educator, 4-H Youth and Development, Garrett County. The GC contingent took three displays that were well-received—two that detailed the history as well as the current status of the Western Maryland 4-H Education Center in Bittinger, and one that displayed 4-H memorabilia. For further information about the local 4-H program or the Western Maryland 4-H Center, persons may call the GC Cooperative Extension Office at 301-334-6960.

Paul Stemple, 95, was recognized for his contributions to the church and particularly, for his helping with the planning, building, and further maintenance and scheduling for the memorial building. He has now retired from that trustee board. Ruth Snyder, who is the widow of a former pastor and is now selling her Aurora home to go with her children, was recognized for her faithful devotion to duties in the church and community and was bid farewell by her church family.

Members of the Stemple family who came for the occasion were Phil, Marie, and Meredith Stemple, Basking Ridge, N.J., and their other daughter, Melissa Stemple, Richmond, Va.; also Steve Stemple and Margie Sutton of Elkins.

SENIORS MEET

Following the covered dish luncheon, Union Seniors opened their business session at their Oct. 14 meeting with devotions. Fern Jamison read "What if God Had Voice Mail?" and Wilda Stemple read a scripture and led in prayer.

Discussion of proposed trips mentioned possibilities of Reckert's Mill at Cranesville, History House in Terra Alta, the Simon Pearce glass plant at Oakland, a puppet drama at Pleasant View Baptist Church, and a shopping tour to Uniontown.

Jeanne Estep, a Preston County senior nurse, distributed cancer awareness kits and announced that flu shots will be available at the Nov. 11 meeting. Betty Sereno gave updated information about legislation supported by the Silverhaired Legislature which includes bills on Medicare and prescription medications.

Members were given their festival exhibits and ribbons. Enrollment cards for the coming year were completed and turned in to the leader.

Because the haunted trail had to be canceled due to the rain, it was decided that the club will participate in the PTO Fall Festival on Oct. 29 to provide a similar activity.

Election of officers for 1999-2000 year are: Rebecca Fint, president; Kendra Durst, vice president; Hannah Myers, secretary; Tracy Fields, reporter; Scott Fields and Brittanny Stemple, song leaders; and Marissa Bachtel and Jenna Sisler, recreation leaders.

SCHOOL NEWS

Aurora students, pre-K through 6, and their chaperons, left today, Oct. 21, for a Washington, D.C., trip to include Smithsonian museums of science and industry, natural history, and air and space. The school continues to participate in collecting labels, proofs of purchase, and box tops from Campbell and related products, as well as Box Tops for Education from General Mills products.

The school will be having a Fall Festival on Oct. 29 and 30. Trick or Treat hours for the community will be from 5 until 7 p.m. Persons who plan to participate are asked to leave a porch light on.

Rams Record Last-Second Win, Tie With Flintstone

An exciting last-second victory and a 2-2 tie were the results of a pair of Western Maryland Interscholastic League matches played this past week by the Southern High School boys' soccer team, as the Rams defeated visiting Mt. Savage last Thursday evening for the first time in history, 3-2, and played upset-minded Flintstone to a 2-2 double-overtime tie Tuesday evening, also in Oakland.

The results left the Rams with an overall record of 8-2-1 and a WMIL mark of 5-0-1. The stage is set for a huge match with Fort Hill in Cumberland this evening, which will determine the WMIL champion. Fort Hill is 6-0 in WMIL play.

It was a goal by Chris Remley with just nine seconds left in the match that gave the Rams their 3-2 win over Mt. Savage last Thursday.

Southern maintained control of the match in the first half, and led 2-0 at intermission, making Coach Tom Powers believe that his team was possibly headed for a rout of the Indians. However, the visitors seized the momentum after the halftime break and knotted the score at 2-2 before Remley struck gold with just seconds remaining.

Ryan Ewing put the first point on the board for the Rams when he scored off an assist by Don Parsons with 29:42 remaining in the first half. Keith Steyer then doubled Southern's total about five minutes later when he put the ball into the net off a feed by Andrew Grant.

Mt. Savage (7-4 overall, 4-2 WMIL) came back early in the second half to cut the Ram lead in half when Larry O'Baker scored an unassisted goal less than four minutes after halftime. Adam Mould then scored unassisted about 13 minutes later to tie the score at 2-2.

Remley's winning goal was unassisted.

The Rams finished with a 16-11 edge in shots on goal. Chris Menker had nine saves in goal for Southern, while Josh Michaels turned away 10 Ram shots for the Indians.

The Rams dominated the statistics in Tuesday's match with the pesky Flintstone Aggies, except in the most important category. Southern out-gunned the visitors in shots on goal by a commanding 21-7 margin, but Aggie keeper Danny Bishop turned away 19 of those shots, while Menker had five saves for the Rams.

Flintstone had the initial lead in the match, as Justin Mallow scored a goal off an assist by Craig Cessna just 53 seconds into the match.

The Rams evened it at 1-1 about nine minutes later with a goal by Don Parsons off an assist by Chris Remley, and Ryan Ewing put Southern on top with an unassisted goal.

With 18:36 left in regulation, Flintstone's Bobby Ritchie scored the goal that would ultimately send the contest into overtime. His goal came off an assist by Mallow.

Neither team could get the ball past Menker and Bishop during the two 10-minute overtime periods.

The loss ended Flintstone's regular season with a 4-7-3 overall record and a 1-3-3 mark in the WMIL.

Tonight's meeting with Fort Hill will be the first of the season between the Rams and Sentinels. The only losses by both teams have come at the feet of Bishop Walsh. Tonight's kickoff at Greenway Stadium is slated for 7:30 p.m., with the junior varsity match beginning at 6 p.m.

The regional soccer playoffs will begin next week.

Husky Booters Crush Calvary Before Close Loss To Indians

An easy win and a close defeat were recorded this week by the Northern High School boys' soccer team, which concluded its regular season and will now prepare for regional playoffs that will get under way next week. Coach Tom Ables' Huskies rolled over visiting Calvary Christian, 8-1, last Thursday evening, and then dropped a 4-3 heart-breaker to host Mt. Savage on Tuesday to wrap up their 1999 regular-season campaign.

The split left the Huskies with a 7-6-1 overall record and a 3-3-1 mark in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League.

In the lopsided win over Calvary Christian, Woody Kenner and Mike Fletcher each recorded a pair of goals, while Josh Gilpin earned a goal and two assists for Northern.

Gilpin put the first goal of the match on the board off a feed by Eric Durst at the 32:04 mark of the first half, but Calvary's Brian Wolfe answered with an unassisted goal just two minutes later.

Kenner's first goal, scored off a feed by Jason Fickes with 12:54 left in the half, put the Huskies on top for good. Kenner repeated with another goal at the 5:57 mark, this time off an assist by Gilpin to make it 3-1. A goal by Andy Fike with an assist by Sam Miller at the 2:14 mark put the Huskies up 4-1 at halftime.

The entire second half belonged to the home team, as Fickes scored off an assist by Ron Lipscomb about seven minutes into the half. Fletcher then recorded his first of two for the evening off a feed by Gilpin with 23:45 remaining in the contest.

Lipscomb then found the net off a pass from Durst at the 15:26 mark, and Fletcher scored his second of the evening, this time unassisted, with 10:50 remaining in the match.

The ball remained on Calvary's half of the field most of the evening, as the Huskies finished with a 26-8 advantage in shots and a 6-1 lead in corner kicks. Greg Bender was credited with eight saves in goal for the Huskies, while Brandon Newell turned away 14 Husky shots.

The defeat dropped Calvary Christian to 3-11-1 for the season.

There was only 3:40 left on the clock when Mt. Savage's Cass Martin put the ball past Northern's Greg Bender to record what would be the winning goal in Tuesday's match. What made it even tougher for Husky fans is that the Indians won the match after the Huskies rallied from a 3-1 halftime deficit to knot the score at 3-3.

Mike Fletcher struck first in the match with an unassisted goal just 34 seconds after the opening whistle to put Northern up 1-0. But the Indians answered with three straight goals before halftime, with Joe Shaffer scoring off an assist by Larry O'Baker at the 23:57 mark, O'Baker then connecting for a goal off a feed by Shaffer, and a second goal by Shaffer at the 8:37 mark, this time off a pass from Martin.

The Huskies resumed control of the match after halftime and proceeded to tie the score once again, as Jason Fickes scored an unassisted goal just 3½ minutes into the half, and, after nearly 20 minutes of scoreless play, Guy Beitzel put one in the net unassisted at the 8:37 mark.

It was off a pass from Darren Johnson that Martin scored his winning goal about five minutes later.

The Huskies were outshot by a 23-15 margin, but finished with a 2-0 lead in corner kicks. Bender turned away 18 shots by the Indians, and Josh Michaels was credited with 12 saves for the Indians, who improved their overall record to 8-4 and their WMIL mark to 5-2.

Playoffs for the Huskies will begin next week, with the draw for teams slated to take place this weekend.

Southern Girls Use Strong Second Half To Defeat Beall

After a sluggish start against underdog Beall Tuesday night in Frostburg, the Southern High School girls' soccer team, ranked third in the area, pulled away in the second half to record a 4-1 Western Maryland Interscholastic League victory. The win gave the Rams an overall mark of 5-3-1 and a 5-2 record in the WMIL.

Southern never trailed in the match, as Becky Martin opened the scoring with a goal off a feed by Megan Burner with 10:10 remaining in the first half. Beall responded less than three minutes later, though, as Jackie Aylor scored off an assist by Angel Spataro at the 7:45 mark to knot the score at 1-1 at halftime.

The Rams took control of the contest in the second half, and took the lead for good when Charlena Reeves scored unassisted with 32:51 left. Falon Stutzman made it 3-1 with an unassisted goal at the 11:50 mark, and with just 32 seconds left in the match, Gina Reeves scored another unassisted goal.

The Rams finished with an 18-10 lead in shots on goal and dominated in corner kicks, 8-1. Gina Reeves played in goal for the Rams in the first half and recorded four saves. Becky Martin provided two in the second half. Finishing with eight saves for the Mountaineers was Ligaya Roque.

The loss dropped Beall to 2-9 overall and 2-8 in WMIL outings.

The Rams will travel to Bishop Walsh this evening and will finish a suspended game with the Northern Huskies next Wednesday at the Cove. That contest, which started last week and had to be stopped because of lightning, is currently tied at 1-1 with approximately 13 minutes to play. It will get under way at 7 p.m.

Regional playoffs in soccer will begin next week.

Northern Girls Record Pair Of WMIL Soccer Shutouts

A pair of big Western Maryland Interscholastic League shutout victories this week, within 24 hours of each other, has solidified a second place standing in the area for the Northern High School girls' soccer team, as the Huskies blanked visiting Mount Savage on Monday, 4-0, and whitewashed Fort Hill on Tuesday, also at Husky Stadium.

The wins upped the record of the Huskies and their coach, Lisa Lantz, to 9-1 overall and 9-0 in the WMIL. A match with cross-county rival Southern still hangs in the balance, as the Huskies were tied 1-1 with the Rams in a match last week which had to be suspended because of lightning.

The Huskies took a 1-0 lead over Mt. Savage on Monday when Ashley Warnick scored, unassisted, at the 22:56 mark of the first half.

Fifteen minutes into the second half, Northern's Emily Rawe made it 2-0 with a goal off an assist by Brooke Butler. Then Butler put the Huskies up 3-0 with an unassisted goal at the 9:34 mark.

Kara Kenner followed with an insurance score, unassisted, with just 2:09 remaining in the match.

The Huskies finished with an 18-9 lead in shots on goal, while the Indians had a 3-1 edge in corner kicks. Northern's Randi Beiler, who currently leads the area in save percentage, recorded five saves in the net during the first half, and Warnick turned away three shots in the second. Crystal Martz was credited with 11 saves for Mt. Savage, which dropped to 3-7-2 overall and 2-4-1 in the WMIL.

Emily Rawe accounted for both of the Huskies' goals in Tuesday night's win over Fort Hill, both of which were recorded in the second half. After a defensive first half, Rawe connected unassisted at the 35-minute mark of the second half, and added another unassisted goal with 10 minutes to play.

Rainy conditions made footing difficult, contributing to the low-scoring result. However, the Huskies dominated in shots on goal by a 13-5 margin and led in corner kicks, 8-4. Warnick and Beiler again combined on the shutout in goal for the Huskies, with Warnick getting two saves and Beiler earning five. Rebecca Beeman produced seven saves for the Sentinels, who lost their third straight match and dropped to 6-4-2 overall. They are 3-4-3 in the WMIL standings.

The Huskies will be the favorite again this evening when they travel to Frostburg to face Beall. That kickoff is set for 7 p.m. They will host Southern next Wednesday to complete the suspended game, and playoffs will follow.

High School Golf Season Concludes

The golf season for Maryland's high schools drew to a close this week, none to soon for the change in the local weather. A pair of Northern High golfers competed in the Maryland State Championship Tournament at College Park Monday and Tuesday (the full Husky team ended its season two weeks ago), while the Southern High School duffers concluded their season in a Friday road match at Keyser.

Northern's A.J. Thomas and Greg Speicher each carded a 176 in the state tourney on the University of Maryland golf course. They came in off the pace of the leading scorer from western Maryland, Beall's J.C. Armstrong, who shot a 157, good for 15th place.

1999 Maryland individual champion and leader of the field of 135 golfers was John Scott Rattan of Watkins Mill, whose clutch putting took him through five playoff holes. The playoff began when Rattan, Whitman's Charles Hong, and Churchill's Jairo Ireno each sported 145s at the conclusion of the 36 holes of regular golfing. Hong ended up in second after the playoff, and Ireno took third.

The Rams fell to Keyser by a 160-188 margin over nine holes on the Polish Pines course. B.J. Shrout of the hosts carded the low score with a 38. Justin Stephens and Justin Liller each shot 45s for Southern.

SHS, which finished the year with a 28-20 record, good for third place in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League behind top-ranked Northern and runner-up Beall.

The head coach for each program saluted the efforts of the golf courses that hosted their players for home matches throughout the season. Alan Skidmore thanked the Oakland Golf Club for its support, while Harv Speicher expressed appreciation to the Wisp Golf Resort in McHenry.

SHS Girls Race To Another WMIL Cross Country Title

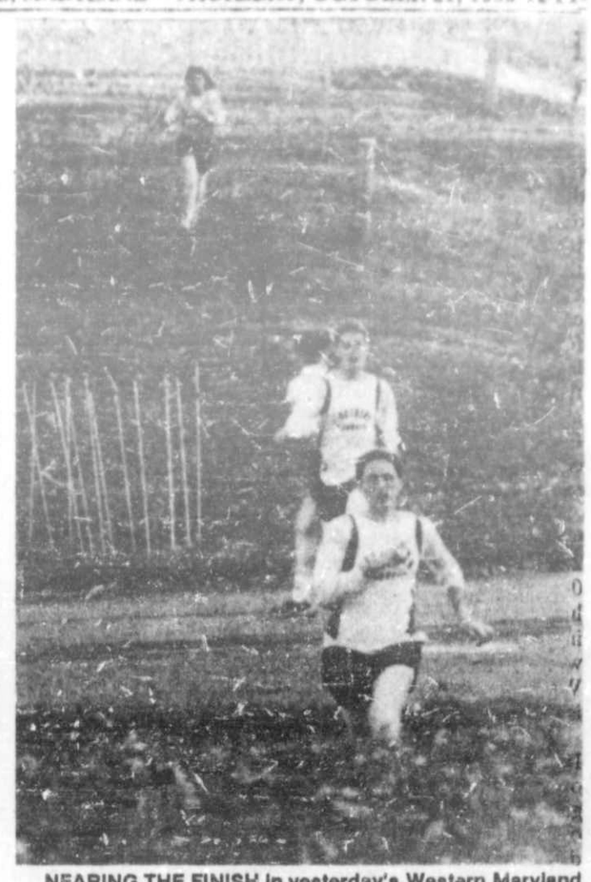
The girls' cross country team of Southern High School captured the Western Maryland Interscholastic League championship yesterday on their own course by topping four other teams. It was the second major title earned by the Rams so far this season, as they recently won the Area championship.

The Southern girls, coached by Louis Newcomb, finished with 30 team points to defeat Westmar with 59, Fort Hill with 67, Allegany with 70, and Beall with an incomplete score. Southern placed five runners among the top 10 finishers, who are named to the All-WMIL team.

Leading the way was senior Beth Sauder, who placed third with a time of 21:31. One second behind her in fourth place was teammate Melissa Durst, a freshman, while Erin Hoalcraft and Angie Sincell placed sixth and seventh, respectively, with times of 21:57 and 22:14. Faryn Shaffer was 10 in 23:15 and Amber Stewart was the 12th runner across the line, finishing in 23:47.

Fort Hill's Stephanie Fleming was the individual winner, as she recorded a time of 21:02, two seconds ahead of Allegany's Nory Sams.

The Southern junior varsity girls also dominated the jayvee race, although team scores are not kept. Erin Lucas and Laura Hollingsworth finished one, two, while Anissa Jamison and Haley Gillespie placed fourth and fifth, respectively.



The Southern boys' team continued to struggle, placing fifth among five teams. Westmar won the team title with a 32, followed by Fort Hill with 50, Beall with 60, Allegany with 90, and Southern with 111.

Beall's Ryan Foster set a new course record of 16:40 in winning the individual title, beating out defending state 1A champion Zach Bittinger of Westmar by a staggering 32 seconds. Westmar's Sid Bittinger placed second.

Southern's top individual finisher was Matt Frederick, who placed 11th in 19:04.

In the junior varsity race, Runnin' Ram Chad Cerrito placed third, Chris English-Ramsay was sixth, and Stephen Liller finished 10th.

The Rams' next competition will be the regional championships, slated for November 4.

Dozier, Brenneman Lead NHS To 68-6 Massacre Of Indians

7-0 Huskies Top State's 1-A Rankings

"This was our best offensive performance of the year," Northern High School head football coach Phil Carr said of his varsity's 68-6 romp over host Berkeley Springs Friday evening. The Huskies option offense ali but ate up the Indians and spit them out, as outstanding blocking by the entire line unit opened up the rushing lanes for a 522-yard tally on the ground and 10 NHS rushing touchdowns, four by Adam Brenneman, three by Rob Dozier, a pair by Ryan Brenneman, and a solo score by Mark Wolf.

The win solidified NHS's hold on first place in Maryland's 1A standings, as the Huskies are ranked ahead of 7-0 Bohemian Manor, the state's only other unbeaten 1A squad. (Third-ranked Cambridge-South Dorchester lost for the first time over the weekend to fall to 6-1.) With the Mountain Athletic Conference title and the state playoffs squarely in its sights, Northern embarks on its stretch run in the best of possible positions, as each of its final three contests are at home before the rabid Husky fans, beginning with tomorrow night's 7:30 p.m. matchup with Petersburg.

Big Blue wasted no time in lighting up the scoreboard at Berkeley Springs, as on its first offensive play from scrimmage Dozier took a handoff from quarterback Adam Brenneman and streaked 65 yards for a touchdown. The speedy halfback's tear came on an off tackle isolation power play sparked by "perfect execution by each and every blocker," Carr said. "We worked hard on that particular play all week in practice, and the line and Wolf and Ryan Brenneman carried out their blocking assignments just as they had learned. It shows what hard work does for our guys, and they know it. I was really happy for Dozier to get that run," the coach continued. "He's got all the tools, and this game was the breakout game from him. He ran hard all night [amassing 201 yards on just 13 carries for a 15-yard average], and we look for big things from him as we approach the post season."

Northern's next score came when Adam Brenneman carried the ball in from nine yards out on an option keeper, which was followed by a Ryan Brenneman two-point conversion run. Adam Brenneman followed that score with another nine-yard option keeper score to make the score 20-0 after one quarter.

The second quarter began where it left off, as a third option keeper resulted in a 20-yard Adam Brenneman TD run, followed by a two-point conversion run by Wolf. "Adam Brenneman ran the option perfectly once again," commented Carr. "He had only three runs of his own off the option, and each one resulted in a touchdown. You can't do any better than that, and it's a sign that he and the 10 other guys work together as a team, because the option requires movement and blocking by everyone."

Dozier scored his second of three touchdowns on a six-yard run midway through the second quarter, and the Huskies went up by 33 points when Justin Robison's extra point sailed through the uprights. Shortly afterwards Adam Brenneman scored his fourth TD on an audible he called from the line of scrimmage, having read the Indians defense as he lined up over center Dan Rounds. Noting that Berkeley Springs' middle linebacker had moved to the outside in anticipation of an off tackle run, Brenneman called for a quarterback sneak and snuck unmolested for an 11-yard score through a wide-open middle lane. The Indians managed their only score on the steel curtain Northern defense when their quarterback stayed off a near-sack and threw for a seven yard touchdown pass. "We had him in the grasp and were just a second away from putting him down," Carr said of the score, which made the tally 40-6 by the half.

The third quarter saw Northern score three times, as it had done in each of the two previous stanzas. A 21-yard halfback option pass from Ryan Brenneman to split end Robison was the centerpiece of a 70-yard, five-play drive that ended with Dozier's third score on a 10-yard run. Robison followed with a successful PAT kick. The defense accounted for the next two Husky scores, when a fumble recovery by linebacker Rugg led to a six yard Ryan Brenneman touchdown run, followed by a Rugg PAT kick, and an interception by free safety Ryan Brenneman preceded a 25-yard scoring run by Wolf, which made the score 60-6 heading into the fourth quarter. Ryan Brenneman scored his second touchdown, and the game's final points, when he carried the ball in from four yards out in the final stanza to make the tally 68-6.

Assistant coach Frank Ewing's defensive unit turned in yet another in a string of stingy showings, as swarming gang-tackling held the Indians in their tracks. Rugg accounted 10 tackles in addition to his fumble recovery, and defensive back Adam Brenneman had six tackles. Linemen Nathan Resh and Dale Hetrick each recorded a quarterback sack as the front five dominated the offensive line of Berkeley Springs.

"Our second string defensive unit came in at the 9:40 mark of the third quarter and played superbly the rest of the way," Carr observed. "It was great to hear our crowd behind the visitor's bench cheering those guys on. The whole coaching staff was really proud of those guys, who work just as hard as the starters all week long." Carr also singled out performances by offensive subs Keith Hardesty, who gained 35 yards on five carries, Bill Rodeheaver, who gained 19 yards on three carries, Rugg's four-carry, 15-yard tally, and backup quarterback Brant Green. "Our second string line blocked excellently," said Carr.

The first string offensive squad turned in another balanced attack. In addition to Dozier's 201-yard rushing tally, Wolf gained 119 yards on 11 carries, Ryan Brenneman gained 74 yards on 13 carries, and Adam Brenneman ran the ball six times for 57 yards.

Tomorrow night's contest against 3-4 Petersburg will be no piece of cake, Carr predicted, knowing that one of the Huskies' biggest enemies down the stretch could be over-confidence and looking too far into the future. "We can't afford to get cocky," commented the coach. "Petersburg has won three in a row, and beat Tucker 61-12 in their last game."

The Vikings have the best pair of running backs Northern has seen all year. Senior halfback Justin Whetzel (6, 194) and junior fullback Matt Vance (6, 205), are a pair of punishing runners who "come right at you," Carr observed. Vance, the leading ground-gainer in the Potomac Valley Conference, has amassed over 1,500 all-purpose yards in just seven games, averaging well over 100 yards rushing per contest. Petersburg's main blockers are senior tackle Jason Ballenger (5-11, 240) and junior guard Tyson Riggleman (6-1, 190). At quarterback is sophomore Simon Burie (5-9, 150), who, Carr said, "likes to throw, and can.

"They mostly run a wing-T offense, but they also try other formations in order to spread out a defense, then hammer the ball up the middle. Our defense will be challenged, and has been working hard to get ready. Their defense is good at both the 5-3 and the 5-4, and Vance and Whetzel like to blitz from their linebacker positions. Our scouts at the Petersburg/Tucker game, Ryan Folk and Pete Forno, saw some things that we may be able to take advantage of, however, and we've been drilling our offense to capitalize on those weaknesses."

The match-up with the Vikings, and subsequent home outings against Westmar and Southern, are crucial to the Huskies' post-season ambitions. "If we beat Westmar we clinch the first MAC title," Carr said, "which doesn't really affect the playoff situation but would be a nice thing for our kids to remember. If we stay number one in the region we will be hosting the first two playoff games, no doubt in Husky weather, which the downstate teams aren't too fond of. If we're lucky enough to win those, we'll be going to the state championship in College Park the Saturday after Thanksgiving," Carr said, noting that the date coincides with the opening weekend of rifle season.

"It would be a tough choice for some of our fans," he mused about the thought of the College Park stands being filled with NHS supporters sporting camouflage, "but we think they'll turn out for us. They've been a big part of why we're still undefeated, big crowds on the home and on the road have spurred the guys on all year. If we go to states I'll have to cancel my caribou hunting trip up north—but hey, it would sure be worth it."

Northern, Keyser Steeler Squads Split In Outings

The Northern Steeler and Keyser Steeler Cumberland Area Youth Football League teams split in their respective divisional contests this weekend. The Division I Northern Steelers fell to their Keyser counterparts by a 36-10 margin, in first-round playoff action in Ridgeley, while the Division II Northern squad beat Keyser's Division II, 12-8.

All of Keyser's scores in the Division I match-up came in the first half, as the Steelers from Mineral County tallied 10 points in the first quarter and 22 in the second. Northern dented the scoreboard in the fourth quarter when Zach Barkus pinned Keyser quarterback Kellon Smith in the end zone for a two-point safety. Shortly afterwards, Derek Workman, Northern's quarterback, launched a 53-yard strike to Steve Snyder for a touchdown. Snyder followed his scoring reception by booting the two-point conversion kick through the uprights for the game's final points.

The Division I Northern Steelers finished their season with a 1-7 record.

Northern's Division II unit jumped out to an early 6-0 lead over Keyser in the first quarter when Michael Wolf plunged across the goal line from one yard out. The defenses stiffened from then until the third quarter, when Keyser's Keith Johnson broke loose for a 52-yard touchdown run, which was followed by a Marcus Rounds conversion kick that made the score 8-6. Jeremiah Wilt carried the ball three yards for the games final touchdown, clinching the come-from-behind victory for Northern.

Ravens, Terps Clinch OYFL Season Crowns

The Oakland Youth Football League concluded its season on Saturday with the Oakland Ravens and the Team One Terps taking the 1999 championships in their respective divisions.

It was a battle of defenses in the NFL Division championship game as the Ravens bested the Parsons (W.Va.) Vikings, 12-6, in an overtime duel. The Ravens finished with an 8-0 record on the year, the sole unbeaten squad in the entire league.

The Terps met the Rinker Construction Nittany Lions in showdown of the top teams in the NCAA Division, and emerged victorious by a 37-21 margin. Each squad came into the contest boasting an identical 8-1 record. The other divisional match-ups of the day resulted in a second overtime battle as the Mountaineers of Gregg's Pharmacy bested the First United Buckeyes in sudden death, and the Gonder Insurance Tigers downed the FOP Fighting Irish, 19-6.

The NCAA Division's final standings show the Terps on top at 9-1, followed by the 8-2 record chalked up by the Lions. The Tigers came in hot on the heels of the two front runners with a 7-3 mark, while the bottom half of the standings is composed of the Mountaineers and the Buckeyes, tied at 3-7, and the Fighting Irish, winless in 10 outings.

OYFL EQUIPMENT DUE

All OYFL players in both divisions are to turn in all their football equipment this Saturday, Oct. 23., beginning at 9 a.m. at the Southern High School gym.

Rams Survive Mistakes To Stop Victor Cullen, 21-14

In a somewhat unusual game, the Southern High School Rams recorded their third straight victory of the season Friday night by overcoming a couple of crucial mistakes to defeat visiting Victor Cullen Academy, 21-14. While the Ram defense did not give up a single point, a pair of fumbles in the backfield by the Southern offensive unit resulted in a pair of quick scores by the Colts, and nearly cost the Rams the game.

Statistically the Rams dominated the contest, finishing with a 12-5 advantage in first downs and a lopsided 217-76 lead in total offense, but it was a fourth quarter score by senior running back Josh Bosley that gave Southern the points it needed to keep the game from going into overtime.

Bosley, who finished with another strong outing for the Rams by amassing 106 yards on 14 carries, also put the first points on the board with a 13-yard touchdown carry at the 2:59 mark of the first period. Fullback Jeremy Hayhurst's kick for the extra point was just wide of the uprights.

The Rams' next possession ended abruptly deep in their own territory when a bad pitch was picked up by Williams and run into the end zone with less than a minute left in the first period. The run for the two-point conversion was stopped just short of the goal line, leaving the score tied at 6-6.

The score remained tied until early in the third quarter when it was "deja vu all over again" for the Ram offense. Another backfield fumble was picked up by Victor Cullen's Dotson and returned once again to the Southern end zone in the first minute of the third quarter. Cash ran successfully for the conversion to give the Colts their first lead of the game at 14-6.

Southern quarterback Josh Sharon responded, however, with a scoring drive that was capped by an 18-yard touchdown run by Hayhurst with just 38 seconds left in the third stanza. A crucial two-point conversion run was completed by Bosley, tying the score at 14-14.

Bosley's winning touchdown run was a 41-yard sprint around the left end with 9:39 remaining in the game, and Hayhurst booted the extra point to conclude the scoring, as the Ram defense kept the Colts out of scoring range the rest of the final quarter.

Hayhurst just missed the 100-yard mark, as he finished with 94 yards on 25 carries.

Jeremy's cousin, John Hayhurst, led the Ram defense in tackles with 13, including a quarterback sack, while teammate Brad Palmer finished with nine tackles. Billy Hebb, Mike Lantz, and T.J. Riley also had sacks.

"Defensively we played our tails off," said Ram coach Steve Campbell. "With their speed we knew they would try to get around the ends, but we strung it out very well, and we also had four or five guys in on almost every tackle.

"Offensively we played fairly well," he said. "We knew that they would be sending nine guys straight at us every time, almost daring us to throw, but we were a little afraid to throw against them. We figured we would have to pitch and sweep to try to get outside, and we had a couple of mix-ups in the backfield that cost us."

The Rams (3-4) will go for their fourth straight win this Friday evening at home against Hampshire, a team that, like Southern, had a sluggish start, but is coming off a big 35-24 victory over host Beall last Friday night, after the Mountaineers had opened their season with a 4-0 run.

The star for the 4-3 Trojans against Beall was sophomore running back Bryan Wright (5-7, 180), who recently returned to the lineup after a serious arm injury. He amassed 184 yards and three touchdowns against the Mountaineer defense.

The Hampshire offense, led by senior quarterback Logan Haines, is similar to Southern's in that the ball is kept on the ground most of the time.

"Wright will probably be the best tailback we will face all season," Campbell said. "He has a low center of gravity, a lot of power, and very quick feet. If he can't find a way to run around people, he just runs over them."

Size-wise the two teams are similar. "They have a couple of very big tackles, but overall we match up pretty well," Campbell said.

The new Ram coach said that among the keys to a victory will be to control Wright and try to force them to throw the ball. "We have to do another good job this week of applying pressure in the backfield and getting four or five guys in on the tackle," he said. "It's rare that Wright is stopped by just one player."

New Hampshire coach Sean Biser has already improved on the Trojans' 1998 overall mark of 2-8, and has done so with only eight returning lettermen.

Campbell said that the Rams are in good health, as lineman Mike Lantz is expected to be back after being sidelined with a back strain last week against Victor Cullen.

The kickoff for Friday's contest is slated for 7:30 p.m. It will be Senior Night, and the senior members of the team, the cheerleading squad, and the band, along with their parents, will be recognized in a pre-game ceremony at approximately 7:15.

A tailgate party in the Southern athletic field will precede the game, weather permitting, with that event slated to get under way at 5:30 p.m. Ram fans are encouraged to bring a covered dish, beverages, and tableware. Persons desiring more information may telephone Todd Bosley at 301-334-8830.

Ram Netters Swept By Westmar, Bounce Back To Defeat Fort Hill

The Southern High School volleyball team's record stands at an even 6-6 after its two most recent matches. The Rams took a closely fought match with Fort Hill last night, a contest that had been preceded by a 3-0 loss to Westmar last Wednesday evening, Oct. 13.

Southern hosted Westmar in last week's match-up, for which results were not available as of last week's issue. The Wildcats took the match in three games 15-11, 15-8, and 15-11.

Heather Boyce and Keri Niner led the Rams with eight service points each.

Westmar also won the JV match, 15-13, 7-15, and 15-10. Erika Steyer's 11 service points paced Southern.

Last night in Oakland the Rams opened their newly renovated gym in fine style, battling Fort Hill through a marathon match that ended in a 3-2 SHS victory.

Southern took the first match 15-11, fell in the second, 15-13, won the third, 16-14, fell in the fourth by an 18-15 score, then clinched the contest with a 15-8 victory in the finale. The match couldn't have been much closer, as the Rams took 67 of the game points on the night, compared to Fort Hill's 63.

Laura Johnson's 21 service points and nine kills led Southern, aided by Melissa Kuykendall's 14 service points and Sarah Winters'

Pair of Sweeps By Northern Netters Offset By Two Losses

The volleyball squad of Northern High School saw a great deal of action over the past week, participating in four matches in a five-day span. The Huskies split the slate, taking wins over Mt. Savage and Preston, and losing to Allegany and Flintstone, to make their season record 7-6 going into their final regular season match at Southern Wednesday night.

Last Thursday evening, the Huskies traveled to Beall High School to play Mount Savage. The two teams fought for the win, playing a five game match, and Northern eventually triumphed 3-2.

Mount Savage won the first game 15-8. Northern then won the second game 15-2. The Indians came back the in third game and won 15-6. Northern finally took the last two games 15-10 and 15-4.

Bridget Frazee led Northern with 12 service points and eight kills. Umbel contributed 12 points from the service line.

Mount Savage defeated Northern in the JV match 15-9 and 15-12. Marybeth Hershberger led the Huskies with five service points.

Northern played a highly competitive match with the Campers Monday evening at Allegany High School. Allegany prevailed to keep its undefeated season in a 3-1 match.

The Huskies were shut out 15-0 in the first game and then trailed behind Alco 15-13 in the second. Northern upset the Campers 16-14 in the third game, but lost the match 15-11 in the fourth game.

Umbel lead the team with 12 service points and Bridget Frazee contributed 10. Heidi Frazee led the team in attacks, with eight kills.

Allegany also took the JV match 15-4 and 15-12.

The Huskies defeated the Preston High School volleyball team on the road Tuesday night in two straight matches.

Scores of the individual games were 15-4 and 15-10.

Heather Umbel led Northern to its win with 14 service points, including six aces. Mimi Harvey added eight points to the score also.

Preston won the JV match 15-7, 14-16, and 15-12. Kaylan Powell paced Northern with 15 points.

Last night the Huskies hosted a powerful Flintstone team that downed Northern 3-0. The visitors came into the match boasting an 11-1 record.

The Aggies decimated NHS in the first game, recording a rare 15-0 shutout. Undaunted, the Huskies fought back to lose by only four points, 15-11, in game number two. Flintstone proved too deep by game three, which the visitors took by a 15-4 margin.

Malia Collins led the Huskies with six service points, two aces, and three kills, while Bridget Frazee added three kills.

A NEW PIKE PEAK - Maryland has a new state record for northern pike after Phoenix resident Shawn Jacobson pulled in this 24-lb. 12-oz. monster from Deep Creek Lake Saturday. The 17-year-old bought his fishing license, a rod and reel, and some minnows at Johnny's Bathouse early that morning, and the fish hit after an hour of fishing from a pier near the Route 219 bridge. "I was so excited during the 45 minutes I fought with it that my yelling woke the neighbors and about 15 people came down to the shore with their cameras," said Jacobson. DNR Fisheries biologist Ken Pavol verified that the catch broke the existing state record by almost 2 pounds, a record set by another Deep Creek Lake pike seven years ago. Local fish are no doubt gulping sighs of relief after the 46½-inch long, 20½-inch girth carnivorous predator, jaws lined with razor-sharp teeth, was removed from their neighborhood. (Has anyone seen Tikki lately?)

Hunting Dog Association To Visit County

The National Hunting Dog Association will visit Garrett County November 6 and 7, and will hold a competition at the Wings of Challenge hunting preserve near Friendsville. Bird dog owners from several states are expected to participate.

There will be classes for pointing dogs as well as flushing dogs, as dogs and owners will compete for trophies and cash prizes. They will also receive points that will be used to determine the national champions next year.

The field trails are open to all bird dog owners and everyone is welcome. The primary sponsors are Bass Pro Shops and Red Head. The local sponsor is Team One of Oakland.

To register and/or obtain more information, persons may telephone Ray or Tina Devine at 301-746-8868 or Ron Beeghly at 301-387-4057.

DNR Fall Trout Stocking Program Draws To Close

Maryland's Department of Natural Resources completed its fall trout stocking program last week, as the last of over 57,000 hatchery-raised adult rainbow and brown trout were released into selected fishing areas across the state. The number represents an increase of nearly 7,000 fish that were stocked this season over last year's fall season.

Stocking tallies in Garrett County were: 1,500 fish in the Youghiogheny River; 1,300 fish in the delayed harvest area of the Casselman River; and 1,000 fish each in the Piney Reservoir, the North Branch Potomac at Kitzmiller, and the North Branch of the Potomac's delayed harvest area.

Some of these trout are holdover trout, averaging ½-pound apiece and more than 12 inches in length. Most of the stocking around the state was limited to larger lakes, ponds, and rivers because of low stream flows.

"DNR's trout stocking program is part of the department's ongoing efforts to provide and promote outdoor recreational activities to all Marylanders," a DNR spokesperson said. The program is funded entirely by the sale of freshwater fishing licenses and trout stamps, and federal Sportfish Restoration Program (Wallop-Breaux) funds which are generated by anglers and boaters' tax dollars.

Anglers are reminded that a valid Maryland fishing license and trout stamp are required to possess trout caught in Maryland, excluding anglers under 16.

nine kills. Jennifer Tesgarden was credited with 16 assists and six kills, and Erica Wilt had nine assists and a perfect 11 for 11 performance from the service line.

In junior varsity action, Jessica Sharon's 14 service points led the Rams to a 2-1 victory. SHS fell in the first game, 15-10, but rebounded to take the next two, 15-12 and 15-8. Steyer added eight points to help pace Southern.

SHS hosts Northern on Wednesday, Oct. 27, at 7 p.m.

The child also sustained a minor burn. He and House were both treated at the scene by the rescue squad and did not require transportation to the hospital.

Some 50 fire fighters brought the blaze under control in about 15 minutes. Most of the damage was confined to the bedroom area, although there was smoke damage throughout the apartment. There was a smoke alarm in the apartment, but the fire marshal report said that it was inoperable.

Summoned to the scene by the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management were units from the Friendsville, Accident, Deep Creek, Addison, Grantsville, and Oakland VFDs, along with the county air cascade unit that is housed at the Deep Creek VFC.

OTT is also very grateful for the patience and assistance of our neighbors, Mary Lou Stemple of Grandmother's House and the Stover and Sherbin Law Offices. Mark Durst of Durst Funeral Home was a great help to us with the time capsule.

Garrett County Outdoors

By Robert Yonke

This past weekend was celebrated as "Autumn Glory" here in Garrett County, and glorious it was. The weather was perfect for just about any outdoor activity imaginable. As for me, I passed on organized activity that abounded and chose to spend Saturday morning kicking through brambie patches and coverts looking for grouse. I managed to flush four and got no shots, as they all flushed either out of range or at angles impossible to reach.

The afternoon involved casting for chain pickerel on Deep Creek Lake. What a day for fishing, just like Deep Creek used to be. This is the time of year for fisherman to take the lake back from pesky personal watercraft and roaring ski boats. Without large wakes it is possible to cast from small boats in quiet weedy bays and watch "cuda" like chains follow lures in the clear fall water.

Anyone interested in chasing pickerel might try the shallow waters of Back Bay or the weedbed just off the point at Holy Cross Camp. They are not shy and will strike any flashy lure or spoon. Also, plastic tube lures and white plastic grubbs with twister tails got their share of attention.

RUFFED GROUSE AND SQUIRREL SEASON IN FULL SWING

Indications from field staff are that squirrel and grouse hunters can expect to find good populations of grouse and squirrels. An abundant acorn crop in 1998 led to increased squirrel populations across Maryland in 1999, while favorable nesting conditions this summer for grouse resulted in a good hatch. Dry summer conditions also improved the survival of young birds, leading to an increase in the grouse population. This should prove to be one of the best hunting seasons in recent years.

Wildlife staff annually conduct mast surveys throughout western Maryland to determine acorn production, as well as other mast crops. In 1999, acorn production was rated as average in Garrett and Washington counties, and poor in Allegany and Frederick counties. That means that squirrels will be centralized around oaks that produced acorns, as well as hickories. Hickory nut production was rated as moderate across the region, as were walnuts. Apple production was rated as moderate to heavy throughout the region. Despite drought conditions in 1999, it appears that food supplies for wildlife will be adequate through the fall and winter months.

Ruffed grouse are found only in western Maryland in the more mountainous areas. Hunters will find good numbers of grouse on all the public hunting areas in the western region. Squirrels can be found on these areas as well. Squirrel hunters should find high numbers of squirrels across the state. Any woodlot that has oak or hickory trees will have squirrels.

DNR STOCKS TROUT FOR FALL SEASON

DNR Fisheries Service staff have released more than 57,000 hatchery-raised adult rainbow and brown trout into selected fishing areas as part of the department's ongoing efforts to provide and promote outdoor recreational activities to all Marylanders. Stocking began in September and was completed last week. Nearly 7,000 more fish were stocked this season than last.

Garrett County streams that were stocked include the Yough (1,500), North Branch at Kitzmiller (1,000), North Branch at the delayed harvest area (1,000), and the Casselman (1,300).

DNR's trout stocking program is funded entirely by the sale of freshwater fishing licenses and trout stamps, and by federal Sportfish Restoration Program (Wallop-Breaux) funds, which are generated by anglers and boaters' tax dollars.

Casselman River — Water flows have finally returned to normal on the river. The Casselman and the North Branch area above Kitzmiller traditionally receive some of the largest trout produced by our hatcheries. Some of the browns produced at the Mettiki Coal Corp. production facility are huge. So look for some great fall fishing in the weeks ahead. Delayed harvest is in effect on the Casselman. No trout may be taken from October 1 through June 15, 2000.

North Branch Of The Potomac — Water flows are running slightly below normal, but overall, conditions are quite good for fall trout fishing. Stimulators and parachute style patterns are effective in the pocket water, and ants in the slow pools. Many of the trout are preparing to spawn, and if fall electrofishing surveys are any indication, the fishing should be quite good.

Savage River — Water levels in Savage River are down, but it is quite fishable. Try small dun stoneflies and BWOs.

The Youghiogheny — The water is low, but fishable and the fish are consolidated in the deeper holes and faster runs. There are small caddis and BWO hatches, mostly in the evening.

seek to decertify the collective bargaining unit," Beitzel said. "An effort was made by AFSCME to get legislation passed that would mandate recognition of collective bargaining by the County. The successful completion of this negotiation with continued recognition of this collective bargaining unit demonstrates that we will continue to work together with the common objective of doing the best job we can with the resources available to maintain all county roads."

The commissioners thanked the county management negotiation team of Ed McLellan, chief negotiator, Pagenhardt, and Fred Polce, county roads general superintendent, for representing them. The board also commended Jim Bestpitch and members of the union negotiating team, Charlie Harvey, Gerald Harmon, and Steve Kemp for their part in drafting the agreement and securing ratification from the bargaining unit membership.

New Manager Joins Staff Of Plaza Homes

ALICE BOSLEY

Plaza Homes Inc. recently announced that local resident Alice Bosley has joined the sales staff as manager of the Grantsville-based business. A seven-year veteran of the sales/public relations industry, Bosley brings to her new office experience in both housing and financial fields.

Before coming to Plaza Homes Inc., Bosley worked in real estate, the home building industry, and customer relations. A graduate of Northern High School, she attended Garrett Community College, where she studied business.

Plaza Homes Inc., serving the Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia area for over 10 years, offers sectional, modular, doublewide, singlewide, and log homes in standard and customized floor plans. The offices are located in the Grantsville Plaza, off Chestnut Ridge Road in Grantsville.

Area Youth Group Seeking Members

Virtuous Reality, a youth group based in the Grantsville area, is seeking new members and expanding its services. The three-year-old organization serves young people ages 12-19 and currently has a regular membership of about 30.

Coordinated by husband and wife team Melissa and Jonathan Flores, Virtuous Reality is sponsored by the World Lighthouse Worship Center located in the Northern Industrial Park. The program offers both on-site activities and group outings. "The problem for many young people is boredom. We want to find the young people in the community who want something to do and who would like to be part of this group," Melissa Flores said.

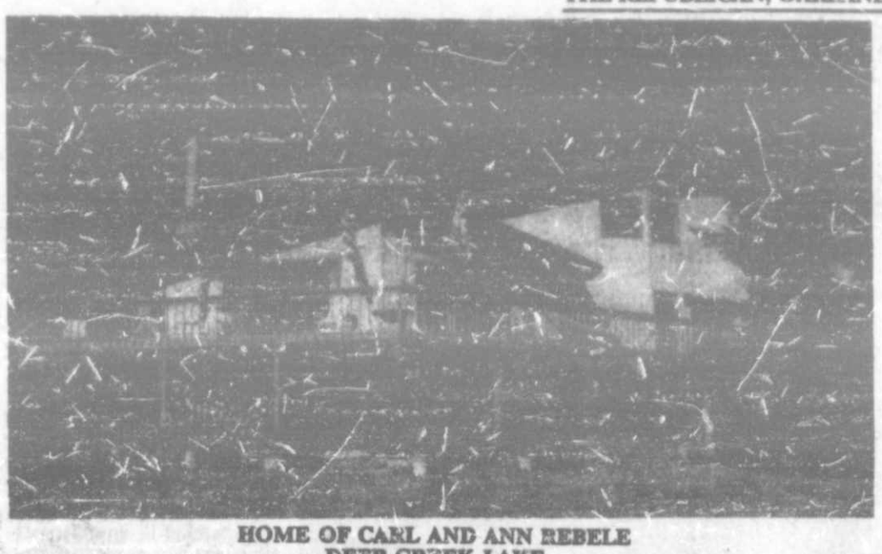
Virtuous Reality meets on Tuesdays at 7 p.m. for socialization and activities at the site. "On Fridays we have field trips. For example, we might go to a football game," Jonathan Flores noted. Occasionally the group will travel a greater distance to a destination such as a theme park, he added.

Snacks are provided to group participants and transportation can usually be arranged. For information, persons may call 301-895-3868 or 301-895-3292.

HotSpot To Put Complaint Box In Post Office

Grantsville residents will soon be able to stop in at the post office to notify law enforcement officers of disturbances and problems within the community. A complaint box, accessible to all residents, will be installed in the lobby of the post office.

Initiated by the HotSpot team, the concept of the complaint box was developed through discussion among the law enforcement, social services, and parole and probation representatives that compose that group. Complaint forms will be available on which to describe the nature of the problem. The box will be monitored by Deputy Jeff Green of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Tpr. Blair Bittinger of the Maryland State Police, McHenry barrack.



"Hopefully, residents will be comfortable filling out these forms. They don't need to put their names on them," said HotSpot team member Kerrie Margroff of the office of parole and probation.

The box is currently being made and will be installed in the near future, she reported.

Rebele Home To Be Stop On ARC House Tours

The eighth annual Home for the Holidays house tours event, sponsored by the American Red Cross, will this year feature the house of Carl and Ann Rebele, located in the Turkey Neck area of Deep Creek Lake. The house tours event, which is one of the local Red Cross chapter's largest fund-raisers, will be held the first weekend in December.

The use of native hardwoods throughout the Rebeles' 1960s lake home allows attractive and functional creativity. The original two-story summer chalet included a second floor with two bedrooms, a bath, and a great room for living or dining. The first floor includes two bedrooms, a bath, and a recreation room. A fieldstone chimney includes fireplaces on both levels.

HOME OF CARL AND ANN REBELE
DEEP CREEK LAKE

A addition was constructed in 1980 that provided a second great room, a fourth level bedroom, bath, and office that overlook Deep Creek Lake. A double garage, the workshop, and winterizing completed the Troy Gnegy construction. The architect, of Gzesh Associates, designed the four-story home to blend in with the trees and to withstand the Garrett County winters. It is now a year-around home for Carl and Ann Rebele.

The home is located at 901 Pine Tree Point.

Tickets for the Red Cross tours, which are $5 in advance or $7 at the door, will be available at the end of this month at Englander's, Gregg's, and Proudfoot's pharmacies, Flowers by Webers along Weber Road, Deep Creek Pharmacy in McHenry, and Arrowhead Market at Deep Creek Lake.

The Rebeles join the families of Norman and Janice Hanline, Lou DiCarlo, and George and Dawn Scheffel in opening their homes for the tours. Also on the line-up this year are two businesses, Simon Pearce and the Deer Park Inn.

GRANTSVILLE

The town meeting was held Monday, Oct. 18.

- When eastern standard time resumes at the end of this month, the council will begin its winter schedule. There will be only one meeting per month, held on the third Monday.
- Maryland Environmental Services has completed the report on the quality of the town's drinking water. A copy of this report will be distributed to each household.
- The town office computer system is now completely Y2K compatible and ready for the new millennium.
- A map is posted in Town Hall which outlines the areas recently annexed into Grantsville. The town's zoning designations for these areas are also noted on the map.
- Testing of the town's new wells is now complete. The geologist's report indicates a flow of 100 gallons per minute of iron-free water.
- Work began Monday on the installation of water lines from the new wells into the newly annexed areas. The contractor has projected a completion date of November 15, weather permitting.
- The mayor and council discussed the Grantsville branch of the Ruth Enlow library. There is concern about future growth, building, and funding.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 15.

National Gospel Recording Release Features Song By Swanton Resident

The latest album by Nashville recording artist and Grand Ole' Opry star Billy Walker includes a new gospel song, "For Me," written by Garrett County songwriter Lynn Beckman. The album, titled Back On the Mountain Again, was officially released on September 20, and has been shipped to more than 3,500 retail book and Christian music stores nationwide.

"I am very pleased with the way the song turned out on the album," said Beckman, who resides near Swanton. "It is quite an experience as a writer to hear someone else sing one of my songs, especially a major recording artist like Billy Walker. The album contains some excellent music with superb arrangements and production, and some of Nashville's most noted super pickers and background singers; then, when I look down the list of writers' credits and realize the caliber of company my song is keeping, I am humbled and thankful just to have it appear there.

"I think I am the first songwriter from Garrett County to have ever had a piece of music recorded by a major artist for national distribution," Beckman commented. "I cannot recall any others, but that may or may not be true. I hope the song gets some attention. In large measure that is up to disc jockeys and radio stations, including local ones. Several local stations have been playing it. Every bit of air play the song gets helps establish it and gives it another nudge forward."

"When I first heard Lynn's song, "For Me," Walker said, "it touched me deeply because it is the pure gospel message of Jesus Christ. Immediately I had thoughts about the arrangement and production of the song. Lynn had been in contact with my office previously to see if I would be willing to review some of his materials, and that song was one of several I received from him. When I heard it, I knew I wanted to record it and had hopes it would be possible to include it on my next project, which, as it has turned out, did happen."

Beckman, who has written nearly 30 published works, has also recorded and released some of his own material. Several of the songs on an album he released about two years ago on the Waynesboro, Va.-based Major label, have received regional attention on gospel music radio programs. His latest album also contains a song about Maryland, titled "My Homeland Is Maryland," which has received favorable reviews as well as the attention of broadcasters and certain elected officials.

Beckman's first commercial recording was released in 1972, also on the Major label. Two nationally released single recordings on Big D Records, a Houston, Texas, company owned by "Pappy" Daily, known for having produced and managed artists like George Jones and others included one of Beckman's originals called "Wasting Time."

"This is a hobby with me, and if I have a goal in mind, it is to be recognized as a writer and not an artist. I love to write—songs, stories, presentations, everything," Beckman said. "The recordings I have made over the years were intended to gain exposure for my music, with the hopes that a major artist would pick up something of mine and cover it. The funny thing is that the song that got noticed by Billy Walker, "For Me," was on a demo I did on a home tape recorder and not something I recorded commercially in a studio. It just goes to show you that you never know what will click, nor do you know when or how a song might be discovered," he observed.

"For Me" was signed to a publishing contract several months ago with Matamoros Music—BMI, a subsidiary of Best Way Music—ASCAP, both of which are affiliated with Walker's Nashville-based music enterprises. The national distribution of the new album is being handled by New Day Christian Distributors, a Nashville area religious materials and music publishing and distribution company. It is a subsidiary of the Daywind Music Group, which operates a recording company that features contemporary, country, southern gospel, and bluegrass artists such as the Lewis Family and others.

Walker's new album is available in many retail outlets. Persons interested in further information on the release may write to Lynn Beckman, P.O. Box 3012, Swanton, MD, 215613012, or call him at 301387-9275.

AREA WRITER FINE-TUNES NASHVILLE RELEASE - Swanton songwriter Lynn Beckman, left, and Grand Ole Opry artist Billy Walker are shown working out the publishing, recording, and business details for Beckman's gospel song, "For Me," in Nashville before the song went into production recently. The song is contained in a new gospel album released by Walker last month, Back On the Mountain Again, which is available at over 3,500 retail Christian music and book outlets nationwide.

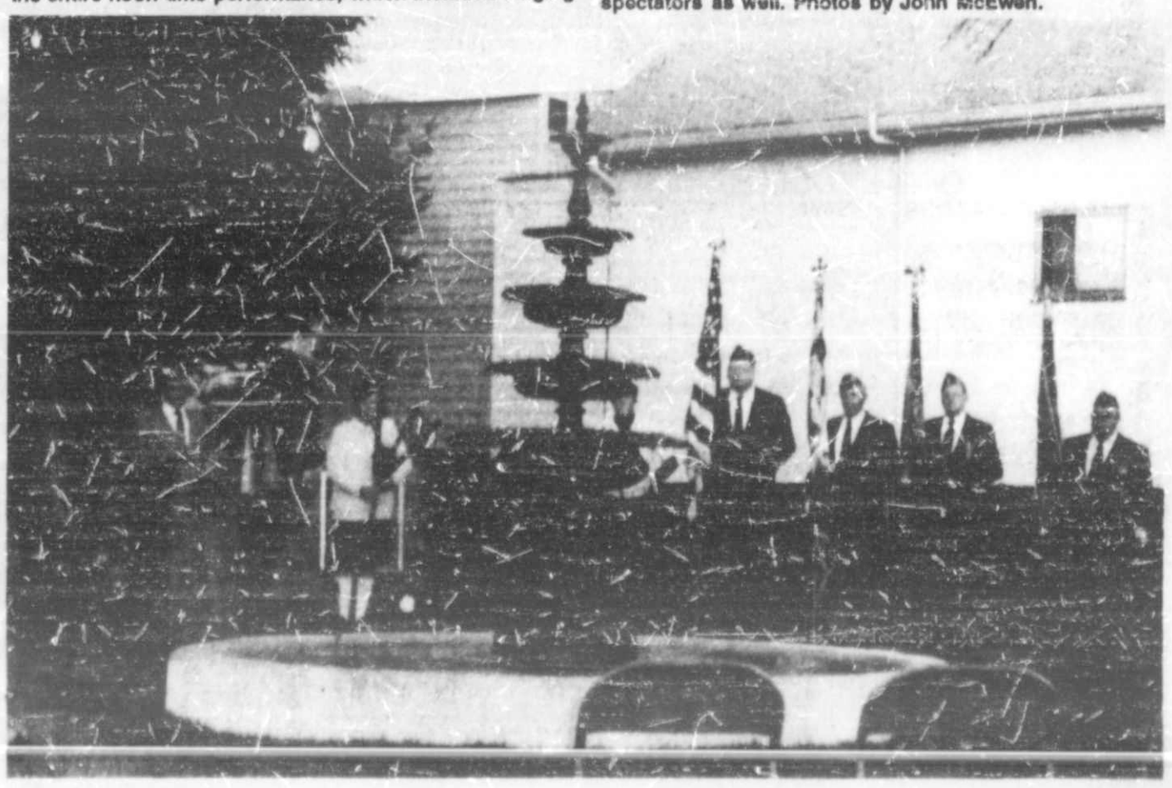
KIDS WERE THE FOCUS OF THE DAY on Thursday and Friday of the sesquicentennial, as both days were designated in part as Youth and Family Day. Members of Garrett's Promise organized two full days of fun for all ages, with special games, carnivals, and a battle of the bands on Friday evening. The carnivals took place at Glades Park. Shown above, a big turtle takes a turn at mini-golf as some youngsters look on. Head Start children were led in a variety of games on Thursday morning as part of the event. The young participants are pictured below. Photos by John McEwen.

THE TALK OF THE TOWN in Oakland has been the reconstruction of the Deer Park Hotel gazebo, donated to the Garrett County Historical Society by Alden Perando, Deer Park. The building was restored by Winston Miller and several members of his family, who were true to the original by using as much of the remaining structure as possible (about 60% of the building is original). The gazebo was placed next to the historical society's Garrett County Museum along Second Street in Oakland. The ribbon was officially cut by the first curator, Mary Jones, shown at left, and the current curator, Beth Friend. Bob Boal, president of the society, shown at right, was the master of ceremonies at last Tuesday's dedication event. Shown below left is Bob Shaffer, whom Boal said had nearly camped night and day at the site until the structure was complete. In the photo below right is Perando, as he is thanked by Boal on behalf of the historical society and the county. Photos by John McEwen.

THERE'S NOTHING LIKE THE AROMA of homemade bread, and that scent brought crowds of people who lined up for a slice or three during the Sesquicentennial Farmers and Homemakers Day. Members of the Dry Run Mennonite Church set up housekeeping for the day at the Mountain Fresh Producers' Pavilion and, because the "bread line" was so constant, the women resorted to using an electric carver to keep up the pace (and were somewhat amused that they were photographed doing so). Ellisa Orendorf and Lucy Maust are pictured as they keep the bread moving. In the photo at right, Shawn Sanders churns butter for the bread, while Mary Brenneman sews her quilting pieces. Photos by John McEwen.



VETERANS WERE HONORED on Tuesday of the Sesquicentennial Celebration, with a patriotic show held on the new Front Page Stage, pictured above, and the dedication of the town's new fountain, shown below, and located at the corner of Oak and Third streets. Bea Crosco managed the entire noon-time performance, which included singing by the Garrett Choral Society, Joe DiSimone, Tom Peterson, Tim Miller, and Dave Martin. An old-fashioned patriotic dance, directed by Fran Storck, also entertained the crowd, which numbered over 200. The evening dedication of the fountain included recognition of all veterans in the area and their families. That event was crowded with spectators as well. Photos by John McEwen.

A STREET BRAWL? Well, yes, that's exactly what is pictured above, only it took place only in fun. Our Town Theatre's Tintypes presentation for the Oakland sesquicentennial included a monologue by a Mrs. Kennedy (played by Eileen Schlosnagle), an Irish washwoman who witnessed the infamous Irish brawl that took place in the middle of Oakland's streets sometime in the 1850s. After the telling of the tale, director and writer Jane Avery handed out harmless weaponry and invited the audience to enjoy a good melee, which they did. Among the whackers were Avery herself, as well as Mayor Asa McCain. Photo by Mary McEwen.

Red Ribbon Week Message Geared To Parents, Students, Educators

by Peggy Santamaria

As a concerned parent or grandparent, do you know what the latest trends in student drug use are? Do you know how many kids are drinking alcohol under the legal age? Do you know what the consequences are if youngsters in your care are using drugs or drinking alcohol?

These and other questions—such as, "How do I tell if my child is using drugs?"—will be answered during parent information sessions scheduled next week at Northern and Southern high schools.

Yes, drug and alcohol awareness education is coming into Garrett County in a new way and with a new punch during National Red Ribbon Week. This year it will not only be students who will have the opportunity to learn about health and legal issues surrounding alcohol and drug use, but parents, teachers, and community members at large.

The information sessions will be held 6:30-7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 26, at NHS, and on Wednesday, Oct. 27, at SHS. The forums will be in the school gymnasiums. The man who will update Garrett County residents on the current student drug and alcohol situation is William Morrison, a Montgomery County police officer.

League Of Women Voters Endorses Health Initiative

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County has endorsed the Health Care For All, Maryland Citizens' Health Initiative.

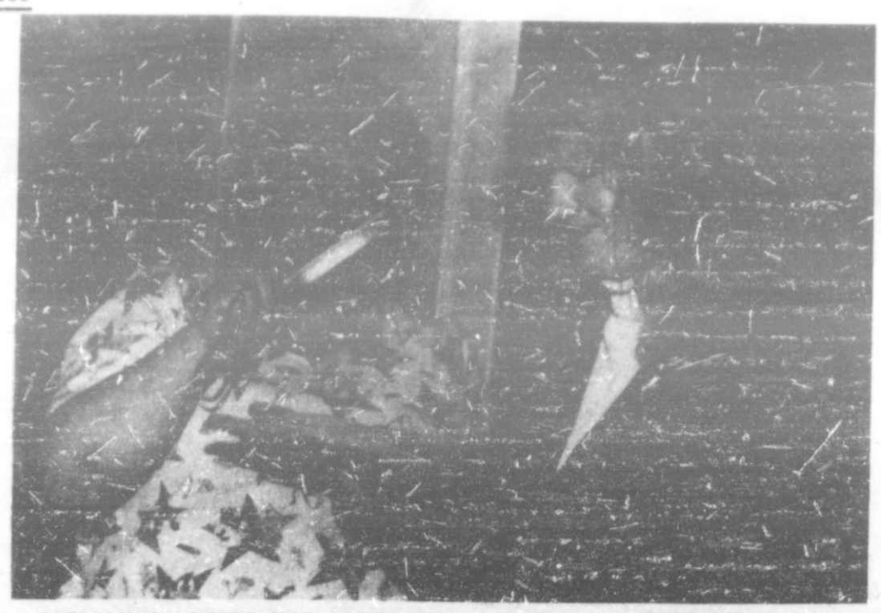
The league joined this coalition to endorse a comprehensive health care system, which would guarantee quality health care for all state residents, said LWV president Susan Athey-Oxford.

The initiative's executive director is Vinny DeMarco, Esq., and the president is Baltimore City health commissioner, Dr. Peter Beilenson. DeMarco will provide several presentations in Garrett County on Friday, Oct. 22. Anyone interested in hearing more about the coalition, initiative specifics and/or research pertinent to the health care and insurance needs in Garrett County is invited to attend a public presentation scheduled at the health department, GW Plaza, at 10:15 a.m.

For more information, persons may contact Athey-Oxford at 301-334-8653 or E-mail sao@genet.net.

Drug Recognition Expert To Speak In Garrett County

William R. Morrison, an expert in the fields of drug recognition, enforcement, and prevention will be in Garrett County next week to hold seminars with educators, parents, and students. His visit was arranged by guidance counselors in the Garrett County school system.



A Montgomery County Police officer since 1985, Morrison has been active in alcohol and drug enforcement during most of his career. In 1994, he was chosen by his department to develop a plan to combat underage drinking. Since then, his program has been expanded and is modeled nationwide.

Aspects of the program include education and prevention plans, and enforcement techniques, such as controlled dispersal and point of purchase enforcement. Since developed, the plan to address the problems of underage drinking has been activated by several agencies and is currently in effect across the United States.

A certified Drug Recognition Expert (DRE), Morrison is an instructor in this field, as well as an instructor in the Standardized Field Sobriety Testing program. Nationwide, he trains officers, educators, and enforcers of DWI detection and underage drinking.

Morrison was instrumental in the development of training programs on drug and alcohol issues for judges, prosecutors, and bar associations. He has taught the drug recognition program in many states.

Morrison worked with other experts on the development of the Prescription and Over the Counter Drug Training Module. In addition, he has been recognized as a court expert in various cases related to drug and alcohol abuse.

GERMY-MON, GOTTA NOT CATCH ANY!! - Kids at the Grantsville after-school program heard all about germs that cause illness and how to hold them at bay. In the first of a special wellness series presented by health education specialist Beth Hodge, program participants were introduced to methods of disease prevention. The passing of germs from person to person was the focus of the interactive games during this week's session. Vividly illustrating the presence of germs, Hodge asked teacher Karen Wood to wash her hands. Hodge then put a lotion on Wood's hands to which germs would cling, and turned on a black light. To everyone's evident surprise, what appeared to be spotlessly clean hands had—that's right—Germemon. The Grantsville after-school program, sponsored by the HotSpot initiative and Garrett County Community Action, is held at the Grantsville Senior Center and is open to elementary and middle school students in the Grantsville area. For information persons may call 301-334-9431.

IT IS YOUR BUSINESS.....

by Peggy Santamaria

In attempts to galvanize the community-at-large to act against domestic violence, the coordinators of the Domestic Violence Awareness project continue to broadcast the message: "It is your business...."

For persons who are uncertain about how to get involved or how to make it their business, the project coordinators list actions and responses that may be appropriate for situations in which we find ourselves.

- Speak out against domestic violence. If you see or hear a domestic violence situation, call for help. You can call your local domestic violence hotline, women's shelter, crisis intervention hotline, or the local police.
- Organize groups within your community to speak out against family violence. Write your legislators and make them accountable for their positions on domestic violence. Write letters of support to movie and music companies speaking out against domestic violence, or write to movie and music companies who portray women inaccurately and let them know this is unacceptable and that you will not purchase their products.
- Get involved! Show your support by volunteering at your local domestic violence center, making donations, or organizing food and/or clothing drives for the local women's shelter. Generate community support through those drives and find out from the local domestic violence program how you and others can help. Sometimes the shelter is in need of personal care or housekeeping items. Simple ways to show your involvement are wearing a ribbon or displaying a bumper sticker on your vehicle with an anti-domestic violence statement.
- Educate. Approach your local businesses to join in a community education campaign displaying posters, flyers and other educational information.
- Be a friend. Help a friend in an abusive situation by being a good listener and telling her it is not her fault. Help her find resources and support available in your community.
- Be non-judgmental. Domestic violence does not discriminate against gender, race, socio-economic status, marital status, or age. Know that violence is not an acceptable way to deal with anger or conflict. The victim did not "ask for it." She does not "deserve" it.
- Be an example. Make a commitment to the cause and let others know about your commitment. Use non-violent conflict resolution strategies in your relationship with your partner and when disciplining your children.
- Know the facts and then share them with others. Set up domestic violence workshops in your workplace, community group, or church. Get your schools to address the issue with their students.
- Know whom to call for help. Have the numbers of the local domestic violence program and women's shelter and local police on hand.
- Initiate conversations about domestic violence.

Ad Inserts List 8,000 Owners Of Unclaimed Funds

Comptroller of the Treasury William Donald Schaefer said his office is publishing an eight-page advertising supplement that will appear in 34 newspapers throughout the state between October 18 and October 29 to help locate about 8,000 individuals and businesses who are among the most recently reported owners of millions of dollars in unclaimed funds. The supplement is enclosed in today's issue of The Republican.

The comptroller's web site, www.marylandtaxes.com, also lists more than 40,000 recently reported names of unclaimed property owners. The office has records on 313,000 accounts worth more than $105 million.

"If you find your name in the ad supplement or on the comptroller's web site, please call our Unclaimed Property office at 410-767-1700 in central Maryland, or toll free 1-800-782-7383 from elsewhere," said Schaefer. "Most of these advertised accounts are still being held by financial institutions and corporations, and we'll give you important information that will help you claim your money."

Financial institutions and corporations are required to report funds that have been unclaimed for five years to the comptroller's office. The fall advertisement mostly reflects insurance benefits that went unclaimed because the policy was not discovered during the settlement of an estate. Other unclaimed money is owed on insurance policies that had a cash value even though all the premiums weren't paid. Medical insurance benefits that were misdirected in the mail and did not reach the policy owner is another major category of unclaimed cash.

Approximately 80 days after the publication of the ad, businesses which hold accounts that remain unclaimed will turn the money over to the state. However, that money remains the property of the owners or their legitimate heirs, and they can claim the funds any time. There is no deadline for filing a claim.

The comptroller's office advertises recently reported names of unclaimed property owners each spring and fall. The statewide advertising campaign last spring generated calls and letters from more than 13,000 individuals. Other outreach efforts include computer file matches with the Internal Revenue Service and other government agencies and setting up computers at the state fair, local fairs, trade shows, and shopping malls to allow people to check the unclaimed property files.

Unclaimed funds worth millions of dollars are claimed every year. In fiscal year 1999, which ended on June 30, 1999, the comptroller's office honored 10,921 claims totaling more than $12.5 million. The average claim was $1,145.

MANY OLD TIMERS ARE STILL AROUND

New and powerful miracle drugs form the basis for most of the news we hear about advances in health care. But, there are still a great many medicines being prescribed that have withstood the passage of time. Penicillin, digitalis, sulfur and ephedrine are just a few that are frequently prescribed by physicians.

These drugs, day in and day out, are saving lives, curing illnesses and alleviating pain. As long as they are considered effective they will continue to occupy a prominent place in our prescription laboratory.

The Home of the Shepherd

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I fear no evil; for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff, they comfort me." Psalm 23:4.

The psalmist David knew the value of the shepherd. The life of the shepherd belonged to his sheep. If they wandered off blindly, his eyes were always open. If they lost their footing and stumbled on rocky ground, he rescued them with the crook of his staff. He cared for the sheep and the lambs. One way or the other, he saw to it that his flock was safe. The shepherd knew they depended upon his knowledge and skill.

Truly, the Lord is our Shepherd, for He knows we are not aware of the pitfalls and the rocky paths that we may blindly wander onto each day. We need only have the faith and God, our Shepard, will give us peace of mind.

Become one of God's fold as you worship with His flock at your local church or synagogue. He will "watch over" you.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

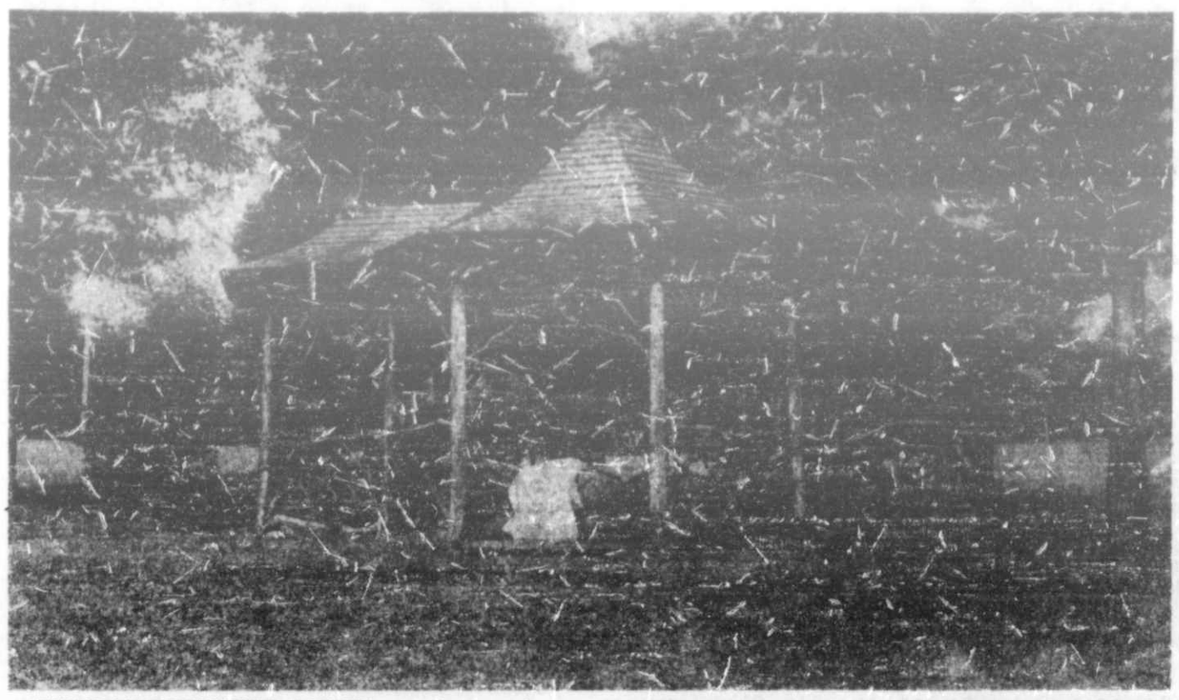
PASSING IT ON
October 24, 1999

Background Scripture:
Deuteronomy 6
Devotional Reading:
Deuteronomy 30:11-20

How many of you believe you gave your parents too much love? None of you, I'm sure. It is impossible to give our parents too much love. In fact, when they are gone, many of us realize that we never gave them enough love. If you have ever come to that conclusion, join the club—it's one of the biggest in the world.

One reason we rarely give our parents enough love is that we engaged with them in a lifelong struggle between dependence and independence. Many times we resisted obeying them or did so reluctantly because we were intent on being our own person. Human beings generally do not like to have to obey anyone, especially our parents who laid down the rules by which they expected us to live with them. It is upsetting to us when someone can say 'Do that' and we have to do it.

I think we have the same kind of struggle with God. He commands us and we are expected to obey those commandments. That was the basis of the relationship between God and the people of Israel. As Moses tells them, "Now this is the commandment, the statutes and ordinances which the Lord your God has commanded me to teach you, that you may do them in the land to which you are going over, to possess it" (Deut. 6:1).



4 RESPONSES

Essentially, there are usually four different responses which people make to commandments. There are those who say, "I will" and do it, and those who say, "I will," but don't. Then there are those who say "I won't," but do it anyway and those who say "I won't" and don't. At any given moment we are likely to find ourselves in one or more of those categories. This is true between children and parents and also God and his children.

Moses instructed the people of Israel to keep these commandments always in their continuing consciousness. "And these words which I command you this day shall be upon your heart; and you shall teach them diligently to your children, and shall talk of them when you sit in your house, and when you walk by the way, and when you lie down, and when you rise. And you shall write them on the door posts of your house and on your gates" (6:6-9). We are not asked to memorize them so that we can recite them; we are told to make them part of us so that we can live them.

This is not just a matter of God enforcing his authority over us—even if it may sometimes fe

Glimpse of The Past . . .

THE DEER PARK HOTEL GAZEBO was, fortunately, recently restored, moved to Oakland, and dedicated by the Garrett County Historical Society after it was donated to the society by Alden Perando. Unfortunately the same cannot be said for the Deer Park Hotel spring house, which is pictured above, but no longer exists. The spring house "architecture" departed somewhat from typical Victorian style, as curved willow branches were used for the railing and trim. (Note the bird house at the tip of the roof.) This photo was on a penny postcard that was mailed in March of 1930 from Deer Park by someone named Mame to a Mrs. W.H. Marley in Show, W.Va.

Jennings ELCA Women Convene

The Women of the ELCA, Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting in the church on September 5.

The theme for the second session of the Bible study on Genesis was introduced by cassette tape, and Leota Baker led the lesson "Fall Up, Fall Down, or Fall Apart?" The study endeavored to lead one to sense the realities of sin and temptation and how they have broken the relationship between God and man, and to gain a sense of need for repentance and reconciliation, said a spokesperson.

Devotions were closed with the reading of Psalm 51 and the hymn "Maker of Earth and Heaven."

Judy Stanton presided over the business meeting.

A thank-you note was received from the Lutheran Home at Kane, Pa., for the gift recently sent by Zion's unit.

Announcement was made of the fall retreat to be held jointly by the Ohio-Kanawha Valley and the MonongahelaValley-Mountain Clusters at Jackson's Mill, Weston, W.Va., on November 6-7. Reservations must be in by October 22.

HOUSE OF HOPE BENEFITS - A pair of raffles were held this summer to benefit the House of Hope, a local non-profit organization that helps meet emergency needs of Garrett County residents. Pictured below are Dick and Mary Vogel of Clearville, Pa., who won the Independence Bears made by local artisan Katie Klerstead and donated to the House of Hope by Patty Wells, Accident.

The quarterly offering was sent to the American Bible Society for the Bible-A-Month ministry.

The annual ingathering of the thank offering will be held at the next meeting, scheduled for November 2.

Multiculturalism Will Be Topic Of FSU Forum

The Frostburg State University Philosophical Forum will sponsor a public lecture and discussion on "Multiculturalism and Individual Identity" at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 26, in Dunkle Hall, Room 218, on the FSU campus.

Dr. Jorn K. Bramann, Department of Philosophy, will present a short paper. In it, Bramann argues that everyone needs to accept and promote multiculturalism, but if they attempt to use any particular culture as a means to create "identities," it is both politically dangerous and ultimately not meaningful at this point in history.

Dr. Constance McGovern of the Department of History, Dr. Jean-Marie Makang of the Department of Philosophy, and Dr. MacGregor O'Brien of the Department of Foreign Languages and Literature will give critical responses. An open discussion will follow, with Dr. Thomas A. Mappes, Department of Philosophy, serving as moderator.

Dr. Bramann's paper is available on the Philosophical Forum web site at www.frostburg.edu/dept/phil/forum.

For more information, persons may contact the FSU Department of Philosophy at 301-687-4215.

Guidelines For Safe Burning Issued By DNR

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service has issued a reminder for Maryland residents that fall is traditionally a time of high forest fire danger. Last year over 800 wildfires burned nearly 2,100 acres of forest, marsh, and grassland in the state. Fourteen of these fires occurred in Garrett County.

Fall is typically the time of the year when many property owners are conducting outdoor burning of leaves and other debris. Many people do not practice safe burning techniques, according to DNR, which can result in wildfires. Debris burners caused nine wildfires in Garrett County in 1998, 64 percent of the county's wildfires.

In order to prevent wildfires from occurring and causing destruction to private homes and woodlands, the state of Maryland has established Open-Air Burning Regulations. These regulations apply to activities in woodlands and within 200 ft. of woodlands, or activities adjacent to or within an area where flammable materials could ignite and carry fire to woodlands. Open air burning of any type not in accordance with these regulations is subject to citations and fines ranging from $50 to $250.

These regulations are the following:

- A natural or constructed fire break at least 10 feet wide must completely surround the material to be burned.
- Adequate personnel and equipment must be present to prevent the fire from escaping.
- At least one responsible person must remain at the burning location until the last spark is out.
- Permissible burning hours are between 4 p.m. and midnight Eastern Standard Time.
- All open air burning requires a burning permit from the county health department. Open air burning prior to 4 p.m. EST, and within 200 feet of a woodland, must have a burning permit from both the county health department and from the Maryland DNR Forest Service. A combined permit is currently being used.

Persons planning on burning debris before 4 p.m. and needing to obtain a permit may contact the Mt. Nebo office several days in advance to schedule an appointment for a forest ranger to visit the site. Further information on open air burning may be obtained by contacting the Garrett County Health Department, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday at 301-334-8980, or the MD DNR Forest Service, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 301-334-3296.

Persons engaging in open air burning activities are urged to be extremely cautious and certain that the fire does not get out of control and spread into nearby grass and woods. The protection of forest resources is vital to the continuation of forests for water quality protection, timber, wildlife habitat, and recreation benefits, a DNR spokesperson stated.

BANK SUPPORTS FIRE COMPANY - The Deep Creek Lake community office of First United Bank & Trust recently raised funds for the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company by offering a Fireman's Helper certificate of deposit. In the photo above, Larry Lewis, treasurer of the Deep Creek VFC, accepts a check from Roger Sisler, community office manager. "On behalf of First United, we are happy to pledge our help to the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company," stated Sisler. "Members of the community were able to take advantage of a good rate on a CD and, at the same time, help their fire company."

Horse Liniment Eases Arthritis Pain
OCALA, FL -- An ingredient derived from hot peppers that decreases inflammation in racehorse's legs, is now recognized as safe and effective for human use. The ingredient has been formulated into a product called ARTH-Rx™ and comes in a strength designed for humans. Researchers are excited and say the formula can relieve arthritis pain for millions.
Developed by the Phillips GulfCorporation, ARTH-Rx is a breakthrough in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, tendonitis, backache and more.
Although the mechanism by which ARTH-Rx works to relieve pain is not totally clear, scientists suggest that pain is relieved because ARTH-Rx intercepts the messenger substance that sends pain signals to the brain.
ARTH-Rx is available in a convenient roll-on applicator without a prescription. According to a spokesperson for the company, due to the overwhelming demand for ARTH-Rx, supplies are sometimes limited. ARTH-Rx can also be ordered by calling 1-800-729-8445.® 1999 FGC

COVER STORY

Wrongheaded direction leaves Vanity only fair

©TVData Features Syndicate

Natasha Little

The very first image in A&E Network's new co-production of Vanity Fair, airing Sunday and Monday, Oct. 24 and 25, is an obese woman with a finger stuck up her nose. After that, it gets ugly.

OK, let's be fair: Maybe it's just the law of averages coming into play. After all, the list of triumphant A&E-BBC adaptations of English literary classics reads like a "best of" roster for the last half of the TV decade. From the heady romance of Pride and Prejudice to the bawdy nonsense of Tom Jones and the epic sweep of the Emmy-winning Horatio Hornblower, this series of "very special specials" has maintained a jaw-droppingly consistent level of excellence.

A key reason for that outstanding quality is that these previous productions were steered by directors who had faith in the authors of these classic works. Not so Marc Munden, who helms this new six-hour Vanity Fair.

William Makepeace Thackeray's biting 1848 satirical novel, which is set against the backdrop of the Napoleonic Wars, is perhaps not as well known in the United States as it is in England, but this story of nobs behaving badly zeroes in on the unforgettable Becky Sharp (Natasha Little), the seductive and scheming young woman determined to climb her way far above her lowly birth.

Her story is juxtaposed against that of sweet and naive Amelia Sedley (Frances Grey), Becky's school chum and the daughter of a wealthy merchant. If all this starts to seem disconcertingly familiar as you watch, bear in mind that Margaret Mitchell was said to be a fervent admirer of Thackeray's work, so pre-echoes of Scarlett O'Hara and Melanie Hamilton recur throughout the piece.

Director Munden clearly buys into Thackeray's premise that the upper crust can be pretty rancid, but he has made the egregious mistake of not leaving well enough alone. One wishes he would just get out of the way and let Thackeray make his own points, but Munden lays everything on with a trowel. More than once he cuts back to a grossly obese and vastly pregnant sow rooting revoltingly in the mud outside a fine manor house. It's hard not to suspect that Munden was saddened that Thackeray didn't set his yarn in the polar regions, to allow scenes of baby harp seals being clubbed to death.

As if all this weren't bad enough, Munden filmed the piece in a visual palette that seems made of mud, robbing the high-society scenes of any eye appeal whatsoever. That hideously ugly version did, in fact, air in England, but A&E was said to be feverishly having the piece digitally retinted for American viewers. Heaven knows it can only be an improvement.

If you can peer around Munden's wretched excess, there are some jewels to be found amid the muck. Pride and Prejudice screenwriter Andrew Davies has done another superb job in compressing Thackeray's sprawling story, although it's a pity there wasn't time to include more information on Becky's traumatic upbringing, one of her few claims to sympathy.

And there are two stunning performances. Little nails the multilayered Becky from her very first appearance, never begging for the audience's pity yet holding it all the way. Nevertheless, it's the incomparable Miriam Margolyes (The Age of Innocence) who blithely walks off with the piece as Miss Crawley, a corpulent and capricious matriarch.

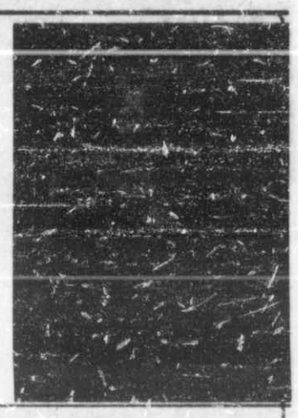
IN FOCUS

Janine Turner stars in A Secret Affair Wednesday, Oct. 27, on CBS, as a professional woman who has given up on passion but rediscovers how to love with the help of an Irish war correspondent (Pauge Behan).

The two meet while on a business trip to Italy. She resists his advances at first but eventually is persuaded to visit him in Ireland.

When he's sent on assignment, she returns to the States to sort out her feelings. But fate plays a hand that will change their lives.



IN FOCUS

The life of Turi Garr is chronicled in Intimate Portrait, airing Monday, Oct. 25, on Lifetime.

Beginning her career in the '60s as an uncredited go-go dancer in The T.A.M.I. Show and a showgirl in Viva Las Vegas, Garr made a splash in Tootsie. Recently, she charmed TV audiences as the perfectly cast mother of Phoebe (Lisa Kudrow) in Friends.

Connie Selleca, Martin Mull, Sydney Pollock and others are interviewed.

IN FOCUS

Tom Berenger stars in the Showtime movie In the Company of Spies, airing Sunday, Oct. 24.

Berenger plays a former CIA agent brought out of retirement by the agency to help locate a colleague who has been captured by North Korean authorities. The North Koreans plan to use their hostage as leverage in international dealings involving nuclear weapons.

Ron Silver and Clancy Brown also star in this directorial debut of actor Tim Matheson (Animal House).

Q: What was up with the opening credits on the season premiere of Friends? Everyone's last name was Arquette! –Mary Jordan, Carthage, Ill.

A: Courteney Cox, who plays Monica on the hit sitcom, married her Scream co-star David Arquette last summer and has taken his last name (Cox says she plans to drop the "Cox" eventually). What you saw in the credits was simply a little joke by her colleagues on the show.

Q: Several years ago I remember seeing a movie on TV that starred a single actor in the role of Harry S. Truman. Who was the actor, what was the name of the movie and where can I find it on home video? –Ione M. Bessent, Brownwood, Texas.

A: I suspect you are thinking of Give 'Em Hell, Harry!, a mid-1970s taping of James Whitmore's acclaimed one-man show. Videotaped for telecast, it was transferred to film and released theatrically, copping a Best Actor Oscar nomination for Whitmore.

You can check the availability of any home video release by calling Movies Unlimited at (800) 4MOVIES.

Q: I belatedly learned of the death of Flip Wilson, which didn't seem to be reported in my area. When and where did he die? –Pauline Shelly, Bristol, Ind.

A: The beloved comic, whose sassy drag persona Geraldine Jones was a sensation in the 1970s, died of liver cancer in Malibu, Calif., nearly a year ago, on Nov. 25, 1998. He was 64.

Q: Was that Farrah Forke co-starring in the Lifetime movie Abandoned and Deceived? She looks so familiar. What else has she done? –B.A., Montgomery, Ala.

A: Yes, that was Forke in the Lifetime movie. The actress is best known for her role as fiery pilot Alex Lambert on Wings. She later had a recurring role on Lois & Clark: The New Adventures of Superman, then starred in two network flops, Dweeb and Mr. Rhodes. She co-stars in Kate's Addiction, an independent 1999 feature making the round at film festivals.

Q: What was the last name of Barney's girlfriend, Thelma Lou, on The Andy Griffith Show? – A fan in West Virginia.

A: Great question! And, believe it or not, this recurring character, played by actress Betty Lynn, appears to be the only one without a specified last name. If anyone can substantiate a surname for this character, I'll print it in a future column.

Q: What was the name of the circus-related TV series hosted by Mary Hart? –D. Hunter, Edgewater, Fla.

A: Great Circuses of the World, which ran briefly on ABC in 1989.

Courteney Cox Arquette

OF NOTE

- The arts mean business! Eighty regional artists and artisans participating in the Garrett County Arts Council's 20th annual Heritage Craft Fest this past weekend reported average sales of $732, for a combined total of $58,613 in weekend business. Almost $3,000 was collected in sales tax alone. The Heritage Craft Fest was but one of four craft shows held during the Autumn Glory Festival. Meanwhile, at the Mountain Arts Pavilion along Liberty Street, local fine artists conducted over $3,000 worth of business in the sales of original paintings, collecting an additional $158 of tax revenue for the state. Congratulations to Oakland artist Charles P. Evans, whose oil depiction of the historic B&O Station fetched $1,500 in the fine arts department!
- Congratulations to Ellen Kerszencwejg of Chevy Chase, who won the 1999 "Baltimore Medley" heirloom quilt hand-stitched by Karin Rodeheaver in the Garrett County Arts Council raffle at Broad Ford Elementary School last Sunday. Many thanks to additional friends of the arts who purchased 3,000 raffle tickets. Proceeds benefit Arts Council endeavors to promote local artists and artisans.
- One reliable source estimates total attendance at Autumn Glory festivities in Oakland last weekend at 30,000+ individuals. Who brought them here, and why did they come? The annual guide to the festival, produced by the Chamber of Commerce, listed 10 Garrett County arts organizations as festival presenters. Of the 22 additional sponsors noted in the guide, 14 produced visual or performing arts programs. Scores of additional nonprofit organizations presenting music, dance, and other art forms during the festival were not even mentioned in the guide. Few affiliated with the area's grandest annual festival can doubt the economic impact of the arts in Garrett County.
- Many thanks to the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club for agreeing to sponsor the annual Highland Festival at Deep Creek Lake next June.
- The Garrett County Arts Council has established a local Endowment Fund for Community Arts Development with an initial contribution to the fund of $10,000 from the council's past fund-raising activities. The purpose of the fund is to attract additional contributions and to generate proceeds for use in accordance with the council's mission to promote the arts in Garrett County. Contributions are tax deductible. Details and information are available through the GCAC office at 301-387-3121 or by writing to: Garrett County Arts Council, P.O. Box 930, McHenry, MD 21541.

GCC Schedules Fall Open House For November 13

The annual fall open house at Garrett Community College for prospective students and their families is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 13, from 10 a.m. to noon.

Planned by the Admissions Office, the open house will be an opportunity for anyone considering enrolling at the college to get first-hand information about new career and transfer programs, as well as financial aid and career services, according to Joan Crawford, director of enrollment development.

Directors of academic programs, along with staff members from financial aid and other student services offices, will be present to give information and to answer questions. Information will be given about GCC's new Career Pathways program which helps students set realistic career goals and find appropriate academic programs.

Among other opportunities Crawford indicated will be discussed are the one-plus-one opportunities recently articulated with Fairmont State, Allegany, and Potomac State colleges in programs such as electronics engineering, culinary arts, and computer science that enable students to save money by taking the first year of their academic program at GCC and then transferring.

In addition to getting current information about college programs and services, attendees will have an opportunity to tour the campus, residence hall, and the new Advanced Technology Center.

Anyone desiring further information about the open house may call GCC Admissions Office at 301-387-3010.

The session will be at the Department of Social Work Offices in Room 029, Guild Center, on the FSU campus.

The session is designed for people who want to learn more about the social work profession and FSU's undergraduate social work program. For those who intend to apply to the FSU program, the session serves as orientation to the major and provides details about admissions criteria, course requirements, curriculum planning, social work licensing, and continued study beyond the undergraduate level.

Those who plan to attend are asked to call the Department of Social Work at 301-687-7497 at least one day in advance. Persons with disabilities who need accommodation or who have questions about the physical access provided may call the ADA Compliance Office at 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

The FSU undergraduate social work program is fully accredited by the Council on Social Work Education. Graduates are eligible to take state licensing exams at the undergraduate level and are potentially eligible to apply for advanced standing in master's degree programs in social work. Advanced standing allows students to complete their master of social work degrees in less time than it would otherwise take.

Oxford, director of resource development for the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families. "By having all of the agencies work together, they ensure that we are not duplicating services for families. They are also able to share resources in ways that would not exist without the partnership. It is also wonderful to have citizen members on the Partnership to help keep us motivated and hold us accountable."

In September 1998 Garrett County became the first county to sign a partnership agreement with the state of Maryland, which allowed the Local Management Board a great deal of flexibility with funding while holding the county accountable for achieving results. The Garrett County Partnership chose three of Maryland's eight results for children and families: Stable and Economically Self-Sufficient Families; Children Enter School Ready to Learn; and Communities Supporting Family Life. The success of Garrett County's Partnership has led Allegany, Caroline, and Montgomery counties to sign partnership agreements, and many other counties are also considering doing so.

Richards offered an invitation for community members to attend Partnership meetings as an observer or to volunteer to become an LMB member. The Partnership meets on the last Thursday of each month at 10:15 a.m. to plan, evaluate, and monitor interagency programs. Interested persons may contact Stephens at 301-334-1189, or consult the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families web site at www.garrettpartnership.org.

FSU Launches New Master's Degree Program In Applied Computer Science

In response to a mandate from the state of Maryland to double the number of students who enroll in and graduate from information technology degree programs, Frostburg State University has created the master's degree in applied computer science, a flexible program designed to accommodate a variety of academic backgrounds and levels of computer skill.

According to a state report about developing Maryland's information technology work force, there are currently an estimated 900,000 people employed nationwide in information technology, or IT. By 2005 the number of IT jobs is expected to grow by more than five times the level of overall job growth. Gov. Parris Glendening has said that there are currently 200,000 IT jobs unfilled in Maryland.

"It's really going to help the area economically," said Dr. Mohsen Chitsaz, chairman of the FSU Computer Science Department, "because companies looking for trained IT people will go anywhere they have workers."

Aimed not only at computer science graduates but also at career changers, the program is flexible enough to bring up to speed those whose undergraduate degrees weren't computer-related but who have gravitated toward computers in the course of their careers.

The application process not only takes into account un-dergraduate and graduate computer courses and related subjects, but also computer subjects applicants may have taught themselves or learned through seminars and continuing education classes, as well as on-the-job computer experience. Applications will be reviewed and the appropriate courses, up to about 18 credits worth, will be recommended to qualify for the master of science program. These may include such courses as program languages and hardware background courses.

The 30-credit graduate program is offered on either a full- or part-time basis. It is designed to work around the schedule of most working people. Most classes will be in the late afternoon or evening or on Saturdays. A degree typically can be earned in one and one-half to two years.

The program will offer two specialization areas: database management systems and a general concentration.

The database concentration will focus on database, data mining, and data warehousing, preparing the students to have a practical knowledge of the principles and foundations for analysis, design, implementation, and administration of large databases.

The general concentration will provide a broad applied knowledge in computer networking and communications, software engineering, and artificial intelligence. The program will provide skills and practical experience in information technology, qualifying them for professional, technical, and managerial programs in education, industry, and government.

Applicants are being accepted now. Registration will begin Oct. 22 for spring semester classes beginning Jan. 31, 2000.

For more information, persons may visit the web site at www.cs.frostburg.edu or call the Office of Graduate Services at 301-687-4597.

FSU Will Host Life/Death Expert

The Frostburg State University Campus Activities Board will host Ralph Klicker, expert on death related topics, on Thursday, Oct. 28, at 8 p.m. in the Lane Center Multi-Use Room.

According to a national Gallup Poll, one third of the people in the United States believe they may have had previous lives. Klicker explores topics including past lives, life-after-death, near-death experiences, and thanatology. "Klicker will take the audience on an actual past-life regression to recall who they were, where and when they lived, and how their past lives influence present-day lives," stated an FSU spokesperson.

This event is free and open to the public. For information, persons may contact the CAB Office, 301-687-4192.

Children's Play Slated At FSU

Frostburg State University's Roundabout Theatre will present The Dancing Princesses, a children's play, on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 30 and 31, in the Studio Theatre of the campus Performing Arts Center. Curtain time is 2 p.m. The admission price is $1 for children of all ages.

Written by Martha B. King, The Dancing Princesses is directed by Billy Clark, a theatre major in the FSU Department of Communication and Theatre Arts. The play is based on a Grimm fairy tale about three princesses — Tina, Rosalind, and Elizabeth. The three spend their nights dancing with their beloved princes in an underground palace until their soles have worn through their shoes. The king offers his throne and the hand of one of his daughters to anyone who can find where the princesses dance each night. "The story is fun and exciting, and concludes with an ending that will surprise and delight the audience," stated Clark.

The cast includes John Bennett as Carping; Megan Wrathall, Fleetfoot; Amy Newcomb, Elizabeth; Alice Christman, Rosalind; Anjel Roberts, Tina; Ben Russo, Tony; Bob Kesler, Arthur; Sonie Matthew, Bruce; Jared Lancaster, Gus; Christine Treppe, Old Woman; Brian MacIntyre, King; and Bridget Nolan of Deer Park, Guard.

Following the two performances on campus, the play will take a weeklong tour of local elementary schools under the sponsorship of the Allegany County Council of PTAs.

Long & Foster Seeks Applicants For Scholarships

Long & Foster Real Estate, with 135 real estate sales offices throughout the five-state Mid-Atlantic region, once again announces the Long & Foster $60,000 Scholarship Program for well-rounded graduating high school seniors entering an accredited four-year college or university. The Long & Foster Scholarship Program will award $1,000 to each of 60 worthy recipients for the 2000-2001 academic year. The monetary scholarship award will be made payable directly to the college or university in the student's name.

The deadline for applying is March 1, 2000, and the scholarships will be awarded beginning May 1, 2000. More than 900 applicants vied for the 60 scholarships in 1999.

Wes Foster, president and founder of Long & Foster, conceived of the scholarship as a way to "give something significant back to the communities" that have made his real estate company one of the most successful in America. Without the aid of both an academic and athletic scholarship, Foster said he would not have had the opportunity to attend Virginia Military Institute.

A selection committee made up of local members of academia will select the final scholarship winners by April 14, 2000.

Eligible high school seniors must have at least a 3.0 GPA on a 4.0 scale, demonstrate financial need, indicate positions of leadership they held while being students, and describe in which school groups they have been involved, community organizations in which they have served, and whether they have held a part-time job while in school in order to be considered well-rounded applicants.

So that the selection committee can obtain a better picture of each student, applicants will be asked to write a short essay on either their most significant high school experience or their expectations for college.

Applications for the Long & Foster Scholarship Program can be obtained from any of Long & Foster's 135 residential sales offices located throughout the Mid-Atlantic region, from high school guidance counselors, or via Long & Foster's web site at www.longandfoster.com/scholarship.

Wooddell Among Frostburg Alumni Award Recipients

The Frostburg State University Alumni Association will bestow its highest honor to three FSU alumni during this year's Homecoming festivities. Recipients of the 1999 FSU Alumni Achievement Awards are Charles E. Bell, Fairfax, Va.; Joan M. Morrison, Annapolis; and Dr. J. Hopwood Wooddell, Mtn. Lake Park.

It was over 50 years before Hopwood Wooddell, a member of the class of 1940, received his diploma from Frostburg State. Shortly before his anticipated 1940 college graduation, the Oakland native enlisted in the U.S. Army. After successfully completing Officer Candidate School, he received a placement with the Air Corps, serving until 1945.

It was during his years of enlistment that Dr. Wooddell made a decision to pursue a career in dentistry. He was accepted to Georgetown University School of Dentistry, graduating cum laude as the valedictorian for the class of '49. For several years, he served as an instructor with the dental school, in addition to building a private dental practice in the College Park community.

He retired from practice in 1979, but has remained active as a member of the Southern Maryland Dental Society, Maryland State Dental Society, and Greater Washington Dental Research Group, of which he was co-founder. FSU awarded Dr. Wooddell with his degree in 1996.

The Alumni Achievement Awards will be presented to the winners at a luncheon this Friday, Oct. 22.

Q. I recently bought a dovetailed blanket chest made of black walnut. Mounted on the inside of the chest, on the right side, is a small box with a lid. What was the box used for?

A. The small built-in container in your chest is called a till. It was a common feature in blanket chests that were made here and in Europe. The till was usually mounted on the left side of the chest. The lid of the till was held with two dowels. When the lid was opened, it swung up and could prop open the larger chest lid. Tills were intended to store jewelry, money or other small items.

Q. I found a Hindenburg postcard in my parents' attic. There's a black-and-white drawing of the famous zeppelin and a paragraph about its first flight. One sentence says, "This card was carried on the Hindenburg on its initial flight from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, N.J." Is the postcard worth anything?

A. Old postcards are collectibles. Yours pictures the German dirigible that made 10 successful round trips across the Atlantic Ocean in 1936. On May 6, 1937, while landing at Lakehurst Naval Air Station in New Jersey on the first of its scheduled trips that year, the hydrogen-inflated Hindenburg burst into flames. Thirty-six of the 97 people aboard died.

Q. What is a "ribbon doll"?

A. Ribbon dolls were sold as household craft kits during the 1940s and '50s. The kits usually included a paper doll on a black background, with yards of ribbon to be sewn as the doll's clothes. The kits were made by two companies, Bucilla Corp. of Hazleton, Pa., and Dol-Lee Dolls of Wollaston, Mass. Collectors like to buy unopened kits, which sell for only a few dollars, or finished and framed dolls, which are priced from $25 to $60.

Home Tips

HANG IT UP – Whenever I go to a public restroom, there often is no place to hang my purse. Now I put a large S-shaped hook in my purse and when needed, hang it over the door. The purse hangs nicely on the inside of the area. Choose a plastic S hook so it will not mar the door. Lisa K., Epping, N.H.

ICE CREAM – When giving my grandchild ice cream, I put it into a coffee mug. Holding onto the handle gives her better control and keeps the coolness form her hand. Since she hasn't yet mastered the art of feeding herself, the side of the cup gives her support to get the ice cream onto the spoon. The depth of the cup helps her to steady her spoonful before she lifts it to her mouth. Best of all, if any of it melts, she can just drink the liquid from the cup by tipping it up. Pat N., Mesa, Ariz.

ONION MAGIC – After hundreds of tears, I discovered a great way to be tear-free while chopping onions: swim goggles! Sure, you'll look silly wearing them around the kitchen, but they keep those nasty onion fumes away from my eyes! Sarah W., Cape Girardeau, Mo.

CADDY – When I bought a new dishwasher, I saved the utensil basket from the old one. It makes a great tool caddy/carrier when working around the house. Tricia D., Salem, Ore.

PUZZLE PROTECTOR – I love to work jigsaw puzzles, but if I leave them unattended, my cats play with the pieces and lose them. To prevent this, I now place a sheet of Plexiglas over puzzles when I'm not working on them. Not only does it protect them from the cats, but it allows me to use the table, even though it's covered by an "in progress" puzzle. Kellie C., Tyler, Texas

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE: THE REAL LADY WITH THE LAMP

If you think Florence Nightingale was a selfless nurse who spent her life tending the sick, think again. She spent only three of her 90 years as a nurse. After that, she was a semi-invalid who lobbied against treating nursing as a profession and dismissed women who fought for equality. As recounted in January's Biography magazine, she launched a famous nursing school, The Nightingale Training School for Nurses – the first to add lecture and study to hands-on training – but it was rife with minority exclusions and class distinctions. Nevertheless, the "lady with the lamp" did set new standards for hospital cleanliness, reformed British hospital administration and inspired millions.

She was born to a wealthy British family and expected to marry well, but heard God call her to a life of "service." To her parents' horror, she chose nursing, which mainly attracted women of questionable moral character. When the Crimean War broke out, the Secretary of War asked her to lead a delegation to care for the wounded. Her nurses scrubbed, dressed wounds and provided clean bedding and hot food. She clothed the men and repaired the sewage system. Mortality plummeted. Nightingale became a national heroine. Returning home weak and gaunt, she retired from nursing and, for the next 50 years, became a reclusive advocate for hospital reform, sending thousands of letters yearly to British and Indian authorities.

When, largely through her efforts, nursing emerged as a respected profession, she was horrified that women wanted paychecks. (She herself was supported by her father.) She refused to recognize germ theory, declined to even look under a microscope and belittled vaccines. Nonetheless, her stature was great. In 1907, Edward VII bestowed on her the Order of Merit – the first for a woman. By then, Nightingale was nearly blind and senile. On August 13, 1910, she fell asleep and did not awaken.

Gospel Group To Sing In McHenry

The gospel music ministry of the Varners from Stoystown, Pa., will be presented at the McHenry United Methodist Church on Sunday, Oct. 24, at 7 p.m.

The Varners, a group of singers, songwriters, and recording artists, have been performing throughout the tri-state area since 1992. They have written, copyrighted, and recorded dozens of songs since that time.

"Their music is enjoyed by people of all ages," a spokesman for the group said. He described the gospel music of the Varners as "uplifting and inspiring."

The public is invited to attend. For concert information persons may call 304-789-2203.

Scholarship To Be Awarded By Local Business

Copiers Plus Office Products, an Oakland-based authorized sales agent for Xerox equipment, has established a scholarship to help Garrett Countians study at Allegany College of Maryland, Cumberland.

Doug and Terry Riley, who have operated their business for seven years, established the scholarship to underscore their support of higher education and the community they serve.

"We support community colleges in Allegany and Garrett counties," said Doug Riley. "They allow young people a chance to attend college who might not otherwise be able to do so."

Riley spoke firsthand of the value of a community college education. Four years at the University of Maryland, College Park, where he would eventually earn a bachelor's degree, was out of reach for him after high school.

Riley therefore turned to the community college in Charles County, where he grew up, and earned an associate degree in business administration. He then transferred to the university.

"It (community college) helped me get started," Riley said. "Hopefully, your education starts your career, and I feel that I've been a successful business owner in part because of my college education."

The Rileys sell Xerox copiers, facsimile machines, scanners, and other equipment in a region comprising Allegany and Garrett counties in Maryland and Grant and Mineral counties in West Virginia.

The Doug and Terry Riley Copiers Plus Scholarship is earmarked for Garrett County students with a 3.0 or better grade point average who can show financial need. The student can be enrolled in any curriculum.

The first award of this new scholarship is for the current fall semester, and a recipient was recently selected. For information persons may call 301-784-5200.

DNR To Sell Tree Seedlings

The John S. Ayton State Forest Tree Nursery of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service is offering seedlings, at cost, to individuals and organizations wishing to plant trees on a minimum 1/4 acre of land. The sale of these seedlings is one of the ways that DNR's Forest Service works to help individuals and organizations "invest in the future," according to a DNR spokesperson.

Individuals with 1/4 acre or more are encouraged to plant trees as stream buffers, windbreaks, to improve wildlife habitat, and for erosion control. Neighbors can get together to plant 1/4 acre along their property lines, and communities are encouraged to plant seedlings in parks and other common areas. Seedlings are offered for sale in minimum quantities of 100. Conifers may be ordered in multiples of 50, and hardwood seedlings in multiples of 100.

To encourage the planting of riparian buffers in the state of Maryland, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will offer, at no cost, a maximum of 435 tree seedlings or shrub seedlings per acre, to private landowners. The landowner must have a forest plan for the riparian area that the landowner wants to reforest. The riparian buffer is generally limited to the 100-year floodplain, or to the crest of the hill in steep valleys.

Persons interested in planting trees on their property in the spring of 2000 are advised by the DNR Forest Service to contact their local forester for additional information and guidance in planning because proper site preparation is "extremely important." Seedling orders will be taken until February 23, 2000, but seedlings are sold on a first-come, first-served basis.

Those planning to plant more than one acre may be eligible for one of the many incentive programs offered by the state or federal government. Persons may call the Forest Service office at Mt. Nebo (301-334-3296) for further information about these programs.

Landowners or groups interested in purchasing seedlings for planting next spring can also place their order by contacting the John S. Ayton Forest Tree Nursery at 1-800-TREES MD (1-800-873-3763). The public may also view the 2000 catalog by visiting the DNR web site at http://www.dnr.state.md.us/forests/nursery/.

Students Invited To Help Capture Maryland Images

As the century comes to a close, young "shutterbugs" around the state have been invited to record life in Maryland for the Images of Maryland Student Photo and Narrative Contest, sponsored by Maryland Public Television (MPT).

The contest is being held in conjunction with the new MPT television special, Images of Maryland 1900-2000, presenting 100 years of the Maryland experience in photography, which will air in March 2000. From October 1 until December 11, middle and high school-aged students may submit black and white or color photographs that reflect Maryland at work and play, in urban or rural communities.

The winning entries in each age category will be displayed this winter on the Freedom Wall at the Maryland state house, Annapolis, as part of the Maryland 2000 Celebration, and on MPT's "Gallery of Images" web site.

For rules and entry forms, persons may contact the Images of Maryland contest hotline at 410-581-4034, or click on the flashing camera at www.mpt.org.

Images of Maryland is funded in part by the Maryland Commission for Celebration 2000 and James G. Robinson/Morgan Creek Films.

Feature articles were in both The Republican and Cumberland Times-News.

MY NOTES

After I dropped Claire off for an overnight visit with her friend, Heidi McMillan, on Chestnut Ridge Road near Grantsville, I drove home by way of New Germany Road. I was dazzled by the fall foliage display along that road. Best of all was the view when I pulled off Rt. 495 at the top of Meadow Mountain. I was level with the tree tops, which gave me a rare point of view.

You can see what makes that blaze of gold that you see from ground level. The range colors add up to autumn gold with the very pale yellow of those big oval hickory leaves, the mixture of bright with patches of scarlet maples, and the deep gold of oak leaves at their peak color mix of rusty-brown. Also the color is stronger on top of the leaves than underneath, which is what we see best from the ground, except at a distance.

I experienced that view when I was a kid and climbing trees was one of my favorite pastimes. I used to climb our big maple shade tree in our front lawn, which, according to my sister-in-law Marci, is one of the best trees around here as far as being just pure color. Last week it was truly outstanding. The mixture of yellow, red, and orange made it picture perfect as an autumn tree.

Now, the leaves have come down and the yard is filled with all of them. My girls and a few cousins and friends were busy last weekend making big piles. They used a wheelbarrow to carry more leaves in from our other big maples. The bigger kids pushed the load of leaves, plus a smaller kid riding in it.

The kids of our barn soul band were on hand for one of the last sunshiny days outside on Sunday as their parents were busy in the barn working on their music performance. The McLister kids, Colleen, Natalie, and Paul, and my three girls took a break and went over to Lakeside Creamery for its annual Autumn Glory ice cream eating contest. Paul won the pre-school class. Our triples, Darryl and Elliot Glotfelty, and their matching cousin, Scotty Bass, all 11 years old and blond and blue-eyed so that they look like a real set of triplets, put up their Autumn Glory helium balloons and attached a note with their address and a plea to write them a letter if anyone should find them. However, since the front that was created by Hurricane "Irene" was located behind Meadow Mountain when they let go of the balloons, I think the balloons will be sucked back east and a little southerly too, since the storm pulled away and out to sea, possibly down toward Virginia or southern Maryland. We will see.

I can't help but think about that great poem by Robert Frost, "After Apple Picking," right now with my family's relief that my big fall canning project of apple/grape juice and butter is finally over. I heard the last pop as the last pint of apple/grape butter sealed. My husband and my daughters are sick of the mess and the amount of work that it takes. It is not that I want to do it, but I just have to do it because that is how I was raised, to put up the abundance that the Earth has showered on us at this time of the year. We were taught to use these fruits and any vegetables and not let them go to waste. Now I can give my family good vitamin-packed juice and a sweet treat for the long winter ahead.

I am very tired of my burn on my arm that I got when I tripped and fell in the kitchen and burned it on the big hot pot on the stove. Like Frost, I am now tired of the great harvest that I myself desired. I continually heard, "Mom, you have enough juice already! We do not need any more juice." As a result, I am not happy or proud of all the sealed jars, but just relief that it is over. I feel like I should hide them, like it is something to be ashamed of.

Today, Lloyd took Mere to school to drop off her third grade seed collection. I think that her final count was 31, well over the minimum of 25 for an A. The chart of seeds was surrounded with glitter and labels. I hoped that I helped to correctly identify some of the unusual weed seeds. If not, I doubt if Mrs. Holliday will notice. I don't know whether it will be the best collection, but I sure know that our whole family gave it 100% effort.

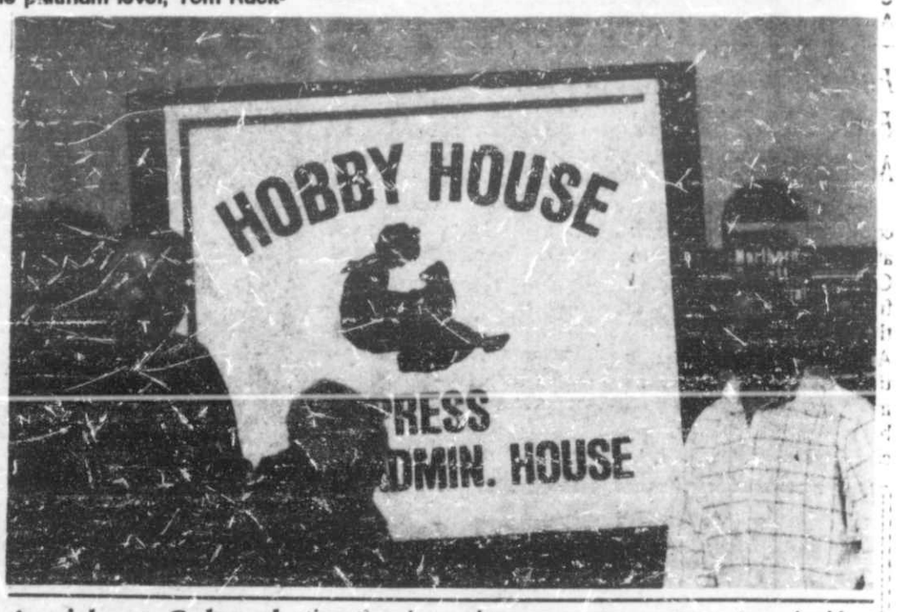
Local Residents Graduate From AC

Two residents of Accident, Michael Steven Minnick and Teresa Marie Lou Knox, were among the recent graduates of Allegany College of Maryland.

Minnick, a graduate of Northern High School, earned a degree as an associate of applied science in forest technology. While he was a student, he served as president of the Forestry Club. Currently Minnick is employed at the Washington, D.C., office of the Davey Tree Export Company. He is the son of Steve and Michaela Minnick, Accident, and the grandson of Audrey Smith, Accident.

Knox graduated from AC, magna cum laude, with an associate of science degree in elementary education. In addition to serving as a tutor in biology and English, she was a member of the Phi Theta Kappa honor society and was appointed to the dean's list.

Currently Knox is a student at Towson State University, where she has also earned dean's list standing and been named to Who's Who On The Dean's List In America. Knox, a graduate of Northern High School, is the daughter of Flora Kay Knox and the late Earl Carl Knox, Accident, and the granddaughter of Esther Hoiler, Oakland.



Minnick and Knox are engaged to be married and are currently residing in Westminster.

REACHING GOALS - Many people helped to reach a fund-raising goal of $15,000 for this year's OutSpokin' for Maryland's Kids campaign, and the Maryland Salem Children's Trust recognized its corporate sponsors for this event. OutSpokin' is a statewide event that draws attention to programs that are working to help children who have experienced the traumas of abuse, neglect, the effects of mental illness and serious emotional disturbance. This event is Salem's annual fund-raising campaign. In the photo above at left are, from left, Amy Sines, community coordinator of WalMart in LaVale, accepting a plaque in thanks for sponsorship at the platinum level; Tom Ruckert, who cycled from Salem to Ocean City in September, representing Salem; and Suzanne Lipscomb, executive assistant at Salem. Above right with Ruckert is James Maltba, manager of Arby's Restaurant in LaVale and a silver corporate sponsor for this year's campaign. In the photo below with Ruckert is Gary Ruddell, president of Hobby House Press, Grantsville, a sponsor at the silver level who also serves on the Community Relations Committee at Salem.

Accident School To Hold Annual Fun Fall Festival

Accident Elementary School announces the upcoming Fun Fall Festival, which will be held on Friday, Oct. 29.

New this year will be a silent auction and a pumpkin-carving contest with the "Our School Spirit" theme. There will be a variety of foods available, games to play, and the traditional cake-walk. The event is open to all members of the community. "The committee this year has worked very hard to bring you the best ever festival," a spokesperson said.

This year's festival will have a different starting time than in previous years. "We are so proud of our Northern Huskies football team, and they have a home game that night, so we are moving the opening up to 5 p.m. to allow all those fans to come to Accident School, eat dinner, play games, and enjoy some down home fun, and still make it to the game to cheer on the Northern Huskies," the spokesperson said.

A three-day missions conference will take place at Faith Evangelical Free Church, Mtn. Lake Park, from Friday, Oct. 29, through Sunday, Oct. 31. Adult and teen speakers active in a variety of overseas missionary endeavors will be speaking at several special services and meal gatherings, each of which is open to the public.

The conference will open with a 7 p.m. service at the church on Friday, during which Pete Thiessen and Brad and Mary Steele will speak. Thiessen (along with his wife Grace and son Ivan) is a missionary with the Evangelical Free Church mission operating in the Philippines. The Steeles are currently preparing for an assignment in Mexico as Wycliffe Bible translators.

A fellowship time will follow in the fellowship hall, where refreshments will be served.

A women's buffet brunch is scheduled for Saturday at 9:30 a.m. at the Loch Lynn Restaurant. Beth Steele, Grace Thiessen, and Mary Jane Faircloth, a missionary teacher who works with the Overseas Missionary Fellowship in Indonesia, will be the speakers. An evening service is set for 7 p.m. at the church, where Faircloth will speak, along with Mark, Debbi, Joel, and Jason Witt, all of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., and members of the Teen Quest organization.

Each of the missionaries will be speaking in the next morning's various Sunday school classes, slated to get under way at 9:30 a.m. The morning worship service is set for 10:45 a.m., with Pete Thiessen as the guest speaker. Persons in attendance at this service will be given the opportunity to make a faith promise commitment, a written anonymous commitment to help the church meet its mission budget goal of $40,000 for 1999-2000.

A pizza lunch will be served at 12:30 p.m. to youth in the fellowship hall, where Joel Witt will speak to the gathering. The missions conference will conclude with a 7 p.m. evening service in the church, with Pete Thiessen and Faircloth slated as the speakers.

Faith Evangelical Free Church is located at 1009 Maryland Highway. Persons interested in further information on the missions conference may call the church office at 301-334-4172.

Farming In Maryland.....

Allegany, Garrett County Farm Queens Are New State Royalty

by Susan G. Summers
Maryland Farm Bureau
Spotlight Editor
(reprinted with permission of MFB)

When Evelyn Hardman was 4 years old, she spotted the farm queen at a Farm Bureau event. "I knew right then that I wanted to be just like her and win the title," she said.

Evie made her dream a reality during the Maryland State Fair as she captured the Maryland Farm Queen title during opening day ceremonies in Timonium. She was one of 22 county farm queens vying for the coveted crown and the opportunity to reign over the 11-day fair. She received the honor from retiring Maryland farm queen Emily O'Hara of Frederick County.

The 16-year-old daughter of Lloyd and Rhonda Hardman Jr. of Cumberland represented Allegany County Farm Bureau during the two-day contest. She is a junior at Fort Hill High School.

A court of four runners-up was also selected by judges. They were Emily Rutledge of Harford County, first runner-up; Marielle Proia of Howard County, second runner-up; Susan Mayfield of Garrett County, third runner-up; and Amanda Brown of Talbot County, fourth runner-up.

[Garrett County farm queen Susan Mayfield is the 18-year-old daughter of Butch and Debbie Mayfield, who live on a small diversified farm near Oakland and own and operate a 415-acre farm in Preston Co., W.Va., where they raise Hereford/Angus beef cattle. Susan intends to obtain a degree in forest resource management at West Virginia University, then attend law school and pursue a career as an attorney.]

"The experience and knowledge I have gained from being farm queen has been tremendous," said the new state farm queen. "Anyone who has the chance to participate in this program should do it. It's been great!"

During the fair week, Evie met with several state dignitaries, passed out ribbons, worked in the Young Farmers dairy bar and even presided as a witness for a wedding on the merry-go-round. "It was tremendous meeting so many people, and I represented farmers the best way I could," she said. "Each event was a learning experience."

Farm Bureau has been an important organization for the Hardman family, and Evie credits her grandfather with passing on these beliefs. "Farm Bureau is so important for agriculture," she explained. "It keeps farmers informed on legislation and gives them a voice. The vast experiences of the combined membership is beneficial for everyone, and members are also a great support team for each other."

Evie serves as her county's membership chairperson, and while her goal is to see that her county Farm Bureau signs many members, she has raised the pole even more this year. "I want to help raise the state's membership," she said. "I want to go to counties and talk about agriculture and the importance of Farm Bureau, not just to farmers, but to everyone."

The new royalty also plans to visit each county fair and farm queen contest. "I also want to continue raising ag awareness in my county," she said.

Evie comes from a three-generation livestock and greenhouse operation where she breeds and raises Suffolk sheep, collects eggs, bucket feeds calves and assists with watering and caring for plants in the greenhouse. She has been a 4-H member for seven years, and has been president and vice president of two local clubs. Babysitting and livestock are her two main projects in the youth development organization.

In Allegany County, Evie serves as the youth representative to the County Extension Advisory Council and on the county fair board of directors. She is active in the choir, drama club and pep clubs at school and is an acolyte in her church.

Evie plans to attend Frostburg State University for two years then transfer to the University of Maryland for her final two years of college. She plans to major in pre-veterinary medicine and French, and finish a degree in large animal medicine.

Crop Production Report Presented By Ag Statistics

The Crop Production Report is the result of the September Ag Yield Survey conducted by the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service and the Maryland Department of Agriculture, with approximately 300 farmers taking part. Their report for Maryland and the entire nation follows.

Based on conditions Sept. 1, corn, soybean, and tobacco production in Maryland are expected to be down from 1998, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Corn production is forecast at 34 million bushels, down 22% from last year and 8% from 1997. Yield is projected at 85 bushels per acre, down 24 bushels from last year's estimate of 109. If realized, this would be the lowest yield since 1993. According to the Crop Progress Report for Aug. 30, corn condition stands at 20% very poor, 25% poor, 42% fair, 12% good, and 1% excellent.

Soybean production is forecast at 11.7 million bushels, down 18% from last year and 25% from 1997. This would be the smallest production since 1987. Yield is forecast at 26 bushels per acre, down 5 bushels from 1998's final estimate of 31 bushels per acre. From the Aug. 30 Crop Progress Report, soybean condition was rated 10% very poor, 23% poor, 37% fair, 28% good, and 2% excellent.

Tobacco production is forecast at 8.8 million pounds for 1999, down slightly from 1998's production of 9.1 million pounds. Yield is projected at 1,350 pounds per acre, down 50 pounds per acre from 1998. Tobacco on Aug. 30 was rated as 9% very poor, 20% poor, 30% fair, 37% good, and 4% excellent.

Across the United States, corn production is forecast at 9.38 billion bushels, down 2% from the last forecast and down 4% from 1998. Based on Sept. 1 conditions, yields are expected to average 132.2 bushels per acre, down 2.5 bushels per acre from August and 2.2 bushels from a year ago. If realized, this would be the fourth largest production and third highest yield on record. Acreage for grain harvest is estimated at 71.0 million acres, unchanged from August.

Soybean production is forecast at a record high 2.78 billion bushels, down 3% from Aug. 1, but up 1% from last year's record of 2.76 billion bushels. Based on Sept. 1 conditions, yields are expected to average 37.9 bushels per acre, down 1.3 bushels from last month and down 1.0 bushel from 1998. Acreage for harvest is estimated at a record 73.3 million acres, unchanged from Aug. 1 but up 3% from 1998.

Judging School To Be Held In Hagerstown

The Maryland Association of Fairs and Shows Inc. is planning to offer judges' training the day before its convention at the Ramada Inn, Hagerstown, Nov. 5-7. The training will be Nov. 4 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The deadline to register is Oct. 22, and the cost is $5.

Those who would like to register should call the Cooperative Extension office at 301-334-6964, or make contact directly with Diana Wilson at 410-255-5632.

Attending three judging schools on the same topic allows applicants to become certified to judge that category and their names will be included in the Fair Judging Directory that is distributed to all fairs and shows in Maryland. There is a demand for well-qualified judges since they are crucial to the success of any county fair and other judged shows.

Classes to be offered this year are quilting; embroidery including crewel, cross stitch and needlepoint; sewing clothing and other items; crocheting and knitting; farm and garden woodworking; herbs and herb vinegars; crafts, smocking; and flowers.

Maryland Dairy 1999 Annual Meeting Set

Dairy producers, processors, and suppliers will gather in Hagerstown on Thurs., Dec. 2, to discuss critical issues affecting Maryland's $1 billion dairy industry. The program will be part of the Maryland Dairy Industry Association's (MDIA) 1999 Annual Meeting, slated for the Four Points Hotel on U.S. Route 40 East.

"Our theme will be how to build and operate the most profitable dairy operation for Maryland producers," said MDIA's president Myron Wilhide of Detour. "It will be a full day of good practical information, from selecting the best seeds and crops to planning the most nutritious dairy ration to assuring good herd health through pre-planned preventive care. Our goal is to unveil a total dairy management plan that all Maryland producers can use."

Resource persons scheduled for the MDIA program include noted Canadian dairy nutritionist Ian Shives, expert dairy management specialist Brad Hilty, and regional seed and soil specialist Kurt Ruppel. A herd health veterinarian is also on the program. The group of experts will form a panel at the end of the program to release their dairy management plan. Leading suppliers to the dairy industry will be on hand to present new technology to industry participants.

Registration for the MDIA annual meeting will open at 8:30 a.m. on Dec. 2, with meeting and program events scheduled from 10 a.m. through 4 p.m. Luncheon will be served. All events take place at Hagerstown's Four Points Hotel.

Details of the program are available from MDIA headquarters at: MDIA, Suite 1100, 1629 K Street, N.W., Washington, DC 20006; telephone: 202-293-0476.

Agricultural Prices Rebound Slightly

Prices received in Maryland and Delaware appeared to show a slight rebound as wheat, corn, barley, soybeans, and hay all made improvements, according to the Maryland Ag Statistics Service.

Soybeans moved up a full 57 cents from a month ago. Since hay supplies are running short, hay price moved up $8.80 a ton from last month's price of $147.83.

Farm Rescue: Responding To Emergencies In Ag Settings

Rural firefighters, emergency medical personnel, and rescue squads need specialized training and preparation to respond to farm-related injuries, entrapments, fires, and chemical incidents. A completely revised publication from NRAES (the Natural Resource, Agriculture, and Engineering Service) will teach emergency medical and rescue personnel basic principles and procedures for responding to these demanding agricultural emergencies.

Farm Rescue: Responding to Incidents and Emergencies in Agricultural Settings ($8 plus S&H/sales tax, 78 pages, Aug. 1999) describes the most common farm emergencies in which rescue, extrication, or other emergency response may be needed. Potential hazards to the victims and responders are clearly identified. The information will enable rescuers to approach a farm rescue with more confidence and a greater awareness of the risks involved. A better understanding of what to expect when responding to a farm emergency is important, not only for the welfare of the patient but also for the safety of those providing assistance.

This publication contains five chapters. Chapter 1, "Overview of Farm Rescue," discusses introductory topics such as organization of the rescue team, general rescue procedures, and contacting help. Chapter 2, "Agricultural Equipment Injuries and Rescue," provides detailed information on tractor overturns, power takeoff (driveline (PTO) entanglements, hydraulically operated equipment failures, mixer wagon and self-unloading wagon entanglements, auger and elevator entanglements, electrocution, and harvesting equipment injuries and emergencies.

Chapter 3, "Farm Structure Emergencies," covers grain entrapments, silo incidents (gas exposures, unloader entrapments, and fires), and emergencies involving manure storage sites and facilities. Chapter 4, "Farm Chemical Exposures, Fires, and Spills," includes sections on exposure to anhydrous ammonia, agricultural chemical fires, and pesticide exposure and spills. Chapter 5, "Farm Animal Incidents," discusses animal-related injuries and rescue procedures.

Three appendixes are included—rescue tool inventory guidelines, agricultural operator control symbols, and follow-up training and suggested readings. One table and 87 illustrations supplement the text.

This publication, NRAES-10, is a complete revision of Farm Accident Rescue. Since 1980, NRAES has sold over 136,000 copies of this publication. It has been used as a training manual for agricultural safety programs throughout the United States and Canada and, in this revised form, should continue to be a valuable resource for years to come.

Farm Rescue: Responding to Incidents and Emergencies in Agricultural Settings was completely revised by William E. Field, professor, Department of Agricultural and Biological Engineering, Purdue University. Dr. Field has over 20 years of experience in teaching, research, and extension, and has received numerous awards and honors for his contributions to the field of agricultural safety and health education. Davis Hill, executive director, FARMEDIC, and Dennis J. Murphy, professor of agricultural and biological engineering, Pennsylvania State University, provided invaluable assistance in preparing the publication.

NRAES-10 is available for $8 per copy plus shipping and handling from NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853-5701. The shipping and handling charge for one copy is $3.75 within the continental United States. IF ordering more than one book or if ordering from outside the United States, persons may contact NRAES for shipping rates and possible quantity discounts. All major credit cards are accepted, and checks should be made payable to NRAES.

For more information or a free publications catalog, those interested may contact NRAES by phone at 607-255-7654, by fax at 607-254-8770, or by E-mail at nraes@cornell.edu. To learn more about NRAES, those interested may browse through the entire catalog, and order books on-line, at www.nraes.org.

Senators' Votes On Ag Spending Bill Reported

The American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) has reported the votes given by each state's senators on the important agriculture bills in the U.S. Senate Oct. 12 and 13.

The Senate voted on Oct. 12 to limit debate on the fiscal year 2000 agriculture spending bill with a vote of 79 to 20. Senate majority leader Trent Lott (R-Miss.) filed the cloture motion after a group of northeast and mid-Atlantic senators threatened a filibuster to protest inadequate disaster relief and a failed dairy amendment. Farm Bureau favored a "yea" vote, but both Maryland senators, Barbara Mikulski and Paul Sarbanes, voted nay.

The Senate voted 74 to 26 on Oct. 13 to pass H.R. 1906, the fiscal year 2000 agriculture spending bill. The bill contains $20.1 billion for Agriculture Department programs, $813 million for conservation and $8.7 billion for emergency assistance. Again, Farm Bureau favored a "yea" vote and both Maryland senators voted "nay."

Both senators felt the bill was inadequate. Senator Paul S. Sarbanes (D) voted against the bill saying that the bill "does not adequately meet the needs of Maryland's farmers." The senator was concerned that only $1.2 billion was being made available nationwide for disaster assistance, which includes the drought that devastated Maryland and the Northeast/mid-Atlantic regions of the United States this past summer. It has been estimated that the drought caused up to $2 billion in damages in the northeastern and mid-Atlantic states alone. Maryland farmers will now have to compete with all other farmers across the nation for disaster assistance.

In addition, Sarbanes noted that most of the money being made available is in the form of low-interest loans that are available only after a farmer has been rejected by two commercial lenders. Sarbanes has been pushing for payments of direct aid to farmers who have sustained crop and livestock losses to help their family farms survive.

"When you confront the kind of situation we now have where our farmers have been hit with a double whammy—that of low commodity prices and our severe drought problems—the low interest loan simply won't work in a situation like this," Sarbanes told his colleagues in a Senate floor speech.

"The amount in this conference report for disaster assistance is clearly inadequate, and the amount coming into the Northeast/mid-Atlantic states will not enable us to confront the problem bleakly staring our farmers right in the face."

Sarbanes implored members of the conference committee to craft a more reasonable and direct approach to disaster assistance which would have included the following:

- across-the-board disaster assistance loss programs that provide direct payments to producers based on actual losses of 1999 plantings;
- livestock feed assistance, which would address losses in pasture and forests for livestock operations;
- considering credit assistance, which addresses the needs of producers who have experienced natural and market loss disaster; and
- employing additional staff for the Farm Service Agency and the Natural Resource Conservation Service so that they could provide efficient and swift services at the state and local level.

These provisions were not included as requested in the final version of the bill, which was sent to the president for his consideration.

"I am proud to stand up for our country's farmers," said Senator Mikulski (D), who recently received an A+ rating from the National Farmers Union for her voting record during the second session of the 105th Congress. "Our country was built on agriculture and as the number one industry in the state of Maryland, agriculture helps us maintain our robust economy. Our farmers fill our grocery stores with fresh and safe foods for our families, and they can count on me to support American agriculture."

Participants In Drought Programs Given Additional Time To Plant

Maryland farmers who are participating in the state's drought emergency cover crop and small grain programs this fall are being given an additional two weeks to plant their crops. The Maryland Department of Agriculture Office of Resource Conservation has determined that due to adverse weather conditions, many farmers were unable to meet the original Oct. 15 planting deadline.

"We are extending the deadline for Small Grain Enhancement and all Cover Crop programs to Nov. 1 in the hope that all of the more than 1,100 farmers who took advantage of these programs can get their seeds in the ground," said Royden Powell, assistant secretary for resource conservation. "This has been an abnormal year for farmers, resulting in many adjustments to normal planting and harvesting schedules, and we just have to be flexible."

The cover crop and small grain enhancement programs were offered statewide for the first time this year as a result of Governor Parris N. Glendening's decision in August to provide $3 million in drought emergency assistance to Maryland farmers. These programs provide plants that will help retain soil and absorb excess nutrients during the winter that may otherwise wash into streams and wetlands.

In addition, because of the sharp reduction in hay and grain this year, farmers are allowed to graze their livestock on the cover crop or cut and chop it for forage later in the winter. Maryland also will continue to assist farmers who have to purchase additional amounts of hay for their livestock due to the drought-induced shortages.

Farm operators who have questions about the extension of other elements of the program are encouraged to call their local soil conservation district office or MDA at 410-841-5863.

Maryland Small Grain Planting Moves Along

Small grain planting appears to be moving along at a good clip as barley planting jumped by 31 points, wheat planting by 13 points, and rye planting by 14 points. Barley condition was rated 15% fair, 75% good, and 10% excellent. Wheat condition was rated 10% fair, 80% good, 10% excellent. Rye condition was 5% fair, 80% good, and 15% excellent.

Corn for grain harvesting was almost three-quarters of the way completed. The harvest level was on the same pace as last year and ahead by 10 points from the five-year average. The silage harvest was nearing completion and was only 5% short of doing that. Sorghum harvesting moved up 17 points and is now close to the halfway mark.

Topsoil moisture condition was rated 1% very short, 4% short, 71% adequate and 24% surplus. Subsoil moisture condition was 10% very short, 8% short, 73% adequate and 9% surplus. There were 5.2 days suitable for field work.

Maryland's crop progress for the week which ended on Oct. 17, listing the item and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, in that order, follows.

Small grains seeded: barley 72, 41, 65, 67; wheat 26, 13, 35, 29; rye 42, 28, 47, 50; crop development, soybeans, shedding leaves 79, 52, 89, 84; crops harvested, apples 80, 49, 78, 76; corn, grain 73, 65, 73, 63; corn, silage 95, 91, 95, 96; soybeans 18, 12, 33, 24; sorghum 45, 28, 37, 34; alfalfa, 4th cutting 72, 70, 94, 90, 5th cutting 33, 21, 28, 36; other hay, 4th cutting 84, 82, 90, and 72.

Crop conditions listing the commodity and percentages for very poor, poor, fair, good, and excellent, are: wheat 0, 0, 10, 80, 10; barley 0, 0, 15, 75, 10; rye 0, 0, 5, 80, 15; and pasture 1, 8, 19, 50, and 22.

Glickman Briefs USDA State Director On Key Rural Issues

Jack Walls, state director for USDA Rural Development for Delaware and Maryland, returned recently from a trip to Washington, D.C., where he was briefed by Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman and other USDA officials on a wide array of issues crucial to rural America.

The impact of the fiscal 2000 budget on USDA rural programs, how to create improved rural housing and more good-paying rural jobs, and ways to stem the flow of farmers and ranchers away from agriculture because of poor commodity prices were among the many subjects Walls and other Rural Development state directors discussed with Glickman during the trip.

Glickman applauded the efforts of the USDA state directors. "USDA Rural Development is leading the way to a better rural America," Glickman said. "Your leadership and dedication continue to have a tremendous impact on the ability of rural communities to gain much-needed financial and technical assistance.

"President Clinton and Secretary Glickman realize that many rural communities have yet to share in the nation's economic revival, and that USDA's rural housing, business and utilities programs will continue to play a crucial role in helping those areas catch up," said Walls.

"Our Rural Development staff is on the front lines everyday, meeting with community after community, seeking to bring the tools and resources to the table which will benefit local efforts," said Walls.

National Drought Commission Task Force To Coordinate Relief

Drought has become an all too common word for many U.S. farmers and ranchers, especially in a year when the combination of hurricanes and drought contributed to the loss of 475,000 acres of soybeans and 50,000 acres of cotton. While the Agriculture Department's Farm Service Agency does offer assistance to producers struggling with such losses, the development of the National Drought Policy Commission (NDPC) in 1998 and President Clinton's recently assembled drought task force signal that changes may be on the horizon.

Drought disaster areas are evaluated by USDA on a county-by-county basis. Currently, 25 states contain drought disaster areas, including 10 states in which all the counties have been designated drought disaster areas. USDA anticipates drought review requests from four more states, according to a spokesperson. Once a county has been declared a drought disaster area, farmers are eligible for specific assistance, such as low-interest loans and emergency conservation program funds.

In early August, as the tally of states with drought disaster areas continued to rise, President Clinton established a task force to organize the federal response to the current drought situation. The White House Drought Task Force, comprising representatives from a number of federal agencies, is responsible for ensuring that the government is responding in the most effective and efficient manner to the numerous droughts around the country.

The NDPC was charged with developing a set of recommendations to coordinate federal, state, and local responses to drought. While the task force is focusing on this year's drought, the commission will determine long-term drought policies.

The commission was mandated by law to deliver a drought report to the president and Congress by January 2000. However, last month Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman requested that Congress extend the reporting date to June 2000. He said analysis of the required tasks, compounded by the severity of this year's drought, would make it difficult for the commission to submit a comprehensive and accurate report by January. To date, there has been no official response to Glickman's extension request.

The various USDA, FSA, and federal agency representatives who make up the commission also will determine whether all federal drought preparation and response programs should be consolidated under one existing federal agency and if so, what agency would be appropriate. Recommendations will include measures for expanding public awareness of the need for drought mitigation, prevention, and response.

In an effort to develop a set of proposals for the commission, Farm Bureau held a conference call last week, soliciting observations and suggestions from various state Farm Bureaus. Steve Hannah, executive secretary at the West Virginia Farm Bureau, discussed the need for effectively presenting the farmers' struggle with drought to the general public.

"We need a strong public relations program to make sure people who are not involved in agriculture understand the severe toll drought has on a farmer's income, not just the year the drought occurs, but the following years as well," Hannah said.

Tim Cansler, an AFBF director of governmental relations, said input from the states is essential in developing recommendations for the commission. "We need coordination with the states to determine what works and what doesn't at the local and state levels. Their experience with the drought is necessary to understand what the commission should be focusing on in terms of harmonizing regulations and assistance at the local, state, and federal levels."

NDPC also plans to utilize public hearings to solicit comments, suggestions, and feedback.

Forage Strategies Can Ease Drought Problems

Alfalfa appears destined to be the star feed crop that best helped dairy and beef cattle producers weather the drought of 1999 throughout much of Maryland's northern Piedmont area.

There was enough soil moisture in early spring to produce good first-crop cuttings. And recent rains give promise of a bountiful fifth-crop cutting, noted Lester R. Vough, forage crops specialist for Maryland Cooperative Extension, University of Maryland. (Western Maryland farmers may be able to count on a fourth-crop cutting.)

"Don't wait for the traditional killing-frost date," Dr. Vough advises Piedmont area farmers; "instead, harvest your hay as soon as possible after October 20. Why? Because temperature and day length have been found to be more important than frost date in determining regrowth. There is little regrowth after October 20, whether or not a killing frost has occurred."

In western Maryland, where soil moisture shortages still exist, Vough acknowledges that hay fields may not have sufficient growth to justify mechanical harvesting. But there may be enough growth for grazing. Even fall grazing of alfalfa is permissible, once growth has stopped. This would be about October 10 in western Maryland and October 20 for the rest of Maryland.

Vough has advised leaving 4 to 6 inches of alfalfa stubble to aid in trapping snow for insulation against freeze damage. Avoid grazing when the ground is wet and soft.

What else can livestock producers do to help alleviate this year's drought-caused feed shortage?

Vough noted that cattle can now be allowed to graze on oats or annual ryegrass that he advised seeding in early September. Cattle also can soon be turned out to graze on barley and winter wheat seedings intended for grain. Limited spring grazing on these fields is allowed, too, without reducing grain yields.

Application of higher-than-normal rates of nitrogen fertilizer next spring to small grains and grass hay crops may produce the cheapest forage farmers can obtain, Vough said. Small grains to be pastured or used for silage should receive at least 50 to 60 pounds of nitrogen per acre just before growth starts in the spring — normally mid- to late February.

For more information, those interested may ask their Maryland Cooperative Extension county office for Forage Facets information leaflets No. 6 and No. 7, or they may check the University of Maryland drought web sites at http://www.agnr.umd.edu.users/nisl/forages/drought.html and http://www.agnr.umd.edu/current/drought/.

FSU Will Host Symposium About The North Branch

The Maryland Department of the Environment is sponsoring a symposium to showcase the North Branch of the Potomac River Monday, October 25, through Wednesday, Oct. 27, at Frostburg State University. The symposium's primary mission is to bring together a broad base coalition of river stakeholders to work toward a better Potomac River. Keynote speaker for the symposium is the U.S. Senator Paul S. Sarbanes. The symposium is open to anyone interested in the environmental progress of the river.

Cooperation by state, federal, and local governments has resulted in significant improvements in the North Braach, which is polluted by acid mine drainage. During the symposium, special emphasis will be placed on the Kempton mine site with discussion of its important relationship to restoring the North Branch of the Potomac River.

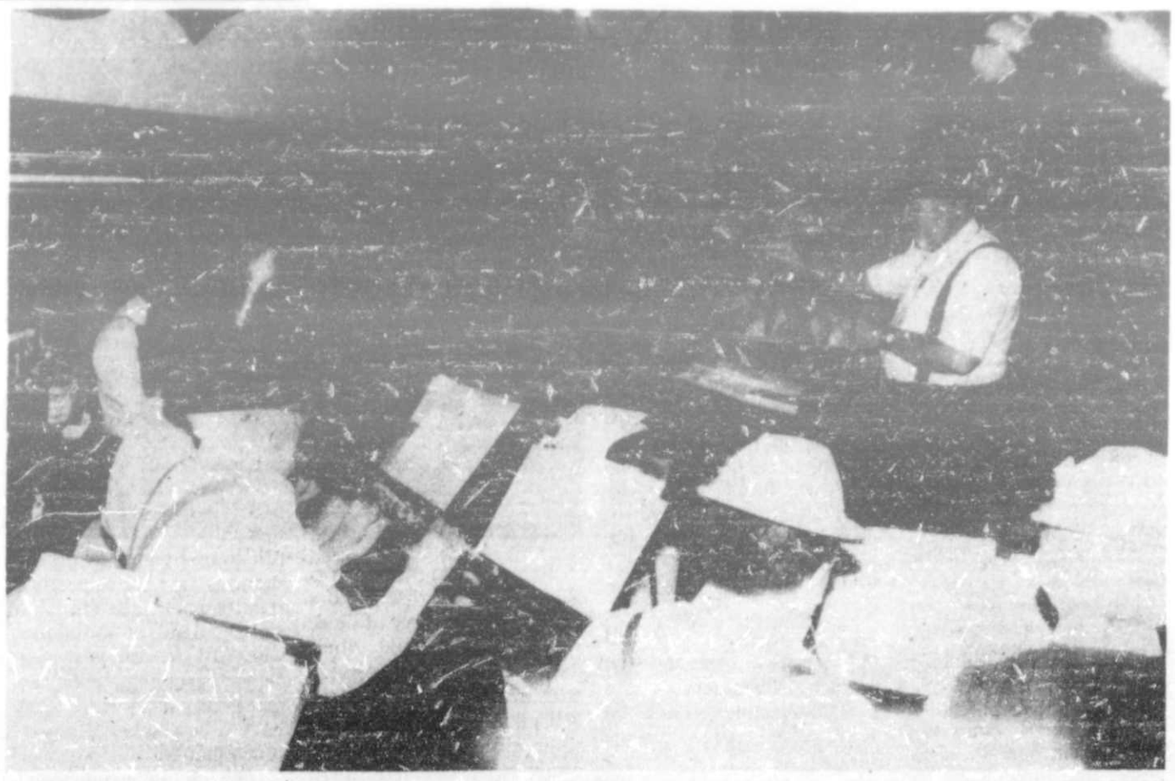
"The Maryland Department of the Environment is dedicated to protecting and restoring the quality of Maryland's air, water, and land resources. With our partners, we are working diligently and successfully to restore the environmental quality of over 35 miles of the headwaters reaches of the North Branch," commented John Carey, director of the Maryland Bureau of Mines. "And although we have made tremendous headway, we still need the public's support as well as the support of state, federal, and local governments with the coal mining industry to continue our efforts. The North Branch is a success story that continues."

The first day of the seminar, which will be held in the Performing Arts Center of FSU, will showcase past, present, and future efforts in the treatment of the river. Attendees will learn the history of the coal industry in western Maryland, the return of the river's living resources, the improved technology of the modern coal industry -- both surface and deep mining, and the outlook of the river's future.

A field trip of significant sites in Garrett County, relating to the North Branch remediation efforts, will highlight the second day. These sites include Jennings Randolph Lake and Fish Pens, Elklick I and Vindex Mines, the Trout Fishery at Mettiki Coal, Kempton Doser, and Fairfax Stone. The field trip is limited to 100 participants.

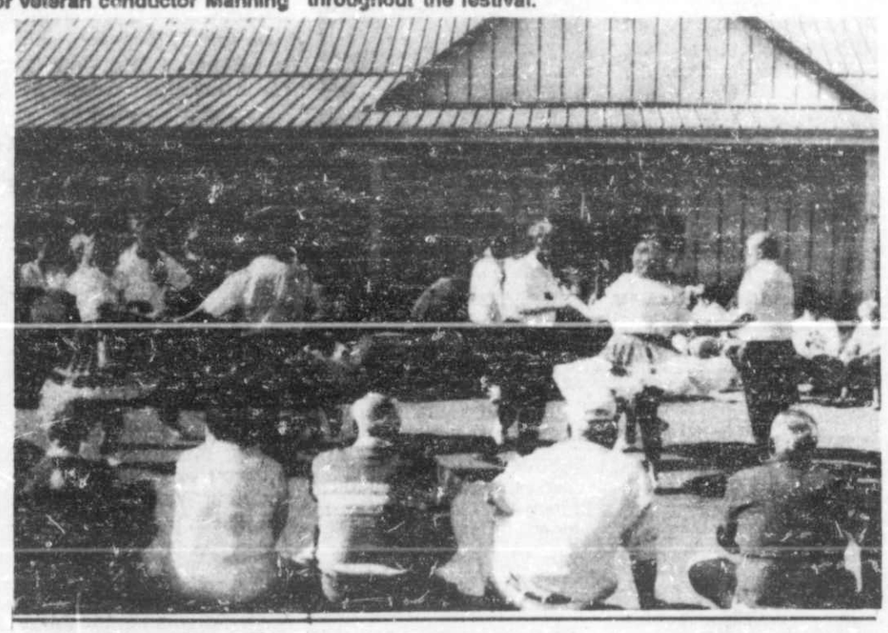
An invitational partnership breakfast will be held the third day to review aspects of remediation and the recommitment to the cooperative efforts of improving the North Branch of the Potomac River.

The North Branch begins as a small stream at the foot of the Fairfax Stone in West Virginia which flows into Maryland and marks the boundary between the two states, becoming a large river over 150 feet wide when it reaches Jennings Randolph Lake. Many miles downstream the North Branch joins with the South Branch to form the Potomac River which flows past the nation's capital. The Potomac River is designated as one of America's Heritage Rivers.



Decimated by years of acid mine discharges from pre-law abandoned coal mines, the North Branch, from Kempton to Bloomington, was considered dead and useless. State and federal agencies frequently reported the poor condition of the river's aquatic resources during the 1960s, 70s, and 80s.

In 1988, efforts began to restore the North Branch. Fifty-two mine sties within the 221-square-mile watershed area above the Jennings Randolph Lake and Dam were identified. Thirteen of the sites contributed 90 percent of the acid loading to the river, destroying the aquatic life.



Looking for a new and cost effective solution to a decades-old problem, MDL adapted Swedish acid rain technology to treat the acid mine drainage problem. Two types of machines, electric-powered and water-powered lime dosers, now inject alkaline lime slurry directly into the stream. Between the success of the dosers in eliminating acid and the responsible mining of coal by today's industry, the river's pH level has remained above 7.0. This stability of the pH levels has led to two historical events: the annual stocking of trout by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources and the growth of recreational outfitters and resident fishing in the premier trout fishery.

Although the dosers have successfully treated acid discharges from large abandoned mine sites, the search for a more permanent solution continues to be a high priority for the Maryland Department of the Environment, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Power Plant Research Program (PPRP), and the coal industry. "Achieving a more permanent solution requires the best minds, total commitment, significant sources of funding, and the support of the many stakeholders of the river," stated Carey.

The symposium registration fee for Monday, Oct. 25, is $25, which includes lunch. It also includes an open house at the Appalachian Laboratory Monday evening. The fee for the Tuesday, Oct. 26, bus tour is $40, which includes dinner and entertainment at the Will O' the Wisp at Deep Creek Lake. Anyone interested in attending should call the Geography Department, Frostburg State University, at 301-687-4721 or fax at 301-687-4720 or visit the symposium's web site at www.frostburg.edu/bom.

THERE WAS MUSIC AND DANCING throughout the Autumn Glory Festival, with some of that merriment pictured here. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department Genuine German Oom-Pah Oktoberfest Band is shown above, under the direction this year of Jerry McGee, a resident of the Deep Creek Lake area. McGee, an accomplished musician, stood in for veteran conductor Manning Smith, who is spending a year in Germany. The celebration was host to its largest crowd to date, according to a fire department spokesperson. Local square dancers are pictured below as they "whirl, whirl, twist and twirl" their way around the town parking lot at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion, where activities and events were nearly constant throughout the festival.

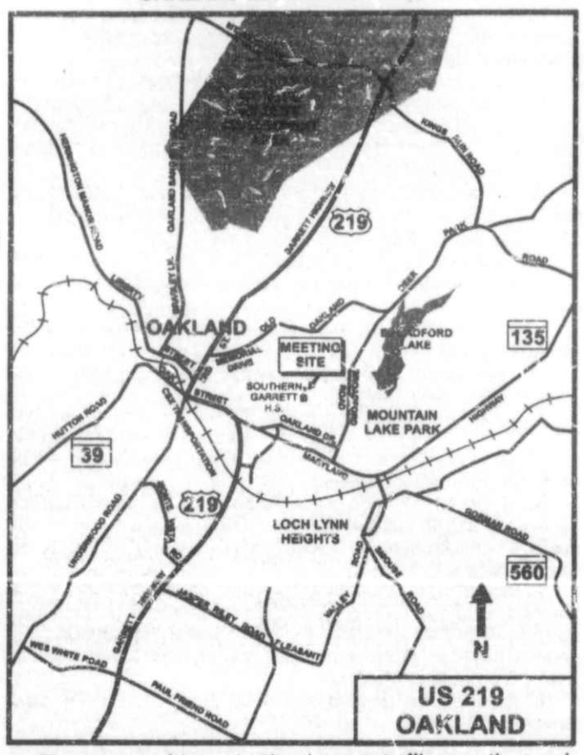
STATE OF MARYLAND
DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
TENTATIVE DETERMINATION TO ISSUE GENERAL PERMIT FOR SURFACE COAL MINES AND RELATED FACILITIES

The Department has made a tentative determination to renew the State/NPDES (National Pollution Discharge Elimination System) general permit for surface coal mines and related facilities in Maryland. Effluents from these facilities have the potential to add significant, and sometimes toxic, pollutants to State waters. Since the discharges from most surface coal mines and related facilities have the same characteristics, this class of discharges is appropriate for coverage under a general permit. The permit authorizes the discharge of stormwater runoff and groundwater seepage from both active and inactive surface coal mines, including the access roads and the reclamation areas, provided that the terms and conditions of the general permit are met. The permit limitations for active mines include pH (6.0 - 9.0) total suspended solids (TSS) (45 mg/l), and total iron (6.0 mg/l daily maximum and 3.0 mg/l monthly average) and are unchanged from the previous permit and are equal to or are more stringent than the best available technology (BAT) limitations recommended for alkaline mine drainage in federal regulations (40 CFR 434.42 - .43). Special pH limits are imposed for precipitation events greater than a 10 year, 24-hour storm. Turbidity limitations (100 NTU daily maximum and 50 NTU month average) are established because turbidity can easily be tested in the field and the results are immediately available. 100 Nephelometer turbidity units (NTU) is approximately equivalent to 45 mg/l TSS and assures compliance with the State's in-steam criteria for turbidity. If the wastewater is acid or ferruginous, effluent limits for manganese are also imposed.



Discharge monitoring is still required after the mine reclamation has been completed. The limitations for pH (6.0 - 9.0) and settleable solids (0.5 mg/l) are equal to the BAT limits in federal regulations 40 CFR. 434.52 - 53. Special pH limits are imposed for precipitation events greater than a 10 year, 24-hour storm. A condition for groundwater protection is imposed to require that any pool of standing water within the mining permit area, which remains for more than 48 hours after a precipitation event be maintained at a pH of 6.0 to 9.0, The requirement to test the effluent for 13 heavy metals, when one-half of the area, which drains to any outfall, has been disturbed, provides additional protection to surface waters. If metal levels are found to exceed acceptable water quality criteria, the permittee may be required to obtain an individual discharge permit. Additional permit conditions require implementation of an approved sediment and erosion control plan, maintenance of access roads to sediment control ponds, and prohibit the use of phosphorus, nitrogen or chlorine for wastewater treatment without prior approval from the Department.

The Department will hold a public hearing concerning this tentative determination at 11 a.m. on November 23, 1999 in Room 19 of the Continuing Education Building at Allegany Community College, Willowbrook Road, Cumberland, MD. The public hearing will also address revisions to COMAR 26.08.04.09-1 to reduce permit fees to be collected. Written comments concerning this tentative determination will also be considered in the preparation of a final determination if received by the Department, at the above address, on or before November 29, 1999.

All information supporting this tentative determination, including the draft permit, may be reviewed by contacting Beverly Archable at the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 2500 Broening Highway, Baltimore, Maryland 21224 or by telephone at 410-631-3540 to make an appointment during the hours from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. Copies of document may be obtained at a cost of $0.30 per page.

PUBLIC NOTICE
MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
STATE HIGHWAY ADMINISTRATION,
FEDERAL HIGHWAY ADMINISTRATION AND
THE U. S. ARMY CORPS OF ENGINEERS
LOCATION/DESIGN PUBLIC HEARING
US 219 OAKLAND
TRANSPORTATION IMPROVEMENT PROJECT
Thursday, November 18,1999 at 6:30 P.M.
Displays will be available at 5:30 P.M.
AT SOUTHERN GARRETT HIGH SCHOOL
345 EAST OAK STREET
OAKLAND MARYLAND 21550

The purpose of the project is to improve traffic operations and safety within the Town of Oakland. The project proposes Alternate 1, the No-Build Alternate, Alternate 2, the Transportation System Management (TSM) Alternate, and Alternate 3, a relocated alternate which incorporates different alignments (Option A, Option A- I, Option C, and Option C- 1).

The purpose of the Location/Design Public Hearing is to afford all interested persons the opportunity to present their views regarding the proposed location and general design features of the project, including the social, economic and environmental effects for both the build alternates and the No-Build Alternate.

Beginning at 5:30 p.m. mapping depicting the project alternates will be on display. Representatives of the State Highway Administration, Federal Highway Administration, and Army Corps of Engineers will be available to record your comments and discuss points of interest with you.

A formal presentation beginning at 6:30 p.m. and lasting approximately 20 minutes will include a description of the project alternates, an environmental summary, information on right-of-way acquisition, relocation assistance policies and procedures, and Title VI of the Equal Opportunity Program. The presentation will be followed by receipt of public testimony, which will be mation that will be considered by the Corps in evaluating a Department of the Army permit. All comments received will become part of the formal project record. Copies of any written statements expressing concern for aquatic resources may be submitted to Mr. Paul Wettlaufer, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, CENAB-OP-RP, PO Box 1715, Baltimore, MD 21203-1715 until December 17, 1999.

The Environmental Assessment serves as an application for a Department of the Army permit pursuant to Section 404 of the Clean Water Act (33 U.S.C. 1344). Coordination with Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) also ensures that the document satisfies the alternates analysis requirements of the State's wetland permit review. Application for the State permit will be made subsequent to the alternate selection process.

The decision whether to issue the Section 404 authorization will be based on an evaluation of the probable impacts including direct, indirect, and cumulative impacts of the proposed project on the public interest. This decision will reflect the national concern for the protection and utilization of important resources. The benefits, which reasonably may be expected to accrue from the proposed project, must be balanced against its reasonably foreseeable detriments. All factors which may be relevant to the proposed project will be considered including the cumulative effects; among those are conservation, economics, aesthetics, general environmental concerns, wetlands, cultural values, fish and wildlife values, flood hazards, floodplain values, land use, navigation, shoreline erosion and accretion, recreation, water supply and conservation, water quality, energy needs, safety, food and fiber production and, in general, the needs and welfare of the people.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is soliciting comments from the public; Federal, State, and local agencies and officials; Native American Tribes; and other interested parties in order to consider and evaluate the impacts of this proposed activity. Any comments received will be considered by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to determine whether to issue, modify, condition, or deny a permit for this proposal. To make this decision, public comments regarding the assessment of impacts to endangered species, historic properties, water quality, general environmental effects, and the other public interest factors listed above are taken into account.

The applicant will be required to obtain a water quality certification in accordance with Section 401 of the Clean Water Act from the Maryland Department of the Environment. Water quality certification is requested from Maryland Department of the Environment by way of this public notice. Any written comments concerning the work described above which relate to water quality certification should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Wetlands and Waterways Program, 2500 Broening Highway, Baltimore, MD 21224. The 401 certifying agency has a statutory limit of one year to make its decision.

The evaluation of the impact of the work described above on the public interest will include application of the guidelines promulgated by the Administrator, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, under authority of Section 404 of the Clean Water Act.

A preliminary review of this application indicates that the proposed work will have no effect on listed species or their critical habitat pursuant to Section 7 of the Endangered Species Act as amended. As the evaluation of this application continues, additional information may become available which could modify this preliminary determination.

Pleasant View To Present Program On Jews For Jesus

GARRETT SMITH

The Pleasant View Baptist Church, located south of Oakland, will present a free program by Garrett Smith, chief of station at the Jews for Jesus Washington, D.C. branch, on Sunday, Oct. 24, at 10:15 a.m. The public is invited to the free program, according to Pleasant View pastor Rev. Wally Weeks, which will be followed by a question/answer discussion period.

Jews for Jesus is an agency which proclaims that Jesus is "the Messiah of Israel and Savior of the world." Smith puts it as "What could be more Jewish than following the Messiah?" adding that he considers himself 100 percent Jewish and 100 percent Christian.

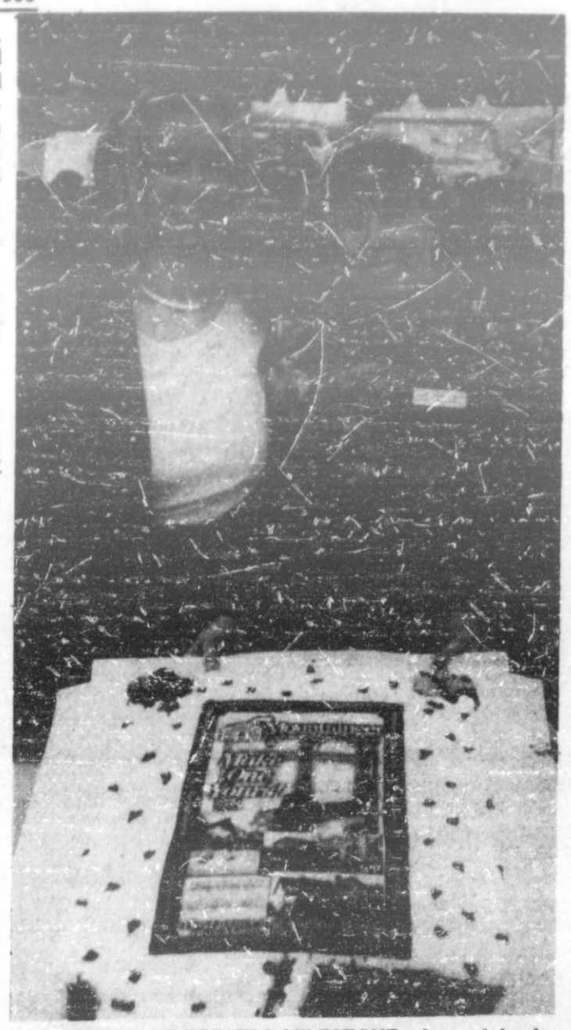
A native of the San Francisco Bay area, Smith was bar mitzvahed at 13 and later graduated from the University of California at Santa Barbara with a bachelor's degree in business/economics. After two years at a prominent San Francisco finance company he left his position there to undertake a "spiritual quest." He took an immersion course in Mandarin and moved to China, where he spent two years teaching English, studying martial arts, and practicing Buddhism.

During a stay in Israel in a Christian youth hostel in 1992, Smith began to read the Bible for the first time. "I began to consider the possibility that the Bible was true and that Jesus could be the Messiah," he recalled. "Within two months of arriving at the hostel, I became convinced of the truth of Scriptures and the messiahship of Jesus."

Smith returned to the San Francisco Bay area where he encountered Jews for Jesus. He volunteered for its 1994 Summer Witnessing Campaign in New York City, and the next year returned to New York for another campaign, which was followed by a missionary candidacy. After being accepted as an evangelist with Jews for Jesus, he was transferred to San Francisco. This summer Smith directed the New York City Summer Witnessing Campaign, and has subsequently been transferred to his present post in Washington, D.C.

The Jews for Jesus organization was founded by Moishe Rosen, a Jew who says he has believed in Jesus for over 35 years. The organization has permanent branches in seven North American cities (San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago, Toronto, New York City, Fort Lauderdale, and Washington, D.C.) as well as over 70 chapters spanning some 30 states. The group's international branches are headquartered in Johannesburg, London, Paris, Odessa, Moscow, Tel Aviv, and Sydney.

For members of Jews for Jesus, "Believing in Jesus makes sense in light of the Jewish Bible and in light of their experiences as believers," Smith stated.



Pleasant View Baptist Church is located 2 miles south of Oakland along Route 219. Persons interested in further information may call the church office at 301-334-8515. There will be no admission charge.

Celtic Rhythm To Perform At Potomac State

Celtic Rhythm, an Irish troupe of some 20 dancers and musicians from Dublin, Ireland, will present a concert at the Church-McKee Arts Center at Potomac State College, Keyser, W.Va., next Tuesday, Oct. 26, at 8 p.m.

"The infectious rhythms and heart-breaking pathos of the traditional music of Ireland and the fleet feet of the dancers provide an unforgettable experience, as they take us from the mists of ancient legend, through invasion by Vikings and Normans, the bleak horror of famine and mass emigration to a happier time today, when Irish men and women are to be found in every quarter of the world, still guarding their precious culture and identity," stated a spokesperson for the group.

Tickets, which may be purchased at the door the evening of the performance, are $15 for adults and $8 for students. The Highland Arts Unlimited program is funded by the West Virginia Commission on the Arts, the National Endowment on the Arts, Highland Arts memberships, Potomac State College, and the Mineral County Board of Education.

BUSINESS CELEBRATES MILESTONE - A special celebration was held October 9 by Mountaineer Log & Siding, Oakland, to observe the 20th anniversary of the founding of the business. Pictured with a specially baked cake are Karen Myers, right, owner and president of the company, and her daughter Elizabeth Spiker, sales representative. Despite rainy conditions, over 115 Mountaineer log homeowners and their families attended the appreciation barbecue, which was held at the company's headquarters in McHenry.

Free Child Seat Safety Check Set In Frostburg

A free child safety seat check will be held at Frostburg Volunteer Fire Department, Station #2, next Thursday, Oct. 28, from 1 to 4 p.m. Trained personnel will examine child safety seats to make sure they are properly installed, they are the right size and style for the child's age and size, they have not been recalled by the manufacturer, and they do not have obvious damage.

"Over and over again, we find problems as we check child safety seats for families who are trying to do everything correctly," said Diane Lee, who is coordinating the event for the Garrett County Health Department. "Getting seats into vehicles correctly can be a challenge, but we can show caregivers how to do it correctly, and make it easier for them to do it the next time."

Recent seat checks in Allegany and Garrett counties have shown a problem with the seat or installation in at least 90% of all the seats checked, Lee said. Problems range from not having the seat belts tight enough to seats with missing or broken parts.

"Earlier this year near Washington, D.C., a van was hit by a dump truck. The whole side of the van was ripped off, but the two children inside the van, whose seats had been checked the day before at a similar event, were not seriously injured," said Lee. "Their mother, who was driving the van when the crash occurred, cannot say enough good things about child safety seat checks and their importance. She credits the volunteers who checked her children's seats with saving their lives."

Next week's event is being cosponsored by the Garrett and Allegany County Highway Safety Programs, the Safe Communities Office at Frostburg State University, the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems' Emergency Medical Services for Children's Program, Maryland Kids in Safety Seats, and the Maryland Highway Safety Office.

For more information about the child safety seat check, persons may call the Garrett County Health Department at 301-344-8122 or 301-895-3113.

MLP Vehicle Mishap Injures Five People

A three-car accident in Mtn. Lake Park Sunday night resulted in injuries to all five persons involved, each of whom was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies reported that the collisions took place shortly after 3 p.m. at the intersection of Maryland Highway and D Street when a Chevrolet Monte Carlo operated by Robert Craig Swiger, 20, MLP, entered the intersection from southbound D Street.

Swiger, who reportedly told deputies he didn't see any other vehicles, apparently failed to yield to a Plymouth Voyager mini-van traveling eastbound on Maryland Highway. The Voyager, operated by Rebecca Ann Bittinger, 21, Oakland, struck Swiger's car and was spun across the highway into the path of a westbound Chevrolet Corsica driven by Michelle Lynn Baker, 28, Oakland.

Each of the three drivers, along with a female juvenile passenger in the Monte Carlo and a female juvenile passenger in the Corsica, sustained minor injuries. The Southern Garrett Rescue Squad and the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department responded to the scene with sheriff's deputies. No charges have been filed.

In other motor vehicle accidents investigated by the sheriff's office recently, a Thursday, Oct. 14, mishap in Deer Park occurred when a driver reportedly fell asleep at the wheel.

Four Arrested On CDS Violations

The narcotics division of the Garrett Bureau of Investigation reported the arrests of four individuals on October 23 for controlled dangerous substance violations.

Investigators said the information was received from a "concerned" citizen in reference to persons using marijuana at a Grantsville hotel. Further investigation revealed that the subjects were in possession of marijuana and psilocybin mushrooms.

The following individuals were arrested and charged with possession of marijuana: John Stammer Sr., 43; Linda Stammer, 44; and John Stammer Jr., 19, all of New Canton, Va.; and a juvenile. Investigators also seized a 1996 Pontiac Firebird.

Persons are reminded that if they have drug information they may contact the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force at 301-387-9566 or 301-895-5889. Callers may remain anonymous.

SOME JACK-'O-LANTERN TRICKERY will probably take place over the next few days as the fun of Halloween sets in, but the trickery noted here is actually concerning the Jack-boy shown above. He's really a massive pumpkin, grown by Harrison and Marjana "Toots" Greaser, who live on Kitzmiller Road. The Greasers said they had no plans to carve it, but staff photographer John McEwen said he couldn't resist doing a little "darkroom carving" on the big gourd. So what you see above is not what you might get if you visit the Greasers, who are selling a variety of little pumpkins at their home. They plan to can the big boys, like this one. Happy Halloween!

DNR-GLAF Agreement Reached On Planned Deep Creek Amphitheater

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources State Forest and Park Service and the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) have signed a five-year lease which gives GLAF the responsibility of managing and scheduling events at an outdoor amphitheater, planned to be built at Deep Creek Lake State Park. The proposed outdoor facility, which the state is building for $637,000, is to have lawn seating for 500 people.

"We are very pleased to have been instrumental in bringing the amphitheater to this beautiful setting in Garrett County," said Dr. Marcene Huebner, chairperson of the GLAF board of directors. "Garrett Lakes Arts Festival considers it a privilege and honor to be asked to manage the schedule of events at the facility, which will enhance the quality of life for Garrett County residents and visitors."

Paul Durham, manager of the Deep Creek Lake State Park, said the goal at the park and other public lands is to use the areas for the benefit of the wildlife and natural resources, as well as the benefit of citizens.

"This outdoor amphitheater will offer residents and visitors the opportunity to enjoy artistic performances, as well as the beauty of this natural setting," Durham said.

The lease agreement and funding for the construction of the facility must receive final approval from the Maryland Board of Public Works.

Second Person Is Indicted By Sept. Grand Jury

The second person indicted by the September Term Grand Jury has been arrested, according to a release from the office of Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney for Garrett County. Ferdinand George Bauman, 33, formerly of Accident, has been charged with felony and misdemeanor drug charges, in connection with three alleged instances of marijuana distributions to a police informant in December 1997, January 1988, and February 1988.

Additional charges apparently have been filed stemming from a search of the defendant's residence by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, during which quantities of marijuana, paraphernalia, and weapons were recovered, according to Welch.

"The charges were placed once before, but some were dismissed by the court because of an error in filing documents with the circuit court," Welch said, explaining the delayed arrest. "Fortunately, we could re-charge and, given the serious nature of the charges, chose to do so by presenting the facts to the grand jury."

Bauman apparently turned himself in at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and has since been released after posting a $25,000 property bond.

State Purchases Largest Remaining Privately Owned Yough Corridor Tract

Governor Parris N. Glendening this week announced that the state of Maryland will purchase the largest remaining privately owned tract of land along the Youghiogheny River corridor. The Board of Public Works approved $2.7 million for the Department of Natural Resources Program Open Space to acquire the 783-acre Frantz property, located between Sang Run and Friendsville.

According to reports, the state will pay the family $3,500 per acre and then sell to the family 290 acres of other land in the county.

On this stretch of the Youghiogheny, the governor said hikers can "travel back through time and see a landscape virtually untouched by civilization."

"The Youghiogheny is our only wild and scenic river, and we must do everything we can to maintain its unique and pristine beauty for future generations to enjoy," Glendening said. "With this purchase . . . we are continuing to move forward on our aggressive efforts to permanently protect this precious resource."

Protection efforts for the river's corridor began in 1988, and, according to the governor, the acquisition of the Frantz property has been a key step in that process. Including this latest purchase, the state has acquired 1,825 of the 2,000 acres along the "wild" portion of the corridor, and 3,794 of the 4,732 acres along the entire "wild and scenic" portion.

Delegate George Edwards has advised the state officials on the management of the corridor since it was designated Wild and Scenic.

"The Frantz property is the gateway to the wild portion of the Youghiogheny River, which is a very unique and outstanding resource we are preserving for the people of Maryland," the delegate said. "I am pleased that the state was able to work with these and other property owners to voluntarily acquire these properties and preserve part of Garrett County and Maryland's unique natural and cultural resources."

Major Dental Care Grant Awarded To County; Children To Benefit

A grant worth nearly $600,000 has been awarded to Garrett County from the Federal Office of Rural Health Policy of the Department of Health and Human Services, according to the county's health officer, Rodney Glotfelty, who made the announcement this week at the commissioners' monthly staff meeting. The money will be divided over the next three years to help local residents, chiefly children, obtain adequate dental care.

The grant application, penned by Ann Sherrard of the Garrett County Health Department, was a project of the health department, Garrett County dentists, Garrett Memorial Hospital, and the Garrett County Community Action Committee. The awarded grant will provide $198,622 the first year, $197,090 the second year, and $196,580 the third year.

"This was a highly competitive grant pursuit, and we are just thrilled to have received it," Glotfelty said.

The grant goals of the health officials are to provide dental care to individuals presently in need of such care, and do so through a community dental health center; to develop a sustainable dental health network by coordinating community efforts to negotiate with managed care organizations (MCOs) and recruit needed health providers to the area; and to develop and conduct a comprehensive community education campaign promoting preventive dental health care.

The concern about the lack of adequate dental care has been voiced numerous times over the past several years, such as in the 1995 Year 2000 Health Plan, and at the 1995 Children's Summit, the 1997 Alternative Futures Workshop, the 1998 Town Meeting on Health Care Access, and, most recently, at the 1998 Garrett County Economic Summit.

A 1999 survey conducted by the health department staff determined that 60% of individuals enrolled in the Maryland Children's Health Protection Program (MCHP) have not been able to obtain dental care under that plan. Another dilemma faced by local residents is the ratio of dentists to the population. While the recommended ratio is 1 per 1,300, Garrett County's ratio is 1 dentist per 3,152 people.

The first phase of the grant use will be involve networking with local dentists and other entities, Sherrard said this week. The actual dental care services will most likely not be initiated until after the first of the year.

In a letter of support for this grant dated Feb. 25, 1999, Dr. Harry Goodman, director of the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Office of Oral Health, stated that he was "acutely aware" of the oral health care access problems that exist in Garrett County and the entire western Maryland region.

"Access to oral health care services continues to be severely limited for children in Garrett County, especially those eligible for the MCHP," Goodman wrote. "These children, for the most part, lack access to both dental and clinical treatment services and prevention modalities, such as water fluoridation. Consequently, these dentally under-served children needlessly suffer pain, infection, and pathology association with oral diseases."

Goodman went on to note that the western Maryland region has the highest dental decay rate in the state, and that the overall lack of access to dental treatment and prevention

Fire Destroys New Germany Area Garage

An accidental fire destroyed a garage located along McAndrews Hill Road near New Germany State Park Sunday afternoon.

Volunteer fire fighters from Grantsville and Bittinger fire departments were summoned at 4 p.m. to the residence of Bill Evans, but found the structure nearly burned to the ground upon their arrival. The fire apparently started while Evans was working on a vehicle, according to a spokesperson for the Grantsville VFD.

Evans escaped the garage uninjured. The loss was estimated to be $28,000.

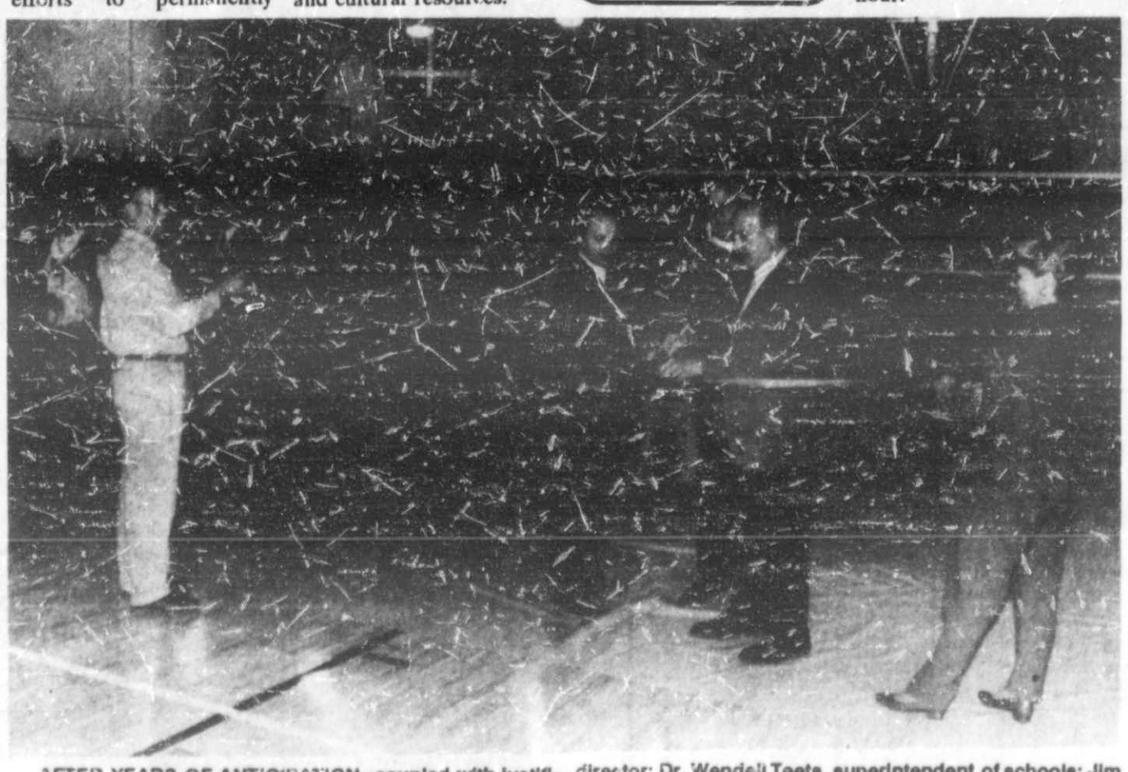
Also responding to the scene was the county air cascade vehicle, housed at the Deep Creek fire hall, and the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. Crews remained on the scene for approximately one hour.

Assault Charges Filed By Police

Charges of assault and reckless endangerment were filed against a Pennsylvania man following an incident which occurred at a residence on Rock Lodge Road on October 22.

According to information released by Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack, Kevin Anthony Downey, 41, Corey, Pa., was arrested as he was walking along Rock Lodge Road at about 7:40 a.m.

Tfc. G.A. Seaman reported that he responded to a call at 3:46 a.m. to assist rescue squad personnel who were treating an injured man at a residence on Rock Lodge Road. The injured man said he had been involved in a verbal altercation with the suspect who then struck him in the head several times with a table lamp.



When Downey was apprehended over four hours later, he offered no detailed statement, Tfc. Seaman said.

Downey was held in the Garrett County Jail on $10,000 bond.

Car Overturns

Joseph G. Hutzel, 17, Grantsville, was injured when his vehicle overturned on Garrett Highway on October 24. Police said Hutzel was southbound near Stockyard Road around 9:05 a.m. when he lost control of his vehicle in very foggy weather conditions. The vehicle then struck an embankment and flipped over, coming to rest on its roof.

Hutzel was taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries. No charges were filed in the incident.

AFTER YEARS OF ANTICIPATION, coupled with justifiable complaining, support from the county commissioners, and plenty of hard work, the Southern High School gymnasium has finally been renovated, transformed from a dark, paint-peeled space to one of new colors and great radiance. A special ribbon-cutting ceremony and open house was held last Wednesday evening to commemorate the project's completion. Participating in the ribbon-cutting in the above photo are, from left: Tom Woods, SHS athletic director; Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of schools; Jim Raley, chairman of the Board of Education; Ernie Gregg, Garrett County commissioner; and Lynn Bell, school principal. Others recognized (in the background) included other members of the board of education, the contractor, and various local businesses that were connected to the project. Following the ribbon-cutting, refreshments were served in the school cafeteria.

SHS Band Earns Best Score At Big Apple Event

The Southern Garrett Marching Band earned its best score of the field show competition season on Saturday as a participant in the Big Apple Tournament of Bands, hosted by Musselman High School. The band, under the direction of Richard Clever, was awarded a score of 88.95, which earned first place in Division I and second place overall among 11 bands representing all divisions. Southern was edged only by Keyser, a Group IV band, which recorded a top score of 89.95.

Southern also won the Best Auxiliary, Best Music, Best Marching, and Best Drum Major specialty awards.

Westmar placed a distant second in Division I with a score of 82.02, and McDonough High School was third with a 74.25.

"I was very pleased with our performance," Clever said. "We got a solid effort from all of the band members. They are really starting to perform up to their capabilities. We're looking forward to the Chapter 13 Championships."

The championships will be held Saturday, Nov. 6, at Westminster High School. Southern will compete one more time before that event, at North Carroll High School in Hampstead this Saturday, Oct. 30. The tournament will begin at 6 p.m., and Southern is scheduled to take the field at 6:38 p.m.

Oakland's annual Halloween parade and social will be held tonight, Thursday, Oct. 28. The event, sponsored by the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, will be open to children age 12 and under.

Line-up for the parade will be at the Garrett County Community Action building on Center Street, beginning at 6:15 p.m., with the parade scheduled to start promptly at 6:30 p.m. Prizes will be awarded during the parade.

The Halloween social, following the parade, will be held in the fire hall and will feature various activities including a cake-walk. Prizes and treats will be given at the fire hall.

Trick-or-treating in Oakland is designated for children age 12 and under from 5 to 7 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 30. Residents wishing to participate are asked to leave their porch lights turned on.

STUDENTS WITH GREEN THUMBS - The Accident Elementary School students had planted many seeds in a garden last June before school was let out for the summer. Upon returning to school in late August, the students noticed that their garden had done quite well, producing many flowers, zucchini, pumpkins, and cucumbers. With their crops, the class then made zucchini bread and zucchini soup. The pumpkins are being used for fall decorations and will serve as the centerpiece for the Thanksgiving dinner the children are planning. At this time, another garden is being worked on for the planting of 252 fall buds that were donated through a Dutch Youth Gardening Grant. Frostburg State University student intern Steve Savage is helping coordinate the bulb garden. Students who helped with the garden are pictured above and include, from left to right, front row: Robbie Harding, Jason Horton, Clint Sutter, Danita Paugh, Crystal Crofton, and Carrie Pike; second row: Corey House, Dustin Bennett, Stephen Younkin, and Phillip Schrock; and back row: Brittany Burgess, Nick Ferrell, Ruthie Rounds, and John Thorp.

Play Auditions To Be Held At Our Town

Our Town Theatre has announced that auditions for a one-act play, titled Graveyard Cleaning-Off Day by Becky Reynolds, will be held at the theatre on Sunday, Oct. 31, from 1 to 5 p.m., and on Monday, Nov. 1, from 6 to 9 p.m.

Richard Hill will be the director, with technical direction by Ben Sincell. The play is produced through special arrangement with Dramatic Publishing.

There are five characters in the cast consisting of two female leads and three male supporting characters. Roles available are: one female age 50+, one female 30-45, one male age 50+, one male 20-45, and one male 20-45. The play will be performed December 2, 3, and 4, with an afternoon matinee on December 5.

"Graveyard Cleaning-Off Day revives the forgotten tradition of gathering at the old family cemetery and spending a summer day cleaning and tidying up," Hill explained. "What was once a day as important as Christmas has become impractical as families scatter across the country. The play explores the conflict of old and modern ways, and change as important and depressing."

For more information about auditions, persons may call the theatre at 301-334-5640, or Richard Hill at 301-334-1739.

Oakland Souvenir Program Reprint Orders Available

Because of the demand from Garrett County residents, orders for reprints of the Oakland Sesquicentennial Souvenir Program are being taken at the Oakland Town Hall, according to Glenn Tolbert, Main Street manager. Persons who wish to order reprints of the program for themselves or for their families are being asked to leave their names and $5 per copy at the town hall.

The souvenir program contains stories from Oakland's past and photographs and anecdotes about local people and places. A listing of area writers is included, along with samples of their work, and a "predictions and advice" section is also included. The planning committee members and the town staff are also highlighted in the publication. Orders for the reprints will be taken through Friday, November 12.

Oakland's sesquicentennial, or 150th birthday anniversary, was celebrated the week of October 10-17. The event coincided with the Autumn Glory Festival and helped make the yearly fall celebration one of the best attended in recent history, Tolbert noted.

The original cost of the program was $1.50, but at the time of the first printing, expenses were partially covered by a grant from the Maryland Department of Tourism. The grant was expended with the first printing, which is the reason for the increase in cost per copy.

For more information, persons may call the town hall at 301-334-2691.

Oakland Police Arrest Driver

The Oakland Police reported the arrest of an Oakland resident for several traffic violations, including driving while intoxicated.

The investigating officer, Pfc. S. Fratz, stated that on October 23 at approximately 1 a.m., Ryan G. Garrett, 24, was observed crossing the center line numerous times while traveling northbound on North Third Street.

As Garrett approached Crook Street, he was traveling completely on the wrong side of the road, Pfc. Fratz reported. After he was stopped for the driving violation, Garrett submitted to field sobriety tests, which he allegedly did not perform satisfactorily. He was placed under arrest.

Robert Kortas Attains Rank Of Eagle Scout

Robert J. Kortas, son of Janey and John R. Kortas of Oakland, has attained the rank of Eagle Scout after the successful completion of his Eagle Scout project, the restoration of the 1870 Wonderly Cemetery in Loch Lynn.

Kortas's achievement was saluted in a Court of Honor ceremony at the Deep Creek Lake State Park Discovery Center recently, with Troop 1 Scoutmaster Mark Miller presiding as master of ceremonies. On hand for the event, in addition to family and friends, were Rev. Roger A. Harrison Sr. and Pastor Ann W. Harrison of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, BSA Potomac Council Scout executive Brad Burr, Howard Boltz Jr., and Paul Shogren.

The proceedings included a presentation by John Kortas titled "Robert, This is Your Life," and the pinning of the eagle badge by his mother Janey. Kortas was also presented with the state of Maryland's Governor's Citation.

Kortas began scouting at the age of 7 and has earned many awards, including the God and Life religious emblem and 25 merit badges. He is a brotherhood member of the Order of the Arrow. He was assistant senior patrol leader for contingent 201 of the Potomac Council at the 1997 National Jamboree, and during the summer of 1998 he backpacked 70 miles at the Philmont Scout Ranch in Cimarron, N.M. Most recently Kortas's leadership skills were demonstrated when he served as director of the new campers program at the BSA Camp Potomac.

In addition to his scouting interests, Kortas is a member of St. Paul's UM Church, as well as a member of a band and various sports teams. He is currently a cadet at the Fork Union Military Academy. He intends to earn a college degree in computer technology.

Disposal Permit Renewal Due By January 1, 2000

The refuse disposal permits for 1999 will expire on December 31, 1999. The residents and property owners of Garrett County will need to purchase a 2000 refuse disposal permit by January 1, 2000, and place it on the windshield of their vehicles or they will not receive admittance to any refuse collection site. The new permits may be used instead of the 1999 permits for the remainder of the year.

Applications for the new permits are available at all six refuse collection sites and the Garrett County Courthouse. Applications may also be downloaded from the Internet at www.co.garrett.md.us. The permit costs remains at $20 for the first vehicle and $10 for each additional vehicle in the same household.

After an application form is completed and a check or money order is enclosed, residents may mail the form to GCSW, 3118 Oakland Sang Run Road, Oakland, MD 21550. Individuals may also come to the main landfill, located 3.5 miles north of Oakland and 2 miles south of Bray School Road, to purchase permits. The hours of operation are Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

If an individual fails to renew his or her permit, then no refuse will be accepted at the landfill. Anyone may use the collection site for recycling purposes. Individual garbage bag stickers may also be used to bring waste into the collection sites until the permit is renewed and applied to the windshield of a vehicle.

The bright orange decals are intended for 13 gallon garbage bags. Two stickers are required for bags larger than 13 gallons. Each sticker costs $0.50 and may be purchased form the following outlets: Get N' Go in Oakland, Arrowhead at Deep Creek Lake, Slopeside/Citgo in McHenry, Swanton Grocery in Swanton, Chestnut Ridge Amoco in Grantsville, and the Funny Farm in Friendsville. The stickers may also be purchased at the Garrett County Landfill on Oakland Sang Run Road or at the collection sites.

Person may call 301-387-0322 or visit the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste & Recycling web site at www.co.garrett.md.us for any further information.

100-Year Assessment...

As the final weeks of this millennium tick away, a general assessment of life in these United States is being offered by a host of analysts, and most of those assessments are quite negative, especially from some of our more conservative religious "leaders." Some, in fact, are convinced that our society has become so polluted, so corrupt, that surely the end is near.

There was an interesting article in Life magazine recently that seemed to reinforce this assessment. The first portion of it read as follows: "Our divorce rate is the highest in the world, and the percentage of unmarried women is significantly higher than ever. Educated women are having fewer babies, while immigrant children flood the schools, demanding to be taught in their native language. Harvard University reports that only 4 percent of its applicants can write a proper sentence. There is an epidemic of sexually transmitted diseases among men. Many streets in urban neighborhoods are littered with cocaine vials. Youths call heroin 'happy dust.' Even in small towns, people have easy access to addictive drugs, and drug abuse by middle-class wives is skyrocketing. Police see 16-year-old killers, 12-year-old prostitutes, and gang members as young as 11."

That pretty well sums it up, right? The thing is, the above was written in 1899, just before the turn of the 20th century.

The article goes on to point out how many aspects of life, including our general behavior, are so much better today than they were 100 years ago. In 1899, only 6 percent of children graduated from high school, compared to 88 percent today. Fathers typically worked 10 hours a day, six days a week, leaving them little energy and time for family life. Race riots were far more frequent and deadly than those of recent generations. Women were not permitted to vote, and their wages were so low, many turned to prostitution. Child abuse and neglect were widespread. Life expectancy was much shorter, plus a third of white children and half of our black children would lose at least one sibling before age 15. There were a number of other comparisons noted.

Certainly we still have a lot of work to do as we move into the next millennium to make life better for all people, and undoubtedly there are some areas in which we have digressed rather than improved. But "the good ol' days," just like the proverbial greener grass on the other side of the fence, are descriptions that are not necessarily accurate.

People are people, and they always will be. Regardless of the ever-growing technological advances, humankind will continue to be born with the same faults and frailties. They simply emerge in different ways.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

This letter is in regard to Trick or Treat night. I feel that it is great to have a night of fun for the children in the towns, but my concern is the time. The common family is not even home until 5:00 or later, so are parents to leave their work early to take their children trick or treating. I don't think a boss would like that excuse.

I mean, get real — 5-6:15 p.m. is not a good time. It would make more sense to have it like Deer Park Community (6-7 p.m.). Their council and mayor really thought about the common family. I think the council and mayor of Loch Lynn and Mtn. Lake Park need to make a change next year.

Concerned mother,
Bridgette Imhoff
Loch Lynn resident

To the Editor:

I was recently invited to spend a week at Deep Creek Lake with a good friend of mine. We had a very enjoyable time at the lake (even though the bears kept us up every evening banging the trash cans). On our last day there, we decided to take our recyclable trash to the collection site to be disposed of. While we were there, my son asked to use the rest room. To my "surprise" it was an "outdoor johnny" and the smell was unbearable. When I mentioned this to the attendant, he said that the county only permitted the contractor to service them every two to three weeks. To top it off, he also said there was no water on site to wash your hands.

I can not imagine letting your people work under these conditions. I hate to think about the "odor" in the hotter months and the attendants not being able to wash their hands to even eat their lunch. I thought at the time, how would the county commissioners like to work under these conditions?

Thank you,
James Earl
Outer Banks, N.C.

P.S. No wonder they call Garrett County the "back woods"!!

To the Editor:

A word of thanks and respect to Amber Close for her courageous letter addressing the prevalence of prejudice in Garrett County. I absolutely agreed with Amber's opinions and would add that there is an extraordinary amount of fear in this county toward anybody who might be considered "different." Of course, "different" could mean anything from having an odd accent, to not being a Christian, to not being an avid hunter, etc. etc.

Prejudice begins in the home and festers in our schools and, sadly, even in our churches. God has created us in a wondrous assortment, yet we are all the same in our need to be loved and accepted. It is our shame that any child experience the pain of being excluded. Those wounds never truly heal.

We must be mindful of the seeds of hate we might inadvertently (or advertently) be sowing in the minds of our children. If we poison our children's minds with hate and prejudice, we poison that world they will have to share long after we are gone. Do we want to leave our children a legacy of hate or love?

Sincerely,
Eileen Schlosnagle

To the Editor:

I am concerned with the teenagers having nothing to do. I am a teenager myself, and find the people are doing nothing to help. Garrett County is a beautiful place, but is basically for retired people. Adults complain about the "bad, out of control" kids who cruise between parking lots. My question is, "What are they doing wrong?" Sitting in a parking lot, talking? If that is wrong then we are all criminals!

The adults want to know what we want done about it. Here are some suggestions: We could use a vacant building (example: Treasure Island, or the old movie theater) and have a dance hall or a roller skating rink. Many teenagers are fond of the roller skating rink idea. Sure, we have the lake to go to, but many of us live near town and need something affordable. Why not make a large parking place for the teenagers to sit and talk? That may sound absurd, but worthwhile if it would keep the teens out of trouble.

I'm sure if all the intelligent people in this community put their ideas and resources together, something really great would be accomplished for our youth!

To the Editor:

A few weeks ago I was in Ocean City for a few days. Since the weather was beautiful, I walked miles and miles of beach for exercise and shell collecting. And, sadly, I took note of all the usual kind of litter on the beach — cups, bottles, clothing, cigarette butts and empty packs, broken toys, etc. — and pieces of balloons — many, many pieces.

I have to wonder if a lot of people have forgotten what we should have learned at least a decade ago: that balloons pose a danger to wildlife and marine life through ingestion and entanglement, and they become pollution in the form of trash when they eventually — and always — deflate and return to land or water. "You can't make nothing out of something" is a good adage to remember when considering releasing balloons for festive occasions or to send messages to their finders east of us.

Please, people, let's get over the romantic notion that balloon releases are a cool way to celebrate or to communicate. I don't mean to rain on anyone's parade, but I just ask that people think about the end consequences of their actions.

Very sincerely,

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter because of what an eye doctor did to me.

I went to the eye doctor in 1996. I was seeing well out of my left eye, although my right eye was rather blurry. The doctor told me that I needed to have laser surgery on my right eye and that if I didn't let them do it, I would go blind.

He did laser surgery on my right eye, which was an awful thing to experience. He then referred me to a surgeon and she blinded my eye.

There were a few times after the surgery when I needed eye drops. I called them, but they would not give me any medicine or let me talk to my doctor. I had severe pains in the eye that they did surgery on.

I recently read in a medical report that laser surgery is not good for you. Too many of them can make you so that you do not see anything.

In my opinion, the best thing to do when your eye doctor tells you that you need laser surgery is to get a second opinion. Then think twice about it, because once your eyes go blind, no one can restore them.

Because of this doctor, I can no longer drive at night.

Thank you for reading my letter. I want others to know what I went through so they don't have to do the same.

November 7-13 is National Animal Shelter Appreciation Week. Animal shelters across the country will participate in this annual event, which is sponsored by the Humane Society of the United States (HSUS) to honor the role that the nation's 6,000 animal shelters play in every community. Every year, the nation's animal shelters care for millions of dogs and cats. Many animal shelters benefit greatly from the assistance of volunteers, and National Animal Shelter Appreciation Week is a wonderful time to call your shelter to find out how you can help.

Animal shelters provide a variety of services to their communities. Rescuing stray and injured animals, adopting animals to new homes, providing humane education to children and adults, and investigating animal cruelty.

Offering your time and talents to your community's animal shelter is a wonderful way to make new friends, to get to know more about the shelter and its services, and to spend some time with some wonderful animals. To find the animal shelter in your community, check the phone book or call the Humane Society of the United States at (202) 452-1100.

To the Editor:

My family has just become familiar with Carlon Doerr of E.A.D. Logging. (We grew up on a small farm in Accident and still own it). This young man is an asset to the community — honest, hard-working, and personable in the business aspect and to his clients. I would certainly recommend this young man for cutting timber, removing old barns, and being available to help the community and for the community to support his endeavor toward making a living.

Knowing the families through the years, he keeps the image he was taught by his parents and grandparents of good standards and moral conduct.

In this day and age of violent and troubled young people, it is so nice to work with this young man; may he go far in his business.

A special thanks to Mrs. James Wellborn for letting us meet this young man. Sometimes doors are closed and new ones opened for reasons beyond our control. Be it fate or God's will, it is always a blessing and we can be thankful each time this happens to us.

Thank you Carlon and crew. Keep up the good work!!

To the Editor:

A recent newspaper article about a lighthouse replica being constructed in Grantsville left me with a sense of sadness. I do not dislike lighthouses — They were functional near bodies of water and are symbolic of both a historical past as well as a spiritual journey. My sadness is not in the lighthouse itself, but rather in the effects the proposed light will have on our nights here in Garrett County. Part of the charm of western Maryland is the simplicity of a lifestyle unencumbered by the stuff that typically clutters neighborhoods, communities, landscapes, and relationships.

The bucolic life that we have known in these quiet and beautiful hills is held dear by many of us who claim this as our homeland. On the other hand, more and more stuff is introduced in the name of progress, technology, or symbols. It was Robert Frost who so eloquently said that "good fences make good neighbors." Is it possible that World Lighthouse Worship Center could re-consider and change its current direction, knowing that some neighbors do not welcome the "landmark ... for Grantsville, (where) thousands will see it every day from I-68" Is it possible that the symbolism of the lighthouse can be used to further their ministry, without impinging the "bright green beam" across our fields, our homes, and our starry Garrett County nights? I hope so.

To the Editor:

As I was reading through last week's paper, I came across a letter written by Amber Close. I was appalled by what I read and puzzled by the fact that someone who spent so much time composing the letter obviously spent so very little time closely considering what she was going to write.

Ms. Close thought it was about time to let the readers of The Republican know what was on her mind. She did so by bashing Garrett County and labeling it as a racist, politically incorrect haven for hicks and rednecks alike.

As a friend and former classmate of Amber's, let me be the first to apologize for her stereotypical and wildly inaccurate comments. Let me also be the first to say that I think Garrett County is the greatest place on Earth. There are not many places where you can walk down the street and not fear for your own safety. There are not many places where you can leave your car doors unlocked, knowing that no one will break in. There are not many places where you can take a deep breath without contaminating your body with pollution.

There is little crime, insignificant traffic, clean air, wonderful state parks, awe-inspiring views, an abundance of wildlife, many nice people, and, unfortunately, a few racists.

Racism does exist in Garrett County, just as it exists everywhere in this world. But Ms. Close would have us believe that racism exclusively lives in Garrett County; a county filled with "uneducated" people. She implies that the existing racism in this county is due, in large part, to the absence of multi-cultural education in our public school system. Nonsense! Racism exists in this county, and all over the world, because cold-hearted mental midgets choose to hate anyone who is physically different from themselves. But Ms. Close has taken the actions of a few people and stereotypically labeled the entire county as "racist." Thus, she has offended the vast majority of Garrett County, the non-racists. Shame on Ms. Close. Shame on her for championing a cause she stands so firmly against — stereotyping.

One of Ms. Close's complaints about this county was our usage of the term "Oriental." She passionately declared this term to be a racist and derogatory word. Ms. Close made a very important intellectual mistake in her declaration; she confused racism with political incorrectness. Racism implies hate and ill feelings toward a person of a different race. I am sure the majority of people in Garrett County are not aware that Asian Americans might be offended by the term Oriental. It certainly was not, and I live closer to Baltimore and Washington, D.C., than Garrett County. The term Oriental was widely accepted for years as a politically correct term. Ms. Close implied that even she was not aware of the offensiveness of this term until she moved away from this county. How can someone with Ms. Close's intelligence confuse racism with political incorrectness?

Ms. Close wrote in her letter that she only grew to realize that extreme racism existed in this county through furthering her education in a non-Garrett County school. I wonder if this school also teaches social skills — skills that Ms. Close obviously forgot to put into practice when she offended an entire county.

Thank you,
Jeremy Brenneman

View From My Window

by Jeffrey Wilson

THE ONCE AND FUTURE CHURCH

On Halloween 1517, Martin Luther nailed his 95 theses to the door of the Wittenberg Castle Church. That act launched the Protestant Reformation. Whatever abuses there were in the church then, I have my doubts about the validity of the continuation of innumerable Christian denominations.

The Reformation is over, and it is time for those of us who believe in the essential doctrines of the church to go home. In a word, it is time for Christians of every stripe and hue to come together in that church called Catholic because it is universal and because it is the church which Christ established.

Such a declaration invites many questions. One such question is this: "What is Jeffrey Wilson doing in the Presbyterian Church and especially as a Presbyterian pastor?" I often ask myself the same thing. My shortest answer is that I shall remain in the Presbyterian Church as long as there is a reasonable hope that Presbyterians together might return to the universal Christian fold.

Last week my presbytery (what we call our regional assembly, like a diocese or conference) sent me to Erie, Pa., to gather with 50 other Presbyterian pastors and elders from all over the northeast to read ordination exams. I had not wanted to do it, but the honor of being asked was too great to decline.

We crammed most of a week's work into four short days. We took our task seriously and we worked hard. There were times of worship and wonderful mealtimes. Mealtimes are almost always wonderful for me, but these were special. We told each other about our ministries. We complained. We ranted and raved. We entered into fierce, but friendly, arguments. We laughed together. There were even a few moments when we wept.

Almost every person there was extraordinary in some way. Our time together was the best experience I have had of the Presbyterian Church since my ordination 20 years ago.

One quality that made the group so remarkable was its composition. It consisted substantially of people who are working in the margins of our denomination. We had few pastors from the tall steeple or large suburban churches. Here was a gathering where pastors of small churches — in the inner city, the small towns, and the country — had a large voice in the future of our denomination.

What was perhaps most interesting, even paradoxical, was that this terrific experience of the Presbyterian Church reinforced my commitment to work toward the return of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) to the Catholic fold.

The reason for the paradox is that many — probably not most, but many — of the pastors in attendance had been positively influenced by Catholicism in some way. The biggest reason for that influence is that Presbyterians and, indeed, most Protestants have lost whatever concept of spiritual formation they once had. Increasingly we turn to the Catholic Church and especially to the monastic tradition within the Catholic Church to fill the gap in our own spiritual growth.

It is right for me to remain a Presbyterian because I believe the possibility of a denominational return to the Catholic fold actually increases over time. The good reasons for divisions among Christians are dissipating. So we are left with the bad reasons: self-will and pride. Against an increasingly secular culture engaged to death, the need grows every day for Christians to renew their old bonds of unity in order to speak and minister to the world with one voice, the voice of Christ.

Next week's column will give a review of Erie, Pa., where this meeting took place.

TRYING OUT THEIR NEW DIGS - Checking out the area, accommodations, and amenities, the llamas of Lonesome Pines in Oakland seem to have found things to be to their liking and relish the idea of taking up residence. The group traveled here from Westminster with owners Laurie and Charles Cornett, who have been breeding and raising llamas for three years. Next week the Cornetts and their stock will pack up and head down the road to winter in Westminster. They will return to Garrett County in the spring to open for business full-time. "We want to do a number of educational events for the public to teach about the care and breeding of llamas," Laurie said. Many folks have driven by their place on Fingerboard Road with questioning gazes, the Cornetts report. When the llama herd returns in the spring, they will number around 20. But for now, it is a case of "Now you see them — now you don't."

AMERICAN BEAUTY

Rated R - Running Time: 2:01 - Released 10/1/99

It seems that failing marriages have been a popular theme in films lately. Eyes Wide Shut was sexy. The Astronaut's Wife was spooky. Double Jeopardy was nasty; The Story Of Us was depressing. But American Beauty encompasses all of those qualities combined, plus it's the funniest film about marital dysfunction I've seen since The Ref. In that film, Kevin Spacey played a man who had lost his sexual desire for his wife. In American Beauty, written by Alan Ball and directed by Sam Mendes (a promising debut for both), Spacey is on the opposite side of the unrequited passion, but he's just as excellent.

We learn early on in American Beauty that 42-year-old Lester Burnham (Spacey) is going to die. He announces that in his opening narration. But the way he describes his marriage to Carolyn (Annette Bening), one wonders if he really has that much to live for. Carolyn is an ambitious real estate agent (is there any other kind?) who is so concerned with appearances that the pruning shears she uses to manicure her roses actually match her gardening clogs. Despite the fact that she never wants to touch Lester, she implores him to "pretend that we're happy." As if Carolyn's indifference isn't enough, the couple's daughter Jane (Thora Birch) openly refers to her father as a "lame-o." And to top it all off, Lester goes to work to find that the company where he's been working for 14 years has hired a man to assess each employee's work, so the management can make some cutbacks.

But Lester's pointless, sexually frustrated life changes when he goes to see Jane in a cheerleading routine at her high school's basketball game. Dancing alongside Jane is her friend Angela (Mena Suvari, American Pie), a sexy teenage vixen who captures Lester's fantasy life like a wild animal pounces on its prey. When he hears that Angela likes muscular men, he begins a workout program to build his flabby body into a sex machine. As his stamina increases, and as Angela becomes more and more flirtatious, he adopts a cavalier attitude, telling Brad, Carolyn, and everyone else who bothers him to basically go to hell. But Lester's not the only one in the marriage with a wandering eye. Carolyn has begun to fall for a competitor, a wealthy real estate agent (Peter Gallagher) who represents the model of success -- a sharp contrast to her own loser husband.

As the Burnhams' story is unfolding, we meet their new neighbors, who seem to have a "keep up with the Joneses" attitude about family problems. Ricky Fitts (Wes Bentley), a new classmate of Jane's, has a habit of stalking and videotaping things he thinks represent the beauty of nature (of which she is one). His father, retired Marine Colonel Frank Fitts (Chris Cooper, October Sky), is a straight-laced conservative jarhead to the *n*th degree. And the mother, Barbara (Allison Janney), spends her time staring glassily off into space. Ricky's appearance is really the catalyst for change in this film; his relationship with the Burnhams leads to life-altering consequences for just about everyone in both houses.

American Beauty is not your average murder comedy. Director Mendes combines hilarious comic elements with seriously dark undertones. It is a veritable cornucopia of psychological disorders and uncomfortable moments, punctuated effectively with an innovative musical score by Thomas Newman. When the film nears its climax, as with any good mystery, there are at least three possible candidates for Lester's killer. Not all the actors perform perfectly on their marks, but Spacey's style and delivery save the film time after time. ★★★★

BATS

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:30 - Released 10/22/99

Every Halloween season has its share of horror feature releases; this year's offerings include William Malone's The House On Haunted Hill, scheduled to hit theatres this Friday, and Tim Burton's Sleepy Hollow (Nov. 19). But if you desperately want to part with several dollars and are in the mood for a stupid premise and laughable special effects, then you can't do much better than Bats. This lame bit of cinema, written by John Logan and directed by Louis Morneau, features a horde of carnivorous flying beasties that appear in a small Texas town during the dimly lit hours and terrorize a number of dimly lit characters.

Like Jaws and Deep Blue Sea did for sharks, and Raiders Of The Lost Ark did for spiders and snakes, Bats takes one of our much-maligned fellow creatures and maligns them further, parlaying people's irrational fears into box office receipts. But don't worry, bat friends: this flick is so badly produced and its effects so incredibly unconvincing that no adult in his right mind could ever take it seriously. A few well-placed tweaks to the script and Bats could have been marketed as a comedy. But alas, the producers failed to see that possibility, and what results is a tragic waste of perfectly good celluloid.

Logan's plot is as common as they come. There's an unscrupulous scientist (Bob Gunton) who has produced a handful of — you guessed it — genetically altered bats. No one explains why this would be necessary (the closest we come is the good doctor saying "I'm a scientist; it's what we do!"), but two of these little devils have escaped from the lab and are infecting the entire local bat population in Gallup, Texas, with their ravenous bloodlust. These guys look like miniature pit bulls with wings, and though they would probably meet much less resistance if they attacked, say, unsuspecting livestock, they apparently only like to dine on human beings.

So the town's sheriff (Lou Diamond Phillips, still desperately seeking success) enlists a bat specialist (Dina Meyer, Starship Troopers) and her goofy sidekick (León, Waiting To Exhale) to fix the problem. Before it's done, there's plenty of gore, scenes of people fighting with what appears to be an army of broken umbrellas, and piles of rubbery-skinned novelty bats (I think I saw the words "Made in China" on one) in a wiggling match with horrified-looking prostrate student actors. Not horrified because of the bats, mind you, but because their faces might actually be recognizable at some point during the film. Among the more laughable script elements are a bat scientist who is afraid of bats (even regular ones), a doctor who gets woozy at the sight of blood, and the continent of Antarctica being referred to as "up there."

It's not often one gets the chance to see a movie as incredibly bad as Bats. So treat yourself to a quality cinematic experience. Go to the theatre and see anything else that's playing. ★

THREE TO TANGO

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:38 - Released 10/22/99

The question of whether Matthew Perry's character is gay has been a running gag on his TV show Friends practically since its inception. This idea apparently comes from the fact that Perry's character does not spit, burp, or fart audibly, possesses a modicum of taste, and occasionally has trouble picking up women. He plays the exact same character in Three To Tango, and this film features the same type of trite, stereotypical characterization of gays as is usually seen on television sitcoms. The part that is really hard to figure out is that his romantic opposite is Neve Campbell, who looks and acts so much like a teenage boy that one might think he's gay just for being attracted to her.

Three To Tango is written by Rodney Patrick Vaccaro and Aline Brosh McKenna, and directed by Damon Santostefano, all relative newcomers. It tells the story of a young architect named Oscar Novak (Perry), who, along with his business partner, Peter Steinberg (Oliver Platt), secures a lucrative job restoring a famous structure in Chicago for wealthy businessman Charles Newman (Dylan McDermott). Through one of those ridiculous movie misunderstandings, Charles gets the idea that Oscar is gay, and asks him to spy on his extramarital lover, artist Amy Post (the boyish Campbell). Charles, a jealous lover, is perpetually afraid that one of Amy's many ex-boyfriends might steal her away, but he reasons that since Oscar is gay, he needn't fear any hanky-panky between the two. And because Oscar and Peter really need this job, Oscar decides to go along.

When Oscar and Amy first meet, they sense a strong mutual attraction, and spend a terrible but romantic evening together. She's disappointed when Charles tells her he's gay, but soon she becomes his best friend, confiding in him in a way only girlfriends do. She even introduces him to her female friends, who proceed to tell him all their sexy secrets, comfortably assured that he's a homosexual. So Oscar, plagued with sexual frustration, is forced to maintain this charade for the sake of Peter (who actually is gay) and so he can continue to see Amy without fear of reprisal from Charles.

I have to admit that there is good connection here between Perry and Campbell. Especially early in their relationship, there is an easy quality about both of them, and they play off each other beautifully. But as things deepen and their connection becomes more close to something romantic, it becomes unbearably pretentious. McDermott, who was fun as Fish in Jodie Foster's Home For The Holidays, struggles to be villanous as Charles. As cute and impulsive as Amy is described, Campbell doesn't really make us fall for her the way we need to in order to believe she'd be at the center of this romantic tug of war. And as I mentioned, Perry is indistinguishable from his Chandler character in Friends, which he seems to have down.

A mediocre comedy at best, Three To Tango has hits and misses (one hit is the liberal use of big band/swing music throughout the soundtrack), but I feel gays would be offended by its clichéd depiction of their lifestyle and tastes. Vaccaro's screenwriting is steeped in TV sitcom sensibilities, and director Santostefano doesn't look or ask for anything new from his actors. If I had wanted a 90-minute episode of Friends, I would've asked for one. ★★★

Oakland Update

by Mayor Asa McCain

A very sincere "thank you" goes out to all of you who made the recent celebration of our community's 150th birthday celebration such a big success. Looking back on it, I am overwhelmed by the level of support and the numbers of people who helped out with this big effort. The event literally put us on the world map with the assistance of the people at GCNET with our Internet presence. We heard from Germany and from around this country.

I've had many inquiries about whether or not we're going to reprint our Sesquicentennial program. We've decided to base our decision on the number of pre-orders. If you weren't able to get one of these souvenirs during our Sesquicentennial, you can do so by ordering one at city hall for $5 each until Friday, Nov. 12. The cost of the original printing was much less because we were able to get a grant from the Maryland Department of Tourism. For those people interested in a unique publication that chronicles their community history and missed out on picking up a copy the first time around, here's another chance.

On Thursday, Oct. 28, the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club will hold its annual Halloween parade and social. The event is open to individuals 12 years of age and younger. Line-up for the parade will be at the Old Center Street School along Center Street at 6:15 p.m. The parade will start promptly at 6:30 p.m. Prizes will be awarded during the parade. Following the parade, the Halloween social will be held at the Oakland fire hall with various activities, including a cake-walk. Prizes and treats will be given out at the fire hall.

On Saturday, Oct. 30, the town of Oakland will hold its annual trick-or-treating from 5 to 7 p.m. Residents wishing to participate should leave their porch lights turned on. Trick-or-treating should be limited to individuals 12 years of age and younger.

Sharon Kaye Lucas, 28, Kitzmiller, was driving eastbound on Maryland Highway at 4 p.m. when she fell asleep near Edgewood Drive. Her Chevrolet sedan struck the rear of a Chevrolet truck traveling in the same direction which was operated by her relative, Mildred Virginia Lucas, 56, of the same address. The elder woman's truck was spun 360 degrees before it came to a stop, and the sedan continued eastbound until it struck an embankment.

Both parties were transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released. No charges were filed.

An accident that occurred Tuesday, Oct. 12, along Hutton Road resulted in injury to a passenger when a Subaru sedan driven by John William Fearer, 86, Terra Alta, W.Va., struck a Pontiac sedan operated by Jason Russell Grimm, 20, Oakland. Grimm had slowed to make a left turn into a private driveway when Fearer's vehicle crested a hilltop behind him. Fearer attempted to slow down but rear-ended Grimm's car.

Hanna Regina Grimm, 22, Oakland, a passenger in the Pontiac, was transported by Southern Rescue to Garrett Memorial, where she was treated and released. No charges were filed.

services constitutes a public health problem in the county and in Maryland.

The grant funding will aid health care officials to act on strategies to overcome a variety of barriers that currently hinder persons from obtaining proper dental care. One goal is to equip the hospital with a dental chair where children who need extensive work can be anesthetized. The health department will also be able to provide transportation to dentists' offices for those persons who need this service.

The lack of fluoridation in public water systems is another barrier, officials have stated, and they hope to initiate a public campaign to educate persons about the benefits of fluoridation and, therefore, perhaps increase the demand for this to occur in the water systems that are not presently fluoridated.

MCO problems are prevalent throughout the county's populace as well, according to the officials, and some of the granted money will go toward contracting with private health providers to develop a local network that will address local problems, such as low reimbursement rates, claim denials, and long waits for preauthorizations.

The grant award is being discussed today at the office of the commissioners, where the annual county health department review is under way.

SHS Girls Fall To Spartans, Then Defeat Wildcats, Huskies

Despite out-shooting the Bishop Walsh Spartans by a 21-12 margin, the Southern High School girls' soccer team dropped a 4-0 decision to host Bishop Walsh last Thursday afternoon. The Rams bounced back Monday, however, to hand visiting Westmar a 4-1 defeat, and then recorded a huge 2-1 win last night in concluding a suspended match with host Northern at the Cove. The results gave the Rams a final regular season record of 7-4-1, which they will take into their first playoff match next Tuesday against the winner of the Clear Spring/Williamsport match.

Sheara Rowan recorded a hat trick against the Rams, her fourth of the season, for the BW Spartans last Thursday. Her first goal was recorded at the 9:30 mark of the first half off an assist by Karen Knight. There was no more scoring in the first half, so the Rams trailed 1-0 at intermission.

Rowan struck again about 7 minutes into the second half, this time off a feed by Allison Earnest. Knight followed with an unassisted goal with 15:28 remaining, and Rowan completed her hat trick at the 11:57 mark, scoring off an assist by Jennifer Tola.

Bishop Walsh finished with a 3-1 edge in corner kicks. Becky Martin recorded 7 saves for the Rams, while Kelly Amoroso turned away 14 Southern shots to earn the shutout.

It was the second loss of the season by the Rams to Bishop Walsh.

Megan Burner paced the Rams offensively on Monday against Westmar, as she recorded a pair of goals.

Gina Reeves put Southern on the board first with an unassisted goal at the 30:59 mark of the first half. Burner then doubled the Rams' score with an unassisted goal at the 14:44 mark. Westmar's Jamie Clark cut Southern's lead in half with an unassisted goal with 12:22 left, and the score was 2-1 at halftime.

A solo shot by Burner at the 31:32 mark of the second half put the Rams up by a 3-1 margin, and freshman Brittany Naylor added an insurance goal, also unassisted, with 13:05 to play.

The Rams dominated in shots by a 30-9 margin, and also in corner kicks, 9-2. Martin recorded nine saves for Southern, and Westmar's Ashley McCutcheon turned away 26 shots on goal.

The loss ended Westmar's regular season at 4-9-1.

It was a goal by Brittany Naylor with just 61 seconds left in the match last night that gave the Rams their mild upset of the Northern Huskies, who had already captured the Western Maryland Interscholastic League championship.

The first 67 minutes of the match had been played on Oct. 15, and the score was tied at 1-1 when the match was suspended because of lightning. Naylor scored the first goal in that portion of the match, an unassisted shot with 22:41 left in the first half. Then Northern's Emily Rawe scored off an assist by Brooke Butler to tie the score with 13:56 left in the half.

Naylor's winning goal with 1:01 remaining handed the Huskies only their second loss of the season. Northern had edged the Rams by the same score, 2-1, earlier in the season in Oakland.

The Huskies finished with a 13-8 advantage in shots on goal, and led in corner kicks, 3-2. Becky Martin recorded seven saves for the Rams, while Ashley Warnick had five and Randi Beiler had one for the Huskies.

Northern's first Class IA West Region playoff match is slated for next Tuesday, Oct. 2, at Mt. Savage, with the kickoff set for 1:30 p.m.

FINISHING UP a match that started October 13 were the Southern and Northern girls' soccer teams, which met last night at Husky Stadium to play the final 12:59 of the contest which was suspended because of lightning. The score was knotted at 1-1 when the match was suspended, but the Southern Rams pulled out a 2-1 victory when Freshman striker Brittany Naylor scored her second goal of the match with just 1:01 left in regulation. The upset win gave the Rams a split with the Huskies, who won the first encounter of the season by the same score and finished the regular season with a 10-2 record. Above, Southern's Kristin Oxford dribbles downfield, while Northern's Amy Umbel prepares to try to make a steal. See story for details about the match, as well as the playoff schedule for the Huskies and the Rams.

Northern Girls Edge Beall Before Being Edged By Rams

A 3-2 overtime victory over host Beall Thursday and a 2-1 loss to the Southern Rams last night concluded the regular season for the Huskies who, in just their second year of soccer, finished with a 10-2 record, captured the Western Maryland Interscholastic League title, and will be the team to beat in the West Region playoffs that will get under way next week.

The Huskies were a heavy favorite at Frostburg last Thursday, but the upset-minded Mountaineers (2-10) played evenly until the overtime period when an unassisted goal by Kara Kenner gave the Huskies their sudden-death win.

The Huskies never trailed in the contest, as Emily Rawe put the first goal on the board, unassisted, with 24:45 remaining in the first half. Beall knotted the score at 1-1 when Angel Spataro took a pass from Kim Reidler and put the ball in the net with 5:53 left in the half.

The Huskies regained the lead with just 1:39 left before halftime when Rawe scored her second goal of the evening, again unassisted.

There was no more scoring until the 11:35 mark of the second half when Beall's Jackie Aylor struck gold unassisted to tie the score once again and ultimately send the match into overtime.

Kenner's winning goal was recorded with 2:05 remaining in the first overtime period.

The closeness of the match was also evident in shots on goal, as the Huskies finished with a 21-19 edge; however, Northern had a commanding 7-0 lead in corner kicks.

Ashley Warnick started in goal for the Huskies and recorded five saves. Randi Beiler, who did not allow a goal in the second half, finished with three saves. Ligaya Roque turned away 10 Northern shots.

The Huskies' 2-1 loss last night came in the final 13 minutes of a match with the Rams that was suspended back on Oct. 13 by lightning. Brittany Naylor scored both goals for Southern, with her second one coming with just 1:01 to play. (See other story for details.)

The Huskies recorded a perfect 6-0 mark in WMIL competition to win the 1999 league championship. Only the first meeting between WMIL schools is counted in the league record, so last night's loss to Southern was not included in the Huskies' final WMIL record.

Northern drew a bye in the playoffs and will enter the quarterfinals of the Class 1A West Region tournament next Tuesday at Mt. Savage. Kickoff with the Indians is set for 1:30 p.m. The Northern boys' team will also play Mt. Savage in its first playoff encounter that same afternoon at 3:30.

Ram Booters Just Miss WMIL Title With 1-0 Loss

The boys' varsity soccer team of Southern High School just missed capturing the 1999 Western Maryland Interscholastic League championship, as the Rams were edged by host Fort Hill, 1-0, last Thursday evening. The Rams and Sentinels were both unbeaten in WMIL play coming into the match, with the only blemish on either side being a tie for Southern against Flintstone.

The Rams out-shot the Sentinels by a 17-13 margin, and also finished with a 4-1 advantage in corner kicks. Chris Menker had 14 saves in goal for the Rams, as did Jake Sullivan for Fort Hill.

Fort Hill	0	1	- 1

Second Half

FH - Eric Dudley assist by Josh Repac.

The only miss Menker had in the net was a shot by Fort Hill's Eric Dudley off an assist by Josh Repac in the second half. The play was set up by Repac, who chipped the ball over the Rams' trap defense, giving Dudley a one-on-one opportunity against Menker. His shot went into the lower right corner of the goal.

It was the first time the two teams met this season. The result left the Rams with an 8-3-1 overall record and the Sentinels with a 10-2-1 mark.

The junior varsity match ended in a 2-2 tie, with Adam Miller and Bobby Burton recording goals for the Rams, and Seth Moesinger scoring both goals for the Sentinels.

The match with Fort Hill concluded the Rams' regular season. They have a bye in the first round of the regional playoffs, and will face the winner of the Clear Spring-Williamsport match next Tuesday, Nov. 2, at a site yet to be determined.

Arsenal Girls Conclude With Shutouts, Tie

The last week of play in the Frostburg/Cumberland fall travel league saw the Arsenal U-14 girls' team win two games and, in a "friendly" match with Grantsville's Northern Ice, play to a tie. The first game was with Cumberland 2 (Braddock Warriors), with Arsenal winning easily, 7-0. Goals in the game were scored by Sabrina Scheffel (3), Casey Taylor, Jasmine Scheffel, Shar Hollingsworth, and Joanne Buckle. Justine Pagenhardt also shared in the scoring effort with two assists. Outstanding goal play was turned in by Alasha Rush with three saves. Also serving in goal was Pagenhardt with three saves and Scheffel with one save. Whitney Payne, Tera Bell, and Kim Gamber combined in goal for Braddock with 13 saves.

In a second league game of the week, against Bishop Walsh, Arsenal recorded a 6-0 victory. Goals were scored by Sabrina Scheffel (3), Casey Taylor (2), and Robbin Gregg. Assists on the goals were by Ashley Stuck, Laura Bonser, and Sarah Anderson. Alasha Rush and Justine Pagenhardt had three saves in the net.

The third game found Arsenal taking on Northern Garrett County's Northern Ice. In a league game earlier in the season the two teams had battled to a 2-2 draw, and last Wednesday's results were no different. The teams walked away again with a 2-2 tie. "As both teams have players preparing to play high school soccer next fall, it is clear that the girls' soccer rivalry between Northern and Southern high schools will continue for some time to come," stated Arsenal coach Cathy Menker. Goals were scored by Sabrina Scheffel and Robbin Gregg, with assists by Shar Hollingsworth and Justine Pagenhardt. Alasha Rush handled the keeping duties for Arsenal. Lindsay Butler scored both of Northern Ice's goals.

The U-14 Arsenal team is now preparing for the winter indoor season. Tryouts for this team and other age groups, for both boys and girls, will be held in November. More information about the Arsenal soccer program is available from club director Mel Menker at 301-334-5906.

OAKLAND LITTLE LEAGUE ANNUAL MEETING

Several weeks ago Oakland Little League could not hold its annual meeting because of a lack of a quorum. Only 12 of 125 members showed. The meeting had to be canceled. Neither business nor elections of the 2000 officers could be accomplished without the attendance of 20% of its members.

The Board of Directors of the Oakland Little League requests that if you are a member and if you care about your Little League program, please attend.

The annual meeting is rescheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 17, 1999, at 8 p.m. at the Southern Middle School cafeteria.

Rams Win Fourth Straight By Mashing Trojans, 36-13

In what Coach Steve Campbell described as his team's best overall performance of the season, the Southern High Rams rolled to their fourth victory in a row last Friday night by whipping visiting Hampshire, 36-13, in a contest that most believed would be much closer. The win evened the Rams' mark at 4-4 after it appeared early in the season that a winning season, or even a .500 season, was unlikely for Campbell in his first year as the Southern mentor. The Rams, who are out of the running for the playoffs, still have to face Allegany and Northern.

Jeremy Hayhurst had another outstanding offensive performance for the Rams Friday night against the Trojans, as did Josh Bosley, Nathaniel Panther, and quarterback Josh Sharon. Hayhurst amassed 126 yards of rushing and scored 16 points, Bosley finished with 92 yards and a touchdown, Panther scored on a 35-yard pass play and also excelled defensively, and Sharon passed for eight points, ran for six more, and engineered five scoring drives.

Sharon connected with Panther with a 35-yard touchdown pass with 2:23 remaining in the first half to put the first points of the game on the board. Hayhurst booted the extra point to put Southern up, 7-0.

Bosley's touchdown was scored in the opening minute of the second quarter on a 16-yard run, and Hayhurst's kick made it 14-0.

The Trojans (5-4) responded with a touchdown less than 1½ minutes later when Evan Clower hauled in a 45-yard scoring pass from Logan Haines. Mark Meadows successfully booted the PAT to cut the Rams' lead to 14-7.

The Rams came right back on their next possession with another successful drive that was capped by Hayhurst on a two-yard touchdown carry at the 5:44 mark. He also kicked another conversion point to give the Rams a 21-7 halftime lead.

Southern kept the momentum through intermission and tacked on another seven points at the 9:47 mark of the third period, as Sharon broke free on a quarterback keeper and raced 57 yards for a touchdown. Hayhurst booted his fourth extra point to give the Rams a comfortable 28-7 advantage.

Hampshire then drove down to the Southern 37, but fumbled the ball away to erase a scoring opportunity.

The Trojans and their talented tailback Bryan Wright did not quit, though, as Wright found daylight on a play early in the fourth quarter and scampered 26 yards for a touchdown. The run for the conversion points failed, and that would be the final touchdown of the night for Hampshire.

The Trojans were threatening again midway through the fourth period, but fumbled the ball away at the Ram 11-yard line, as Hayhurst recovered the ball for Southern. A few plays later, Hayhurst recorded his second touchdown of the evening, this time on an eight-yard run with 6:55 left in the game. Sharon passed to Jason Rohrbaugh for the extra points.

Christian Warfield accounted for two turnovers for the Rams, as he recovered a fumble and picked off a Haines pass. Mickey Chapman and Mike Lantz led Southern in tackles with eight apiece.

The Rams dominated in first downs, 21-6, and finished with 403 yards in total offense, while the Trojans recorded 244. Wright was the leading ground gainer for the contest, as he rushed for 172 yards on 25 carries.

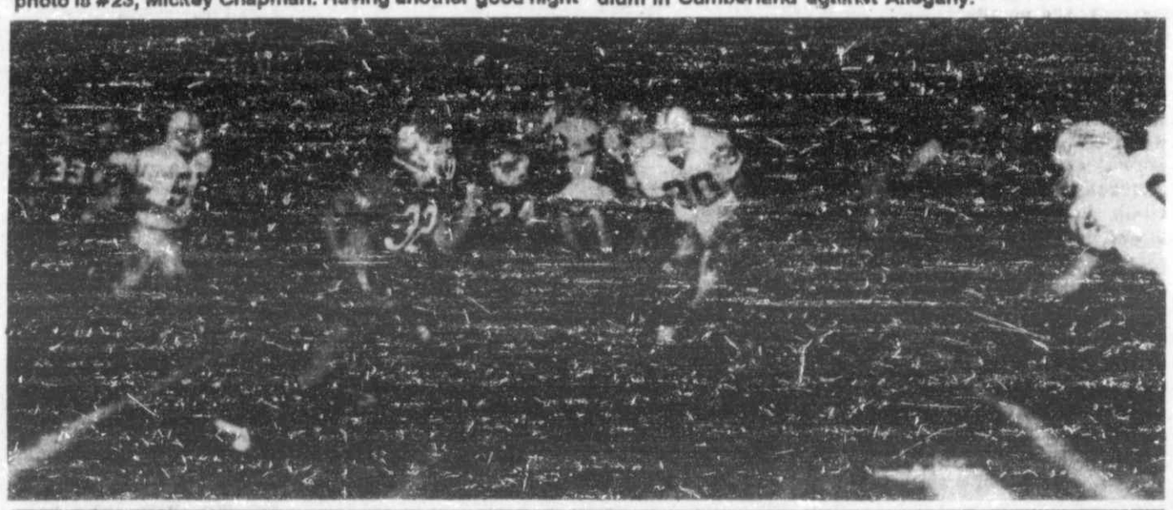
"This was a very nice win for us," Coach Campbell said. "We played very well on both sides of the ball. We felt like we never lost our composure or control of the game. We were able to do pretty much what we wanted to do."



Campbell said he was both pleased, and a little surprised, that the Rams finished with over 300 yards rushing. "We weren't really expecting to be able to do that," he said, "but our experience with every game is really starting to show, especially with our younger players."

Campbell noted the individual performances of Sharon, Hayhurst, Bosley, and Panther, adding that Panther was named Player of the Week. "Nate did a super job, offensively and defensively," he said. "The return of Billy Hebb and Mickey Chapman to our

PLAYER OF THE WEEK for the Southern High Rams this week was Nathaniel Panther (#3), who is pictured above after picking off a Hampshire pass in the end zone. Panther also hauled in a touchdown pass in the first quarter, and the Rams went on to record their fourth straight victory of the season, 36-13. Also identifiable in the above photo is #23, Mickey Chapman. Having another good night running the ball was Southern's Josh Bosley, pictured below gaining some valuable yardage. Other Rams in the photo are, from left: #33 Jeremy Hayhurst, who led Southern's rushing and scoring attack; #24 Jeremy Lear; and #20 Jason Rohrbaugh. The Rams' quest for a fifth straight win will begin at 7:30 p.m. this Saturday at Greenway Stadium in Cumberland against Allegany.

Huskies Pound Vikings 36-14; Ready To Vie For MAC Crown

It was a rare come-from-behind victory for the Northern High School varsity football team Friday night—rare because the 1999 Huskies have seldom been forced into position to come from behind—as unbeaten Big Blue defeated the visiting Petersburg Vikings, 36-14. "That was a wake-up call for us," NHS head coach Phil Carr commented afterwards. "It showed our players what they can do even when things aren't looking too good at first—If they keep their heads and don't get down on themselves, they can come back and win convincingly."

The triumph takes the Huskies' record to 8-0, solidifying their hold on the top spot in Maryland's 1A rankings and setting the stage for a Mountain Athletic Conference showdown with 4-3 Westmar tomorrow night at Half-Mile High Stadium in Accident. The Wildcats pit their 3-0 MAC mark against Northern's 4-0 conference record, with the victor taking the first-ever MAC crown.

The visitors struck first Friday night, taking the opening kickoff on the 22 yard line and setting off on a five-minute 78-yard drive for the endzone that included successful conversions on a pair of fourth-down plays. Viking fullback Matt Vance, the Potomac Valley Conference's leading all-purpose back, capped the drive with a four-yard scoring plunge. The extra point kick was good, making the score 7-0.

"Petersburg came out ready to play," Carr observed. "They appeared to have the opening drive scripted down to every play, and with perfect execution they threw some new things at us that we hadn't seen during our scouting work. Our defense was caught a little bit off guard but adjusted well on the field through the rest of the first half, and during the halftime break we worked up some major adjustments.

HUSKIES TAKE VIKINGS TO THE GROUND - Northern High School's varsity football team continued its march toward the state playoffs with a 36-14 drubbing of Petersburg Friday night. Steadily improving special teams play had a significant impact on the game's outcome, and Big Blue's defensive and offensive units turned in fine performances once again. Husky defensive end Rob Dozier (#23), shown above, stretches his 6-5 frame to the limit to corral a Viking runner for no gain as middle linebacker Mark Wolf (#32) zeroes in for the mop up. Wolf, one of many outstanding NHS athletes who are superb two-way players for head coach Phil Carr's 8-0 squad, is shown below barreling down the field on a run of his own. The Northern fullback sustained a broken wrist during the contest, but will be in the starting line-up for tomorrow night's outing against Westmar. The 7:30 p.m. home battle with the Wildcats, which gets under way following a 30-minute Senior Night program, will decide who will lay claim to the first-ever Mountain Athletic Conference crown.

The guys went out and took the new material onto the field and executed as if we had been drilling them on it all week long. It proves that we've got a lot of very intelligent ballplayers, which has been key to our success all season."

Northern's offense started off sluggishly as well, fumbling the ball twice in the first quarter as the Vikings held NHS scoreless over seven plays, which gained just 40 yards through the initial stanza. One of those fumbles came after an interception by Husky cornerback Keith Artice garnered the ball for the NHS offense, which subsequently marched to the Vikes' 25 yard line before the pigskin was stripped away.

The Husky defense then rose to the occasion once again by shutting Petersburg down on three straight plays and forcing a punt at the end of the first quarter.

Petersburg	07	07	00	00	- 14
Northern	00	16	14	06	- 36

First Quarter

P - Matt Vance 4 run (Kelly Rumer kick), 5:00 opening drive.

Second Quarter

N - Rob Dozier 41 run (Mark Wolf run), 9:00.

N - Adam Brenneman 2 run (Wolf run), 5:30.

P - Mark Geary 22 fumble recovery (Rumer kick), 0:40.

Third Quarter

N - Wolf 4 run (run failed), 10:30 3rd play.

N - Safety, ball snapped out of bounds, 7:00.

N - Dozier 14 run (run failed), 4:00.

Fourth Quarter

N - Dozier 2 run (pass failed), 8:30.

Halfback Rob Dozier, who gained a team-high 116 yards on 12 carries, reeled off a 41-yard touchdown run early in the second quarter. A Mark Wolf conversion run followed to make the score 8-7.

Less than four minutes later Northern quarterback Adam Brenneman carried the ball two yards for a score, and a second Wolf conversion run took the Huskies' lead to 16-7.

Petersburg scored its second touchdown of the game when Mark Geary scooped up a fumble and went 22 yards for the score at the very end of the half. The extra point kick was good and each squad went to its halftime locker room with NHS up by a 16-14 margin.

Ryan Brenneman lit the Huskies' fire on the opening kickoff of the second half with a 60-yard return that set up a four yard Wolf touchdown score on the third play from scrimmage. A conversion run attempt failed. Three minutes later, after an exchange of possessions, NHS punter Justin Robison lofted a 39-yard punt that Wolf downed on the one yard line. Northern's defense pinned the Vikings in their tracks at that spot, and three plays later Petersburg lined up in a punt formation but elected to take an intentional safety in the face of a strong rush the Huskies.

Huskies' Junior Varsity Downs SHS Rams, 15-6

Northern High School's junior varsity football players duplicated the come-from-behind victory of their varsity elders by rebounding from a one-touchdown first quarter deficit to take a 15-6 win over Southern. The outcome of the Monday night contest delighted the Accident crowd, who were able to celebrate a JV victory over SHS for the first time in eight years.

Rams quarterback Toby Stoner connected with Brian Hinebaugh for a 30 yard score in the first period, and a missed extra point kick left the Huskies down 6-0.

The second period saw NHS's Jeremy Layman score on a 15-yard run, followed by his own two point conversion run, that put the Huskies up by an 8-7 margin at the half.

The second half was a defensive struggle throughout, until Northern quarterback Trey Brenneman carried the ball in from 15 yards just prior to the two minute warning. Brenneman also kicked the extra point to account for the final score.

Southern's season ended with the final horn, at a reported record of 2-5-1. Northern's final outing begins at 7 p.m. Monday as the 2-4-1 Huskies host Tucker County.

Santos Set To Speak At OYFL Family Program

Internationally known track and field coach and advocate for children with disabilities Jim Santos will be the featured speaker at the Oakland Youth Football League family night program, set for Wednesday, Nov. 3, in the Southern High School cafetorium.

The proceedings will get under way at 6:30 p.m., when Santos, director of Unified Sports, will address the gathering of OYFL sponsors, coaches, participants and their families. Steve Campbell, SHS head football coach, will also speak. Other activities will include recognition of the Oakland Ravens, champions of the NFL division, and the NCAA division champion Team One Terps. Pizza and drinks will be served as the evening concludes.

Santos is described as one of America's most influential sports personalities. He has an extensive background in all levels of track and field as a noted coach and author, and has been recognized by Exceptional Parent magazine as a national leader and advocate for families of children with disabilities.

The coach of the 1980 United States Men's Olympic Track and Field Team, Santos has been named to several prestigious positions and has received numerous awards. He was president of the NCAA Men's Coaches Association from 1978 to 1982; the U.S. team coach in the 1983 Pan-American Games; and volunteer coach for the 1996 NCAA national championship track team of George Mason University.

Santos' honors have included awards as NCAA Men's National Track and Field Coach of the Year; Women's Collegiate Track and Field Coach of the Year in 1973; induction into the California Track Hall of Fame in 1992; and the 1994 National High School Achievement Award.

Santos was director of athletics for Special Olympics Inc. in Washington, D.C., from 1984 to 1988; athletics director for California State University, Stanislaus, before being appointed by Eunice Kennedy Shriver as the first family director for Special Olympics, serving more than 150 countries throughout the world.

Santos has published three books and written more than 50 articles on sports, disabilities, and family issues. His most recent book, Track and Field, was published by Sports Illustrated.

Santos has made over 3,500 public speaking appearances around the globe, including as the keynote speaker at the world AAMR Congress in Hong Kong, the Soviet Family Conference on Disabilities in Moscow, and at the International Symposium on Mental Retardation and Families in Glasgow, Scotland.

"Noted for his work in sports, family issues, education, and business, Jim's sensitivity for children and adults with a developmental disability has made him a most sought-after speaker for educators, sports groups, business leaders, and at track and field clinics throughout the world," stated a Special Olympics spokesperson.

were showing from the line.

A free kick followed, and another nice return by Ryan Brenneman gave the NHS offense the ball on the Petersburg 48 yard line. A drive ensued that was capped by a 14-yard touchdown run by Dozier, which Carr said "all but put the game away" with four minutes remaining in the third quarter and the score 30-14. The extra point run attempt failed.

The game's final score came less than four minutes into the fourth quarter as Dozier scored for the third time on a two yard run, followed by an unsuccessful conversion pass attempt.

"Our offense was outstanding throughout," Carr said, "and we could have had a bigger margin of victory if two important Adam Brenneman passes that were right on the money hadn't been dropped. Our offensive line blocked well and the Vikings' defense shut us down cold on only one possession.

"Defensively you just can't say much more about our guys and their great performance. We held Vance to just over 100 yards rushing on the night, a bad game for him, through some fine double-teaming work," the coach commented. "Our special teams had a great night too, especially in coming through with those big third-quarter plays. That was great to see; we've been struggling on special teams for awhile."

Petersburg's Vance led all rushers with 137 yards on 19 carries, and Dozier's Husky-high effort was aided by teammate Wolf's 17-carry, 103 yard tally. Wolf led the swarming Big Blue defense with 15 tackles from his linebacker position, and he and his fellow defenders held Petersburg to 255 yards total offense, not much more than the total-yard average that Vance himself had carried into the contest.

Tomorrow night's contest against Westmar will see a well-rested Wildcat squad on the field, as the visitors are coming off a bye week. "When you give Coach Marshall a week off there's no telling what you'll see," Carr said, noting that an extra week of preparation is even more valuable than a week of rest.

"Westmar likes to mix things up. On offense they can do just about anything, running as many as five or six different formations during a game. The power-I seems to be the favorite, but they also like to split out two receivers and go to a shotgun, which they are liable to do at any time.

"They've also produced well off a toss sweep play with their excellent tailback, senior Justin Sellers (6-1, 195). It will be vital that Dozier and Nathan Resh, our defensive ends, Wolf and Robison at the outside linebacker spots, as well as strong safety Josh Resh, contain Sellers and the sweep." As it has all year, the Huskies' depth gives them a valuable edge, for Robison is an experienced linebacker who will be starting in place of the injured Marcus Rugg, listed as doubtful with a knee injury.

In addition to Sellers, the MAC's leading ground-gainer, Carr said that the Huskies' defense needs to keep a tight rein on junior quarterback Josh Glass (6-4, 175), a southpaw slinger, senior fullback Dave Zeller (6-1, 200) and junior split end Josh Marsh (6-2, 180).

"They match up well with us on both sides of the line," said Carr, "and our offensive line is a little bigger than their defensive line. Their guys are real quick, however, and that speed has us concerned." Led by junior defensive guard Eric Preston (5-7, 150), the Wildcats utilize a 4-4 defense, and try to leave slower offensive lines flat-footed with a variety of stunts and blitzes.

"It will be a good game," Carr predicted. "Westmar has lost to some very tough teams: Williamsport in three overtimes, Keyser, and Moorefield, the top team in West Virginia."

Tomorrow night's contest also marks Senior Night at the Huskies' home field. Band members, cheerleaders, and athletes in their final year of school at Northern will be saluted in ceremonies beginning at 7 p.m. The football game itself gets under way with the 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

"Our kids are really fired up and ready to play," he said. "They seem to always like going to Greenway Stadium, and from what I hear, we have played very well down there over the years."

Campbell said that the Rams are "very healthy" right now, with the only exception being a reserve, Adam Lewis, who is being treated for a concussion.

Saturday's kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Rams Win

line-up has also made a big difference."

The Rams will need another outstanding effort this Saturday when they travel to Cumberland to face Allegany, a team whose record is identical to Southern's, but one that is coming off a stinging two-point loss to Keyser (7-2) last week after leading the Golden Tornado 25-12. Southern lost to Keyser in its first game of the season.

"Allegany will give us everything we can handle," Campbell said. "Bryan Wright from Hampshire is the best single back we will face this year, but Allegany has the best set of backs we will face."

The Camper backfield is led by senior fullback Dave Aydelotte (6-2, 225), who plows up the middle on most of the off-tackle plays, and two talented outside runners in senior Andy Wilson (6-1, 190) and sophomore Blake Hillegas (5-9, 160).

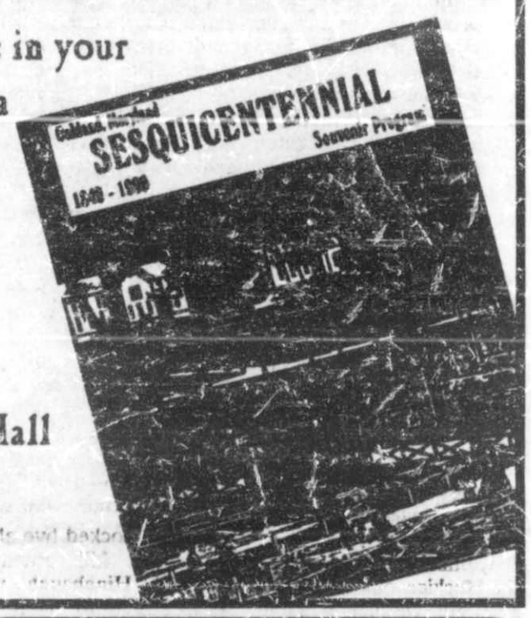
"They also throw the ball pretty well," Campbell said. Nathan Simpson (6-1, 155) is the senior Alco quarterback, and his favorite targets are senior receivers Dan Shanholtz (6-3, 170), Dan Lindner (6-4, 170), and John Kifer (6-4, 170).

"We hope to get some good licks in on Aydelotte right away, and do all we can to contain their outside game," Campbell said. "They are really young up front, so we will try to take advantage of that.

Free Fly-Fishing Classes Ongoing In Grantsville

Free lessons in fly-tying and fly-fishing are under way in Grantsville. Classes, sponsored by the HotSpot initiative, are being offered for the third season, with instruction provided by fishing enthusiast Bill Ferry of the State's Attorney's Office.

The program was developed by the HotSpot team as a community recreation opportunity for the residents of the area. The classes are held each Thursday afternoon from 4 to 6 p.m. in the Grantsville Elementary School. "This session will run for 10 weeks and then resume in the spring," Ferry said. He added that if people are really interested, he would be willing to just go right on through without a break.



Ferry's classes are open to people of all ages and both males and females are welcome and encouraged to attend. "The girls in my classes are better at tying than the boys are," he noted. The first session, which took piace last week, was a field trip. "We were out on the Casselman River fishing for the afternoon," Ferry said.

Participants are welcome to join at anytime and may get more information by stopping by the school during one of the Thursday sessions or calling Ferry at 301-334-1974.

Huskies, Rams Ready For Volleyball Playoffs After Dueling Last Night

The local high school volleyball teams went head to head in Oakland last night in the regular season finale for both. Southern took last night's match from Northern by a 3-1 margin, a Husky loss that came on the heels of a 3-2 NHS victory over Preston Monday night.

The playoffs lie ahead for both teams, as each opens in the Class 1A West Region quarterfinals at home Monday, Nov. 8. The 8-7 Huskies will host the 12-2 Westmar Wildcats, while the 7-6 Rams will host Allegany, the region's top squad, which has not been beaten through 16 outings.

Northern's home match-up with Preston Monday was a come from behind victory, as the Huskies had dropped the first two games, 15-4 and 15-11, before rallying to a 15-13 victory which was followed by 15-8, 15-8 runaway wins.

Mimi Harvey paced the Huskies with 15 service points while Jessica DeWitt contributed 10 points, including three aces. Heidi Frazee and Malia Collins each had four kills from the spike line. Frazee added two blocks to Northern's win.

Northern went all three games with Preston in the JV match and also prevailed, 15-10, 13-15, and 15-8. Karla Buckel led the JVs with eight service points.

Last night's cross-county match-up was a come-from-behind win for the Rams, who had dropped the first game to Northern by a 15-5 margin. SHS rallied to take the next three, 15-1, 15-13, and 15-10.

Laura Johnson tallied 13 service points for the Rams, and Misty Sereno added eight points and six kills. Keri Niner had six kills, Jennifer Teagarden had eight assists, and Erica Wilt had five assists for Southern.

Collins had 11 points for the Huskies, along with two aces and two kills. Heather Umbel contributed 10 points and Frazee had three aces, two kills, and a block.

Southern took the junior varsity match as well by 15-10, 15-9 scores. Jessica Sharon scored eight Rams' points and Holli Harris tallied seven. Mellisa Patterson recorded four points for NHS.

Garrett Netters Fall To Potomac State, Allegany

The volleyball squad of Garrett Community College lost both of its outings last week, falling in a three-game sweep to Potomac State College Monday before dropping a hard-fought 3-2 match to Allegany College last night. The Lakers' final regular season match takes place tomorrow at 6 p.m. on their home court against CCBC-Essex, followed by the Region XX Tourney at Hagerstown Community College from Friday, Nov. 5, through Sunday, Nov. 7.

Garrett was decimated by the Catamounts in McHenry by game scores of 15-7, 15-2, and 15-4. Lana Groves and Terra Hudson both converted 13 out of 15 attacks and killed five each. Morgan White contributed nine service points, including two aces.

Last night's loss to Allegany had begun looking like a potential win for the Lakers. GCC battled to victory in the first two games 15-14, 15-13. The Trojans struck back with 15-3 and 15-7 wins of their own, and then took the fifth and deciding game by a 15-10 margin.

Groves was 21 of 22 from the service line, recording one ace. She was 29 for 38 on the attack, tallying six kills. Jessica Saturday was 18 of 20 on serves, 25 of 31 on attacks, and had six kills and six successful blocks out of seven attempts.

Hudson was 15 for 18 from the service line, with two aces, and went 30 for 31 on the attack with eight kills, and blocked five of six opposition kill attempts. Rebekah Hinebaugh, who was 21 for 24 on the attack, shared the team's kill lead as she also recorded successful spikes. Laurel Wolf was 56 for 83 on sets with 11 assists, and Mellisa McKeever was 32 for 57 on sets with 12 assists.

The Lakers approach the conclusion of their regular season with a 4-21 record, situating them in ninth place in the 11-team JUCO field.

Gibson Previews Campaign As Lakers Return To Division I

The Garrett Community College men's basketball team and its coach Dennis Gibson had high hopes leading into the 1998-99 season. In place was a solid corps of freshmen post players and a sophomore nucleus of returning guards, including pre-season All-American candidate Michael Fields. Fields lived up to his billing and ended the year as a first-team All-Region and All-JUCO selection, leading the team in scoring with a 21 ppg average. At times the inside presence of Charles Somerville and Dexter Levi dominated games, but the team could never reach the consistency and maturity necessary to win a championship.

The Lakers, seeded 8th in the 18-team Maryland JUCO tournament field, were ousted in the second round by host team Community College of Baltimore, 78-77, in what could go down as the most controversial ending ever in a Maryland JUCO tournament game. After rebounding with a tight win in the opening round of the Region XX tourney over CCAC-North Campus, 68-55, the Lakers' misfortunes continued, as they were manhandled by CC of Beaver County, 84-69, to end their season at 19-10.

Numerous changes in the make-up of the team have occurred since that time, not the least of which was the switch back to Division I JUCO status. Garrett moved to Division II status in 1994 and proceeded to win the school's only JUCO and regional tournament championships, finishing sixth in the national tournament. Gibson, heading into his 15th season as the Lakers' head coach, explained the move. "It would take more room than is available to explain, but it's a catch-22 situation," he said. "It will help our recruiting and our ability to house our student/athletes, which is one of our biggest problems. We are the smallest of the 213 schools playing at the Division I level, most of which are offering full scholarships. We have never offered a full scholarship, and our school does not offer tuition waivers, as do many of the Division II's. Regardless, our coaching staff and players are looking forward to the challenge. Our sophomores will be the key to our chances."

The Lakers are scheduled to open their season with their annual Preview Tournament, slated for November 10 against the Takoma Park Campus of Montgomery College.

Heading the list of returnees are two of the most talented post players to ever play for the Lakers, according to Gibson, the 6-7 Somerville and 6-5 Levi. They were two of the team's top rebounders and scorers last season, with Somerville recording 10.3 rebounds and 11.6 points per game, and Levi earning 7.5 rebounds and 14.6 points. Levi also set a school record with 66 blocks shots in a single season, including 9 against arch rival Allegany College.

The other returnees, 6-5 swing man Warren Coates (4.5 ppg) and 6-3 guard Thomas Somerville (4.2 ppg), have the difficult task of replacing Fields. "They have both exhibited great improvement in the pre-season and will be valuable additions in the backcourt," Gibson said. "Either could start, and both are going to be expected to lend experience and maturity to a team with a completely new backcourt."

Sophomore transfers highlight the guard positions, with the arrival of 6-2 Carlos Jones, back closer to home after a one-year stint at San Jacinto, Texas. "Carlos brings much needed three-point shooting, as well as explosive power to the hoop," Gibson said.

The point guard position is deeper than it has ever been, with former Potomac State College scoring leader Corin Turner battling with 6-4 Indiana University of Pennsylvania transfer Scott Kochenderfer for the starting nod. "Each brings different attributes to the team and will be essential in any run for a championship that we hope to make," said Gibson.

The freshman recruiting class has some outstanding players, according to Gibson, and will be needed to provide depth through the long JUCO season. Headliners will most likely include Antowain Newton, a 6-2 point guard who has the size and strength to play three positions. "He is an excellent shooter and passer," Gibson said.

Inside, 6-4, 230-pound power forward Michael Ward will be called upon to spell Somerville and Levi, "and he has the aggressiveness to do it," Gibson said. Another factor will be former Northern High School standout Dustin Long, who at 6-3 will be somewhat overmatched by many of the JUCO forwards, but is showing signs of adjusting quickly to collegiate-level play. "Dustin's ability to hit free throws and willingness to bang inside should generate some playing time," Gibson said.

Two other freshmen who may also help in the rotation are Eric Henderson and Neil Wilson. "Eric is one of the best leapers on the team, has improved his jump shot, and has all the natural ability to be an excellent player," Gibson said. "Neil is a pure three-point shooter who will help against zone defenses, but he needs to improve his strength to see more playing time."

Healthy-O-Living in Garrett County

Maryland Health Care For All!

by Peggy Santamaria

Health Care for All! It is the slogan and the goal of a new statewide movement to bring insurance coverage to all residents of Maryland. The standard bearer for this effort, Maryland Citizens' Health Initiative Education Fund Inc., is Vincent DeMarco, who was in Garrett County last week talking with business owners and citizens about health care needs and his group's proposals to respond to those needs.

As executive director of the initiative, DeMarco heads a coalition of organizations working to secure better health care for state residents by promoting health insurance that is both universal and accessible.

A document titled "Declaration of Health Care Independence" has been issued by the members of the initiative. It enumerates various health care problems faced by citizens. "Over 700,000 Marylanders, including over 100,000 children, have no health insurance, and equal numbers of Marylanders have inadequate health coverage," the document states.

Many of those who march in the ranks of the uninsured are workers and their families, and this number is expected to increase, DeMarco pointed out. He also highlighted the correlation between insurance cost increases and decreases in the responsiveness of the system to the individual's needs.

Increasing health care bureaucracy has become "wastefully expensive," the declaration states, pointing out that a "significant portion" of our health care dollars is being absorbed by corporate overhead, high salaries, and lobbying expenses.

The Health Care For All system, according to its literature, would be administered through an independent agency governed by health care professionals and consumers.

DeMarco has identified the stream of funding for this umbrella health coverage. The new universal system would achieve cost savings, he said, by reducing overhead and unnecessary insurance company profits, improving efficiency, and streamlining health care financing. "We would use the money that is already going into the health care system but being spent wastefully," he noted.

A member of the Maryland Bar Association and a former assistant attorney general for the state of Maryland, DeMarco has served in the state Consumer Protection Division and directed a two-year project known as the Maryland Children's Initiative, which coordinated support and effort to stop children from smoking through an increase in the cigarette tax.

DeMarco has effectively organized groups to lobby for child gun access prevention and limitations on the sale of handguns.

Meeting Slated For Arthritis Support Group

Garrett County Memorial Hospital's arthritis and fibromyalgia support group will meet on Tuesday, Nov. 2, at 6:3 p.m. in the Community Services building, located beside the hospital.

The topic of the evening's meeting, the importance of flu immunizations, will be presented by Eric Cvetnick, RN, of the Garrett County Health Department. Persons of all ages are invited to attend.

For further information, one may contact Vicki Insley at 301-334-9767.

IT IS YOUR BUSINESS....

The Family Violence Coalition of Garrett County continues to issue the reminder: It is your business... This week the group directs its message to the religious community, asking that its members use their unique skills and gifts to educate, support, and help heal the victims of violence and abuse.

The following are some suggested steps that pastors and church members may take. The list was compiled by the National Resource Center on Domestic Violence.

•Be a safe place. Display posters and brochures about domestic violence. Be aware of and refer to community programs such as the Dove Center, the Partnerhsip for Children and Families (formerly the Office for Children, Youth, and Families), and the Department of Social Services. Phone numbers for support services might be made available in discrete places such as the women's restroom. Keep updated lists of resources in your community on file for reference and referrals.

•Acknowledge the issue: Support the professional training of all clergy, hospital chaplains, and seminary students. Encourage the Church itself to continue to address the issue within its own structure so that all victims will be safe when confiding in their clergy.

•Educate your congregation. Encourage your parishioners to attend special seminars/workshops about domestic violence. Sponsor special educational classes. Provide marriage preparation classes and talk about domestic violence, the seriousness of the issue, and its effects on partners and children.

Educate your parishioners about domestic violence and how to recognize its signs. Be educated first so you can be a caring and resourceful leader.

•Use your sermon to speak out against domestic violence. People really are listening; therefore, your message can be a powerful tool. Talk about what a healthy relationship is. Use the scriptures to support your message. Let the victims know that your church is a safe haven for them.

•Be a resource available to the community. Offer meeting space for educational seminars or support groups. Get involved in community training programs.

•Know what questions to ask and what signs to look for. Be direct, clear and concise. Use non-offensive and non-blaming language. Believe what the victim is saying. Affirm her/his faith because it may be all that the victim has left to hold on to. Quote scripture that reaffirms, liberates, and comforts. Encourage the person to take advantage of the community resources available.

•Have a plan of action for when someone discloses current of past abuse. Have a referral list readily available.

•Follow up with victims who have disclosed personal information. This lets them know you are caring and trustworthy. It also builds rapport for future guidance and/or counseling.

None of us can REST
Until all of us are SAFE

PREVENT FIRE IN YOUR HOME - It's that time again — Time to turn back the hands of the clock and to change the batteries in the smoke detectors. Forgetting to change the clock could result in being late for work. Forgetting to change the battery in the smoke detector could be a whole lot worse. Just ask Jason King of the Deep Creek VFD.

Healthy Families Garrett County

Healthy Families Garrett County is a voluntary, cost-free, home visitation program developed to empower parents to give their children a strong start in life. The program is open to Garrett County women who are pregnant and to their children up to age 5.

Coordinated through the Garrett County Health Department, Healthy Families works to ensure that children in the county are healthy and enter school ready to learn. To accomplish this the mother is encouraged to eat properly during pregnancy and maintain a healthy lifestyle.

Prior to the child's birth, the mother is told about community resources that are available, including prepared childbirth classes. Through the Healthy Families program, she will also be taught how to care for an infant and what to expect as the child grows.

Making the home "baby safe" is also on the program agenda, along with tips on encouraging normal development in the child.

The volunteers will be trained in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service with the latest changes in tax laws and are prepared to complete basic income tax forms. The volunteers are required to pass a test after completing the training class, and agree to help out four hours a week from Feb. 1, 2000 to April 15.

Nationwide, this program helps over 1.5 million taxpayers. Locally, the program is in its ninth year and works out of the Mary Browning Senior Center on Tuesdays and Thursdays, from noon to 4 p.m., and Wednesdays, from 5 to 7 p.m. Class for the volunteers will be held the first week in January.

Persons interested in volunteering may call Robert Hughes at 301-387-6670 or Bea Crosco at 301-334-2147.

State Provides West Nile-Like Virus Hotline

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) have established a toll-free hotline to answer questions on West Nile-like virus, and for citizens to report unusual incidents of bird deaths, should they occur.

"While we have no cases where West Nile-like virus has been identified in Maryland, it is important that we continue to take precautions, monitor for the virus, and provide information to the public," said DNR Secretary Dr. Sarah Taylor-Rogers. "We are also continuing our collaboration with colleagues in the states that have been affected by the virus, as well as with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the National Wildlife Health Center."

Citizens can reach the toll-free hotline by calling 1-888-584-3110, which is staffed 24 hours a day, seven days a week. States that have been affected by West Nile-like virus have reported unusual numbers of bird deaths, particularly crows. Should unusual bird deaths occur in Maryland, the hotline can dispatch trained staff to assess the incident and take samples for evaluation, if necessary.

Bird deaths occur naturally and for a variety of reasons, Taylor-Rogers said. Since states that have seen a problem with West Nile-like virus have reported a higher than usual mortality in crows, the DNR is primarily interested in crow deaths at this time, or instances where several dead non-crow species are found nearby one another. If the dead bird (or birds) is found next to a road or building, near a window, or under power/telephone lines, and shows some outward sign of injury including blood or broken bones, there is no reason to notify the hotline. If none of these conditions apply, citizens are asked to call the hotline.

For more information, citizens are encouraged to visit DNR's web site at www.dnr.state.md.us.

Figuring Things Out...Together

It won't be long' til that car is on the road. When Dad and Uncle Greg are in on the project, it is sure to be a success. It's much easier to find the answer when the family figures things out together.

As Jonathan grows older the projects will be more complex and the problems more serious. But as long as he continues to believe in the family, together they will meet goals and find solutions.

How can we preserve family in a time when everyone is going helter-skelter? What provides a cohesive bond for family unity?

Over a century ago, Horace Bushnell said..."A house without a roof would scarcely be different than a family unsheltered by God's friendship and the sense of being always rested in His providential care."

Worship with your family each week. The family that worships together can figure things out...together.

FREEDOM OF CHOICE

Part of the basic concept of freedom in this great country of ours is that we may choose the physician we want to treat us and the pharmacy we want to prepare our prescriptions. This freedom of choice is part of our heritage, and we guard it proudly and jealously.

We don't like to be told we have to get someone else at a particular place or from a particular person. Our pharmacy is proud to be a part of this community's health team, and we hope you will want to choose us to be your pharmacy.

EMERGENCY PHONE, 334-8617

"A GREAT MANY PEOPLE ENTRUST US with their prescriptions, health needs and other pharmacy problems. We consider this trust a privilege and a duty. May we be your personal family pharmacy?

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

WHEN BAD MEMORY IS A SIN!
October 31, 1999

Background Scripture: Deuteronomy 8
Devotional Reading: Psalms 85

"I forgot" is one of the most frequent excuses we hear today. Often, bad memory is an acceptable excuse if it is evident that there was no intention not to do what we were supposed to or to do what we were not supposed to do. We may not be pleased that someone "forgot," but we are much less liable to hold it against another person because we all suffer from bad memory from time to time.

At the same time, "I forgot" is not likely to be acceptable when the consequences are hurtful to others. "I forgot" is no justification for an airplane pilot whose forgetting jeopardizes his or her passengers. Nor is it acceptable for a doctor whose bad memory impinges upon his patients' health. Forgetting your spouse's wedding anniversary is not likely to be easily overlooked either.

Forgetting God has even more serious consequences. He warns the people: "Take heed lest you forget the Lord your God..." (Deut. 8:11). How does one "forget" God? It is not a matter of forgetting that there is a God. We all know that and are likely to remember it. If we forget as obligation, it isn't because it is no longer in our memory, but because we give our attention to something else. That is the key to the bad memory problem: we fail to remember something because we have not judged it important enough to keep it in our consciousness.

"SHOW ME!"

Moses explains what constitutes 'forgetting' the Lord: "Take heed lest you forget the Lord your God, by not keeping his commandments and his ordinances and his statutes" (8:11). Failing to keep these is the equivalent of 'forgetting' him. You can't possibly remember God if you live in a way that is contrary to his commandments. 'Remembering' is more a matter of 'doing' than 'thinking.' Words that acknowledge "I remember you," are no match for deeds that say the same thing. As Eliza sings in My Fair Lady, "Don't speak of love, SHOW ME!" God sings that same song.

Moses gives the people of Israel a timely warning: "lest when you have eaten and are full, and have built goodly houses...and when your herds and flocks multiply, and your silver and gold is multiplied, and all that you have is multiplied, then...you forget the Lord your God..." (8:13,14). In the wilderness, as we noted last week, it is fairly easy to remember God because we know that we are dependent upon his grace. But when we are on Easy Street in the Promised Land it is easy to forget the Lord who put us there.

The abundance of things can easily become a false god. In these days when the "free world" contended with the Soviet Union for the minds and hearts of people, we frequently spoke of "godless Communism." Communism does have a god, but it is not the God of Jesus Christ. Communism's god is materialism, the conviction that happiness and fulfillment come with an abundant supply of material things.

MORAL LEAVENING

Yet, does not our free capitalistic society offer the same recipe for happiness and fulfillment: things! I was educated in the Wharton School of Finance & Commerce of the University of Pennsylvania. Capitalism, I concluded, is the best economic system the human race has yet devised, but it did not descend from heaven and it needs the moral leavening of Christianity to keep it from corrupting our souls. The gospel of Jesus Christ proclaims that there are values that transcend materialism. Consumerism may make some people a lot of money, but it will not satisfy people's hungry spirits. The so-called "laws of the market" shall not supersede the Ten Commandments of the Old Testament or the Great Commandment of the New Testament.

Material prosperity is seductive, leading us from humility in the face of God's goodness to inordinate pride in our own efforts. "Beware lest you say in your heart, My power and the might of my hand have got me me this wealth" (8:17). At that point we have truly forgotten God's grace and have wandered away from him. For, what we follow, pretty much determines where we go.

Literacy Council Sets Open House In Loch Lynn

The Garrett County Literacy Council has set an open house for Monday, Nov. 1, from 6 to 8 p.m., at its new office in the former Loch Lynn school building. The event is being held in conjuction with the national observance of Family Literacy Day.

Members of the Literacy Council, an all-volunteer nonprofit organization, will be on hand at the open house to provide information on the group's educational activities, as well as give away free books and posters. Refreshments will be provided, and live entertainment by local musicians has tentatively been scheduled.

Among the posters available at the open house will be "Families Reading Together," reproduced from an original ink sketch by Chip Evans, an Oakland-area artist. "Evans's work symbolizes one of the main aspects of literacy education," a council spokesperson commented. "An extremely important way for parents and other adults to impart the value of reading is by modeling it in the home.

For further information on the open house, or activities and programs of the Literacy Council, interested persons may call 301-334-8606.

FREE POSTERS AVAILABLE AT OPEN HOUSE - "Families Reading Together," shown above, is a poster that will be available for free at the open house of the Garrett County Literacy Council, slated for Monday, Nov. 1, from 6 to 8 p.m. The event, which will take place at the council's new office at the former Loch Lynn School, will feature poster and book giveaways, and refreshments, and musical entertainment is tentatively on the schedule. For further information persons may call 301-334-560.

Receives Who's Who Recognition

Charlene Thomas, a junior at Southern High School, has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students for the 1998-99 school year. The honor is reserved for five percent of high school students nationwide each year, recognizing the achievements of outstanding students who have contributed to their schools and communities.

Thomas resides in Oakland with her mother Lisa. Her hobbies include drawing, and she plans to attend art school after graduating from Southern. She is currently employed at Josie's Family Restaurant.

Leaf Disposal Procedures Set By Health Dept.

As the autumn foliage season draws to an end, many local residents are faced with the task of raking and disposing of fallen leaves. The Garrett County Environmental Health Office has issued a reminder to homeowners that Maryland Air Quality Regulations prohibit burning of leaves in areas where collection is available.

"Burning sometimes seems to be the easiest solution for disposal," a health department spokesperson said, "but it is becoming more and more unacceptable due to air quality concerns and adverse health effects from smoke pollutants. The smoke from burning leaves contains high concentrations of hydrocarbons, particulate matter, carbon monoxide, and nitrogen oxides."

Pollutants resulting from leaf burning can greatly aggravate the condition of persons suffering from respiratory disorders such as asthma, bronchitis, and emphysema, and can cause eye and nose irritations, fever, coughing, and cramps in a healthy person. The pollutants in leaf smoke can also cause house paint to deteriorate, injure plants and shrubbery, and generally deteriorate air quality.

Residents in areas where there are too many leaves to be collected, or where no collection is available, should investigate using leaves for mulching, erosion control, and compost piles, the spokesperson said. It may also be possible to use mechanical shredding equipment or lawn mowers to chop up the leaves. Those processes return needed nutrients to the soil, while efficiently eliminating the leaves.

Composting is a method that is gaining in popularity and can be easily started in a back yard. Persons interested in composting can enclose a small area of ground with material such as chicken wire or wooden pallets, according to the spokesperson.

"Pile a 6-inch layer of leaves and cover with a 1-inch layer of soil. Repeat as necessary. A sprinkle of lime may be added to speed up the process. Turn and mix the compost pile every few months. In about 12 months the result will be a rich organic matter or humus for fertilizer in a garden. The compost will also provide an excellent mulch to retard weed growth and save soil moisture," the spokesperson said.

To obtain more information on leaf composting, persons may call the Cooperative Extension Service at 301-334-6960 or Environmental Health Services at 301-334-8980.

Hauling leaves to the landfill would be preferable to burning, according to the health department spokesperson. The Garrett County Landfill will accept leaves at the rate of $30 per ton, 1½ cents per pound, or $1.50 per 100 lbs. If the leaves are bagged, they must be emptied at the landfill site.

Most municipalities within Garrett County have some type of leaf collection plan this fall. The collection schedules may vary depending on availability of equipment and when most of the foliage has dropped. Town residents are directed to contact their respective town hall for details. If leaf burning is conducted within town limits where leave collection is available, a notice of violation may be issued which could incur a fine.

Should collection be unavailable and other means of leaf disposal be ineffective, leaves originating on the premises may be burned by householders as a last resort. The fire may not be closer than 200 feet of the nearest neighboring residence and may not create a nuisance. Because the health department does not condone the burning of leaves due to the negative impact to air quality, burning permits will not be issued.

DNR regulations require that burning be conducted between 4 p.m. and midnight if the burning location is in a wooded area or within 200 feet of a wooded area. A 10-foot wide fire break must surround the fire, and a responsible person should remain on the scene until it is completely extinguished. It is also important to contact Central Alarm at 301-334-1929 prior to burning leaves.

Kristallnacht To Be Observed At Frostburg State

Marsha Tishler, director of Holocaust Programs for the Baltimore Jewish Council, will speak at Frostburg State University's ninth annual Kristallnacht Observance at 7 p.m. next Wednesday, Nov. 3, in the Pealer Recital Hall of FSU's Performing Arts Center.

Kristallnacht, or "the Night of Broken Glass," occurred Nov. 9 and 10, 1938, when German rioters, encouraged by Nazi government officials, destroyed Jewish businesses throughout Germany and burned 275 synagogues. The glass from this destruction littered streets throughout the Reich, and over 100 Jews were killed, most beaten to death by mobs as police passively watched. In the following days, 25,000 Jews were sent to concentration camps. The total dispossession of Jewish businesses and wealth was then set to occur by the new year.

Because the actions of the government during Kristallnacht made clear the Nazi intent (despite widespread international protest) to eradicate Jewish property and influence throughout greater Germany, this date marks the beginning of the Shoah, the Holocaust. Eventually, the governmental goals expanded to include the total annihilation not only of Jewish life but of Jewish life itself.

The commemoration of Kristallnacht at FSU will include Professor Tishler's memories of her family's experiences during the Shoah, of herself being a hidden child in Nazi-occupied Europe, and of being in displaced persons' camps after the war.

"One and a half million Jewish children died simply because they were Jewish. I was one of the fortunate ones," Professor Tishler said. "I survived because of the compassion of a Ukrainian couple who kept me safe for three years."

The FSU program will also include a candle-lighting ceremony for the victims of genocide, organized by Hillel students.

GCSO RECEIVES CAMERA DONATIONS - The Garrett County Sheriff's Office received a donation of 35 mm cameras through the efforts of an anonymous citizen recently. The donation means that, for the first time, each deputy on duty will be able to carry a camera throughout a shift for documenting investigations of auto accidents, domestic violence, and general crime scenes. The Minolta cameras have zoom and date features, and were purchased from the Camera Gallery in Cumberland at a discounted rate. The citizen coordinated the camera purchases by soliciting contributions from the following businesses, organizations, and individuals: Glotfelty Enterprises, Team One, Cook Brothers Automotive, Gregg's Pharmacy, B.P.O. Elks Lodge, Markwood Convenience Center, Rob W. Michael of State Farm Insurance, Deep Creek Pharmacy, Russ Edrly, and Kyle Financial Service. Sheriff Dick Sanders, shown above, expressed his appreciation to the anonymous citizen.

Under the direction of conductor Dr. Karen Soderberg, Collegium Musicum will perform "A Child's Journey" by Michael Horvitt and "Tsen Brider" by Joshua Jacobsen, with text by Martin Rosenberg. "A Child's Journey," based on three poems by Yaakov Barilai, reflects the amazement of innocent children who couldn't fully comprehend or understand the horrors they faced in the Holocaust.

Martin Rosenberg, a professional conductor before the war, was arrested in 1939 and sent to Sachsenhausen concentration camp, where he was brutally tortured. At the same camp, he established a clandestine choir. Discovering that inmates were being transferred to the death camp at Auschwitz, Rosenberg wrote a parody of an old Yiddish folksong, "Tsen Brider." In Rosenberg's version the brothers ("Brider") are murdered, one by one, in the gas chambers. In 1942 Rosenberg and his choir were deported to Auschwitz, where all perished.

The song survived because Rosenberg asked Alexander Kulisiewicz, a Polish musician detained as a non-Jewish political prisoner, to remember the song, to sing it, and to tell the world of the suffering in the death camps. Kulisiewicz kept his promise, and until his death in 1982, he devoted his life to making the songs of the concentration camps known all over the world.

Kristallnacht has been observed at FSU for almost a decade. These powerful gatherings promote awareness and have attracted renowned speakers, including individuals from Schindler's list," said an organizer of the event.

For additional information about the Kristallnacht program, persons may call Dr. Keith Schlegel at 301-687-4227 or Dr. Ellen Grolman Schlegel at 301-687-4117.

Clayson ready to face morning on Early Show

By Jacqueline Cutler
©TVData Features Syndicate

On Monday, Nov. 1, The Early Show with Jane Clayson and Bryant Gumbel premieres on CBS, directly opposite NBC's solidly entrenched Today – which Gumbel left in January 1997 after 15 years.

The new CBS morning broadcast of news features, cooking and conributors is being broadcast from the Trump International Plaza on Fifth Avenue in the heart of midtown Manhattan. A digital, technologically up-to-the minute studio at street level is the show's home.

Clayson, 32, most recently served as a correspondent for ABC News in Los Angeles, where she reported for World News Tonight from 1997-99. In addition to covering the NATO strikes against Kosovo, the plight of Macedonian refugees and Sen. Bob Dole's presidential campaign, she reported on the 747 crash in Cuba and the O.J. Simpson civil trial.

"My goal is to do a good show, to be part of a broadcast people will feel comfortable watching," Clayson says. "We will do a broadcast better the second day than the first, better the third week than the second, and the broadcast will find its own rhythm and voice. I'm excited to be part of that. It is a monumental undertaking."

After a decade of hard news and no room for lighter interviews, Clayson says she's particularly excited about "interviewing Tony Blair one minute and Martha Stewart the next."

As to how her CBS show will stand out from its many chirpy morning news competitors, Clayson says, "We're not out to reinvent the wheel here. We're just doing a good, smart, innovative broadcast every morning. We've got this great set; it is an incredible place, and that will really energize us every morning."

Besides Gumbel and Clayson, the show has media heavyweight Steve Friedman as senior executive producer.

"In the 1970s at KNBC-TV, Bryant made my newscast No. 1," Friedman says. "In the '80s and '90s, he continued to help me pay my mortgage by making the Today show No. 1. The opportunity of working with a friend and journalist I respect tremendously is one I relish, and I'm confident our 30-year record of success will continue."

For his part, Gumbel says, "Although I never planned on making a return to morning television, I think it's where I belong, and I know it's where I'm most comfortable. ... I'm not naive about the challenges that lie ahead, but I am enthused about the extent of CBS' commitment to what Steve and I want to do and optimistic about our future."

This new CBS facility, Studio 58, in the General Motors Building at Trump Plaza, is gigantic. It covers 24,000 square feet, including a 5,000-square-foot studio and a custom kitchen for contributor Stewart. Among the futuristic gadgets are four panels of "privacy glass" between the ground-floor set where the anchors sit and the ground-level windows. With a flip of a switch, the windows instantly turn from nearly opaque to transparent, courtesy of liquid crystal diodes.

After her first few days as a New York resident, Clayson says she is walking around her new hometown, falling in love with the changing trees and new neighborhoods. She adds she has one more goal: to become a morning person – and soon – as she'll have to wake at 3:30 a.m. for her new job.

Frostburg State Dance Company Slates Concert

The Frostburg State University Dance Company will present its fall 1999 dance concert on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 5 and 6, at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Drama Theatre. There will be a matinee on Sunday, Nov. 7, at 2 p.m.

The concert will showcase eight works by Dr. Barry Fischer that illustrate a diversity of themes, from jazz to modern dance. It will also offer a retrospective of Fischer's work during his past four years as artistic director of the FSU Dance Company.

Included in the program are five group dances and three solos set to the music of Bernard Herman, Sylvester, Zap Mama, Songs of the Auvergen, Ennio Morricone, Peggy Lee, and Patsy Cline, plus a musical collage premiere of a dance for children of all ages.

The 1997 American College Dance Festival award-winning choreography of "Lamenting Echo," a solo based on the loss of colleagues and friends who have died from AIDS, and "Fever" will be performed by guest artist and FSU alumnus Connie Fink, class of '98.

A guest artist from New York City will perform the solo "You Belong To Me," set to the music of Patsy Cline.

Past highlights of the FSU Dance Company featured in the program include the dramatic "Hands From The Cauldron," based on Shakespeare's Lady Macbeth's struggle with her infamous act of murder, and "Carpe Diem." Fun and lighter works include "Runaway," "Seduction of the Gypsy Sparrows" (1999 ACDF Awardee), and "In Boots and Shoes."

This event is sponsored by the Department of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation.

Tickets will be available starting November 1 in the Performing Arts Center Box Office. Hours for ticket sales are Monday and Wednesday, 10 to 11 a.m., and Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday, 2 to 4 p.m. The price of admission is $3 for FSU students and children under 10 years of age, and $7 for the general public. For information and ticket reservations, persons may contact the ticket office during the designated times at 301-687-7462.

Persons with disabilities may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

FIRST UNITED SUPPORTS ACCIDENT VFD- First United Bank and Trust's Deep Creek Lake community office recently raised funds to help the Accident Volunteer Fire Department by offering a Fireman's Helper CD. "First United is proud to help our local communities," Joy Wagner, First United customer service officer, stated. Members of the community were able to take advantage of a special rate on a certificate of deposit and at the same time donate to the fire department. Pictured above are Joy Wagner and Tom Stemple, president of the Accident Fire Department.

Maryland Gas Prices Highest Since Feb. 1997

Gas prices for Maryland have taken another jump, making them the highest level since February 1997. Self-serve regular unleaded gasoline averages $1.28 per gallon for the state of Maryland, up 3 cents since last month. "Comparing the price to 1998, the increase is substantial. Last year at this time we were paying an average of $1.05 per gallon, 23 cents less than this year," said Myra Wieman, manager of public relations for AAA Mid-Atlantic.

On a national level, gasoline prices are at their highest since December 1990 when the United States was preparing for Operation Desert Storm. AAA's monthly fuel gauge report shows self-serve regular unleaded gasoline averages $1.29 per gallon nationwide.

Those planning to travel this month will find gasoline most expensive in the West at $1.42 per gallon and least expensive in the Southeast at $1.21. Other regional prices for self-serve regular unleaded are: New England, $1.34 per gallon; Great Lakes, $1.26; Midwest, $1.24; and Southwest, $1.25.

"Prices have been rising in reaction to production cutbacks by OPEC. The price of crude oil has more than doubled from $10 per barrel last year to $22 per barrel this month," said Wieman. "Prices are easing in the West and Great Lakes, which may mean we have seen the peak, but don't count on anything until you see the prices drop at the pump."

Local Business Supporting Area McDonald House

The Christmas Chalet, located along U.S. Route 219 at Deep Creek Lake across from Uno's, is participating in a charitable effort called the Discover Department 56 Holiday Program. Beginning November 5 and running throughout the holiday season, the Christmas Chalet will host activities, including in-store drawings and displays, to help raise funds for the Morgantown, W.Va., Ronald McDonald House.

"Discover Department 56 is an exciting way for people to prepare for the holiday season and help support a local charity," said Jan Shafer, owner of the Christmas Chalet. "The holidays are a special time of the year when it is important to share with everyone."

As part of the Discover Department 56 Holiday Program, a portion of the proceeds from the sale of "The Times Tower" also will be donated to the Ronald McDonald House.

ARTIFACT ON DISPLAY - This skull of a Native American woman, found during research on the site of the Battle of the Little Big Horn, is currently on display at the Garrett County Historical Society. This historic artifact is available for viewing courtesy of Oakland resident, Marilyn Posien, the local coordinator of the national Custer Association meeting to be held in Garrett County in the spring. The up-coming event has spurred an interest in the history of the Civil War, genealogy, Native American history, and the life and times of Gen. George Custer, who was killed at the Little Big Horn, Posien explained. In addition, a genealogy titled Custer and the Related Families of Garrett and Allegany Counties by Rev. Franklin Bishop, North Huntington, Pa., has been donated to the historical society. In the photo, from left, are Mary Custer Bishop, Posien holding the skull, Rev. Bishop, and John Grant of the historical society.

DNR Computers Said Ready For Y2K Date Change

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources has announced that it is Y2K compliant. "This department's network of systems is ready for the year 2000 and beyond," DNR secretary Dr. Sarah Taylor-Rogers said recently.

"Since July, DNR's hardware components have been 100 percent Y2K compliant. We've conducted a thorough analysis, and in those places where deficiencies were identified, steps have been taken to correct them. DNR's team will ensure that our customers are informed, prepared and protected for the next century. Our success in this area can only be attributed to taking Y2K issues seriously, and acting with support so that the transition will be as simple as turning a calendar page," the secretary said.

DNR hired an outside contractor in February to assess the Y2K readiness of its more than 1,220 personal computers (PCs) found at its Annapolis headquarters and 100 field offices statewide. The contractor also evaluated other instruments like two-way radios, telephones, alarms, gate controls, global positioning, geographic information and nautical equipment, public safety, and other process control systems. Additionally, contingency plans were developed for DNR's critical Licensing and Registration Service systems.

"Through this exercise the citizens have actually gotten better public service because it has forced most state employees to examine their jobs and how duties would be performed in the event of a crisis," said Allen W. Cartwright Jr., DNR's assistant secretary of management service. "Everyone in this agency feels a lot more comfortable as Y2K approaches because we are prepared." Cartwright added that the recent telephone and power outages promised by Hurricane Floyd in some ways simulated a Y2K drill. DNR field offices reviewed their contingency plans, but did not have to implement them.

The staff of DNR's Management Information Service has devoted as much as 35 percent of their workload to addressing Y2K issues. "One of our major obstacles was obtaining an inventory of all the agency's machinery," said Al Gorham, director of the Management Information Service. "Now that we have that information we've gotten up to speed, not only with our PCs in headquarters, but with all other computer-related equipment statewide."

The third party assessment of DNR's computerized systems and equipment led to the upgrade or replacement of 500 PCs as well as telephone systems at all DNR properties. As for the department's main computers, the ones at the hub of the network, Gorham said those components have been Y2K ready for a number of years.

Maryland's DNR, composed of nine separate units, is entrusted with managing more than 371,000 acres of public lands as well as conservation and restoration of Maryland's natural resources — including the Chesapeake Bay.

Local Guardsmen Battle Adverse Weather Conditions

The members of the Maryland Army National guard, Det. 2, 243rd Engineers, Oakland, took to the field over the weekend to test their skills at the weapons qualification range at New Germany State Park. A total of 25 soldiers battled the elements of rain, snow, high winds, and low 30 degree temperatures, and all met the qualifications. "This was a real test for the soldiers to test their skills," stated SSG Larry Schlossnagle. "The range was a real asset for the Maryland Guard unit as it provided all the necessary means that the local guard unit could expect." The qualification consisted of firing at targets of 50 meters, 100 meters, 150 meters, 200 meters, 250 meters, and 300 meters.

The guardsmen also participated in their annual physical fitness testing. The soldiers did push-ups, sit-ups, and a two-mile run. "The soldiers' morale and attitude was very high, and they accepted the challenge as the training schedule and mission was accomplished," Schlossnagle said. The remainder of the drill weekend consisted of administration, inspections, and equipment maintenance.

Anyone interested in joining the National Guard may contact the local Guard unit at 301-334-3200.

GCC Sets Class In Teaching Of Poetry To Youth

Q. My family has some dishes marked "Rose China, Occupied Japan." Who made them?

A. In 1946 and 1947, the Noritake Co. Ltd., made china for the U.S. military forces in Japan. The war had caused shortages, and the factory was unable to make china of the same quality as their earlier pieces. The company decided to use the name Rose China rather than mark pieces with their well-known trademark that had been used since 1904. By 1949, dishes were again marked with the name Noritake.

Q. We found an old wooden RCA Victor packing crate in our attic. On two sides of the crate there's the familiar picture of the RCA dog, Nipper. He is staring into the speaker of an old gramophone. The crate measures 37 inches by 26 inches by 24 inches. Would the crate interest collectors?

A. Anything that pictures Nipper is collectible. Nipper was a real dog who was born in England. His master, Francis Barraud, painted his picture next to a phonograph, and sold the painting to the Gramophone Co. The painting became the trademark of the Victor Talking Machine Co. in 1901. Victor, an American company, was the manufacturer of the Victrola record player. The Radio Corp. of America (RCA) bought Victor in 1929. Your crate would sell for about $150.

Home Tips

MEMORY JOGGER – My elderly mother lives alone and has trouble remembering dates and events from month to month. To help her, the family buys a calendar each year and writes birthdays and anniversaries on the proper days. As further help, we bought bright fluorescent stickers to write appointments, reminder notes, things to do, dates she's visiting relatives and anything else to place on the calendar.

The stickers are easy to spot on the calendar and let her know when to be prepared to go places and pack her suitcase. Theresa K., Slidell, La.

ODORLESS – I had an awful odor in my refrigerator which I couldn't get rid of. I looked in my owner's manual and there were instructions on how to clean the freezer compartment drain line.

With a meat baster, flush a solution of 1 teaspoon baking soda and 2 cups hot (not boiling) water through the clogged drain line. Lo and behold, the odor disappeared. Rita G., Greencastle, Ind.

ICE CREAM TREAT – When I ran out of ice cream cones, I decided to put some ice cream in between chocolate graham crackers for an ice cream sandwich. To my delight, it was really delicious. Greta L., Anaheim, Calif.

JULIA ROBERTS: NOT JUST A PRETTY WOMAN

These days, Julia Roberts isn't just a pretty woman. She's a pretty happy woman. Besides steady boyfriend actor Benjamin Bratt, she's had two hit movies last year and currently commands more than $12 million per film, higher than any other actress.

Roberts has also weathered a long list of failed romances and movie flops. The trademark smile - a mile wide and supernova bright - masks her determination. Born in 1967 to parents who ran a theater school, November's Biography magazine cover girl always knew she would be an actress, investing starring roles for herself as a child. After graduating from high school, Roberts headed for Manhattan and eventually won a role in the quirky coming-of-age comedy, "Mystic Pizza." This led to "Steel Magnolias," "Pretty Woman" and two Golden Globes. At 23, she was America's sweetheart.

But her personal life plummeted. First she ended her engagement to "Steel Magnolias" co-star Dylan McDermott. Then she canceled her wedding to "Flatliners" co-star Kiefer Sutherland, and briefly dated "Speed 2" star Jason Patric before marrying country crooner Lyle Lovett. The union barely lasted two years.

Roberts retreated to regroup. Afraid of being pigeonholed, she made some bad movie choices. She passed on "Sleepless in Seattle," opting for thrillers like "Sleeping with the Enemy" or somber dramas like "Mary Reilly." Now turning 30, she's back on track and recognizes what audiences expect of her. She's balancing crowd-pleasing comedies with the meatier roles she relishes. "My Best Friend's Wedding" was a box office smash, followed by "Conspiracy Theory" with Mel Gibson. Her next film, due in December, is a two-hanky tale titled "Stepmom," about a dying woman (Susan Sarandon) who teaches her ex-husband's new girlfriend how to raise her kids. In "Runaway Bride," she will finally reteam with Richard Gere. Roberts concedes, "I think I'm moments away from coming into my own."

Public Meeting Set To Present DNR Work Plan

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources will present its fiscal year 2001 work plan for Potomac Garrett and Savage River state forests during a public meeting set for Saturday, Oct. 30, at 10 a.m. in Room 154 of the Learning Center at Garrett Community College. DNR staff will outline proposals for new construction and changes in forest use and timber harvests, answer questions, and take public comment.

"DNR manages state forests and parks to improve wildlife habitat, to offer limited sustainable timber harvesting, and to offer recreational opportunities to the public," said Dr. Sarah Taylor-Rogers, DNR secretary. "I encourage citizens to participate in the public meeting process and contribute ideas and suggestions that will improve the quality of our state forests and parks."

Last winter state forest managers formulated their work plans, presented them to a DNR interdisciplinary review panel in June and to forest advisory review boards in September. A copy of the work plan for Potomac Garrett and Savage River state forests will be available at the meeting and can also be obtained through headquarters of either forest.

A comment period is slated to run through Wed., Dec. 1, and interested persons are encouraged to submit comments in writing if unable to attend. Written comments should be mailed to: Potomac Garrett State Forest, 1431 Potomac Camp Rd., Oakland, MD 21550, or Savage River State Forest, 349 Headquarters Rd., Grantsville, MD 21536.

Same-Night DWIs Net Five Months For Balto Man

A Baltimore man was handed five months in jail after pleading guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated (DWI) and a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI) during a recent proceeding in Garrett County District Court before Judge Ralph M. Burnett.

Neal Victor Galford, 41, had been charged with the two offenses by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office during the same night in early June. He was initially stopped for traffic violations at approximately 1 a.m. along Garrett Highway near Johnny's Bait House and arrested for DWI. He was released into his girlfriend's custody on the condition that she would drive the couple's vehicle as they made their way back to Baltimore that morning.

Less than two hours later Galford was again observed driving the same vehicle along Garrett Highway in the area of Mosser Road. He was stopped by the same deputy, charged with DWI (which was later revised to DUI), and jailed at the Garrett County Detention Center.

Galford's sentence entailed a total of 10 months, half of which was suspended.

In other district court news, a Coudersport, Pa., man was convicted of assault even though he had entered a not guilty plea.

Darl Matthew Friend, 25, was handed a one year sentence, of which three months were suspended, and was placed on one year of supervised probation as a result of Burnett's ruling. Friend had been arrested by Maryland State Police troopers in May following a domestic altercation at the Friendsville residence he had been sharing with his girlfriend, who alleged that he had punched and slapped her during the incident.

Michael Kevin O'Brien, 49, Havre de Grace, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and DWI and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ), a 30-day sentence, 28 days of which were suspended, fined $510, placed on six months of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service. The charges resulted from O'Brien's arrest by state troopers last October after a vehicle search subsequent to a traffic stop uncovered the drug. An additional charge of possession of marijuana paraphernalia was not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Lee James Booker, 39, Rumford, Maine, was handed a PBJ and placed on one year of supervised probation after pleading guilty to possession of marijuana paraphernalia. His September arrest by state troopers came when a traffic stop led to a search that uncovered the marijuana in his vehicle. Additional charges of possession of marijuana and several traffic offenses were not prosecuted.

Jack Lee Shaffer, 39, Kitzmiller, faced a charge of disorderly conduct and two counts of possession of fireworks without a proper permit, each of which were placed onto the stet docket. Shaffer's Independence Day arrest came after state troopers learned that he was setting off fireworks in a field along Garrett Highway near McHenry. The ruling included a requirement that he complete 30 hours of community service.

Charlene Marie Lucas, 28, Pittsburgh, faced charges of disorderly conduct and failure to obey a lawful order that were stetted. Lucas had been arrested by sheriff's deputies in July following the apprehension of her brother, who had escaped police custody after a hearing at the courthouse. Lucas allegedly yelled at the officers who were bringing the boy back to the sheriff's office, refusing to desist after being requested to do so.

A charge of second degree assault was stetted in the case of Mark Francis Minnick, 31, Grantsville. State troopers arrested Minnick in September for allegedly assaulting his wife during a domestic incident that took place when she came to his residence to pick up some relatives. Minnick also faced additional charges of violating an ex parte order and telephone misuse that stemmed from a separate September arrest by state troopers for harassing his wife at her residence.

Michael James Smith, 34, Buckhannon, W.Va., faced a charge of illegally transporting a handgun in a vehicle, which was placed on the stet docket. Smith had been arrested in May by state troopers who had initially stopped him for speeding; a search uncovered the handgun and ammunition.

Todd Toothman, 25, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a charge of felony theft that stemmed from an August arrest by sheriff's deputies. He had been accused of a theft incident that originated with Deep Creek Motors.

Maria Oyarce, 20, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a charge of second degree assault. She had been arrested by sheriff's deputies in September for allegedly pushing a neighbor's child.

Shawn Michael Oester, 21, Springs, Pa., was not prosecuted on a charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon. He had been arrested by state troopers in May following a traffic stop when a search uncovered a butterfly knife under the vehicle's driver seat.

Orval Ray Tasker, 20, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a charge of second degree assault that had stemmed from his May arrest by sheriff's deputies for allegedly striking a neighbor's child.

All parties involved in a March incident that resulted in the arrests of Randall Dean Dumire, 39, Friendsville, and Mark Lewis Riley, 32, Michael Alan Crosby, 23, and Daniel Thomas Gnegy, 46, all of Oakland, were deemed not guilty of their respective charges.

Sheriff's deputies had arrested Gnegy on charges of two counts of second degree assault and five counts of reckless endangerment, while the other three individuals were served with criminal summonses charging each with trespassing and destruction of property.

Donald Jay Soults, 60, Vienna, Va., was deemed not guilty of second degree assault.

DWIs/DUIs

In addition to the DWI and DUI convictions of Neal Galford reported above, several other similar cases were heard in district court recently.

Craig Andrew Wrobleski, 26, West Mifflin, Pa., pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $455, handed a one-year sentence with all but seven days suspended, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

William Thomas Frickey, 51, Grantsville, pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $455, handed a 90-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 80 hours of community service.

Melvin Wayne Colmer, 56, Barton, pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a 60-day sentence, all but seven days of which were suspended, and placed on one year of supervised probation.

Carl Harvey Friend, 24, Accident, pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a PBJ, fined $255, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, and placed on one year of supervised probation.

Richard Andrew Sorkin, 36, Bethesda, pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a PBJ, a $255 fine, a 30-day suspended sentence, one year of supervised probation, and 40 hours of community service.

Julene Chara Morgan, 24, Swanton, pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a PBJ, a $200 fine, a 30-day suspended sentence, one year of supervised probation, and 40 hours of community service.

Corey Andrew Van Meter, 21, Mt. Storm, W.Va., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a PBJ, fined $200, handed a 30-day sentence with all but 2 days suspended, and placed on one year of supervised probation.

Loretta Lynn DeWitt, 33, Oakland, pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a PBJ, fined $200, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, and placed on one year of supervised probation.

Dowell Anthony Davis, 34, Frostburg, pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a PBJ, fined $255, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

William Joseph Howard, 28, Pittsburgh, pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a PBJ, fined $255, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

Jackson Samuel Green, 54, Lonaconing, was found to be in violation of DWI probation, which was continued with an order that he not drive during its term.

Finally, David Lee Rounds, 47, Swanton, was found to be in violation of DWI probation, which was revoked. His initial PBJ was stricken and a guilty verdict imposed. Rounds has been sentenced to jail for the original incarceration period.

Adopt Shelter Animals, Help Protect Their Innocent Lives

By Jessica Elnesbaugh

Approximately six to eight million dogs and cats are euthanized in animal shelters across America in the span of one year. This is basically caused by an overpopulation of companion animals being brought to animal shelters where there is not enough room for them to stay. No matter how hard an animal shelter pushes for adoption, some pets do not have enough time to find a home and their innocent lives come to an end. More and more people need to realize how important interaction with a shelter is to abandoned, lost, and stray animals.

The Garrett County Animal Shelter takes in an estimated 1,300 dogs and cats each year. October is such an important month for shelter animals across America. October is Adopt a Shelter Dog Month, which helps rid the shelter of overcrowding conditions and saves the lives of many animals placed in shelter care.

Last year the Garrett County Animal Shelter euthanized 911 dogs and cats, 72% of the total animals that came through the shelter. So many steps could be taken so this alarming rate could drop and more animals' lives could be saved.

The shelter was placed under new management about one year ago. The facility is staffed with only two employees, Josie Shillito, shelter manager, and George Hebb, animal control officer. Because the facility has only the two employees, the shelter cannot play as large a role in controlling the animal population as it once did.

Garrett Community College once ran a program at the shelter where students would take classes and help with animal operations. The shelter almost acted like an animal hospital because of the numerous operations, including spaying and neutering, taking place. When support for the program ceased, the shelter lost most of its help and disposed of the equipment for operations.

The operating room has been turned into the main office of the shelter; the scrub sink and operating lights have just recently been taken out. The facility is now a mandatory spay and neuter shelter. Any animal adopted from that shelter is required to be spayed or neutered within 30 days of its release or within 30 days of reaching the age of 6 months. Not only does neutering reduce the overpopulation of cats and dogs, but it has also found that the surgery will reduce aggression.

Besides spaying and neutering, the shelter emphasizes the importance of licensing and vaccinations for all domesticated cats and dogs.

"Many people are unaware that there exists a Garrett County Dog Ordinance," Shillito said. "All dogs must have a license whether they are owned by an individual or a kennel."

The Garrett County Dog Ordinance states, "It shall be unlawful for any person, partnership, association, or corporation to keep or own an unlicensed dog within Garrett County." All household dogs without licenses are therefore illegally cared for. The ordinance also says that it is unlawful for the owner of any dog to allow that pet to be "at large," roaming freely without restraint.

The owner of any dog found in violation of the dog ordinance will be issued a warning, but if no actions are taken to secure a license the owner may be taken to court.

Yearly licenses may be purchased for $1 at the animal shelter or the court house. Tags are also available for $5, although they are not required. These tags are helpful in finding the pet's owner if an animal were to run away or become lost. The forms for tags can be picked up at either the animal shelter or a veterinarian's office.

Licensing and identification tags not only satisfy the dog ordinance but they help with the protection of the animal. With an official license any pet is legal property of its owner. Without the license, strangers may steal the dog and no actions could be taken to claim ownership.

"Tags are an enormous help in finding the owners of lost animals," Shillito commented. "Whoever finds a lost pet, whether it be a shelter worker or a citizen, can contact the name on the animal's tag. Not only does this save the time of the shelter workers, but it saves the owner from heartbreak and the loss of money. Each day a lost pet is sheltered costs the owner $10 upon reclaim. A $5 tag and $1 license could save so much money in the long run."

Another responsibility that should be taken by pet owners is to make sure that any pet 4 months old has had its rabies vaccination. These vaccinations are required by law in the states of Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania. Any failure to obtain these shots for a pet could result in a fine of up to $500. Like the spaying and neutering, any animal adopted from the Garrett County Animal Shelter must receive this vaccination within 30 days of adoption.

Throughout the year, rabies vaccination clinics are held at local schools. According to Walter Haydel of the Garrett County Health Department, "over 1,030 dogs, cats, and ferrets were vaccinated this year. That is up from 800 to 900 pets in previous years."

Any pet exposed to the rabies disease without the protection provided in these shots will most likely die. Humans who come in contact with the saliva of exposed animals or are physically hurt, bitten or scratched must immediately go through the post-exposure process to help minimize a potentially fatal disaster.

All animals that come to the shelter have a much better chance of being placed in a home if they have been neutered and received their vaccination shots.

When an owner turns a pet, not a stray, into the animal shelter, he is giving up all possession he has over that animal. There is no guarantee that the animal will be placed in a home. The animal shelter will always keep an animal for at least five days, unless the dog or cat is sick, wild, aggressive, too old, or pregnant. The shelter is also not allowed to adopt out any animal under 8 weeks old by a state law. In one of these special instances, the animal would be euthanized.

After the five-day period, the animal may be kept longer if there is enough room in the shelter and it has not caused any problems. Otherwise, the animal would be euthanized. The shelter will not contact a pet's previous owner after it is either placed or killed.

"A shelter is a wonderful place for strays," Shillito said. "On the other hand, if the animal is yours, only use a shelter as a last result."

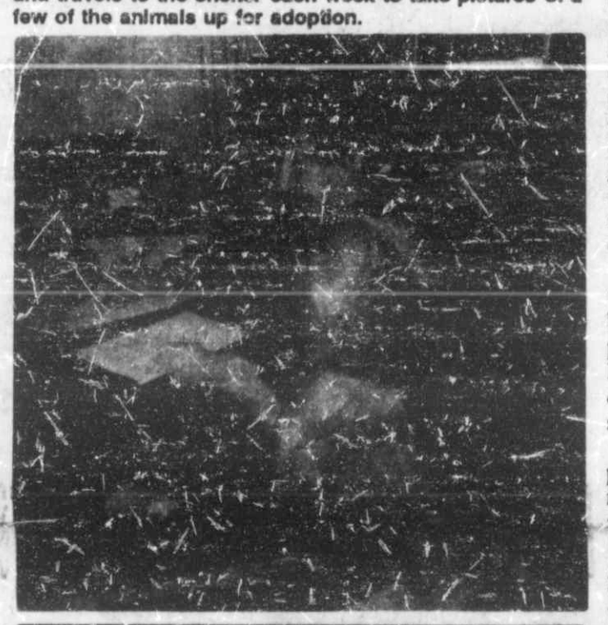
Anyone wishing to place an animal in the Garrett County Animal Shelter must fill out a "give up" form whether the animal was a pet or a stray. This form voids any rights or claim of ownership one might have over a dog or cat. People are also asked to complete a pet personality profile to help with adoptions.

Animal control will come to one's home to pick up a stray dog or cat, if the shelter is notified. If the animal being given up is a pet, then the owner must transport it to the shelter him- or herself.

The month of September was especially bad for the animal shelter in terms of adoptions. Of the 123 dogs and cats brought into the shelter by both animal control and the public, three lost dogs were reclaimed by their owners, 18 animals were adopted, and 102 were euthanized. This resulted in the lowest adoption rate of 16% that Shillito has had since she took over management in early 1998. Shillito, with help from the Humane Society, has been successful in increasing the adoption rate from an average of 10% to a range from 38% to 122%.

Of the 102 animals, 53 dogs and 49 cats were euthanized; 27 dogs and 17 cats were killed because of the five-day rule, and 26 dogs and 32 cats were destroyed because they were sick, wild, and had other qualities that would have hindered their chances of adoption.

Only nine dogs and nine cats were adopted through the shelter this past month. Drastically small adoption rates, like the 18% in September, can definitely damper the spirits of both the shelter workers and the animals. That is why Adopt a Shelter Dog Month is so important in controlling the deaths of animals in the county.



Another very important service provided by the Garrett County Animal Shelter is that of animal control. George Hebb, the animal control officer, just finished a five-week-long animal control training program, which makes him more qualified for the position. Hebb is now the only person in Garrett County to ever have the certification of his experience as an animal control officer.

"It's frightening to be called to a home where there is an angry pitbull or rottweiler to be picked up," Hebb commented. "Some of those animals are taught to protect, and when they are being taken away situations can get ugly. Police officers from the sheriff's department often help me, but

CATS DO HAVE NINE LIVES - The two cats pictured above were just saved from an untimely death by two very generous people. Connie Kirkham and her daughter, Chelsea Stemple, went to the Garrett County Animal Shelter last Tuesday to adopt a cat. With the help of animal control officer George Hebb's persuasion, Kirkham took two cats home instead of the one she had planned to adopt. "A few days ago, my white cat was killed and I miss her very much," Kirkham stated. "I decided to adopt not one, but two cats. I'm looking forward to having fun with our two new pets." One of the main services of the Garrett County Animal Shelter is to adopt out dogs and cats for an affordable price. With the help of the Humane Society and Adorable Adoptables, the animal shelter has been able to increase the adoption rate dramatically over the past year. Betsy Gergoff, pictured below with a Benji look-a-like, volunteers to help with the Adorable Adoptable program and travels to the shelter each week to take pictures of a few of the animals up for adoption.

Animal-Friendly License Plates Now Available

Maryland's new "animal-friendly" license plates can now be purchased from many Maryland animal shelters and through the Humane Society of the United States (HSUS), the nation's largest animal protection organization. The specially designed license plates feature a colorful dog-and-cat motif with the words "spay and neuter" printed on the bottom. There is a one-time purchase price of $50, half of which is earmarked to fund pet sterilization programs in Maryland. License plates purchased through county shelters will fund low-cost spay and neuter programs in the county in which they were purchased; those sold through the HSUS will fund programs in smaller counties that are unable to sell the plates themselves.

Eight other states have enacted similar programs since 1993, most in the Mid-Atlantic region. New Jersey, the first state to begin selling pet friendly plates, has raised over a million dollars so far to combat pet overpopulation. Low-cost spay and neuter programs have proven to be effective in reducing the number of unwanted pets, according to the HSUS.

Pet overpopulation is a serious problem that results in the euthanasia of 4-6 million animals each year in the United States, according to HSUS estimates. In Maryland alone, thousands of unwanted dogs and cats must be euthanized each year, simply because there aren't enough homes for them. "Homeless dogs and cats suffer tremendously and cause a number of problems for people as well," stated Martha Armstrong, HSUS vice president for companion animals. "Homeless dogs and cats bite people, spread diseases like rabies, and cause automobile accidents."

Unwanted animals also create a strain on animal control agencies, who must house, feed, and dispose of them through adoption or euthanasia. "Every animal who gets sterilized is one less animal contributing to the problem of pet overpopulation," concluded Armstrong.

Adopt Shelter

they even hesitantly step back sometimes and say, 'You're the experienced one.'"

The animal control program at the shelter only covers dogs and cats. Concerns addressing any other animal, like bats, should be directed through the Department of Natural Resources.

"We do not have the equipment or the training to handle any animals other than dogs and cats safely," Shillito commented.

Much controversy has developed over the topic of Garrett County's animal control program. Dr. Paul Deal, veterinarian at the Countryside Animal Hospital, has been one of the main supporters of increasing the funding and employment of the program.

"If fines would be enforced on violators of animal control laws, then Garrett County would be able to afford more advanced and educated programs," Dr. Deal stated.

Dr. Deal has volunteered many times to assist Shillito in euthanasia injections. "It takes more than two people to run both the animal shelter and animal control calls," Deal said. "Josie (Shillito) and George (Hebb) work full time, answer pages on nights, weekends, and holidays, and when one is away or sick, the lone person must control the entire shelter."

Gary Mullich, director of the Garrett County General Services, is in charge of the animal shelter and often finds himself fending off critics of the present program.

"The animal control ordinance does have violation fines that can be enforced. We try to use the power of persuasion instead of the monetary fines as punishment," Mullich said. "To my knowledge, the amount of violations occurring is evidence that the program would not be able to support another employee if we depended on fines for funding.

"As for adding more help at the shelter," he continued, "we are working with the risk management office for a proposed volunteer program that would accept the help of any citizen. It would also be a great way for high school students to earn some of their required service learning hours."

For the most part, the shelter seems to be doing fine, but many animals are still in need of good homes. The prices to adopt an animal are $15 for a cat or kitten and $30 for a dog or puppy, with the extra $1 license fee. Neutered and spayed animals are only $6 each, plus the license. So anyone wishing to adopt one of the animals at the Garrett County Animal Shelter for a cheap price should stop by and help out a wonderful animal.

Scheffel Home To Be On ARC Holiday Tour

The 1997 "dream home" of the George and Dawn Scheffel family was initiated by Mr. Scheffel with ideas and sketches he had worked on for two years. The house is among those included in this year's American Red Cross Home for the Holidays House Tours, slated for the first weekend in December.

Leaving the Washington, D.C., area 28 years ago, Scheffel came to Oakland alone, establishing a machine and welding shop (where he also resided until he could move his family to Garrett County). He built the first house and garage, simple and rectangular, which served the family well, with several modifications over the years.

A proper space for Scheffel's collection of keyboard instruments led to his first planning of the new house, of which he first built a 1-inch per foot scale wooden model, assembling and disassembling until a final decision was reached.

HOME OF GEORGE AND DAWN SCHEFFEL

The great room, now the center of the home, houses Scheffel's grand piano, clavinova, 140-year-old pump organ, a Rogers classical organ with bells and whistles, a violin, various musical equipment, and a sheet music collection. A musical staff steel railing, designed and built completely by Scheffel, is located on the great room's balcony. The notes on the staff, if played, are a portion of a hymn: "God bless America, my home, sweet home."

The combined kitchen-dining area has an opening to the great room, providing a view of the outside from opposite sides of the house. The great room, sitting room, and foyer have 19-foot high wood ceilings and beams, as do the kitchen-dining area and master bedroom.

The sitting room, adjacent to the kitchen-dining area, includes a natural gas fireplace and a bay window. The kitchen and great rooms also have bay windows. A powder room is located near the kitchen and great room, convenient for the Scheffels' 10 grandchildren and guests.

A door from the open area leads to a west porch and deck, where a railing designed, built, and installed by Scheffel is located.

The master bedroom has "his" and "hers" closets and a master bath.

The upper level has two guest bedrooms, a bath, a small office, and a "kids' cave," in addition to the great room balcony.

The outside brick is of various colors, with lighter bricks surrounding the windows, doorways, and corners. Matching arched bricks accent the oval and rounded windows, and darker bricks are interspersed throughout.

Crimson King maples, purple plums, Japanese maples, birches, magnolias, flowering crab apple, dogwood, Bradford pear trees, azaleas, sand cherries, hollies, rhododendron, and a variety of flowers have been planted around the home, the large garage, and a storage building.

The home is located at 1001 John Drive in Oakland.

This will be the eighth annual Home for the Holidays house tours event sponsored by the American Red Cross, and is one of the local Red Cross chapter's largest fund-raisers. Tickets for the tours, which are $5 in advance or $7 at the door, are available at Englander's, Gregg's, and Proudfoot's pharmacies, Flowers by Webers along Weber Road, Deep Creek Pharmacy in McHenry, and Arrowhead Market at Deep Creek Lake.

The Scheffels join the families of Norman and Janice Hanline, Lou DiCarlo, and Carl and Ann Rebele in opening their homes for the tours, in addition to two businesses, Simon Pearce and the Deer Park Inn.

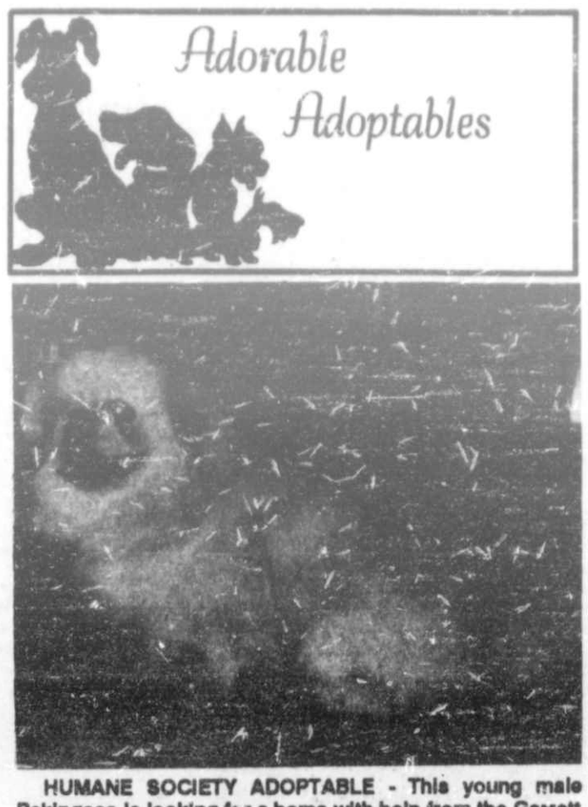
COMMENTS

This is a humor item. Do not read it if you do not have a sense of humor or you think there is no place in community news for humor.



I believe that "The Bog Monster" has gone into a hide-out in one of the many caves on Meadow Mountain, or possibly the one that Meshach Browning camped in on one of his many rich hunting grounds. Meshach got lost and spent some time in a cave where he carved his initials. However, this year, I heard no report of any sign of the annual Halloween scare-in back the Peat Bog Road. It has scared many trick-or-treaters at the Southerly, Buckel, and Ramsey houses. It is possible that the rumor about it got to a fan of "hunt for Big Foot." That would be a big story for someone if the elusive "Big Foot/Sasquatch" appeared in the Appalachians instead of the remote part of the West. No one can really catch a glimpse of it except for a lot of excited kids on Halloween, but I doubt that they are credible witnesses.

I once heard a strange howl while riding horseback with my Dad and Sandy Savage. We were on a trip to plan a route for the Garrett County Horseman Association Trail Ride. I think that route included the Flint Rocks, the Meshach Browning cave area, and the Fire Tower near State Park Road. We were almost home near the Peat Bog when we heard an odd howl. I always assume that it was a panther or some kind of a wild cat. It scared me enough that I left the other two almost in the dust as "Joey" and I galloped full speed toward home, which was really very fast. He was undefeated in all the "match races" that we were ever involved in. I believe that was the same GCHA trail that Marvin Miller on his very fast quarter horse "Squaw" and "Rowdy" ridden by Adrian Spiker and "Joey" and I rode. We raced along the road to the 4-H Camp at the breast of the dam.

Seriously, the Bittinger fire hall is busy with many annual community organizations' big dinner "pow-wows." When I was growing up, the end of October and early November were packed with dinners. For example, in the last week the Farm Bureau and the Grantsville Woodmen of the World held dinners at the fire hall. The Bittinger cooks have very good reputations, especially for their outstanding turkey dinners, with the trademark sauerkraut and apple butter bread. They are kept really busy this time of year and they are booked solid right now.

Now it is time for the play-offs for my girls' soccer teams. Claire's team, the Breakers, finished the regular season in first place in the Under 15 division of the Mt. Top Soccer Association. Monday evening they played their first game and gave the opposing team a resounding loss. They will be busy next week with more games. Last weekend games were played in near blizzard with blowing frozen rain or snow, both in Oakland where Maddy Whittemore played with her under-8-year-old-team. All three of my girls played in Friendsville and the weather there was almost as bad. Caitlin's team, the Galaxy, coached by cousin Courtney Englar, will see some play-off games, too, since they have a bright outlook as they were ranked second for the season. Courtney says that they are "great kids." He said that his first experience as a coach was fun, but he is glad it is finally over.

Guidelines for Forage and Fiber Consumption

This is a reminder as dairy managers juggle feed and forage supplies this winter into spring. Carefully consider the ratio of forage to grain dry matter being fed at all times.

Cows must chew and ruminate in order to break down structural parts of the diet. Fiber is the primary structural part of a cow's diet and is mainly supplied by forages. During the process of chewing, the cow secretes saliva that buffers the rumen to acids produced during fermentation. A cow that does not chew enough is prone to a condition called acidosis, which can result in reduced feed consumption, low milk fat test, and lame cows. Generally cows should consume a minimum of 2% of body weight as forage dry matter. Lactating cows usually will consume at 3 to 4% of their body weight. Therefore, forages will normally make up half or more of the total dry matter consumed. There can be exceptions. High fiber feeds such as whole cottonseeds, cottonseed hulls, and certain other alternative feeds can replace some of the forage in the ration. Guidelines are to supply 19 to 21% acid detergent fiber and 28 to 32% neutral detergent fiber in the ration dry matter. In addition, neutral detergent fiber from forage should be fed at .9% of body weight, probably higher for rations with low fiber corn silage. Forages should not be finely chopped or ground, and particles should be coarse enough to stimulate chewing.

Fall Harvesting Alfalfa After a Drought, by Marvin Hall, Penn State University

Dry conditions this summer caused a shortage of forage throughout the region. Consequently, many producers who normally wouldn't consider a fall alfalfa harvest are rethinking the issue. Here are the basic things to consider when deciding to take a fall harvest or not.

- Alfalfa harvest schedules, which do not allow the alfalfa plant to flower once during the season, predispose the plant to winter injury. However, in a drought year, alfalfa stores abnormal amounts of sugars in its crown and root. This generally improves chances of surviving a fall harvest.
- Older alfalfa stands are more likely to winterkill or suffer winter injury following a fall harvest than younger alfalfa stands.
- Alfalfa varieties with moderate resistance to several diseases and sufficient winter hardiness have greater tolerance to stress from fall harvesting than less disease-resistant or winter-hardy varieties.
- Adequate soil pH and fertility minimize the risk of fall harvesting by allowing alfalfa plants to develop properly and be healthier.
- Alfalfa on well-drained soils is less likely to suffer winter injury than alfalfa on poorly drained soils.
- Leaving 6-8 inches of stubble when taking a fall harvest will reduce the risk of winter injury.

Seeding Of Small Grain Continues In Maryland

Small grain seeding continues into another week despite recent showers playing havoc on some fields. According to Ray Garibay, state statistician, the farmers on the Eastern Shore, particularly, are having a difficult time getting into their fields to plant wheat and barley, as well as harvest their soybeans. Nevertheless, soybean harvesting moved up, but is behind the previous and five-year average. Topsoil moisture was 1% short, 79% adequate, and 20% surplus. Subsoil moisture was 9% very short, 6% short, 73% adequate, and 12% surplus.

Maryland's crop progress for the week which ended on Oct. 24, listing the item and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, in that order, follows.

Small grains seeded: barley 83, 72, 81, 80; wheat 46, 26, 44, 45; and rye 55, 42, 65, and 63.

Crop development: soybeans, shedding leaves 89, 79, 97, 95; and tobacco, stripped 10, 5, 10, and 8.

Crops harvested: apples 85, 80, 88, 85; corn, grain 80, 73, 80, 73; soybeans 31, 18, 48, 37; sorghum 61, 45, 53, 47; alfalfa, 4th cutting 80, 72, 97, 95, 5th cutting 35, 33, 40, 46; other hay, 4th cutting 87, 84, 93, and 77.

NRAES Guides, Resource Manuals Now Available

Sustainable Vegetable Production from Start-Up to Market

Successful vegetable farmers do much more than produce vegetables; they also manage money, people, and natural resources effectively. A new book from NRAES — the Natural Resource, Agriculture, and Engineering Service — can broaden the knowledge and guide the planning of those who grow vegetables or are considering beginning a vegetable production business. Sustainable Vegetable Production from Start-Up to Market, NRAES-104 (August 1999), introduces the full range of processes for moderate-scale vegetable production using ecological practices that minimize the need for synthetic inputs and maximize stewardship of resources. The book includes in-depth profiles of 32 vegetable producers.

The book provides practical information on such essential matters as selecting a farm site; planning and record keeping; marketing options; and systems for starting, planting, protecting, and harvesting crops. The 280-page book is enhanced by 91 illustrations, 36 sidebars, and 20 tables. Individual chapters cover fundamental aspects of economic and environmental sustainability.

Initial chapters address principles and practices essential to planning and launching a business: the practical implications of sustainability, getting started, farm business management, and marketing. The chapters that follow discuss essential production processes, focusing on soil fertility, composting, crop rotation, cover crops, tillage equipment and field preparation, seeds and transplants, irrigation and spraying systems, harvest and postharvest handling, season extension, integrated pest management, and environmentally friendly strategies for managing insects, diseases, weeds, and wildlife.

A final chapter profiles the experiences of individual vegetable growers and provides their enterprise budgets for a number of crops. The grower profiles offer real-life examples of how farmers think about and deal with specific conditions. Appendixes include additional information resources, sources of supplies, a work sheet for developing vegetable enterprise budgets, vegetable crop nutrient recommendations, and useful conversions and calculations. A glossary and references are also included.

Sustainable Vegetable Production from Start-Up to Market was written by Vernon P. Grubinger, vegetable and berry specialist for University of Vermont Extension and director of the University of Vermont Center for Sustainable Agriculture.

Recommended for anyone concerned with the balance between crop production and stewardship of resources, the book will be a valuable resource for aspiring and beginning vegetable growers, experienced growers, extension personnel, and serious gardeners, and a useful text for college-level vegetable production courses.

Sustainable Vegetable Production from Start-Up to Market, NRAES-104, is priced at $42 per copy, plus shipping and handling and sales tax. The shipping and handling charge is $5.50 for a single copy within the continental United States.

The Dairy Reference Manual, NRAES-63, 293 pages, covers all facets of dairying — from youngstock to nutrition to housing. This wire-bound manual will be invaluable to extension educators, farm planners, consultants, engineers, veterinarians, manufacturers, and salespeople. Topics covered include farm management, dairy housing, handling and behavior, dairy nutrition, reproduction, milking equipment, and more. Much of the information is included in the manual's 240 tables, 88 illustrations, and three appendixes.

Consumers may buy now and get the book for half price — $20. The shipping and handling charge for a single copy is $5 within the continental United States.

The Mid-Atlantic Orchard Monitoring Guide, NRAES-75, 361 pages, was $75; now it is available for $48. This comprehensive, regional guide provides the background and instruction necessary for an effective orchard monitoring program. The guide will help fruit growers, consultants, chemical field representatives, and extension personnel manage the complex agro-ecosystem of an orchard. Early sections provide background information on the production components for which monitoring is essential. Later sections focus on developing a monitoring plan and schedule. A unique feature of the plan and schedule is the division of each tree fruit into six or seven periods of the season. This user-friendly guide features 13 chapters, 18 appendixes, 322 full-color photos, 13 figures, 26 tables, a glossary, and a reference section. The shipping and handling charge is $7 for a single copy within the continental United States.

Environmental Factors to Consider When Expanding Dairies

Expanding a business can bring about many benefits. Foremost among them is improved profitability through increased efficiency. While a multitude of resources exist to help dairy producers project net farm income from a proposed expansion, a concise resource that examines potential impacts on the environment is difficult to find...until now.

A new publication, Environmental Factors to Consider When Expanding Dairies (NRAES-95) (44 pages, June 1999), discusses environmental issues that dairy producers, advisors, and consultants should examine as part of developing an expansion plan. Considering the environmental implications of expansion before expanding helps to prevent cost overruns, preserve environmental quality, protect animal and public health, ensure that current and prospective regulations are achievable, and avoid conflicts with neighbors. In short, it helps to ensure a successful expansion.

The publication includes six chapters. Chapter 1 discusses land and water considerations, including animal units and nutrient concerns, farmstead location, locating manure storages, and the quantity and quality of available water supplies. Chapter 2, "Nutrient Management," reviews nutrient management plans, using manure as a resource, nutrient export, manure storage versus daily spreading, and pollution control. Chapter 3 is dedicated to one of the major sources of conflict between dairy producers and the public — odors. The chapter focuses on odor management and treatment methods. The fourth chapter examines common concerns associated with expansion, such as barnyards, pathogens, silos and silage leachate, manure storage, and milking center wastewater storage and treatment. The final two chapters center on concentrated animal feeding operations (CAFOs) and whole-farm planning. Eight illustrations, 15 tables, and an appendix that includes a checklist for CAFO permits supplement the text.

Environmental Factors to Consider When Expanding Dairies was written by Peter Wright, animal waste specialist in the Department of Agricultural and Biological Engineering, Cornell University, and A. Edward Staehr, who was the Farm Business management specialist for the Skaneateles Lake Watershed Agricultural Program and is now with Onondaga County Cornell Cooperative Extension. The book was published by the Natural Resource, Agriculture, and Engineering Service (NRAES).

NRAES-95 is available for $9 per copy plus shipping and handling from NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853-5701. Shipping and handling for one copy is $3.75 within the continental United States. If ordering more than one book or if ordering from outside the United States, contact NRAES for shipping rates and possible quantity discounts.

Earthen Manure Storage Design Book Wins Award

A book recently published by NRAES has been honored with a Blue Ribbon Award in the 1999 ASAE Educational Aids Competition. The Blue Ribbon Award winner from NRAES is Earthen Manure Storage Design Considerations, NRAES-109 ($18 plus S&H/sales tax, April 1999).

ASAE (the Society for Engineering in Agricultural, Food, and Biological Systems) presents the Blue Ribbon Awards annually in recognition of "outstanding effort and achievement in the development of noteworthy educational aids." Major emphasis in the competition is placed on how well the educational aids meet the needs of intended audiences.

Earthen Manure Storage Design Considerations, NRAES-109, aims to meet the needs of producers, engineers, and design professionals who are seeking information about designing, constructing, and managing earthen manure storages. Although earthen storages are relatively inexpensive and likely to play an important role in many farm waste management systems, there is a lack of information about safe, environmentally sound, practical designs. The 100-page publication discusses the planning and design of earthen manure storage facilities from locating and sizing a storage to managing it safely and ensuring that it meets all applicable ordinances and regulations.

Orders should be sent to NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853-5701. Quantity discounts are available. Major credit cards are accepted, and checks should be made payable to NRAES. For information about quantity discounts, or for a free publications catalog, contact NRAES by phone at 607-255-7654, by fax at 607-254-8770, or by E-mail at nraes@cornell.edu. Miss Rosenberry Married To Mr. Criscito In July Ceremony

Kristin Ann Rosenberry and Jeffrey Anthony Criscito were united in marriage on July 17, 1999. The double-ring ceremony took place at St. Peter the Apostle Catholic Church, Oakland, with the Rev. Father Donald J. Parson officiating. Organist was Mike Broderick. Readings were given by Karen Rosenberry, sister of the bride, and Steve Friend, brother-in-law of the bride.

The bride is the daughter of Charles and Verla Rosenberry, Oakland, and the groom is the son of Ralph and Lois Criscito, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore an ivory-colored Morilee gown made of dull satin. The gown had a scooped neckline enhanced with a wide band of pearls, as well as the simple empire top, with a plain full, A-lined skirt. The back of the dress had a deep square plunge and a fully self-lined semi-cathedral train that detached underneath the band of pearls. Her fingertip ivory veil, dotted with pearls, was created and designed by her aunt, Karen Donahue.

The bride carried an arm bouquet of pink astilbe, open white roses with a pink blush center, and greenery tied with an ivory cascading bow. All flowers were provided by Jan Florist.

Serving as her sister's matron of honor was Kimberly Rosenberry Friend, Morgantown, W.Va. Bridesmaids were her sister, Karen Rosenberry, Leesburg, Va., and Pam Fischer, Pittsburgh, a friend of the bride. Their attire consisted of pink rum floor-length, A-line gowns. Each carried white roses with pink blush centers, with the stems tied with tulle.

The bride presented a silver and crystal necklace to each of her attendants. The necklaces were given in a satin drawstring bag, also designed by her aunt, Karen Donahue.

Serving as best man was Dave Milko, and groomsmen were Jules Stephensky and Frank Capalongo, all friends of the groom and all residents of the Pittsburgh area.

The couple presented both mothers and the groom's grandmothers with long-stemmed pink roses.

Cathy Connolly, a friend of the bride, attended the guest book. The photographer was Doug Buckley and videographer was the bride's uncle, Leonard Donahue, Stratford, Conn.

The parents of the bride hosted a reception at the Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake. The couple was escorted to the reception in a white stretch limousine, a gift of Kinberly and Steve Friend, sister and brother-in-law of the bride. The tables were decorated with topiary trees, made by the bride. The four-layer stacked wedding cake was baked by the Will O' the Wisp and decorated with white beaded icing and fresh pink roses.

Carl Fry, uncle of the bride, gave the blessing. A champagne toast was given by the best man, with the bride and groom toasting each other with crystal champagne glasses belonging to the parents of the bride from their wedding, and also used by her sister and brother-in-law for their wedding. Dave Zimmerman, Oakland, was master of ceremonies and disc jockey.

Following a honeymoon trip to Canada, the couple established residence in Pittsburgh.

The bride is a graduate of Southern High School and the Art Institute of Pittsburgh. She is currently employed as a graphic designer for CDI Printing in Pittsburgh. The groom is a graduate of East McKeesport High School and the Art Institute of Pittsburgh. He is a commercial painter for Color Works in Pittsburgh.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted for the wedding party and their families by the groom's father at The Place At The Base Of The Face, Wisp Resort. The bride was guest of honor at a shower given to her by her sister, Kimberly Friend, at the Will O' the Wisp. An outdoor bridal shower was also given to her in Pittsburgh by the groom's aunts and grandmother.

The bride wore a formal sheath-style bridal gown fashioned from white bridal satin, with a sweetheart neckline, basque waistline, and a chapel-length train. The sleeves and neckline featured cutout lace medallions of Alencon lace highlighted with pearls and sequins. The basque waistline, hemline, and detachable train were also accented with pearled and sequined Alencon lace. The elbow-length veil had a detachable tiara-style headpiece with pearls and sequins.

Y2K Update
Heard about the year 2000 computer problem, referred to as Y2K? It involves how computers, computer software, and integral computer-control hardware handle the numbers of dates. Many computers and programs use only the last two digits to represent the year, so when Jan. 1, 2000, rolls around, many computer systems will assume it is Jan. 1, 1900.
No need to worry about your money at The Terra Alta Bank. Our systems have been fully tested and re-tested for operation on January 1, 2000, and into the future.

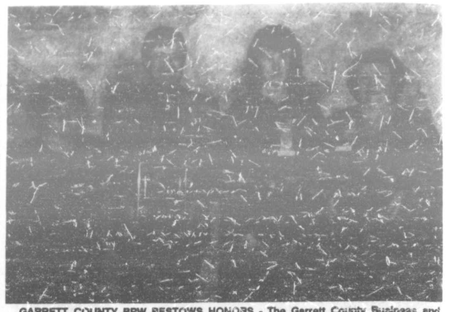
Grantsville BPW Names Shreve As Woman Of Year

Members of the Grantsville Business and Profession Women selected the Women of the Year during their monthly meeting last week. The award was given to Pastor Brenda Shreve.

A 1970 graduate of Keyser High School, Shreve completed Pastor's Licensing School in 1989 and graduated from Duke Divinity School in Durham, N.C. She was then appointed to the Grantsville U.M. Charge, which includes State Line, Fa., Jennings, and St. Paul's congregations. As treasurer for the Grantsville Area Ministerial Association, which promotes cooperation and good will among various Christian denominations, Shreve administers funds to help stranded and troubled travelers. In addition, she serves on the board of laity of Potomac Highlands District, where she teaches a basic lay speaking class to help equip all members for ministry.



"Brenda urges everyone to use the privilege to vote. It is a responsibility she takes seriously," said club member Ruth DiPaolo. Shreve encourages women to take a place in the business world "anywhere her heart and abilities can take her" and without regard to gender, said DiPaolo. Shreve advises young women starting careers to look to their hearts.

DiPaolo said Shreve instructs young women that when they have determined what they want or what they are called to, then they should "go for it," work hard, dream, and not be afraid of setbacks. Shreve advises them to remember that it's not just reaching a destination that makes life worthwhile, it's how one gets there, DiPaolo stated.

Shreve was presented with a plaque in recognition of this honor.

Grantsville BPW Honors Flushing Manufacturing

Flushing Shirt Manufacturing Company, Grantsville, was recently named Employer of the Year by the Grantsville chapter of Business and Professional Women. A local industry for 46 years, Flushing manufactures commercial uniform shirts for customers such as the U.S. Air Force, banks, the postal service, police, security guards, West Point, and Virginia Military Academy.

"They have been an integral, important part of the Grantsville community for many years. Their loyalty and service is known, not only locally, but far and wide by the product they provide," said BPW member Dottie George.

Flushing Shirt Manufacturing Company is the largest employer of women in Grantsville area, with a staff that includes over 150 women. Affiliated with Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union of America, the company offers steady employment and benefits, such as vacations, sick leave, family leave, and pensions, George said.

"Flushing is community-minded in donating to schools and Grantsville," George noted. She spoke about a contest conducted by WFRB radio—A Mile of Quarters—to which Flushing and its employees made generous donations. "They were among the largest contributors each year to this contest, which benefited the Heart Fund.

Sue Sloan, the company's senior industrial engineer, represented Flushing to accept the Employer of the Year award.

In April of 1992 we anxiously awaited the birth of our first foal. Over the past 7 years we watched her grow into a graceful, beautiful horse whose heart was as big as she was gentle, trustworthy and gently loved by her family. Then on the night of Wednesday, October 13, in the field in which she grazed along Rt. 36, Klaradise, she was inhumanely shot and killed. There is an empty spot not only in our hearts, but in the hearts of her companions, "King" and "Maple," who sadly walk the fence daily as if searching for her.
We are offering a $100 Reward for any information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for this heartless killing. All responses will be kept confidential.

Meet Garrett County's NEW TEACHERS

AMY SUTTON

CAROL ANN FRAZEE

When Garrett County schools opened for the 1999-2000 school year, around 40 new teachers were welcomed to the classrooms by students from grade Pre-K through high school. In the following weeks, The Republican will introduce these men and women, who are helping to educate the children of the county.

Accident Elementary

Before joining the staff of Accident Elementary School as the reading/language arts teacher for first and second grade, Amy Sutton was a substitute teacher for the Garrett County Board of Education.

A graduate of Frostburg State University in December 1998, Sutton said she enjoys water skiing and mountain biking. She is a PSIA level 2 certified ski instructor and children's ski school supervisor at the Wisp.

In addition to other activities, Sutton assists the Northern High School Color Guard and spends time with her two dogs.

Grantsville Elementary

Carol Ann Frazee has been a substitute teacher in Garrett County for the past four years. This year she accepted a position as a "class-size reduction" teacher for the first grade in Grantsville Elementary School.

Frazee is a graduate of Northern High School, Garrett Community College, and Frostburg State University. She resides in Garrett County with her husband Brian and her daughter Caressa.

Northern Middle School

A new face at Northern Middle School this year is Juliann Benyo. A music and reading teacher, she comes to Garrett County from Utah with 20 years of experience teaching music and English.

Benyo has co-authored a self-management manual and has presented it at numerous national conferences. In her spare time she she said she enjoys redecorating and outdoor activities, including flying glider planes.

STATE OF MARYLAND
WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
TENTATIVE DETERMINATION TO ISSUE GENERAL PERMIT FOR SURFACE COAL MINES AND RELATED FACILITIES

The Department has made a tentative determination to renew the State/NPDES (National Pollution Discharge Elimination System) general permit for surface coal mines and related facilities in Maryland. Effluents from these facilities have the potential to add significant, and sometimes toxic, pollutants to State waters. Since the discharges from most surface coal mines and related facilities have the same characteristics, this class of discharges is appropriate for coverage under a general permit. The permit authorizes the discharge of stormwater runoff and groundwater seepage from both active and inactive surface coal mines, including the access roads and the reclamation areas, provided that the terms and conditions of the general permit are met. The permit limitations for active mines include pH (6.0 - 9.0) total suspended solids (TSS) (45 mg/l), and total iron (6.0 mg/l daily maximum and 3.0 mg/l monthly average) and are unchanged from the previous permit and are equal to or are more stringent than the best available technology (BAT) limitations recommended for alkaline mine drainage in federal regulations (40 CFR 434.42 - .43). Special pH limits are imposed for precipitation events greater than a 10 year, 24-hour storm. Turbidity limitations (100 NTU daily maximum and 50 NTU month average) are established because turbidity can easily be tested in the field and the results are immediately available. 100 Nephelometer turbidity units (NTU) is approximately equivalent to 45 mg/l TSS and assures compliance with the State's in-steam criteria for turbidity. If the wastewater is acid or ferruginous, effluent limits for manganese are also imposed.

Discharge monitoring is still required after the mine reclamation has been completed. The limitations for pH (6.0 - 9.0) and settleable solids (0.5 mg/l) are equal to the BAT limits in federal regulations 40 CFR. 434.52 - 53. Special pH limits are imposed for precipitation events greater than a 10 year, 24-hour storm. A condition for groundwater protection is imposed to require that any pool of standing water within the mining permit area, which remains for more than 48 hours after a precipitation event be maintained at a pH of 6.0 to 9.0. The requirement to test the effluent for 13 heavy metals, when one-half of the area, which drains to any outfall, has been disturbed, provides additional protection to surface waters. If metal levels are found to exceed acceptable water quality criteria, the permittee may be required to obtain an individual discharge permit. Additional permit conditions require implementation of an approved sediment and erosion control plan, maintenance of access roads to sediment control ponds, and prohibit the use of phosphorus, nitrogen or chlorine for wastewater treatment without prior approval from the Department.

The Department will hold a public hearing concerning this tentative determination at 11 a.m. on November 23, 1999 in Room 19 of the Continuing Education Building at Allegany Community College, Willowbrook Road, Cumberland, MD. The public hearing will also address revisions to COMAR 26.08.04.09-1 to reduce permit fees to be collected. Written comments concerning this tentative determination will also be considered in the preparation of a final determination if received by the Department, at the above address, on or before November 29, 1999.

All information supporting this tentative determination, including the draft permit, may be reviewed by contacting Beverly Archable at the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 2500 Broening Highway, Baltimore, Maryland 21224 or by telephone at 410-631-3540 to make an appointment during the hours from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. Opal Myers reported from Family Committee that several members had participated in the Relay for Life and expected also to participate at a wreath hanging on Sept. 27. Members were asked to make displays for CEOS Week, Sept. 12-18, and to attend the Aurora Methodist Church together on Sept. 12. Alice Penzo was to prepare an exhibit for the Buckwheat Festival on "Understanding State Government."

The vice president's feature was an article, "Dieting Under Stress," and Virginia Martin won the pig-in-the-poke.

At the September meeting of the Aurora CEOS, President Delores Douglas presided, with 12 members and a guest, Michelle Maure, present. The president read from Matthew 25:15 and had a meditation, "Life Lesson." The Family Committee was in charge of the program, and several members brought items important in their lives and explained how or from whom they were obtained.

Mary Radford reported that all the work on the butterfly garden at the school has been completed for the summer. Wilda Stemple, Ressie Conrad, Dorothy Spaid, and Opal Myers are trained in the Read Aloud program and have volunteered to read at the Aurora School. Delores Slawter and Virginia Martin distributed breast cancer awareness literature at the Aurora Post Office. There was a bulletin board display at the Aurora Post Office for CEOS Week, Sept. 12-18, and Ressie Conrad made a display for her home lawn.

Michelle Maure had submitted an application for a grant which was rejected, and she explained the reason for the rejection. The plans will continue for a "crazy quilt" community project with Alice Penzo the chair. Ms. Maure will re-submit her grant application.

Alice Penzo was aided by Martha Bolyard in preparing the Buckwheat Festival exhibit and the club members sold car tickets at the booth on Oct. 2. The club is also preparing items for a table at the Nov. 6 craft show. Twelve names were selected for whom gifts will be purchased for the Santa Tree. The vice president's feature was an article on Y2K.

FLU VACCINE DELAY

According to the Preston County Health Department, the state procurement of flu vaccine has been delayed and none will be available before mid-November. Any who have been expecting to get the vaccine at a local clinic sponsored by the county health department may wish to see their personal physician for an earlier date.

FIELD TRIP

As a reward for having completed the Snowbird Summer Reading challenge, a trip to Washington, D.C., and the three Smithsonian [illegible] American History, and Air and Space, was taken October 21 by approximately 200 Aurora school students, parents, and teachers. Leaving the area at 6 a.m., the buses returned to the school about 10 p.m. Title I, sponsors, and contributions by parents covered the cost of the four buses.

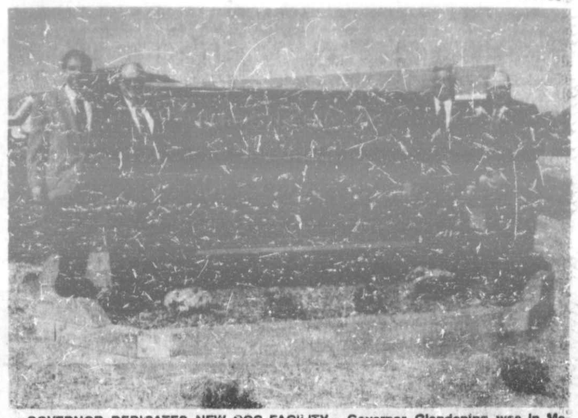
IT'S OFFICIAL! It has been years in the making, but the Friendsville Senior/Community Center was officially dedicated at a ribbon-cutting ceremony last week. A celebration was held marking the event and recognizing the accomplishments of all who were involved in the efforts over the years to bring this project to fruition. Scores of seniors citizens, state and local officials, and community members shared in the joyous festivities. Garrett County Community Action president Duane Yoder recognized the energetic endeavors of such people as Eleanor Teets and Helen Vitez to keep the project alive when obstacles seemed fated to block success. Friendsville resident Chauncey Friend, at age 94, carried the banner for the seniors of his community to state legislators endeavoring to earn the needed funds for the center. Yoder described the attempts to find an appropriate site. Several had been selected, studied, and abandoned. The final and best solution was finally found. The facility was built to adjoin the current Head Start Center located at the Friendsville Community Park. Both facilities share a kitchen as well a view of the surrounding park. To welcome the seniors to their new center, children from Head Start, costumed for Halloween, paraded through and greeted the assembly. With the center dedicated to all those whose efforts made it a reality, Yoder asked that all gather to celebrate the ribbon cutting. Officiating at this symbolic event were, pictured from left, Eleanor Teets, president of the Friendsville Senior Citizens, Chauncey Friend, Mayor Spencer R. Schlosnagle, and Helen Vitez. Others attending the ceremony were Gordon Outlaw of the state Department of Housing and Community Development; County Commissioner Fred Holliday; James Macgill, deputy secretary Maryland Department of Aging; Del. George C. Edwards; and Sen. John J. Hafer.



Library Staff Not Considered County Employees

In response to information requested by the Ruth Enlow Library board of directors, the county administrator, Monty Pagenhardt, said the library staff members are not considered to be Garrett County employees. Cathy Ashby, director of the library, was given this information this week.

Senior library staff member Lynn McDaniel made a formal inquiry of the library board two weeks ago at the regular monthly meeting, asking if the staff was or was not considered to be county-employed. If the employees were indeed deemed to be county employees, McDaniel cited several areas of compensation and benefit inequality between the library staff and other county hires. For example, McDaniel said a courthouse worker with one child pays nothing for health insurance, and a board of education worker with one child pays 62 cents per month for the same health insurance. In contrast, a library employee with one child pays $380 per month for health insurance.

Pagenhardt told Ashby that certain state regulations and the Garrett County Code define library workers as employees of the system's board of directors, not the county. The public

GOVERNOR DEDICATES NEW GCC FACILITY - Governor Glendening was in McHenry this past Thursday for the dedication of the Parris N. Glendening Advanced Technology Center at Garrett Community College. The new facility will serve as headquarters for the college's land-based programs, which have a mission "to find and defend that point of harmony and balance between the use of nature for human benefit and its preservation in all its beauty and diversity," as stated on a plaque unveiled by the governor at the ceremony's conclusion. Pictured at the Glendening ATC sign along Mosser Road are, from the left, Delegate George Edwards, Senator John Hafer, Glendening, and GCC president Dr. Steve Herman.

SHA Changes Date Of Bypass Meeting At SHS

The Maryland State Highway Administration has moved the date of the location/design public hearing for the proposed Oakland bypass to Tuesday, Dec. 7, at Southern High School. The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m., one hour after the SHS gymnasium doors open for interested persons to view displays of the various bypass alternatives.

A public notice detailing the specifics of the meeting will appear in the legal notices section of the Thursday, Nov. 11, issue of The Republican. The notice will appear again in the Wednesday, Nov. 24, issue, which will be published one day earlier than usual because of the Thanksgiving Day holiday.

Governor On Hand For Dedication Of GCC Advanced Technology Center

by Joan Crawford

The dedication of the Parris N. Glendening Advanced Technology Center at Garrett Community College last week was attended by over 100 guests who heard the governor praise the local college and its president, Dr. Steve Herman, for having the vision and commitment that enabled the center to be built. Stating that the center and its mission that focuses on using natural resources for human benefit and preserving the beauty and diversity of nature embody his two passions, education and the environment, the governor said, "Of all the proposals that came in, this was the most unique and the most reflective of its region."

The governor was referring to the grant proposals that were submitted following his 1997 initiative to locate advanced technology centers at community colleges throughout the state. GCC's portion of the $340,000 grant shared with Allegany College of Maryland funded the purchase of equipment needed for the alternativeagriculture/aquaculture project. The college then constructed the buildings. In fulfilling the purpose of the grant to provide a high-tech workforce for Maryland businesses, GCC will design and develop training in three areas: alternative agriculture, information technology, and adventure tourism. The governor visited the alternative agriculture projects already being demonstrated to local farmers and heard Willie Lantz, coordinator of the Agriculture Management program, explain the projects. In one building he saw meat goats and rabbits being raised, and in another building, the 10,000 gallon fish tank where 3,000 tilapia are currently swimming until they reach market weight.

Explaining his reasons for choosing community colleges as venues for the training, Glendening spoke of the importance of there institutions to local economy and their ability to provide specialized training for the workforce. He related how he had started his education at a community college in Florida and would

Garrett County Schools Named To Receive Net Weekend 1999 Funds

Four Garrett County schools were among those named to receive funding for technology upgrades. Gov. Parris N. Glendening announced this week that 302 public schools will be awarded technology grants totaling $755,000 as part of Net Weekend '99, which is set for November 12 and 13. Health Officer Hopes To Obtain Portion Of State Cancer Funding

Millions yet to be distributed

Garrett County Health Officer Rodney Glotfelty spoke with the county commissioners this week about the pending allotment of the state's tobacco settlement money, currently controlled by Governor Parris Glendening. About $30 million is expected to come into the state from the settlements, according to reports, and another $50 million is to be expended statewide on cancer prevention programs.

"If we want to obtain any of this funding, we need to put some objectives and proposed projects in place right now," Glotfelty said. In order to achieve these ends, the health officer suggested that the commissioners appoint a special task force to prepare a specific "game plan," should substantial funding be awarded to the local jurisdiction.

"The Garrett County Health Department has a long history of cancer prevention programs and tobacco use reduction projects. We're not just forming something now because there's going to be some money available," Glotfelty said. "But I do think it's very important that we form a task force to specifically pinpoint our goals and needs."

The health officer, along with Peggy Jamison, chairperson of the Garrett County Health Planning Council, provided the commissioners with a list of suggested task force members, including physicians, dentists, health department staff, Garrett County Memorial Hospital staff, and members of the public.

Glotfelty said he hoped the money will not be significantly lost through red tape at the state level, and Commissioner Ernest Gregg said he shared that concern.

"I don't want to see most of this funding be used in more bureaucracy," Gregg said. Commissioner Wendell Beitzel echoed the sentiment, and recommended that the proposed task force be directed to report its findings to the commissioners. Glotfelty noted that no county money would be expended on the task force.

Glotfelty said he will be in contact with Delegate George Edwards, Senator

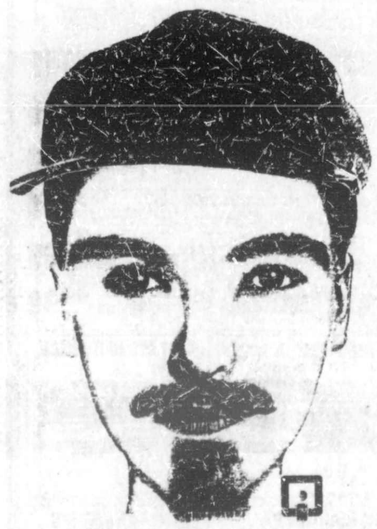
Performing Arts Center For County Closer To Reality

The reality of a performing arts center in Garrett County is taking some major steps forward, thanks to the efforts of Paul Sprenger and Jane Lang of the Sprenger-Lang Foundation, Garrett Community College, and the Garrett County Fair Board. Sprenger and Lang announced plans for construction of such a facility last week at the annual membership meeting of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF).

Prior to the annual meeting, Sprenger and Lang made a presentation to a group of about 20 persons, including representatives of GLAF, the fair board, Our Town Theatre, GCC, the Garrett County Arts Council, and the Garrett County Board of Commissioners (Fred Holliday and Wendell Beitzel).

"This is no longer a pipe dream," stated Lang. "If everything goes as planned, construction may get under way by May of 2001."



Sprenger even distributed an architect's rendering and a model of how the 27,000-square-foot, 500-seat facility might look, and shared a plat of the Garrett County Fairgrounds property on which the building would be constructed. Estimated cost of the project is $6 million.

"This is a collaborative effort that depends upon a number of organizations, including the fair board, GCC, the Garrett County Arts Council, GLAF, Our Town Theatre, and others," Sprenger said.

While the idea for a performing arts center for the county has been in existence for several decades, the first real step in acquiring one was taken last year when the Sprenger-Lang

GBI Seeks Man In Attempted Kidnapping In Friendsville

Local law enforcement officers are seeking a suspect in connection with an attempted abduction in Friendsville on Wednesday morning.

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation released the report that between 7:45 and 7:50 a.m., a 15 year old female was confronted by a man in a car near the car wash in Friendsville.

The man reportedly asked the victim if she wanted to get in his car and she said no. The suspect was persisteat and made other verbal attempts to get the victim into the vehicle, the report stated. The suspect never exited his vehicle and never displayed a weapon.

The victim ran to the nearby Post Office, where she received assistance from an adult.

The suspect, depicted in the composite picture above, is described as a white male with short hair. He is light complected and

THE UNINVITED BEGINS TONIGHT — A ghost story with all the trimmings, The Uninvited, will be presented at Our Town Theatre this weekend and next, with shows slated for tonight, Nov. 4, and Nov. 5, 6, 10, 11, and 12, all beginning at 8 p.m. The play, penned by Tim Kelly, is an eerie spine-tingler, according to director Jane Avery. Local Woman, Pennsylvania Man Die In Motor Vehicle Accidents

Two people died as a result of separate motor vehicle accidents in Garrett County this past week, one involving a pedestrian and the other a motorcycle.

Grantsville resident Florence Rhodes Beardsley, 87, was killed yesterday, Wednesday, Oct. 3, when she was struck by a vehicle while walking across the parking lot of Grantsville Plaza around noon.

Tfc. B.L. Bittinger of the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police, reported that Teddy Lee Kitzmiller, 43, Grantsville, was driving the 1989 Chevrolet truck that struck Beardsley. She was pronounced dead at the scene.

Charges are pending.

Edward Kita, 57, King of Prussia, Pa., was killed Friday afternoon, Oct. 29, in a two-vehicle accident on Route 40 near the crest of Big Savage Mountain. He was operating a 1992 Honda motorcycle at the time of the collision.

According to the state police report at the McHenry barrack, Kita was traveling west on Route 40 at 3:15 p.m. when he swerved while going into a sharp turn on the mountain. As he did so, his motorcycle reportedly slid into the eastbound lane and swiped the side of a 1992 Toyota driven by April Carpenter, 19, Somerset, Pa.

The accident was investigated by Trp. Robert Sharp who reported that witnesses said Kita had apparently realized he had crossed the center line, attempted to stop, and caused the brakes to lock. When the motorcycle struck the Toyota, Kita was thrown off by the impact, Sharp said.

Trooper 5 medevak transported Kita to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where he was pronounced dead from massive head trauma.

Carpenter was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, where she was treated and released.

Also responding to the scene were Frostburg Area Ambulance, Northern Rescue, Eastern Garrett Fire and Rescue, Frostburg Fire Department, and the State Highway Administration.

GOODNIGHT, JACK — A significant weather change this week forced residents to say goodbye to fall festivals and hunt down their longjohns. Snow flew on the mountaintop Tuesday evening and nearly all day yesterday, causing a number of car wrecks and other mayhem, and nearly freezing some area soccer teams in playoff games. While just an inch or two was expected, more like four or five inches blanketed the region. The sun has returned today, however, and the first real snow is slowly melting away. 'Tis just the beginning. Photo by John McEwen.

The Republican Launches 1999 Warm The Children Campaign

For the third consecutive year, The Republican newspaper staff will sponsor Warm the Children, a fundraising and volunteer campaign that directly benefits young people in Garrett County. The newspaper is utilized to solicit donations and recruit volunteers, and then all the cash donated is used to purchase new winter clothing and footwear for children in need. The campaign serves all ages of children, from infants to 18-year-olds, identified to the newspaper through a collaborative effort of the Department of Social Services, the Dove Center, Healthy Families, and other entities.

"Things are a little different this year because of some changes that have occurred, such as the closing of Treasure Island," said Mary McEwen, coordinator of the project at the newspaper. Treasure Island collaborated with the newspaper the past two years to help serve the children in need. With its closing, the procedure for obtaining clothing has been changed.

This year, families will have the option of shopping at the Ames in Frostburg or through the J.C. Penney's catalog store in Oakland.

Donations to the fund will be accepted until mid-December. An advertisement with the donation form will appear in next week's issue of the paper, and will be printed each week until the donation deadline. Persons may donate immediately, sending checks made out to Warm the Children to The Republican, P.O. Box 326, Oakland, MD 21550. Contributors are welcome to make their donations in honor or in memory of loved ones. An ad will appear each week noting the contributors of that week.

While several individuals have already offered their services as shopping volunteers, more are always welcome to sign up, McEwen said. Those interested in volunteering to go shop with the families may contact the newspaper office at 301-334-3963 (or in Grantsville at 301-895-5827) and leave their names and phone numbers.

"The Civic Club of Oakland is helping this year in a big way, which we really appreciate," McEwen said. "The Junior Woman's Civic Club has been a huge help for the past two years, and will again be supporting us, too. Church groups, other civic organizations, or individuals are certainly encouraged to volunteer."

Warm the Children was initiated in the 1980s by Mack Stewart, a retired newspaper publisher who resides in Higganum, Conn. He reported this week that last year, the effort, which involves numerous newspapers across the country, served 9,808 children. Donations from the combined effort totaled $811,015, and $713,989 was spent on clothing. In Garrett County, over $15,000 was raised in the local effort, and nearly 190 children received new winter clothing.

"The beauty of Warm the Children is that every penny donated goes toward the purchase of the clothing and footwear. We don't have any overhead, since it's all volunteer and the advertising is in our own paper," McEwen said. "Our aim with Warm the Children is to help out families that are struggling this year. We want to target folks who are trying to make ends meet, but who are in need of a boost from their Garrett County neighbors. It's possible that these folks might some day be able to return the favor by becoming volunteers or contributors."

The identification process for families is under way, McEwen said, and persons are asked not to call the newspaper or the other noted agencies to add their names to the list of those receiving help.

"We getting started just a little late, so the whole effort is going to be squeezed into about six weeks," McEwen said. "That way, our volunteers are finished up in time for Christmas, and, more importantly, our Garrett County kids are equipped to face winter here on the mountaintop."

Open House Set To Welcome New Library Director

The Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County will host an open house this month to welcome the system's new director, Cathy Ashby. The event will be held at the main library in Oakland on Monday, Nov. 8, from 5 until 7 p.m.

The public is invited to attend.

GCC Breakfast Meeting Covers New Initiatives

Garrett Community College local officials heard from college administrators about academic and economic development initiatives being undertaken at a breakfast meeting held last week at the college. In attendance were county Commissioners Wendell Beitzel and Fred Holliday, Senator John Hafer, Delegate George Edwards, and Meg Ellis of the Garrett County Economic Development Department.

College president Dr. Steve Herman welcomed the guests, saying that GCC was becoming known as the most aggressive of Maryland's community colleges in economic development. He then explained how GCC had started several economic development initiatives, including the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, the Chautauqua, and had developed the academic component of the Adventure Sports Institute to expand tourism.

Don Storck, director of information systems, told how the Adventure Sports Institute evolved from the 1989 World Championships and the 1992 Olympic Trials on the Savage River and how GCC's academic program has grown and given impetus to Frostburg State University's new master's level degree in recreation with emphasis in adventure sports. Storck also provided information on economic development enterprise, the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative, which has over 4,000 users in five counties.

Herman introduced the concept of the proposed "incubator building" — the Garrett Information Enterprise Center — explaining that new businesses coming to the area will need telecommunications infrastructure training for the labor force, and a "home." Lowell Bender, dean of continuing education, told of a similar center in Austin, Texas, that has been very successful in attracting new businesses and helping them succeed, and he predicted that the new center will make it possible for Garrett Countians to work here and to make good salaries. Sandy Major, director of the new GIEC, distributed information packets and artists' drawings of the GIEC. The greatest immediate challenge will be marketing the center and making prospective business owners aware of the opportunity for "start up" businesses, Major said.

Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs, told the group about new initiatives in the academic area: the Honors Program for talented students and the revamping of the Business Management program, which will be renamed Business and Information Technology as it is revised to include a major component of information technology courses that will better prepare students for the 21st century workforce.

Following the breakfast, the group moved to the new Video Conferencing Center, where technician Jim Matthews demonstrated the technology available to local constituencies for meetings, interviews, and conferences via the distance network.

Doug Sites, chairman of the Garrett Community College board of trustees, wrapped up the morning session with a brief summary of the state of the college, pointing out the positive growth of the development of the signature programs, information technology training, and the economic development initiatives under way.

The breakfast session was the first of a series of monthly meetings being planned by the enrollment development office to effect fruitful two-way communication between the college and various segments of its constituency and to disseminate information about college programs and services. The next event will be a Friday, Nov. 19, breakfast for high school guidance counselors and principals, according to Joan Crawford, director of enrollment development at the college.

President Of Castor Assn. Of America Visits

Paying a visit to Garrett County this week was Ken Custer, Los Angeles, president of the Castor Association of America, which will conduct its ninth annual Castor Association Conference next June at the Wisp Resort in McHenry. Among the guests at the event will be Steve and Sandy Alexander, Monroe, Mich., who portray General and Mrs. George Armstrong Custer.

According to Ken Custer, the association is dedicated to collecting and preserving family history for the following families, all of whom are descendants of a couple with the name of Castor who came to Pennsylvania from Holland: Kuster, Koster, Custer, Kusterd, Kuester, Kester, Custard, Kustard, Kistard, Kister, Gerster, Caster, Castor, Kaster, Kastor, Kiester, Koester, and Keister.

"General George Custer's father was born right here in what is now Garrett County," Custer said. "And, of course, there are a number of Custer families who live in this area, so this seemed like a wonderful location for our annual conferences."

Custer, who is a third cousin, four times removed, of General Custer, said he visited to check on how the conference plans were progressing. He also noted that local resident Marilyn Posten is no longer serving in the capacity of conference coordinator.
